Here's to the Irish in You

May the roof above us never fall in, and may we friends gathered below never fall out.
An Irish Toast

Even if you've never set foot on the Emerald Isle nor kissed the Blarney stone, you'll probably feel a bit Irish on St. Patrick's Day. Who can resist "wearin' the green" and taking part in the sheer joy of life that is so typically Irish?

Ireland brings to mind images of lush green, rolling hills, craggy seashores and a culture rich with poetry, legends, folklore and song. In colorful cities with names like County Kerry, Kilkenny and Donegal, you can envision cheerful Irish villagers mingling in local pubs, toasting the good fortune of friends and neighbors. Even if you've never visited Ireland, you can imagine whitewashed cottages where mothers with names like Machree and O'Rourke pull loaves of hot bread from the oven and offer thick slices to enjoy with a cup o' tea or a glass of stout.

Re-create these cozy images of Ireland in your own home this St. Patrick's Day. Invite family and friends to be Irish with you. To set the mood, serve these delicious, Irish-style breads made with convenient hot roll mix and quick bread mix.

Sugar and Spice Shamrock Rolls

The simplest breakfast or brunch turns into a St. Paddy's Day party when you serve these scrumptious honey-glazed rolls. Add the green bows before serving to delight kids of all ages.

Rolls

1 pkg. Pillsbury Hot Roll Mix
¼ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
1 cup hot water heated to 120 to 130°F.
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
1 egg

Glaze

2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon water
Green colored sugar

In large bowl, combine flour mixture, yeast from foil packet, sugar and cinnamon; blend well. Stir in remaining roll ingredients until dough pulls away from sides of bowl. Turn out onto floured surface. With greased or floured hands, shape dough into a ball. Knead for 5 minutes until smooth. Cover with large bowl; let rest 5 minutes.

Grease large cookie sheet. Divide dough into 28 equal pieces; shape into balls. Reserve 4 balls; set aside. To form each roll, place 3 balls in triangular shape with sides touching on greased cookie sheet. Rolls should be 2 inches apart. Cut remaining 4 balls in half. With hands, roll each half into a 3-inch rope. Place between the bottom 2 balls of each roll curving bottom slightly to form a stem.* Cover loosely with plastic wrap and towel. Let rise in warm place (80 to 85°F.) for 30 minutes.

Heat oven to 375°F. Uncover rolls; bake at 375°F. for 15 to 20 minutes or until light brown. Just before serving, heat honey and water until warm. Brush over rolls; sprinkle with green sugar. 8 rolls.

TIP: *At this point, dough can be covered with plastic wrap and refrigerated overnight. Dough may rise in the refrigerator. If necessary, let dough stand at room temperature before baking until almost double in size. Bake as directed.

Sweet Irish Cream Bread

The surprise cream cheese swirl and flavorful hint of Irish cream liqueur make this delectable bread perfect for a special brunch menu and elegant enough for dessert.

Filling

2 (3-oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened
¼ cup sugar
1 egg

Bread

1 pkg. Pillsbury Date Quick Bread Mix
⅔ cup water
⅓ cup Irish cream liqueur
1 tablespoon oil
1 egg

Glaze

½ cup powdered sugar
1 teaspoon Irish cream liqueur
2 to 3 teaspoons milk

Heat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour bottom of 8x4 or 9x5-inch loaf pan. In small bowl, blend all filling ingredients; beat at medium speed until smooth, about 1 minute. Set aside. In large bowl, combine all bread ingredients. Stir 50 to 75 strokes by hand until mix is moistened. Pour 1 cup batter into greased pan. Carefully spoon cream cheese filling over batter. Pour remaining batter on top of filling. To marble, pull knife through batter in wide curves. Turn pan and repeat.

Bake at 350°F. for 65 to 75 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool loaf in pan on cooling rack 15 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely. In small bowl, blend all glaze ingredients, adding enough milk for desired drizzling consistency. Drizzle over cooled loaf. Store in refrigerator. 12 servings.

HIGH ALTITUDE - Above 3500 Feet: Add 2 tablespoons flour to dry mix. Bake at 375°F. for 55 to 65 minutes.

Leprechaun Cinnamon Rolls

Wee, leprechaun-size cinnamon rolls are decorated with a colorful glaze that will add a touch o' green to your table. Prepare the night before and bake in the morning for a St. Patrick's Day breakfast treat.

Rolls

1 pkg. Pillsbury Hot Roll Mix
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup water heated to 120 to 130°F.
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
1 egg

Filling

¼ cup margarine or butter, softened

1 teaspoon cinnamon

Glaze

1½ cups powdered sugar
1 tablespoon margarine or butter, softened
2 to 3 tablespoons milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 to 3 drops green food coloring

Grease 13x9-inch pan. In large bowl, combine flour mixture with yeast from foil packet and 2 tablespoons sugar; blend well. Stir in remaining roll ingredients until dough pulls away from sides of bowl. Turn dough out onto lightly floured surface. With greased or floured hands, shape dough into a ball. Knead dough for 5 minutes until smooth. Cover with large bowl; let rest 5 minutes.

On lightly floured surface, roll dough to 18x10-inch rectangle. Spread ¼ cup margarine evenly over dough. In small bowl, combine ⅓ cup sugar and cinnamon; blend well. Sprinkle evenly over margarine. Starting with 18-inch side, roll up tightly, pressing edges to seal. Cut in 24 slices; place, cut side down, in greased pan.* Cover loosely with plastic wrap and cloth towel. Let rise in warm place (80 to 85°F.) until almost double in size, about 20 minutes.

Heat oven to 375°F. Uncover dough. Bake at 375°F. for 20 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Cool 1 minute; remove from pan. Cool 10 minutes. In small bowl, blend all glaze ingredients, adding enough milk for desired drizzling consistency. Drizzle over warm rolls. 24 rolls.

Paddy's Irish Special

Paddy would be proud to sit down to this hearty main dish bread with its traditional corned beef and cabbage filling. Serve with a tossed salad and a hearty Irish drink.

Filling

2 quarts water
4 cups chopped cabbage
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
1 cup chopped onion
1 large garlic clove, minced
½ teaspoon thyme leaves
⅛ teaspoon pepper
8 oz. thinly sliced deli corned beef, cut into strips ½ inch wide and 3 inches long
6 oz. (1½ cups) shredded Swiss cheese

Crust

1 pkg. Pillsbury Hot Roll Mix
1 cup water heated to 120 to 130°F.
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
1 egg

1 egg, beaten
Poppy seed

In large saucepan, bring 2 quarts water to rolling boil. Add cabbage and cook for 10 minutes; drain. Meanwhile, in small skillet, cook and stir onion, garlic, thyme and pepper in margarine until tender. Remove from heat. Stir in drained cabbage, corned beef and Swiss cheese; mix well.

Grease large cookie sheet. In large bowl, combine flour mixture and yeast from foil packet; blend well. Stir in hot water, 2 tablespoons margarine and 1 egg until dough pulls away from sides of bowl. Turn dough out onto lightly floured surface. With greased or floured hands, shape dough into a ball. Knead dough for 5 minutes until smooth. Cover dough with large bowl; let rest 5 minutes.

On lightly floured surface, roll dough into 16x10-inch rectangle. Transfer to greased cookie sheet. Spread filling lengthwise down center of dough. Fold long sides of dough over filling; pinch edges together to seal. Carefully turn dough over so seam side is down on cookie sheet, tucking ends under. Cut slits in top. Cover loosely with plastic wrap and towel. Let rise on countertop for 15 minutes.

Heat oven to 375°F. Uncover dough; brush with beaten egg. Sprinkle with poppy seed. Bake at 375°F. for 20 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Cut into slices. 8 servings.

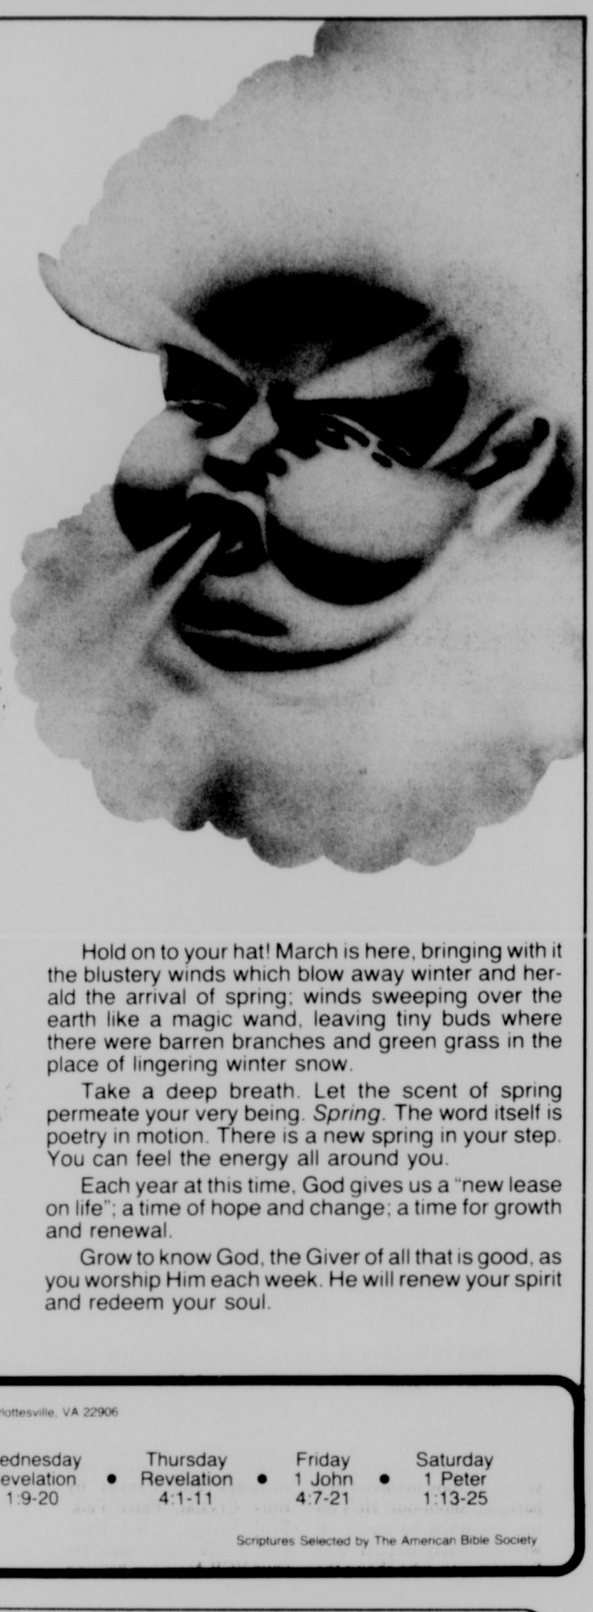
"A NEW LEASE ON LIFE"

"For lo, the winter is past,
The rain is over and gone:
The flowers appear on the earth:
The time of the singing of birds has come"
Song of Solomon 2:11-12



Hold on to your hat! March is here, bringing with it the blustery winds which blow away winter and herald the arrival of spring; winds sweeping over the earth like a magic wand, leaving tiny buds where there were barren branches and green grass in the place of lingering winter snow.

Take a deep breath. Let the scent of spring permeate your very being. Spring. The word itself is poetry in motion. There is a new spring in your step. You can feel the energy all around you.

Each year at this time, God gives us a "new lease on life"; a time of hope and change; a time for growth and renewal.

Grow to know God, the Giver of all that is good, as you worship Him each week. He will renew your spirit and redeem your soul.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT WE REALLY NEED

March 17, 1991

Background Scripture: Matthew 18: 21-34.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 103:1-14.

If you are the one doing the forgiving, sometimes Jesus' command to "forgive one another" seems rather unfair. Some people, it seems, take advantage of our forgiving nature. They come back for forgiveness repeatedly. Really, there ought to be some limits on forgiving!

In one of my parishes was a man who kept a little notebook in which he chronicled all his marital conflicts and spats. He took literally what he thought were the limits that Jesus placed on forgiveness: "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven" (18:22). In other words, he believed that Jesus had set the limit for forgiveness at 70 x 7 or 490! He didn't realize that Jesus was not setting a limit when he said this, but expanding Peter's horizons. Peter obviously thought that seven times was pretty magnanimous, for he said: "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me and I forgive him? As many as seven times?" Peter must have been dumbfounded when Jesus said "seventy times seven"!

AS WE FORGIVE

That's why it is important to follow these words of Jesus with the parable he told, the Parable of the Unforgiving Servant. This parable illustrates two things in Jesus' teaching about forgiveness. First, it shows us that the forgiveness we receive from God is linked directly to the forgiveness we give to others. In the Lord's Prayer he taught his disciples to pray: "And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors" (Matt. 6:12). In this parable he asks us to realize that if we want forgiveness, we must give forgiveness.

The servant in the story owes his master ten thousand talents, which scholars estimate to be roughly comparable to $1,000. Unable to pay this debt, the man begs his lord not to sell him and his family into slavery. He promises to eventually pay his master, but the master goes a step beyond and actually forgives him the debt. In turn, the debtor was owed one hundred denarii, or about $20 by a fellow servant. Although the latter begged for patience, the man who had been forgiven his debt of $1,000 refused to extend mercy to the man who owed him $20 and had him thrown into jail.

IF YOU DON'T FORGIVE

Secondly, this parable teaches us that there are no limits to forgiveness. The disparity between the $1,000 and $20 is meant by Jesus to indicate the difference between our indebtedness to God and our indebtedness to each other. If God can forgive such a huge debt, should we not be able to forgive a small one? So when the master learns of his servant's unforgiving treatment of the other servant, he comes to him and wrathfully condemns him to jail. "You wicked servant! I forgave you all that debt because you besought me; and should not you have had mercy on your fellow servant, as I had mercy on you?" (18:33). And just to make certain that we get the meaning of this parable, Jesus concludes: "So also my heavenly Father will do to every one of you, if you do not forgive your brother from your heart" (18:35).

But what about justice? Is forgiveness more to be sought and given than justice? Isn't all this emphasis on forgiving other a bit unfair? Does not justice place a limit on forgiveness? We had better hope that it doesn't, for none of us would do all that well in God's judgment on the basis of justice.

CBS to air 'Frog Girl' and 'Wizard of Oz'

By Amy Schmidt

Tuesday, March 19, a very significant "CBS Schoolbreak Special" is scheduled to air. Titled Frog Girl: The Jenifer Graham Story, it is important because it is a true story about a girl who stood up for students' rights.

California teen Jenifer Graham was given a typical high school science assignment — to dissect a frog. She refused. A vegetarian and animal sympathizer, Jenifer, along with her mother and the Humane Society, took her case all the way to the federal courts and won.

Across her home state, Jenifer became known as "The Frog Girl." It was her testimony before a state assembly subcommittee that was instrumental in the passage of the controversial students' rights bill. The bill gives students like Jenifer an educational alternative to dissection, and it is a major victory for animal rights advocates.

Ellen Dunning stars as Jenifer, Kerrie Keane as her mother, and Mitchell Laurance plays Jenifer's science teacher. Michael Greene portrays the principal of Jenifer's high school.

Actress Lesley-Anne Down makes a special appearance, testifying before the California legislature on behalf of animal and student rights.

Tune in later in the day for the 33rd broadcast of The Wizard of Oz. The 50-year-old classic film that propelled a young Judy Garland to stardom also airs on CBS.

Western, 'Wizard of Oz,' series premiere on agenda

By Christy Bergslien

Sunday, March 17, CBS has a new made-for-TV western on the hoof titled Blood River. Rick Schroder plays a young cowboy involved in a barroom shoot-out. He's on the run when he meets up with crotchety trapper Wilford Brimley, who shows the youngster some new tricks. Also on Sunday, NBC's popular series Shannon's Deal returns with a two-hour season premiere movie. A bizarre pawn shop stake-out leaves Lucy (Elizabeth Pena) in trouble. Her boss, do-good attorney Jack Shannon (Jamey Sheridan) comes to the rescue, filing a wrongful death suit against the city.

Monday, March 18, Rob Reiner's The Princess Bride makes its network TV premiere as Fox's Monday night movie. The comic fairy tale of love and adventure starring Cary Elwes and Robin Wright is not to be missed. An all-star cast also includes appearances by Billy Crystal, Peter Falk, Fred Savage, Carol Kane and Andre the Giant. Set your VCR Monday, because NBC has an intriguing fact-based movie on its schedule, Death of a San Antonio Cop. Dale Midkiff and Alex McArthur play cops and best friends. When McArthur's character goes on a violent vigilante rampage, his buddy is forced to bring him in.

Tuesday, March 19, catch the 33rd broadcast of the Wizard of Oz on CBS.

Saturday, March 23, Susan Lucci stars in the rebroadcast of Lady Mobster on ABC.

Gary of 'thirtysomething' is dying to direct thirtysomething fans who figured Nancy inevitably was off to the great beyond were left aghast when the show's producers bumped off Gary instead. "Why did they kill Gary?" women across the country bewailed the day after his Feb. 12 demise.

By Amy Schmidt

Peter Horton, the fair-haired actor who played the part of Gary, indicated some time ago that three years on the nighttime saga were probably enough. "We're already in the process of telling all the big stories, and we've gone into almost every character, including the kids," he told a reporter last year.

Horton, 36, has left the show to pursue a directing career. He began directing thirtysomething episodes with some regularity and recently directed Blair Brown in the TV thriller Extreme Close-Up. The offbeat theatrical film Amazon Women on the Moon is also a Horton-directed effort.

A Bellevue, Wash., native, the actor got his start performing with a Santa Barbara repertory company. He later made his way to Los Angeles and was cast in Where the River Runs Black, Freedom Choices of the Heart and Children of the Corn.

What you may not know about Horton is that he has a degree in musical composition and, initially, his ambition was to score movies. He plays classical piano and was once married to actress Michelle Pfeiffer.

Peter Scolari teams up with Perry Mason

By Steven Alan McGaw

Peter Scolari will be seen in the next prime-time Perry Mason telefilm, scheduled to air sometime this spring on NBC. Tentatively titled "The Case of the Glass Coffin," the project tells of a spectacular illusionist and showman whose life loses its magic when his assistant dies while performing a flashy feat. When Perry Mason tries to help the entertainer (Scolari) unravel what has happened, it emerges that many people had motives for wishing the beautiful but mean-spirited assistant dead.

Also in the works is another installment of the reliable ABC Afterschool Specials series, this one titled It's Only Rock 'n' Roll. Allison Bartlett stars as Hallie, a bright, independent girl who writes lyrics for her band, Halley's Comet. Hallie's friend, guitarist Johnny Dumont (actor William McNamara), writes the music. Singer-songwriter Carole King plays a high school teacher who encourages discussion of art and obscenity, and former Monkee David Jones plays an unprincipled record company exec. Look for this special sometime this spring.

Show business lost a great one with the passing of Danny Thomas. Condolences to his family and friends. Sympathies go as well to the family and friends of actress Nancy Kulp, unforgettable as Jane Hathaway on The Beverly Hillbillies.

'High Anxiety' gets high marks for paying tribute to Hitchcock

By Steven Alan McGaw

High Anxiety (1977)

Maybe no one needs me to call attention to this film, least of all Mel Brooks, who made a bundle at the time of its release. Then again, perhaps it's now overlooked in the video store as people rush to rent the latest two - cops - team - up - for - explosive-adventure release.

Critics have erroneously referred to High Anxiety as a "spoof" of Hitchcock movies, or a parody. Not so; Brooks meant this movie as an obviously affectionate tribute to the "Master of Suspense" and as a treat for Hitchcock buffs. It's like a game, trying to cite exactly which Hitchcock film Brooks is humorously paraphrasing at any given moment. North By Northwest, Notorious, Spellbound and The Man Who Knew Too Much all provide fodder for Brooks' fast-paced comic gem.

Brooks stars as a psychiatrist engaged as the new head of a financially embattled sanitarium. He's a fairly stable guy, but for one thing: He suffers from high anxiety, a particularly distressing fear of heights.

Brooks is ably supported by a large cast of extraordinary comic talent. Cloris Leachman, Harvey Korman, Howie Morris and Madeline Kahn all are at their very best.

May I suggest a double feature of, say, The Birds and Brooks' hilarious valentine to the Master? I think Hitchcock would have loved it.

'Shannon's Deal' makes its long-awaited return

Attorney pays more than his bar dues

By Amy Schmidt

Shannon's Deal, NBC's perennially reincarnated drama series, makes its third return Sunday, March 17, on the network. The series began as a two-hour movie way back in June of 1989. It won its time period, scored in the top 10 for the week and was praised by the critics. Tom Shales of the Washington Post wrote that the show "is about as prime as prime-time gets." CBS Sunday Morning critic John Leonard added, "good acting, snappy direction, cracker-jack entertainment."

Subsequently, NBC decided to make Shannon's Deal into a full-fledged series. The following spring the show made its debut and garnered good ratings. Because not enough episodes had been filmed, the network passed over the series in the fall, vowing to bring it back in the spring.

Now the show is back along with its stars, ruggedly handsome Jamey Sheridan and perky Elizabeth Pena. Tony-winner Sheridan (Stanley and Iris, Distant Thunder) plays corporate lawyer Jack Shannon. Shannon's gambling debts and moral debts have cost him both his marriage and his self respect, and now he's trying to turn his life around. He decides to set up his own practice in a dingy walk-up office and recruits Lucy Acosta (Pena, I Married Dora) as his secretary. His new practice champions the causes of the poor and the indigent.

Shannon's Deal was created by Stan Rogow, an attorney and producer who says the 1982 film The Verdict inspired him to create the series. The show's regular episodes begin airing Friday, March 22.

CBS tests the waters with 'Blood River'

Rick Schroder goes with the flow

By Amy Schmidt

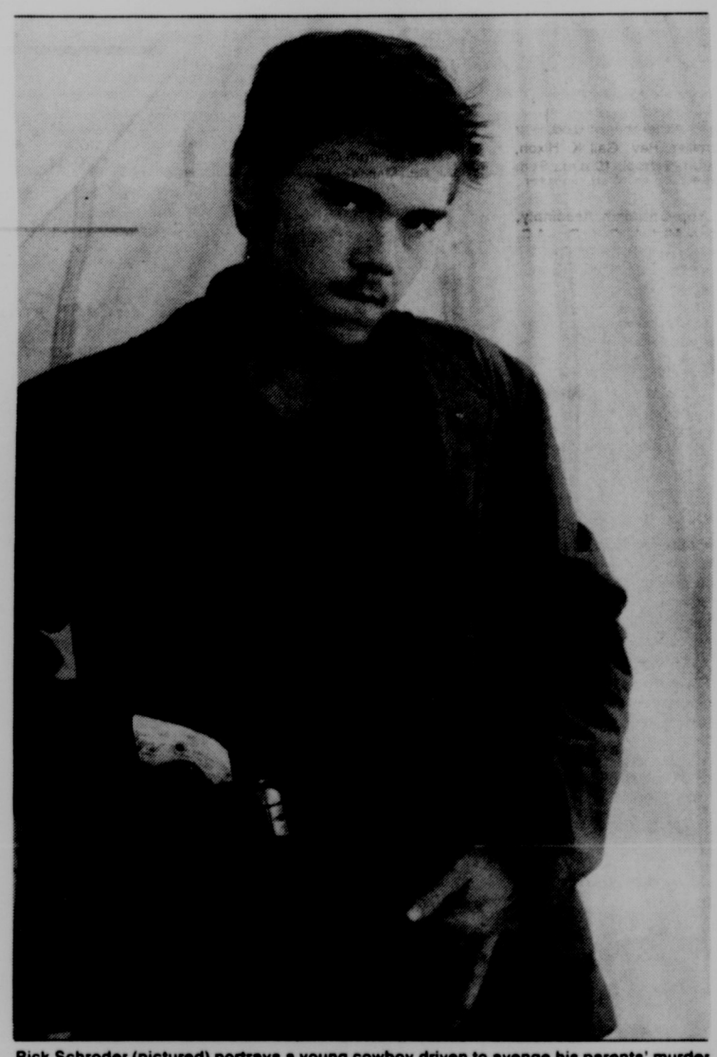
When he's not acting, Rick Schroder says he's probably spending time staring at his beautiful fiancee. No kidding. That's what the 20-year-old actor told us of his new mate-to-be, Andrea. The former Silver Spoons child prodigy met his fiancee, admittedly at a club, in Calgary, Canada. He was there on location filming Blood River, a new made-for-CBS western written by director John Carpenter and airing Sunday, March 17. Andrea didn't know Schroder was a "celebrity," but she was soon to find out. (That was five months ago, putting to rest Star rumors he is suffering heartaches over Twin Peaks vixen Robin Lively.)

Blood River isn't Schroder's first TV western. Viewers will remember he played Tommy Lee Jones' son in CBS' popular miniseries Lonesome Dove. What you may not know is that he's allergic to horses — a potential problem when the cameras are rolling. "I could sneeze 20-30 times," says Schroder. For both films, crews washed his horses daily.

Don't get the idea Blood River is a Lonesome Dove, though, says Schroder. Both are westerns, and both supposedly take place in Montana (Dove was filmed in New Mexico), but there the similarity ends.

In the beginning of Blood River, Schroder guns down a wealthy landowner's son in a bar. Soon he is a wanted man worth a $2,000 bounty to the man who brings him in "dead" rather than "alive." On the lam, Schroder crosses paths with an old river-faring trapper, played by Wilford Brimley. For reasons unknown, Brimley decides to help Schroder out of his jam.

"I don't want people to think this is Lonesome Dove," says Schroder. "It's more of a family-type movie and family entertainment. There's action, but it's not real bloody."



Rick Schroder (pictured) portrays a young cowboy driven to avenge his parents' murder in Blood River, a new made-for-TV western airing Sunday on CBS. Wilford Brimley co-stars, playing an elderly no-nonsense trapper who shows the youngster the ropes.

This is probably the kindest way the actor could put it. The beginning of Blood River is exceptionally promising, filled with surprises, witticisms by Brimley and an interesting premise to start with. Midway through, however, the drama seems to lose some of its momentum. Brimley and Schroder's dialogue degenerates to constant bantering carried on during multiple chase scenes. Finally, via an incredible and unlikely plot twist at the end of the show, we learn why Brimley has risked his life to save Schroder's.

The film is worth a peek, anyway. The scenery is fantastic, and there are some very good scenes and light moments. Watch it in good humor; just don't expect a western epic.

Even if Blood River doesn't catapult Schroder's career, it was serendipitous in that he met his new gal. Will he be moving Andrea to Hollywood? "I wouldn't want to do that to anyone," he says. The pair hasn't set a date yet, and Schroder's unconcerned about where they will live. For now, the easy-going actor is just content to go with the flow.

Libby (Patti LuPone) considers returning to her old job on ABC's Life Goes On, Sunday.

Ted Koppel continues his in-depth approach to the day's issues on Nightline, weeknights on ABC.

Lesley-Anne Down makes an appearance in Frog Girl: The Jenifer Graham Story, Tuesday on CBS.

HOROSCOPE

March 17 through March 23

By C.C. Clark

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
This a good week to take it easy and party. Those uptight feelings you've been experiencing will melt away with some good old-fashioned fun.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Meeting new people will bring you great joy. This is also a good time to take up a new hobby or activity. The act of doing something will give you a feeling of accomplishment.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
It is important that you concentrate on career concerns this week. When times get tough, make sure you have your facts straight. Be prepared to confront opponents.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Stick with what you know this week and things will work out for the best. Complete projects you have already started rather than undertaking new ones.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
You will need an outlet for your creative energy this week. Put all of your excess energy to work doing good for those who are less fortunate than you.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
It seems you are surrounded by a great deal of tension. Avoid conflict because no good will come of it. Stay calm and know this difficult time will pass quickly.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Take a close look at yourself this week. Certain areas of your life haven't been what you expected, but the fact is, you have the power to change it all if you want.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Finances take priority. Depending on how well you manage your money, you could be in for a big windfall. Don't spend it before you actually have it in your hands, though.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
A friend needs you to lend a helping hand this week. Give them all the support you can and listen carefully. You will actually benefit from helping this person.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Don't let friends and relatives get you down this week. If necessary, take off for some time on your own and think about what is really most important to you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
You will inspire one who is close to you. Your wise words could change this person's life dramatically. Be careful not to get too involved with this person.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Don't let your emotions get the better of you this week. Keep your head together and rely on others to pick up on some of the extra work load that has you bogged down.

DAYTIME MOVIES

5:00 am 13 MOVIE: Tahiti Honey A band leader adopts a girl in Tahiti to bring her back to the United States. Dennis O'Keefe, Simone Simon. 1943.

Patrick Swayze's talents include composing music

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Has Patrick Swayze ever recorded an album? Does he plan to record one in the future? Could you please list the movies he's made? Also, did country western singer George Strait have a child who died? —Debra Weaver, Prescott Valley, Ariz.

A: Patrick Swayze has not, to my knowledge, recorded an album as yet. His song "She's Like the Wind" did make Billboard's Top Ten. Besides dancing, singing, and acting, he composes music. I will just list his movies currently available on tape: Dirty Dancing; Grandview, U.S.A.; Red Dawn; Youngblood; Next of Kin and Road House. George Strait lost his 13-year-old daughter, Jennifer, in a car accident in June 1986. She was killed instantly on her way home from a party.

Q: Why does Bea Arthur on The Golden Girls wear those "icky" looking boots? No matter whether she is casually or nicely dressed, she always has them on. Does she wear them in private life? Does she have to because of feet trouble? Her outfits would look much nicer with regular shoes. —Mrs. Lawrence Toby, Lindley, N.Y.

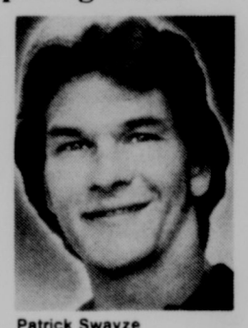
A: There is "no accounting for taste," and Ms. Arthur has always dressed in a very distinctive fashion. I remember a few years back when she always wore a scarf draped around her neck and favored those long vests over her skirts or pants. A face-lift took care of the scarves, but I really don't know about any problems with her feet.

Q: Please settle a "trivia-buster" dispute. What were the names of the characters from the series of Mod Squad*? I remember Link Hayes and Julie Barnes, but who was the third? Also, what are they doing now? —Cam King, Miles City, Mont.*



Patrick Swayze

A: The Mod Squad, if you remember, premiered in 1968 and was last telecast in 1973. It starred Michael Cole as Pete Cochran, Clarence Williams III as Linc Hayes and Peggy Lipton as Julie Barnes. Peggy is currently starring on Twin Peaks. She had been married to Quincy Jones and retired from acting to raise their two daughters. Williams has been appearing in guest spots on series; he was a recent guest on Gabriel's Fire. I have not been able to find any recent news on Cole.

Q: Who were the first actors to play in Dark Shadows from the '60s? —Margarita Corraly, Big Spring, Texas

A: Principal players of the original Dark Shadows included Joan Bennett, Alexandra Moltke, Jonathan Frid, Nancy Barrett, Louis Edmonds, Grayson Hall, Lara Parker, David Selby, Kate Jackson, David Henesy, Roger Davis, Anthony Georg, Jerry Lacy, Marie Wallace, Joel Crothers and the list goes on and on. Many of the performers played two roles.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748.

10:05 am 9 MOVIE: The Adventures of the Wilderness Family Fed up with the stress and pollution of city life, an urban family moves to the sometimes dangerous Rocky Mountain region. Robert Logan, Susan Damante Shaw. 1975.

1:00 pm 12 MOVIE: Tap Roots A Mississippi family tries to remain neutral during the Civil War. Susan Hayward, Van Heflin. 1948.

1:05 pm 9 MOVIE: Wild Horses A former rodeo champion briefly escapes his humdrum blue-collar life by joining a wild horse roundup. Kenny Rogers, Pam Dawber. 1985.

State Health Department Reports Outbreaks Of Rubella, Measles

Health officials at the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) are concerned about what may be an emerging outbreak of rubella (German measles) in Maryland. One case has been confirmed and more suspected cases are being investigated. Nationally, there was a five-fold increase in rubella incidence in 1990 over the all-time low number cases in 1988.

Because rubella is often mild and has a variable appearance, there are likely to be more cases that have not been reported. The cases under investigation were not related to one another and were predominately school age children who attended different schools.

The danger from rubella is damage to the developing fetus if a woman is infected during pregnancy, especially during the first trimester. Up to 25 percent of infants born to women infected with rubella have birth defects which may include deafness, vision problems, heart defects and mental retardation.

In children and adults rubella is a mild illness with few complications. Typically one has a few days of cold-like symptoms and slight fever, with swollen glands behind the ears. Then a mild rash starts on the face and neck, spreads rapidly over the body and usually lasts three or four days. Rubella is contagious for about one week before the rash until five days after the rash starts. Some people have no rash; others have symptoms similar to other rash illnesses.

The first cases of measles in Maryland this year have also been confirmed. Nationally and in Maryland, measles cases have increased dramatically over the past two years -- with outbreaks now occurring in other states in the region. Seven of the cases of measles in Maryland have been confirmed since mid-February. Two cases were pre-school age children, one was an elementary school student, one was a high school student and three were adults. An additional six suspected cases are under investigation.

Measles is a much more severe illness than rubella and the danger of complications is greater than it is for rubella. Typically, measles starts with three or four days of flu-like symptoms (fever, cough, runny nose) then the rash appears behind the ears and on the face. The rash spreads over the body in about two days. The measles rash lasts five to seven days. Measles is sometimes complicated by vomiting, ear infections or pneumonia.

In 1990, 29 percent of all measles cases in Maryland were hospitalized. There were no deaths in Maryland from measles in 1990, but nationally 90 people died from measles last year. Unlike rubella, measles is not known to cause birth defects in children born to infected pregnant women, although spontaneous abortion (miscarriage) and stillbirth have been known to occur.

Local health departments are investigating cases of rash illnesses as soon as they are reported. Physicians and hospitals are being alerted to diagnose cases, isolate patients with rash illnesses who visit their facilities, and to report suspected rubella and measles cases immediately by telephone to their local health departments.

All children 15 months old or older should receive a measles and rubella shot (given with mumps vaccine as a single shot -- the MMR shot). A second dose of MMR vaccine is currently recommended for middle school entry or at age 12.

Health care workers (nurses, doctors, x-ray technicians, etc.) are at high risk of exposure to measles and rubella. In 1990, 48 percent of all adults who caught measles in Maryland were health care workers. Health care facilities such as hospitals, clinics, HMOs, and doctors' offices should be sure all their employees are immune to measles and rubella.

INN TO HOST SHOWER -- Sheila Lewis and Ed Walthall of the Silver Tree Inn display a poster promoting the American Lung Association of Maryland's baby shower for pregnant women who smoke. Persons should call the American Lung Association of Maryland's Cumberland Office for additional information or to register at 301-777-7317 or (toll free in Maryland) at 1-800-222-9974.

Poison Prevention Week Proclaimed

Governor William Donald Schaefer has proclaimed March 17-23, 1991 "Poison Prevention Week" in Maryland. The week is sponsored by the Maryland Poison Center (MPC), which is a division of the University of Maryland School of Pharmacy and is designated as the state's official poison center.

"Accidental poisonings are preventable if Marylanders make sure their homes are poison-proof," said the governor. "We need to be aware that there are things that we use around the house every day that can be dangerous to children."

Although labeling requirements and education programs have had some effect in reducing the number of childhood ingestions, significant numbers of children are still being poisoned by accidentally ingesting household products. According to the Maryland Poison Center, 20,815 children under age five were exposed to potentially poisonous substances in 1990.

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) encourages Maryland citizens to observe "Poison Prevention Week."

"It only takes a little time to poison-proof your home," said David L. Resh Jr., director of the DHMH Office of Good Protection and Consumer Health Services.

To prevent poisoning accidents, Resh suggests that persons:

--Keep all household chemical products and medicines out of reach and sight of children and, preferably locked up when not in use. Medicines on counters are very accessible to children. When these products are in use, never let them out of your sight.

--Store all medicines separately from household products, and store household chemicals away from food.

--Always re-secure the cap after you use a household chemical.

--Keep items in their original containers. Never use drinking cups or soda bottles to hold household chemicals.

--Leave the original labels on products and read them before using any product.

--Always leave the light on when giving or taking medicine.

--Refer to medicine as "medicine" -- not "candy."

--Clean out the medicine cabinet periodically, and safely dispose of unneeded or outdated medicines.

--Use safety packaging properly -- by closing the container securely after use.

Persons are advised to keep the number for the nearest poison control center by the telephone.

The Maryland toll-free number is 1-800-492-2414.

Zion Band, Chorus Plans Fellowship, Recruitment Tour

The band and chorus, "The Children of the Kingdom," of Christian Education and Zion Christian Academy, Grantsville, will go on a Fellowship and Recruitment Tour this weekend.

The 25-member group is comprised of faculty, staff, and students of the two schools. The first ministry will be at the Locust Grove Church of the Brethren, Mt. Airy, on March 14. From there, the singers and musicians will travel to Culpepper, Va. to the Assemblies of God Church.

The Saturday evening service will be at the Liberty Hill Pentecostal Holiness Church in Max Meadows, Va. The tour will conclude at Echoes of Calvary Church in Bluefield, W.Va. on Sunday at the 11 a.m. service.

The ministry team usually makes two tours a year, as well as weekend ministries in churches within a 70-mile radius of Grantsville.

The fall tour will take the group to Western Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Violin Recital Slated At FSU

A violin recital featuring Rex Conner of the West Virginia University music faculty will be performed Monday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m. in Pullen Auditorium on the Frostburg State University campus. Carol Beall will accompany on piano.

Featured on the program will be the Sonata in A minor for Violin and Piano, Opus 34 by Amy Cheney Beach; the Sonata in E minor, K. 304, by Mozart and the Sonata in D Major, Opus 94a by Prokofieff.

Since receiving a master's degree in violin performance from the University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music in 1975, Conner has been affiliated with a number of musical groups, including the Queensland Conservatory in Brisbane, Australia, where he was first violinist with the Quartet-in-Residence. He has also been assistant concertmaster of the San Antonio and Columbus symphonies, and concertmaster of the Sioux City Symphony and the Cincinnati Ballet Company.

He presently is involved with the West Virginia Symphony and the New Hampshire Music Festival Orchestra, in addition to his teaching responsibilities at WVU.

More Elm Trees To Be Distributed By Westvaco Corp.

Ten local communities and four local colleges will soon be receiving their second installment of elm trees, according to Roger A. Dandridge, vice president and mill manager of Westvaco's Luke mill. The donation of a total of 7,000 disease-resistant Liberty elm trees to the communities and colleges was announced last spring by Westvaco as a response to Governor Schaefer's "Treemendous Maryland" program and also as a reminder that Westvaco Corporation is responsible for planting some 45 million seedlings each year.

The donation of 100 trees per year is being made to each recipient community and college over a five-year period through the coordination of the Elm Research Institute, Harrisville, N.H.

Receiving the Liberty elm trees for their second consecutive year will be the communities of Barton, Cumberland, Frostburg, Keyser, Lonaconing, Luke, Midland, Piedmont, Oakland, Westernport, as well as Allegany Community College, Frostburg State University, Garrett Community College, and Potomac State College.

This type of special disease-resistant tree is a product of over 20 years of research by the Elm Research Institute, according to Dandridge. Even though the trees are only approximately two feet in height when they arrive, they are very fast growing and will double their height each year for the first three years. They are hardy, can tolerate extremes in temperature, and are not bothered by road salt or car exhaust.

The initial planting of the elm trees in a small plot and then replanting is being coordinated by the National Boy Scout Council and local Boy Scout Troops

Area Nurses To Get Together In Cumberland

District 1 of the Maryland Nurses Association (MNA) is sponsoring a wine and cheese reception celebrating the profession of nursing on Monday, March 18, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Cumberland Holiday Inn. Selected nurses who work in traditional and non-traditional settings will be present to talk with their colleagues about the ways in which their jobs impact positively on the health of people in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Addie Eckhardt, president of the MNA, and Patricia Carrington, the new executive director of MNA, will be present to help nurses understand the role and services provided by their professional organization. All area nurses, whether or not they are MNA members, are invited to attend.

This celebration is the kick-off event for the District's recruitment campaign, "91 in '91."

"Our goal is to attract 91 new members in 1991." stated Susan Coyle, District I president. "The Maryland Nurses Association has a lot to offer its members -- legislative/political action, opportunities for continuing education, and access to a number of premium programs for example. We (the Executive Board of District 1) were looking for an informal, informative, fun event to bring the nurses in Allegany and Garrett counties together for an evening of professional camaraderie and information-sharing."

MNA members will receive notice of the event and invitations for friends and co-workers in "Capsules," the District's newsletter. MNA non-members do not need an invitation to attend; they need only make a reservation by calling 724-5312 any day after 5 p.m. There is no admission charge. District 1 MNA is underwriting this celebration in honor of all nurses in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Local School Collecting Cash Register Receipts

The Mt. Top Seventh-Day Adventist School will participate in the 1991 Jiff/Duncan Hines Children's Education Fund.

The fund-raiser, sponsored by Jiff Peanut Butter and Duncan Hines frostings and baking mixes, will help purchase needed equipment and resources for the school, according to a school spokesman.

Cash register receipt collection has begun and will continue to May 15, 1991. "Drop boxes" for receipts will be provided at Browning's Foodland, Super Value in Oakland, and Mt. Lake Park IGA. Receipts should be circled to identify Jiff and Duncan Hines purchases.

Browning's Foodland is also providing space for a school bake sale, to be held March 29 in conjunction with the fund-raiser.

Garrett Forestry Board Convenes

The Garrett Forestry Board met Monday, February 25, at Garrett Community College. Representatives from each of the seven schools that are going to participate in the School Reforestation Project this year were invited to attend the meeting to compile a list of trees for planting this spring. Local nurseries will be contacted for prices for the desired planting stock.

The Chesapeake Bay School Reforestation Project is sponsored by the Maryland Association of Forestry Boards and the DNR -- Resource Management -- Forestry Division. Funding for the project is through Governor William Donald Schaefer's Green Shores Program. This project is designed to help educate students across the State about the benefits that trees provide. The students will be involved in organizing and implementing the planting of a native forest of trees.

Two members of the Garrett Forestry Board -- John Forman, Oakland, and Carroll DeWitt, Accident -- attended the winter meeting of the Maryland Association of Forestry Boards, which was held in Pasadena February 2. The main topic of discussion at the winter meeting was the Executive Summary of the Governor's Conference on Trees and Forests. Much of the forestry legislation being proposed this year is a result of this conference.

AVAILABILITY OF ASBESTOS MANAGEMENT PLANS AND NOTIFICATION OF ASBESTOS RESPONSE ACTIONS

In October 1986, the U.S. Congress enacted the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act (AHERA). Under this law, comprehensive regulations were developed to address asbestos problems in public and private elementary and secondary schools. These regulations require most schools to inspect for friable and nonfriable asbestos, develop asbestos management plans that address asbestos hazards in school buildings and implement response actions in a timely manner.

These regulations assign schools many new responsibilities. Our Program for fulfilling these responsibilities is outlined in our asbestos management plans. These plans contain information on our inspections, reinspections, response actions and post-response activities, including periodic reinspections and surveillance activities that are planned or are in progress.

You can review these plans at our administrative office, Garrett County Board of Education, 40 South Fourth Street, Oakland, Maryland, during normal business hours. Each school will have their individual plans available for review within five (5) working days of receiving a request for inspection.

The following response actions were conducted during the 1990 year: Asbestos removal procedures were conducted at Loch Lynn Elementary School, Mt. Lake Park, Maryland, beginning on July 12, 1990 and were completed on the same day. Friable asbestos-containing pipe insulation was removed from a section of pipe and four (4) elbows in a storage closet under the stairs in the basement of the school. Brico Environmental, Inc., Baltimore, MD, was contracted to conduct the removal.

Asbestos removal procedures were conducted at the Bloomington Elementary School, Bloomington, MD, beginning on July 20, 1990 and were completed on the same day. Friable asbestos insulation was removed from a fitting between hot water heaters in the boiler room of the school. Brico Environmental, Inc., Baltimore, MD, was contracted to conduct the removal.

Asbestos removal procedures were conducted at Southern High School, Oakland, MD, from June 13, 1990 to September 28, 1990. Asbestos-containing pipe insulation was removed from approximately one thousand (1000) linear feet of pipe, asbestos-containing surfacing material was removed from approximately 43,000 square feet of ceiling, and approximately 27,200 square feet of asbestos-containing floor tile and mastic were removed.

Throughout the course of these removal projects, industrial hygienists from Briggs Associates, Inc., Columbia, MD, monitored the projects to ensure compliance with all Federal and State regulations.

If you have any questions about reviewing our management plans or response actions, please contact Mr. George Brady at (301) 334-8906.

Local Leaguers Attend Legislative Day in Annapolis

Two local members of the League of Women Voters of Garrett County, Connie Margison, league president, and Barbara Flinn, recently travelled to Annapolis for "Legislative Day," sponsored jointly by the League of Women Voters of Maryland, the Business and Professional Women's Club of Maryland and the American Association of University Women of Maryland.

Maryland Director of Fiscal Services William Ratchford discussed the downward turn of the economy, and the fall-off in housing, purchasing, and services. He stated that he foresees "no sharp upturn in the economy," and feels that the $200 million gap must be filled by a mixture of expenditure reduction, including a decrease in programs and a revenue increase.

The revenue increase, he said, could take the form of a cigarette tax (which would generate about $30 million), a snack tax (which would generate about $25 to $30 million), state agencies keeping their expenditures at a 1990 level, and a cutback in parkland acquisition. "It's not going to be an easy year -- no one will be pleased with it," Ratchford reportedly stated.

Governor William Donald Schaefer's Chief Legislative Officer, David Iannucci, was also on hand to discuss the budget now before the legislature. He noted that "covert influences," such as the war, recession, and lower collections from income and sales tax have been responsible for the budget deficit this year.

Iannucci then turned his attention to the growth and development recommendations presented to the Maryland legislature by the 2020 Panel, stating, "The bill is not perfect but we cannot turn our backs on it. It's too important not to act, and we need to work on it with the opposition."

Persons interested in reviewing a copy of the Maryland General Assembly Committee Meetings and Hearing Schedule are invited to visit the local league office at 223 E. Alder Street, Oakland.

The local league has also obtained fax numbers from District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards (301-841-3850, ext. 3435) and District 1 Senator John Hafer (301-841-3850, ext. 3565).

Copies of the 2020 Report are also available by calling the league office at 334-1109.

GRANTSVILLE DAYS PLANNING BEGINS – The Grantsville Lions Club, sponsor of the Annual Grantsville Days celebration, met recently with the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department to discuss the 14th Annual Grantsville Days, slated for June. The firemen have agreed to coordinate and co-sponsor the annual parade again this year, for the eighth consecutive year. According to Duane Stein, parade chairman, there will be nearly $2,000 in prizes and trophies awarded this year. The fire apparatus will be judged and trophies will be awarded to 11 different classes of equipment. Bands, floats, and other entries will also be judged and prizes awarded. Invitations will be sent to those who participated last year, but those who don't receive an invitation and would like to participate in the parade should contact Stein at 895-5297. Following the parade the firemen will join other local groups at the Grantsville Park with game and food booths. The dates for the celebration are Friday through Sunday, June 28-30. Pictured above, left to right, are Lion Harrison Foy; firemen Claire Folk, Herman Yoder, Raymond J. Yoder and Duane Stein; Lions Gerry Beachy and Rich Towers; firemen George Lapp, Ken Miller, and Raymond G. Yoder; and Lion Fred Holliday.

Revaccination Is Recommended For New Sixth-Graders

The Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene has recommended that all students entering middle school should be revaccinated for mumps, measles, and rubella.

According to a health department spokesperson, the revaccination is important for reducing the number of outbreaks the state is experiencing. By the end of 1990, 1158 cases of mumps and 213 cases of measles were reported to the Maryland epidemiology and disease control program. This is a marked increase over the 600 cases of mumps and 113 cases of measles reported in 1989, according to the spokesperson.

Measles is of special concern because it is highly contagious and can have serious complications, including ear infections, pneumonia, encephalitis, and even death. Eight deaths caused by the measles were reported by officials in Chicago, Ill., in 1989. Philadelphia's population is reportedly experiencing some incidents of death as a result of a measles outbreak. These deaths occurred in unprotected adults and children. The Pennsylvania Department of Health has reported outbreaks of rubella this month, which, although benign to children, can be of danger to pregnant women.

Persons may arrange to have the second dose of MMR (measles, mumps, and rubella) vaccine by contacting their physicians or the Garrett County Health Department.

Incentive Offered To Food Service Facilities From EHS

Edgar Harman, director of Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department, announced a new incentive program directed at food service facilities to motivate workers to practice good food handling techniques. An award will be presented to those food service facilities which exhibit outstanding effort in quality food service.

Any food service facility that prepares food is eligible for the award, Harman said. This award will be based on the inspection score, food handling techniques, overall cleanliness, and personal hygiene of the workers.

The incentive awards will be issued with a six-month expiration date. Monthly articles will be placed in the newspaper to publicize those who have received an award.

The goal of the program is to encourage restaurant workers in their jobs. A tangible reward will be provided to the most motivated proprietors in the county. The reward will be attractive and suitable for display for all patrons to see, Harman explained.

"There are more operators who try to comply than there are who deliberately defy regulations," Harman said. "Unfortunately, the latter group gets more attention from sanitarians and complaining customers." Therefore, Harman anticipates that Environmental Health Services will reward all of those facilities in Garrett County that exhibit outstanding food protection procedures.

Billy Graham Film Showing Set

"Caught," the newest film from Billy Graham's World Wide Pictures, will be shown Sunday, March 24, at 6:30 p.m., at the Pleasant View Baptist Church, located two miles south of Oakland on Rt. 219.

According to a church spokesman, the true-to-life dramatic story portrays the power of one person caring for another. An 18-year-old American, Tim Devon, goes to Amsterdam in search of the father he has never known. His mother reluctantly admits he was born illegitimately out of a college romance between her and a Dutch exchange student.

In this city, far from his home, Devon slips into the self-destructive drug culture, but is encountered by a single, caring person of deep faith, who finds a way to share Christ's message of love, hope and forgiveness in a way that Tim could not ignore, according to the spokesman.

Persons desiring more information may call 334-8515. The public is invited to this presentation.

G.C. Republican Central Committee Slates Meeting

The Garrett County Republican Central Committee will hold a meeting open to the public on Tuesday, March 19, at Garrett Community College. The meeting will be held in room 304, and will begin at 6 p.m.

The Republican committee recently voted in favor of opening their meeting to the public.

Yough Board Sets Meeting

The Youghiogheny River Local Advisory Board will hold its next meeting Thursday, February 21, at 7:30 p.m., at the Continuing Education Center (Rm. 314), at Garrett Community College.

The agenda will include a review of the Youghiogheny River Management Plan. A representative from the Maryland Natural Heritage Program will also be speaking at the meeting.

Senior Citizen Writing Contest Judges Named

The Area Agency on Aging and the Garrett County Commissioners' Office have announced the names of local judges for the "Maryland, You Are Beautiful 1991" Senior Citizen Creative Writing Contest currently underway. This year's judges will be: Joan Crawford, Garrett County Community College, McHenry; Marianne Green, Southern Middle School, Oakland; and Roseanne Sherwood, Accident Elementary School, Accident.

Entries from senior citizens will be received until March 28. A Maryland "get-away" trip for two will be awarded to the state winner.

For more information, persons may call 334-5856.

Coordinator Of Volunteer Park Service Named

At a meeting held this week between volunteers who will donate their time and services to New Germany State Park, Sheila Wilt, Grantsville, was named coordinator of the local effort. That effort is intended to keep the park open and operating until the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1, 1991.

The volunteers are organizing in response to the decision recently made by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to close the park because of budget cutbacks. However, according to Wilt, one of the goals is to also turn the park maintenance back over to the state after the beginning of the fiscal year.

The next meeting of the group will be held March 18, at 7 p.m., at the new warming facility at the park. More information may be obtained by contacting Wilt at 301-895-5228.

HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Loch Lynn Church To Worship Sunday In New Building

The members of Loch Lynn Evangelical Free Church will be worshipping in their new facility for the first time this Sunday, March 17.

The new church building is located along Route 135 across the street from the Mt. Lake Park Town Hall, on the former site of the Mt. Lake Park Hotel.

The congregation was organized in 1896 as the United Brethren Church. The Loch Lynn building was erected in 1899. In 1945 an education section was added.

As the congregation grew, a need developed for updated facilities and parking. Groundbreaking was held in April 1990 and construction started in May.

The new facility provides for a worship center to seat 300, and a Sunday school and fellowship area. Pastor Russell Hamilton invites area residents to join the congregation in this Sunday's "historic service."

Sunday School for all ages starts at 9:45 a.m. and morning worship will be at 10:45 a.m. The Sunday evening service starts at 7 p.m.

Integrated Pest Management Program To Be Initiated For Area Farmers

Integrated Pest Management (IPM) could make crop production more profitable and put more dollars in farmers' pockets, said Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms.

The IPM Program in Maryland has proven its worth since it started in a few counties five or six years ago, according to Simms. Over five-million dollars of direct savings have been documented by those farmers participating in the program. Simms asks farmers to keep in mind the number participating is probably less than one-fourth of Maryland's farmers.

"I have talked with several farmers from other counties that are enrolled in IPM," Simms said. "They say the IPM program is one of the most important management tools in their business. Return rates for dollars invested ranged from $4 to $17."

The IPM program is structured by determining the "economic threshold." The economic threshold is the point where a pest must be controlled or the crop will suffer more damage than the cost of the control procedure. The control procedures will vary from crop to crop and farm to farm. The use of chemicals will not be the only alternative in many situations.

Simms tells farmers that after a year of experience in their fields, problems will be predicted in advance. The goal, he says, is to increase yields, improve quality, lower production costs, and preserve the environment.

Simms explains the prodecure using an alfalfa crop as an example: A trained pest scout will visit a farm's crops weekly or more often as needed. The scout will be trained in insect, weed and disease identification. The scout will sample for insects, weeds and diseases.

Sweeping for insects will follow a very strict procedure. For example, an average size alfalfa field would require 200 sweeps of the net to sample for potato leafhopper. Of course this sampling is done early, Simms says. If several were trapped on the first sweep, a lot of damage has already occurred. IPM would be ahead of this problem.

Using the collected information, an economic threshold would be calculated. If there was no control procedure needed, the scout would provide the farmer with the test results before he leaves the farm. If a control procedure is needed, he will return to the Extension Office where the best procedure will be determined for control of the pest.

The scout would identify specific weeds and their population. Then the same procedures would be followed as for insects.

The scout would also check plants for presence of diseases. The same basic procedures would be followed as with insects and weeds.

At the end of the crop season the farmer would be provided with written field history information of recorded observations and control procedures. A written pest management plan for the next year. Simms says this information is extremely valuable for managing next season's crops.

The same basic procedures outlined for alfalfa would be used for the other crops offered in the IPM program.

Other important management tools beyond IPM will be offered, including nitrogen availability testing for field corn, a manure fertility management plan, and a total farm nutrient management plan.

A nitrogen availability test for field corn is used on corn fields that have a starter fertilizer applied and organic matter such as manure applied. The test is taken approximately four to five weeks after corn is planted. The test tells the amount of nitrogen available. The test has been out on experimental basis for four years and has a good reliability record.

Simms said it will not be possible to do a total farm nutrient management plan for even 30 percent of the farms the first year. Therefore, the first priority will be those who are required to have a nutrient plan to participate in government loans. The remainder will be drawn at random.

Simms added that an important statistic shows that four years ago, Maryland hired some nutrient consultants for certain counties, and since the project began the average nutrient savings has been $22.61 per acre. "Rather significant, I think!" exclaimed Simms.

For the coming year, the IPM program will be offered for the following crops: field corn at a cost of $3.50 per acre; alfalfa for $5 per acre; and small grains for $3 per acre.

There will be a five acre minimum for field size. If the field is smaller, the farmer will be charged for five acres. "If you push your pencil a little and think back at the costs, such as $12 to $14 per acre for western corn rootworm, you can see the value of the program," says Simms.

Allen Murray has been hired as the scout. Simms and Extension Agent Ted Sprangel will work closely with him and the fees charged will only be used for Murray's salary and supplies.

"In summary," Simms said, "I honestly feel what is being offered is a good deal for the farmer. As time goes on, the program and your cropping results will improve. You must remember that this year we will be starting with all of the pest problems you have accumulated."

Simms suggests that a board of directors to govern the program in the future be created following enrollment into the program. "We need to move rather fast on this program," Simms said. Those interested should return the form mailed to them, or request a form by calling the Extension Office at 334-1990.

DHIA/Holstein Associations Plan Annual Meeting

The Garrett County Holstein Association and DHIA will hold their annual joint meeting March 19 beginning at 7 p.m. at the Bittinger Fire Hall. A steak dinner will be served at a cost of $6; children 10 and under, $2.50.

Speaker for the evening will be Ken Stromski, producer relations manager for the Producers' Equalization Agency, Inc. The Agency originated in Medina, Ohio, with the purpose of organizing dairy farmers in support of bargaining for higher milk prices for Federal Order 36, which includes eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania, and some producers in western Maryland and surrounding West Virginia counties.

All dairy family members and businesses are invited to attend. Reservations must be made by March 14 by calling the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1990.

"Agency" Slates Annual Meeting For March 21

Since the first annual meeting of the Producers' Equalization Agency (Agency) was held a year ago, the dairy producers' pricing organization has signed over 3,000 dairy farmers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania to its cause.

When over 60 delegates assemble for the second annual meeting to be held at the Ramada Inn, West Middlesex, Pa., on March 21, they will hear how the Agency plans to sign up the additional dairy farmers it needs to put pricing in the hands of milk producers in Federal Order 36.

In addition to the official tasks of the delegates, such as voting on a by-law change, they will meet guests from various agricultural agencies including Pennsylvania Farmers Association and the Ohio Farm Bureau. A representative from the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board will explain the regulatory agency's purpose and current programs. Nationally renowned Bob Jacobson, ag-economist from Ohio State University, will provide an update on the current dairy industry and give his projections for the coming year.

According to John Siglow, general manager of the Agency, the meeting will give delegates an opportunity to exchange views and experiences relative to the success in recruiting independent dairy farmers to join the Agency. Siglow points out that dairy support levels have dropped to $9.90 per cwt. for 3.5 percent butterfat. This, coupled with an increasing national milk supply, has made the ability of dairy farmers to price their milk more critical than a year ago. This fact is being driven home at the dairy farmer level as they continue to receive smaller and smaller milk checks.

The meeting will take place from 10:30 a.m. through 2:30 p.m. and will include lunch. Although the general public will not be admitted, interested dairy farmers are urged to contact Siglow at 1-800-875-2250 for more information.

Forage Crop Specialists Speak To Area Farmers At Alfalfa Workshop

A crowd of 75 area farmers attended an alfalfa management workshop, titled "Alfalfa, Dollars and Sense," on Tuesday at the Bittinger Fire Hall. The workshop, sponsored by the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and the Maryland-Delaware Forage Council, featured a number of distinguished, knowledgeable speakers on such topics as Markets and Production costs; Factors to Consider at Planting; Fertility, Harvesting, Storage, Grazing; Drying Agents, Inoculation and Preservatives; Alfalfa Insects; Alfalfa Weeds and Their Control; and Alfalfa Diseases.

The first speaker, Hugh McWilliam, vice president, Beachly Hardy Seed Co. of Camp Hill, Pa., told the farmers that alfalfa is an "extremely profitable crop," and that its potential for income far exceeds corn. However, he stressed that alfalfa takes more attention to reach that full potential than corn.

McWilliam stated that hay is a major energy source in the United States — that 23 percent of lactating dairy cows' feed energy comes from hay; 29 percent of other dairy animals' feed energy; 16 percent other livestock's feed energy; and 18 percent of feed energy for horses comes from hay. That U.S. hay crop, he said, consists of over 60-million acres, over 149-million tons, worth over nine-million dollars.

"To grow hay profitably, treat it like a cash crop," he told the group. Costs occur during establishment. These are base costs, he said, then added, "Don't skimp when purchasing seed. Buy a variety that you know grows well in your area." Production costs also occur, he continued. They include land, labor, operation, machinery costs, ownership, lime, fertilizer, pesticide and seed.

"Get the most from your alfalfa crop," he advised. "For high yields, start with good stands."

McWilliam stressed that lime is a must for good high quality alfalfa hay. He also told those listening to fertilize for high yields, and to manage established stands for yield, quality and persistance (fall management). "These all go together," he said. He also told the group they must manage to minimize losses. Lossed can be from weather, mechanical, storage and feeding.

Hay, he noted, as a cash crop is a major commodity across the nation. Once the only way to determine hay quality was through "the eye of the buyer and the eye of the seller." Today, he concluded, technology has developed many new ways to determine the quality of the hay grown by this nation's farmers.

Dr. Sam Stratton, forage breeder for the FFR Cooperative of West Lafayette, Ind., continued with a discussion of "Factors to Consider at Planting." Development and seed selection objectives are yield, pest resistance, forage quality, persistence and adaptability, he said. Stratton told the group that today's varieties have good resistance to diseases bread into the seed. The maiority of screening for diseases is done in green houses by alfalfa seed companies, he added.

From the first selections by forage breeders to a bag of seed in the store takes a minimum of five years, normally eight to nine years, Stratton said. In the years 1988 to 1990, an average of 32 new alfalfa varieties were certified each year.

Stratton went on to talk about the benefits of alfalfa/grass mixtures. A mixture, he said, utilizes fixed nitrogen, reduces bloat hazards, reduces heaving potential, gives faster dry down, provides weed control and erosion control. Alfalfa/grass mixture hazards are the reduction of quantity, complicated pest control and management, and competition to the alfalfa from the grass.

Before introducing the next panel of speakers, moderator Dr. Lester Vough, forage crops specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland System, announced that the university is working to establish alfalfa test plots at Garrett Community College. The plots have already been established, he said, with one major problem holding back growth and production — deer. Fences will be built around the plots this spring, he said, to solve that problem and five cuttings are expected to be taken off the test plots this summer.

Panel member Dr. William Griffith, agronomist for the N.E. Phosphate and Potash Institute of Great Falls, Va., began by saying that corn and alfalfa are the king and queen of forages. Nitrogen, he said, is the "super element." Equally important for alfalfa is potassium, which differs from corn where nitrogen is the key element.

He went on to say that cutting frequency is dependent upon fertility status and vice versa. Higher potassium, plus more cuts, plus better varieties, equal higher yields of quality alfalfa was the equation he used. Today's varieties provide rapid regrowth, and potash helps increase that regrowth. Alfalfa also needs phosphorus, he said, concluding that soil fertility is most important, and that soil tests should be used to identify yield-limiting factors.

Panel member Joe B. Mayer, field sales agronomist for Pioneer Hi-Bred International of Carlisle, Pa., reiterated that alfalfa management goals are better yields, better quality, better recovery, and that all goals depend on farm management. Farmers should select seed for improved disease and insect resistance. Good seed to soil contact is critical for alfalfa establishment, he said. Lack of seed to soil contact is the number one reason for failure.

"Thickening of old alfalfa stands is an exercise in futility," Mayer said. "A one-year break is needed between an old alfalfa stand and a new one. Corn planted in between is ideal because it benefits from the nitrogen," he added.

According to Mayer, the life of an alfalfa stand should be three to five years, with four to five cuts per year taken off. The alfalfa stand will last longer with a two to three cutting schedule per year.

He listed the benefits and negatives of companion crops versus clear seeding. Companion crops such as oats and wheat act as nurse crops to the alfalfa seedlings. A great benefit is seen on slopes, and during late freezing and thawing. Negatives are the competition given the alfalfa by the nurse crop. He said that forage grasses can buffer alfalfa from freezing and thawing, but even for that, soil fertility is most important.

Mayer concluded by touching on insect and weed control. The potato leafhopper is the number one insect problem when raising alfalfa, he said. Others are alfalfa weevils and pea aphids. Leafhopper damage is most troublesome because it extends into the second year. As for weed control, 95 percent of weed control in alfalfa comes from the stand itself, he said.

Dr. Janet Fallon, manager of the Forage Applied Technology Agway Farm Research Center in Tully, N.Y., discussed drying agents, inoculation and preservatives. "Even under ideal conditions, one-third of the hay quality may be lost when making dry hay," she said. Forage quality preservation, she explained, means getting the hay out of the field faster, either by getting the hay dry faster or baling the hay wetter.

Fallon continued by saying that ways to get hay dry faster are with mower conditioners and hay drying agents. She interjected that after some study, the use of acid-treated hay for horses is good because the acid reduces mold in the hay.

"Silage has a different set of challenges," Fallon said. "Whether an upright or bunk silo, you'll still have losses." Some factors in making good silage are: stage of maturity, length of cut, moisture content, filling management, type of silo, and silage additives. Silage additives are acids, enzymes, nutrients and inoculants, which are beneficial in some situations.

Fallon added that the industry is looking for environmental alternatives to the six-mil plastic and old tires now used to cover bunk silos. Some spray-on products that produce a hard shell over the pile as well as wax and fats are being studied.

"Alfalfa Insects" was the topic of Entomologist Dr. Bill Lamp, University of Maryland, College Park. "Just looking at an alfalfa stand won't tell you what insect life is in there," he began. Ways to find out include sweep nets, buckets and root inspections.

A late spring to mid-summer sweep will show a large variety of insects — many beneficial, Lamp said. Economic pests, he added, describe those whose expected damage exceeds the cost of pest management.

Maryland, Lamp said, has the dubious distinction of being the first state in the country where the alfalfa weevil was found in the late 1950s. The potato leafhopper, alfalfa's worst pest, comes in each year from the Gulf of Mexico and eats many crops, not just alfalfa.

Control measures for insect pests include: chemical, biological (both imported and indigenous), host plant resistance, and cultural. Preventative ways to deal with pests are looking at the interactions between pests (insects, weeds and disease). "It's all related," he said, "integrated pest management, integrated crop management, and integrated farm management."

Weed control was covered by Betty H. Marose, pest management coordinator for the University of Maryland, College Park. She explained there are control factors between losses and yield. In alfalfa, she said, weeds add to the tonage, thereby increasing the loss. Feed value tests of common weeds compared to alfalfa show that dandelion equals alfalfa in feed value, grasses have 75 percent of the feed value of alfalfa, and broadleaf weeds have 50 percent of the feed value of alfalfa.

She stated that weeds should be controlled in alfalfa only when there is an economic potential for increased yield, and that weed control is of greatest value early in the life cycle of the plant.

The last speaker of the day, Dr. Arvydas Gryvauskas, pathologist of field crops, University of Maryland, College Park, discussed alfalfa diseases. As far as disease resistance ratings are concerned, he says a degree of cooperation exists between seed companies and universities. However, he made it clear that "resistance is not immunity."

All disease management, Gryvauskas said, is 75 percent selection, 24 percent logical cultural practices (crop rotation, fertility and pH, weed and insect control and seed treatment), and one-percent luck (environment and timing).

Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms ended the day, which had begun at 9:30 a.m., at 3:30 p.m. by announcing that a newly published book, "Alfalfa $$ and Sense Management Guide," was available for the cost of $10, and copies not purchased at the workshop would be available for sale at the Garrett County Extension Office, Oakland.

First Maryland Farm Families Inducted Into Ag Hall Of Fame

Governor William Donald Schaefer inducted the first three families into the Governor's Agriculture Hall of Fame at the annual Maryland Agriculture Dinner recently held in Baltimore.

The three families were Mr. and Mrs. Y.D. Hance of Prince Frederick, Calvert County, Mr. and Mrs. Rodman Myers of Thurmont, Frederick County, and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Darcey of Upper Marlboro, Prince George's County.

The Governor's Agriculture Hall of Fame of Maryland is intended to honor leaders in the agricultural industry who have exemplified personal values, performance and achievement in Maryland and shares a good-neighbor relationship with farm and non-farm families; to recognize high standards of conduct, leadership, innovation and accomplishment for agriculture; publicize and build more public awareness for excellence in agriculture and to establish role models this group can set for the industry's young people; and utilize this quality forum to promote more individual leadership, innovation and the desire to excel in their field.

Any farm family which derives its income principally from farming is eligible for the award. While it is recognized that a number of farms are operated jointly or by extended family units, in order to maintain equity in the award selection process, a farm family is construed to include only the parents and children of one family.

"The inductions into the Agriculture Hall of Fame symbolize the strength of our great state — its people. These three families, by their hard work and dedication to the community, represent everything that is good about Maryland," Governor Schaefer said.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. introduced each family to the governor who then made the formal induction.

The Hance family was honored for their long and distinguished career in Maryland agriculture. Young D. Hance was named first permanent chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Commission when it was organized in 1969. He became Maryland's first secretary of agriculture in 1972, serving for six years. In 1979, Hance received the University of Maryland's Certificate of Merit Award in Agriculture. He was elected in 1985 as a public director of Southern States Cooperative, a position he still holds.

Their Taney Place Farm in Calvert County is operated by the entire family with the Hance's daughter Susan taking an active role in the cattle, grain and sheep operations.

"The Hance family is active in every aspect of agriculture in Calvert County. They have provided leadership and support to local, regional and state farm organizations," Cawley said.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodman Myers have operated their Catoctin Mountain View dairy farm since 1962 when they started with a herd of 30 cows. Today their herd totals 140 cows. Rodman Myers is a past master of the Maryland State Grange and a former member of the Maryland Agricultural Commission. He was named a Master Farmer several years ago by "Pennsylvania Farmer" magazine and the Cooperative Extension Service. He is a longtime organizer of the annual Thurmont and Emmitsburg Community Show and a booster of Grange scholarship programs for college students. The family is also active in 4-H and FFA.

A farmer all of his life, Roland Darcey faithfully served the agricultural community for many years until his recent, sudden death. He served as chairman of the Prince George's County Agricultural Resource Advisory Committee, chairman of the Agricultural Land Preservation Advisory Board, and supervisor of the Prince George's Soil Conservation District. Known as "Mr. Agriculture" in Prince George's County, Darcey was a longtime Farm Bureau leader and active supporter of educational programs for farmers. He formerly was a member of the Maryland Agricultural Commission and the Southern Maryland Agricultural Advisory Committee. He was killed last September 25 when he was crushed beneath a tractor-mounted front-end loader which overturned while being used to transport logs on his farm.

"His wife, Mildred, has served the county's Farm Bureau for 20 years, and in reality, served as administrative assistant to Roland," Cawley said.

Garrett County Nominations

Each county was asked to submit farm families for nomination. The individual county nominating committees are comprised of the director of County Extension Service, County Farm Bureau president, County Soil Conservation chairman, and a County Fair representative. The committee selects farm families in their county who best represent the criteria established for the award, and submits the information to the Governor's Selection Committee no later than December 15 each year.

Three Garrett County farm families were nominated this year by the county selection committee. They were Mr. and Mrs. Oren C. Bender, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Hummel, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Bender. All may be eligible in future years.

Oren and Fannie Bender raised six children on their Cove Run Farm near Accident. Of the six — Robert, Patricia, Douglas, Kevin, Sheila and Brian — Robert and his family are farming on the family dairy farm, and Brian is still at home and farming. All six children were 4-H and FFA members.

The Cove Run herd of registered Holsteins currently has 70 milking animals, 40 bred heifers, 70 calves and yearlings. They raise all their own hay and corn and some oats and rye on the farm.

Oren has been a Farm Bureau board member, local director of Southern States and Agway, former chairman of the board of Potomac Valley Farm Credit A.C.A., held offices in both local and state Holstein Associations, chairman DHIA, Ag Board member of the Maryland State Fair, a former member of the Accident Volunteer Fire Department, and minister of the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church.

Fannie has served as county vice president and Cove president of the Extension Homemakers, has been a Sunday School teacher for 15 years at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, and served on the Women's Committee of Garrett County Farm Bureau.

The farmily are committee members of the Fresh Air Fund of New York and have taken children into their home for two weeks each summer for 25 years, receiving 10-year service awards in 1975 and 1989.

Oren and Fannie received the 1968 Frostburg JC's Outstanding Young Farmers Award, and the Senior Breeders Award from the Maryland Holstein Association. Their sons and daughters have won numerous 4-H and FFA awards. Robert received the National FFA American Farmer Award in 1980, and Sheila was chosen as Maryland State Dairy Princess in 1985.

The Benders consider one of their highest farm accomplishments to include the improvement and advancement of the Holstein breed, but their major accomplishment to be their contributions to youth.

Harry and Rhoda Hummel raised five children — Doris, John, Carol, Rita and Duane — on their dairy farm near Grantsville. Duane, who is now doing the farming, is the fourth generation on the Hummel farm, now milking 31 cows, with cows, replacement heifers and calves totaling 80 animals. Although retired from full-time farming, Harry and Rhoda still assist with the milking and crops.

Harry has served for 35 years on the ASCS County Committee, as vice chairman and district supervisor; is a 30-year member of Farm Bureau, serving as director different times; a 20-year Masonic Lodge member, holding 32nd Degree Scottish Rite, and is a member of the United Church of Christ.

Rhoda is a charter member of the Homemakers Club, and has served on the Farm Bureau Women's Committee. Their son, John, holds a doctorate in agricultural engineering from the University of Illinois and works for that institution doing soybean research.

In 1953 the Hummels received the County Family in Farming for Better Living Award from the Monongahela Power Company in West Virginia, and last year (1990) Harry was recognized for 35 years of service in Soil Conservation.

Harry considers his help to the county through his work for conservation his major contribution to agriculture.

Oakview Ridge Dairy Farm near Accident is the home of Carl and Martha Bender and their five children — Lillian, Richard, Kenton, Dennis and Janelle. Kenton and Dennis still work on the farm which has approximately 100 registered Holstein cows and 115 replacement heifers.

Carl is state director of the Maryland Holstein Association, sale chairman and president of the Garrett County Holstein Club, member of Garrett County Farm Bureau, on the board of directors of Agway; member of the Maryland State Dairy Shrine, member of the Natonal Holstein Association, member of the Ag Land Preservation Committee, and a 12-year member of the ASCS Committee. Lillian and Richard both served as president of North Garrett FFA, and were involved in 4-H.

All of the older Bender children have held offices in the Cherry Glade Church Youth Group. They are Sunday School teachers and all serve the church in other ways. The entire family are members of Cherry Glade Church, and Carl and Martha are also Sunday School teachers. Carl is also a member of the church finance committee. He serves as director and vice chairman of Goodwill Nursing Home in Grantsville.

The Bender farm is a total family operation with Martha involved in all phases of the farm. The family was honored for outstanding conservation in 1990 by the Garrett Soil Conservation District, was the 1989 Maryland Outstanding Senior Breeder, the Pennsylvania Farmer and University of Md. Extension Service's Master Farmer in 1986, and for eight consecutive years won the Progressive Breeder Award from the Holstein Association of America.

Improvement of their land for the next owner has been one of the Bender's contributions to agriculture, but they feel their major contribution has been raising their children to be responsible citizens, by involving them in farm activities and teaching them farm values.

The home of the Governor's Agriculture Hall of Fame is at the headquarters building of the Maryland Department of Agriculture in Annapolis.

You're Invited to a Crop Production Meeting

Many of you have probably heard or read about the new herbicide "Beacon." Mike Boyd of Ciba-Geigy Company, will be a featured speaker at a Crop Production meeting sponsored by Oakland Southern States. Ciba-Geigy is the manufacturer of the herbicide. Also, the program will feature Ken Sechler, Agronomist for Southern States, who will present a program on Alfalfa Seeding, New Alfalfa Varieties and Weed Control. Mike Beck, local Fieldman, will provide an update on the liquid nitrogen availability and the new varieties of corn seed available. I will also be updating the group on the status of the Integrated Pest Management Program. The workshop will be held on March 21, starting at 10 a.m. on the John Yoder Farm. Take 219 South, turn onto Gortner Road to Mason School Road, turn left at the first driveway past the intersection. Lunch will be provided, compliments of Southern States.

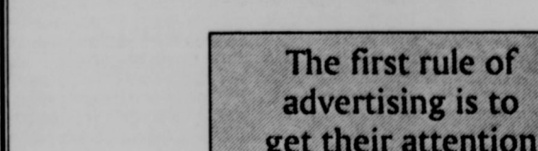
Soil Tests Save

Each year I preach the same story . . . "Test Your Soil -- Don't Guess." If you have not already purchased your fertilizer, you are going to find a healthy raise in price. Have you ever figured just how much it costs for each pound of actual nutrient? I think you will be surprised. If you can save $10 to $20 an acre by fertilizing to the needs of the crop, that's profit. Almost all of the agri-businesses offer soil testing. We also offer the test through the University of Maryland. Cost is $5.00 per sample.

What's the Nutrient Value of Your Animal Manure?

With the cost of commercial fertilizer it would be very cost-effective to make the maximum use of the nutrients in animal manure. To do so, it is necessary to know the nutrient content of the manure. The University of Maryland still offers free manure analysis with a soil test. I have test containers in my office, free for the asking. I recently read in one of the farm newspapers a summary of several manure analyses for dairy manure. If you are not going to test your animal manure, you could use the following information as an estimated guide. Could be somewhat risky!

Liquid Dairy Manure (844 lbs. per 100 gal.).
3.4 lbs. Nitrogen/100 gal.
1.6 lbs. Phosphorus/100 gal.
2.9 lbs. Potash/100 gal.
Solid Dairy Manure (82% moisture)
10.8 lbs. Nitrogen/ton
5.8 lbs. Phosphorus/ton
9.1 lbs. Potash/ton



Md. Ag Fairs Convention Held In Solomons

The eighth annual convention and trade show for the Maryland Association of Agricultural Fairs and Shows was held at Solomons, February 28 through March 3. The convention was hosted by Calvert Co. Fair, Charles Co. Fair, and St. Mary's Co. Fair. Attending from Garrett County were: Dale Glotfelty, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sealing, Loretta Opel, Ruth DiPaolo, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Margroff, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shillingburg, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Yoder, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Miller.

During the afternoon sessions many workshops were offered. Topics addressed were: "Community Involvement and Your Fair's Impact on the Community," "Understanding Insurance Certificates," "State Fair Operations," "Conservation and Natural Resources," "Bringing the Family to the Fair," "Annual Health Inspection Service," "Computers and Your Fair," "Food Service Inspection," and "Opportunities and Problems of Small Fairs and Community Shows."

The keynote speaker was Keith Hessy, from the Virginia State Fair, Richmond, Va. His speech was entitled "One Man's Opinion." Other speakers spoke on such topics as, "Off Season Rentals," "Insurance Areas To Check," "Scheduling Of Amusement Rides Inspections," "Meat Inspections," "Animal Rights Issues," and "Volunteers and The Laws in Maryland."

During the convention different showcases of entertainment presented their acts. Three acts were booked for the 1991 Garrett County Fair. Nancy Wiles, an entertainer from the Jamboree USA of Wheeling, W.Va., is a recording artist for Austin Records and has toured with the Department of Defense on USO tours. John Bressler is an incredible one-man explosion of musical dynamite, side splitting laughter with audience participation. The third entertainer is Cissie Lynn, "The Coal Miner's Daughter's Daughter." Lynn's appearances include President Bush's inauguration celebration, Nashville Now, Loretta Lynn's Christmas TV Special, Crisco Commercials, USO Tours, The Kennedy Center, and she has appeared at more than 100 fairs and shows in the last two years. These entertainers are expected to add enjoyment to the Garrett County Fair to be held August 11 through 17.

Poison Prevention Information: The Revco Difference

There are so many things that make the pharmacy at Revco different from any other pharmacy. Like the helpful advice you get from your Revco pharmacist. This week, (March 17-23) is National Poison Prevention Week. To help prevent accidental poisonings, your Revco pharmacist recommends you;

- Keep prescription drugs and over-the-counter medications in their original containers.
- Discard old prescription drugs properly and safely.
- If you suspect poisoning has occured, even if there are no symptoms, call your poison control center immediately.
- The best form of poison prevention is to keep all medication in a locked cabinet well out of the reach of children.

For more information, your local Revco pharmacist will be glad to answer any questions regarding poison prevention, or any other concerns.

Seems like too much to expect from other drug stores. But exactly what you get from Revco.

Oakland Given CDMA Grant Of $8,350

Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers has announced that a $8,350 matching grant has been awarded to the Town of Oakland for downtown projects. Activities to be funded include: construction and installation of a billboard indicating the location of the downtown business district, design and development of a business directory shoppers guide, and maintenance of a farmer's market building used by the newly created Greater Oakland Commercial District Management Authority (CDMA) Program administered by DHCD's Community Assistance Administration. The CDMA program provides matching grants to help form and implement self-sustaining local commercial districts. It also aids existing taxing districts with grants for special activities including marketing, architectural design, security, and street improvements.

COMING HOME are many local troops from Operation Desert Storm. Above, Sgt. Roger Miller, Accident, is welcomed by Mayor Wayne Fratz, right, and Rev. William E. Carlson in front of the community announcement board that has been carrying messages of support for the troops. Sgt. Miller served in Saudi Arabia from August 11 of last year until March 10 with the 1st Tactical Fighter Wing, which conducted crash recovery operations. He is the son of Francis and Ruth Miller, Accident. Rev. Carlson, a World War II veteran and American Legion chaplain (Accident Post 208), is chairman of the steering committee for Accident's Fourth of July Homecoming. Below left, Spec. David Ringer Sr. poses with his wife, Dora, in the yard of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, after his return from Fort Irwin, Calif. Ringer, who is also a member of Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion, Maryland Army National Guard, Oakland, volunteered for the active Army when the war began and is serving with the 24th Infantry Battalion out of Fort Stewart, Ga. He may depart for relief work in Saudia Arabia the first of April. Below right, Air Force Major Charee Reckner, Oakland, who was stationed at Ramstein Air Force Base in Germany, arrived at Andrews Air Force Base Wednesday night and surprised her daughter, Michaela, when she picked her up from school at Loch Lynn Pre-K last Thursday. Maj. Reckner helped provide medical airlift for soldiers injured in the war.

2020 Plan Killed By Committees; Edwards Responds

A proposal to manage growth in Maryland and to protect the Chesapeake Bay has now been declared dead by committees in both the House and Senate, after having received much criticism from county governments, farmers, bankers and real estate firms throughout the state.

Companion bills in the House and Senate, entitled The Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act, were the result of recommendations set forth by the governor-appointed 2020 Commission, which for 18 months studied the sprawling development taking place in Maryland and its impact on the environment.

Recommendations from that commission included designations in each county of four different categories of land use areas and the development restrictions on each.

The bills, however, will now go into summer study, in hopes that a plan can be developed that better suits every region of the state.

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week responded to the news by stating, "Hopefully, the

G.C. Environmental Health Seeking Applicants For Unique Grant Program

The Environmental Health Section of the Garrett County Health Department is seeking applicants for a unique grant program which provides funds for the installation of innovative and alternative sewage disposal systems, according to Rodney Glotfelty, assistant director of the department. To qualified applicants, the program will fund up to 87½ percent of the engineering and installation costs of these systems.

Garrett County was awarded a grant of $37,500 in 1989 to aid property owners in installing innovative sewage disposal systems for existing properties where conventional on-site sewage disposal methods were not possible. As a condition of the grant, the Department of the Environment would be allowed to monitor these systems to

DR. SCHROCK INDUCTED TO HALL OF FAME -- Dr. Alta Schrock, Grantsville, was ceremoniously inducted into the Maryland's Women's Hall of Fame on March 5. The ceremony was hosted by Governor William Donald Schaefer, the Maryland Commission for Women, and the Women Legislators of the Md. General Assembly. Held in the Joint Hearing Room of the Legislative Services Building in Annapolis, the ceremony was attended by state officials as well as local members of the Md. Commission for Women and friends of Dr. Schrock. The Grantsville woman was honored for her countless contributions to the county and state, including her organization of Penn Alps, the Highland Foundation, and other worthy endeavors. The Md. Women's Hall of Fame was created in 1985 to honor the many contributions that state women have made to Maryland and the nation. Past inductees include Harriet Tubman and Sen. Barbara Mikulski. Dr. Schrock was jointly inducted with Dr. Rita R. Colwell of Montgomery Co., who was recognized for extensive marine biology research focused on the effects of bacteria in the Chesapeake Bay, in deep seas, and in recreational waters. Dr. Schrock is pictured above as she receives the gift of a silver bowl from Governor Schaefer.

16 Rank Promotions For Faculty, Staff Approved By GCC Board Of Trustees

At the monthly meeting of the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees held Tuesday night, President Dr. Stephen Herman announced the recommended rank promotions of 13 staff members and three faculty members. The board approved those recommendations.

Those staff members who were promoted from performance rank to recognition rank include: Delores Thomas, financial aid; Jean Elsey, institutional research; Darlene Reed, admissions; Larry Suter, maintenance; Beth Durr, athletic trainer; Tom Kierstead, continuing education; Carol Newman, continuing education; Manning Smith, director of student services; and Don Storck, institutional research and planning.

Staff members promoted from recognition rank to mastery rank include: Jim Matthews, library and college photographer; Hugh Schrier, maintenance; John Furr, director of maintenance; and Susan Stem, secretary to the president.

Faculty members who were promoted from assistant professor to associate professor include: Ben Sincell, theater and speech; Beth Hurley, language and history; and Ron Skidmore, art instructor.

Dr. Herman had only the highest praise for those promoted as well as the entire college staff.

Chairman Status

Acting Trustee Chairman Charles "Bus" Bender informed the board that Chairman Wayne B. Hamilton is currently in a rehabilitation center in Altoona, Pa. after suffering a stroke last month.

Board, Staff Meet

The trustees met March 11 with the college staff. Board member Marjorie Fratz reported on the meeting stating that she felt it was "quite productive."

She noted that the feedback was positive and that she thought everyone involved is looking to the future of the institution.

Among the issues discussed were the planned management information system, parking, salaries, the effect of the abolishment of the State Board for Community Colleges on the local college, housing and transportation, personnel manual, and a child care facility.

President's Report

President Herman discussed the situation involving state funding for the college and said that prog-

Crime Rates In State, County Rise In 1990

Crime in Maryland increased seven percent during 1990, and eight percent in Garrett County, according to a Uniform Crime Report prepared by the Maryland State Police Central Records Division. The 1990 year end report lists 278,771 offenses reported by law enforcement agencies statewide compared with 260,903 offenses reported during 1989.

"The violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault as a group increase ten percent," said John Vespa of the Uniform Crime Reporting Section. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Vespa said property crimes also increased last year. "The property offenses of breaking and entering, larceny, and motor vehicle theft increased six percent," added

Senator Sarbanes Announces Approval Of Funding For Casselman Bridge

Senator Paul Sarbanes announced yesterday approval of funding assistance to help construct a timber bridge over the Casselman River in Garrett County. The county will receive $60,000 in cost-shared assistance to replace an existing bridge on River Road, near Grantsville. The approval announced by Sarbanes is for funds provided by the USDA Forest Service Timber Bridge Initiative.

"The existing bridge has been in a state of disrepair and in need of replacement," Sarbanes said. "The new structure will utilize locally available hardwood and demonstrate the viability of the timber alternative to traditional concrete and steel construction techniques. The proposed structure will be located near the historic Casselman River stone arch bridge and a four-lane interstate-standard bridge, in an area where a comparison could be made with bridge construction practices which span a period of nearly two centuries.

"The county has demonstrated its commitment to promoting hardwood products manufacturing and the use of hardwoods as a catalyst for employment and economic development," Sarbanes pointed out in urging the Forest Service to approve the funding. "Garrett County has recognized the substantial opportunity which exists to enhance the local economy and create jobs by using its local timber resources for bridge construction."

Last year a timber bridge was constructed across Buffalo Run and another stressed-timber deck is planned for this spring. The county has also planned an economic development conference, in cooperation with Allegany County and the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development, with a focus on the treatment and fabrication of timber bridges.

Garrett County has committed more than the required 50 percent matching share to this project, Senator Sarbanes said. The total cost of the replacement timber bridge is estimated at $146,000, and the county requested $60,000 from the Forest Service.

Grand Jury Indicts Four Area Persons

The March Term Grand Jury convened last week and indicted four persons for various crimes. Information on only two of the four persons was released this week.

Charlotte L. Fishel, (no age given), and Kathy L. Hartman, 33, both of Kitzmiller, were indicted on several controlled dangerous substance (CDS) charges. The charges were reportedly lodged against the defendants after a search and seizure warrant was executed at Hartman's home.

The counts against both of the women are as follows: possession with intent to distribute marijuana, distribution of a CDS within 1,000 feet of a school zone, possession of marijuana, possession of cocaine, and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

The school zone mentioned apparently pertains to the Kitzmiller Elementary School, although no further details were provided.

Information on the other two indicted persons is not yet available, according to a courthouse spokesperson.

County Official Questioned On Use Of Educational Benefits Fund

Garrett County Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II this week responded to questions from the press concerning educational benefits he has received at the expense of the county, stating at one point, "It puts me in an awkward position of defending a policy. My greatest desire is that we can deal with it on a policy basis....If it's reduced to a personal criticism that some of my detractors would use because they don't like me, then they've truly lost the significance of it."

Groves, who has been criticized recently for allowing county taxes to pay for courses he has completed at West Virginia University, explained that the policy has been in place since 1972, and described it as county personnel policy in which the educational benefit "provides for or encourages employees to receive education or training with regards to their employment. It is not an uncommon practice."

Groves noted that he decided to take the courses in public administration. "Since other county employees are able to take advantage of that, I too took these courses and hopefully obtained some background and some insights in administration that would make me a better commissioner."

Since some public concern has been directed to Groves over his use of the policy, he said, he has "insisted" that the commissioners review the policy when they go into this year's budgetary process.

"The thing that's the most bothersome about it is, it's just like when we talked about commissioners' salaries....I feel like I'm, in many cases, the first guy to ever receive this salary or I'm the first guy to ever take advantage of the educational benefit," he stated.

He continued, "It's like some of the angry constituents that I talked to on the phone who've just received part of the information -- of course, they never even heard of the policy, they didn't know

STARK RAVIN' MAD is understandably how anyone who has the misfortune to miss the upcoming Stark Raven concert is going to feel. The hard-to-categorize, eclectic band will be performing Friday, March 22, at 8 p.m., at the Garrett Community College auditorium. This return performance is expected to prove even more successful than last year's concert. The group is being sponsored by GCC's "Raiders Of The Lost Arts" cultural club, and, according to Jack DuBose, the band's musical sound is a combination of "acoustic/electric, folk-rock-classical-jazz." Members of the band are shown above. From left to right, they are John Kessler, Deni Bonett, Bob Webb, Julie Adams, Ron Sowell and Ammed Solomon. Tickets are currently on sale, $7 for the general public and $5 for students, at the following locations: Englander's Pharmacy, Oakland; Arrowhead Deli and Grocery, Deep Creek Lake; Plaza Deli, McHenry; Ruth Eniow Library, Accident; Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville; and Main Street Books, Frostburg. G.C. Sheriff's Dept. Records Various Arrests

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office made several arrests this week on various charges, including possession of controlled dangerous substances (CDS) and driving while intoxicated (DWI). Numerous bench warrants were also issued by the police force.

Dep. J. Murphy arrested three persons on March 17 after he noticed a vehicle stopped in the middle of the intersection of Fingerboard and Hutton Roads. Murphy spoke with the driver, Lawrence T. Kisner III, 28, Morgantown, W.Va., and reportedly detected an odor of alcohol. The officer also spotted a pipe in the vehicle, and proceeded to search the car.

The search produced possible marijuana, according to the report. Murphy arrested Kisner and charged him with DWI and possession of a CDS and drug paraphernalia. He also arrested two passengers, Tammy J. Friend, 19, Deer Park; and Johnny A. Shaffer, 24, Corinth, W.Va. The passengers were charged with CDS possession and CDS paraphernalia.

John H. Andrews, 44, Sparks, Nevada, was arrested on March 16 and charged with DWI. The defendant was traveling at a high rate of speed on Rt. 40, east of Green Lantern Road, when he failed to negotiate a turn and struck and embankment, ran through an electric fence, and finally came to rest in a field owned by Glen Durst of Grantsville.

Dep. Murphy investigated the accident, which occurred at approximately 1:30 a.m., and proceeded to arrest the defendant. Andrews was released on $300 bond.

Paul R. Fenner, 49, Swanton, was charged with DWI on March 15 by Murphy. The officer stopped Fenner on Memorial Drive in Oakland for a safety equipment violation. He then noticed that the defendant was apparently intoxicated.

Fenner signed the citation and was released.

Beverly D. Cramer, 41, Friendsville, was charged with DWI on March 12 by Dep. C. Feller after the officer observed her to be driving erratically. The arrest took place on Rt. 42 near Friendsville at 5 p.m.

Ms. Cramer was released after signing the citation.

Brian E. Glass, 21, Swanton, was charged with DWI on March 17 after he apparently crossed the center line on Rt. 135 in Deer Park and forced Dep. Murphy off the road, as the officer was traveling the opposite direction.

The arrest took place at 12:30 a.m. Glass was released after signing the citation.

Keith A. House, 24, Friendsville, was served six bench warrants issued form the Garrett County District Court. House apparently failed to pay fines for various traffic charges, and was held on a $1,180 bond.

Karyn L. Seilhamer, 26, Swanton, was served a bench warrant for failure to appear in Allegany County District Court. Seilhamer was scheduled to face charges involving bad checks.

Herbert B. Paugh Jr., 22, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of two bench warrants for failure to pay deferred payments of $1,020 to district court. Original charges against Paugh included DWI and driving with a revoked license.

Michael C. Eggleston, 25, Accident, was served two bench warrants for failure to pay deferred payments to district court in the amount of $420. Dep. C. Feller served the warrants on March 15.

Timothy D. Bradley, Westernport, was arrested March 16 on charges of battery, disorderly conduct, and trespassing. Bradley allegedly entered the home of Roberta K. Abernathy in Bloomington by forcing open the door. He then reportedly hit Geraldine Abernathy and pushed Roberta. The defendant was intoxicated at the time of the incident, according to the police report.

Bradley was held on a $500 bond after the arrest, which was made by Deputies Nolan and Sowers.

Theft

Alberta A. Tasker, Mtn. Lake Park, reported an apparent theft to the Sheriff's Department this week involving food stamps. Ms. Tasker told police that $106 in food stamps were taken from her mailbox on March 11.

Det.Sgt. D. Tucker is leading an investigation into the theft.

LOCAL SUPPORT OF THE RETURNING TROOPS is being shown in many ways throughout the county. Among those indications, are two signs recently purchased and placed at the northern and southern ends of the town of Oakland by the town council. Town employees are shown above installing one of the signs. Oakland council member Jay Moyer is shown in the foreground.

March Term Grand Jury Submits Report

The March Term Grand Jury convened on the 11th and 12th of this month and conducted visitations at the G.C. Courthouse and Jail; Board of Education; Garrett Memorial Hospital; and the County Roads Department. The jurors also indicted four persons for various crimes (see separate story).

Grand Jury Foreman William D. Stover Jr. submitted a report on the jury's visitation findings which was released this week.

Representatives from the county agencies spoke with the jurors at each office. The speakers were Sheriff Van Evans, Treasurer Pat Glover, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of county schools; Paul Shockey of the roads department, and the county commissioners.

G.C. Courthouse

The courthouse was found to be clean and in good condition, according to Stover's report. Records and deeds were found to be up to date.

The jurors also noted that the 911 emergency service has proven to be efficient.

Sheriff's Office and Jail

Sheriff Van Evans spoke to the jurors and explained that more room is required at the jail. He said that when the jail was built, it was intended to meet the needs of the county at the time. Since that time, the average number of prisoners per month has doubled, Evans said.

The department employs ten correctional officers and 15 deputies. The sheriff expressed a need for extra deputies because of the large area that must be covered.

The jurors were also told about the D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program, which is a function of the department with the purpose of teaching area sixth-graders the skills needed to avoid drug abuse.

Treasurer's Office

County Treasurer Pat Glover, presented a talk on this office. She explained that the duties of the treasurer include collecting state and property taxes. Ms. Glover then invests all the monies collected and pays all the expenses which come due. She told the jurors that the tax records are open to the public.

The treasurer said that she has a staff of four. Stover reported that the office members seem to be working with updated equipment, such as computers.

Board of Education

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools, reviewed the goals of the education board, as well as the indicators of progress for the Garrett County school system as a whole. He also discussed the renovation of Southern High School and the need for a new roof.

The work on the high school is to be completed by the fall of 1991. Split shifting of students will not be needed for the new school year.

Foreman Stover reported that funding in the education system continues to be a problem. He noted that while the teachers in the county are the lowest paid in the state (24th), the Board of Education administrators rank approximately 13th.

John Morris, assistant superintendent of administration, conducted a tour of the Board of Education building. Stover noted that there were signs of leaks, but that repairs had been made. He also wrote that although the building is quite old, it was found to be neat, clean, and in apparent good condition.

GC Roads Dept.

Paul Shockey informed the Grand Jury that the county roads operating budget for fiscal year 1991 is $7.7 million. There are approximately 700 miles of county roads. The work force is broken down as follows: 104 field forces, four supervisors, an administrator, and a staff of six.

An inspection of the premises was made by the jurors, and the area was found to be neat and well cared for.

Shockey told the jury that 19 plus miles of roads were overlaid this summer with bituminous concrete (paving), 35 miles tar and chip, and ten miles converted from dirt to hard top.

Lee Thorne, county engineer, discussed the new recycling program to be instituted this year at various sites. The new Round Glade waste landfill was discussed as well.

GC Memorial Hospital

James Harvey conducted a tour of all departments of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The expansion of the physical therapy department is complete and has been operating at its new location for a week. Stover wrote that the hospital personnel is fortunate to have three full-time physical therapists on staff.

Harvey indicated to the jury that many other departments are crowded and in need of more space. Architects are currently working on a plan to provide a five-bed area for progressive care patients who are in transition between the intensive care unit and regular care.

The cardio-pulmonary department will be expanding in the future, Harvey explained, and plans have been made to replace the current machinery in one room of the x-ray department to more updated equipment. The cost of the new equipment is estimated at $1.4 million.

The Hospital Foundation is a volunteer organization which was established two years ago. Harvey told the jurors that the purpose of the foundation is to raise funds to purchase equipment. The mammography machine was the first piece of machinery funded by the foundation.

Harvey explained that the hospital emphasizes out-patient care whenever possible, and serves 50,000 patients per year on an out-patient basis. Sixty percent of the patients receiving in-patient care are people aged 65 or older.

Stover wrote that the jury found the hospital to be well-staffed and equipped, and that it has much community support. The medical facility is the fourth lowest cost hospital in the state.

County Commissioners

The jury was visited by the Garrett County Commissioners in the jury room and broad issues were dicussed. The jurors were told that efforts to bring new businesses into the county are continuing. Garrett Optical is constructing a new facility at the Southern Industrial Park, which will provide 130 new jobs, the commissioners said.

The jurors were told that the Glendale Bridge project has been postponed. The airport expansion program's federal grant has been applied for and should be received next spring.

The commissioners said that they expect $200,000 less in state aid this year.

Stover ended the report with an expression of gratitude from the Grand Jury to those public officials who appeared and provided information.

Persons whom the jury wished to thank were the Honorable Judge Fred A. Thayer; State's Attorney James L. Sherbin, Lisa Thayer, assistant state's attorney; Robert Henline, court bailiff; Circuit Court Clerk David Martin; Ruth Warnick, court stenographer; William D. Stover Jr., foreman; Perry R. Petersheim, doorman; John C. Hottenstein, clerk; Patty L. Rice, clerk; and all other officials for their cooperation.

Grantsville Woman Hospitalized In Tuesday Accident

A Grantsville woman was hospitalized Tuesday morning after her vehicle struck a dump truck head-on U.S. Route 40, west of Grantsville.

Lori Gordon, 31, was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, where she was listed in fair condition.

Gordon was reportedly traveling east when she apparently lost control of her vehicle and struck the westbound truck operated by Edwin R. Yoder, 59, Springs, Pa. Yoder was apparently not injured.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched Grantsville volunteer firefighters along with the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to the 6:40 a.m. mishap.

December Theft Incident Results In Stiff Sentences For Three Pa. People

A December theft incident resulted in stiff sentences for three Pennsylvania residents involved, according to Garrett County District Court documents.

Ricky A. Weaverling Sr., 35, Johnstown, Pa., was found guilty of theft and breaking and entering with intent to steal. On the theft charge, he was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections (one year was suspended), fined $100, and placed on 24 months of supervised probation.

On the breaking and entering charge, Weaverling was sentenced to 18 months to the DOC (one year was suspended), fined $100, and placed him on 24 months of supervised probation. That sentence will run concurrently with the theft sentence.

A second charge of theft and a charge of malicious destruction of property against him were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

Mark A. Headly, 22, Hyndman, Pa., was found guilty of breaking and entering with intent to steal. He was given a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation. A charge of malicious destruction of property against him was not prosecuted.

A third party involved in the same incident, Cynthia L. Broadwater, 27, Johnstown, Pa., was also found guilty of breaking and entering with intent to steal. She was handed a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

A charge of theft and a charge of malicious destruction of property against her were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

The three had been arrested on December 2, 1990, after it was discovered by the Maryland State Police that they had entered a vacant house near Frostburg and removed various household items.

In an unrelated theft case in District Court, Frederick L. Gregory, 26, Oakland, was found not guilty of theft and malicious destruction of property by Judge Jack R. Turney.

Gregory had been charged on November 21, 1990, by Steven P. Uphold after allegedly removing household effects, jewelry, and decorative furnishings from the Uphold property. He also was charged with destroying and defacing the house walls, floors, and furnishings.

In other District Court news, three men who had been arrested and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), on December 9, 1990, were found guilty and sentenced last week.

James B. Thomas, 19, Fulton, N.Y., was found guilty of CDS possession and also of driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

Thomas was the driver of the vehicle which was stopped by a Garrett County Sheriff's deputy on the Old Crellin Road. A subsequent search of the vehicle produced marijuana. Thomas and his two passengers were then charged.

Thomas was given a 90-day suspended jail term, fined a total of $550, and placed on 12 months of DWI monitoring.

A passenger in that vehicle, Robert E. Locke, 20, Oakland, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty and given a 90-day jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), fined $100, and placed on six months of supervised probation.

Robin L. Moyer Jr., 18, Oakland, the other passenger in the vehicle, was given the same sentence as Locke.

At a sentencing hearing last week, Earl J. Clark Jr., Oakland, was given a one-year suspended jail term, fines totaling $200, and one year of unsupervised probation.

Clark had been found guilty on October 30, 1990, of doing home improvements without a license, theft, and breaking and entering. He had been charged with the home improvement violation on September 8, 1989. He was charged with breaking and entering on April 16, 1990, and with theft on April 20, 1990. All the charges were brought by Virginia P. Railey, Rock Lodge Road.

A breakdown of the sentences for each offense included a one-year (suspended) jail term, a $50 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation for the home improvement violation; a one-year (suspended) jail term, a $100 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation for the theft charge; and a one-year (suspended) jail term, a $50 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation for the breaking and entering charge. The jail terms and probation are to run consecutively.

Several sentence revision hearings were also held last week in District Court.

Cecil L. Schaefer, 61, Grantsville, who had been found guilty of misuse of the telephone on November 27, 1990, and had been given a 30-day suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation, had his sentence changed to probation before judgment. He had been found not guilty of harassment in November. The initial charges had been filed by Wilford S. Leasher on August 17, 1990.

Donna Fike, 30, Hutton, who had been found guilty of battery on December 4, 1990, and given a 30-day suspended jail term, a $50 fine, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation, had her sentence revised to probation before judgment. She had initially been charged on September 10, 1990, after allegedly battering Sue Ann James.

Harold T. Stewart, 18, Kitzmiller, who had been found guilty of theft under $300 on November 13, 1990, and given a 30-day suspended jail term, fined $50, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation, had his sentenced revised to probation before judgment. He had been charged with taking a magazine from Sheetz, Inc. in Oakland on July 29, 1990.

Numerous Thefts Being Probed By Md. State Police

Numerous theft reports around the county have been reported to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, over the past two weeks. Those reports were released this week by state troopers.

A breaking and entering and theft were reported March 13 by William P. Finamore, 41, Fairmont, W.Va., who told police that suspects stole a television, a video cassette recorder, a camcorder, speakers, and two pairs of skis and boots from his summer residence on Mosser Road.

The suspects apparently broke into the house sometime between March 12 at 6 p.m. and March 13 at 4:35 p.m. Police say they have physical descriptions and fingerprints of the suspects as well as possible blood samples. Tpr. S.H. Anderson is handling the investigation.

Lue Burea, Friendsville, filed a theft report with the state police on March 15 stating that numerous items had been taken from his farm house sometime between March 1 and March 15.

Stolen were an air compressor, a chain saw, a jig saw, a Skil saw, a Kerosun heater, battery chargers, and a tool box containing miscellaneous mechanic tools. Tfc. J.E. Foley is investigating.

Another substantial theft was reported on March 9 by Bonnie J. and Lora L. Riggleman, Vindex Road, who told police that four white males had taken over $700 worth of personal property belonging to them while the men were guests in their home. Tfc. R.T. Wilson is in charge of the investigation.

State police are also looking into the theft of an Olympus Infinity super 300 camera, three roles of film, and one Nintendo Gameboy with a Super Mario III cartridge from the home of Peter Brosnihan, McHenry.

Brosnihan told police that the theft occurred sometime between February 14 and February 25.

In other theft reports, Christine Chaney, Deer Park, reported the theft of her K-2 Gyrator 180 skis with Marker bindings on March 9 at the Wisp Resort. Tfc. D.W. Broadwater is investigating and said there were no suspects in the case.

Herbert T. Dolinka, Silver Spring, reported the theft of a pair of Atomic 190 skis with Marker bindings on March 9. Tfc. Broadwater is also investigating that case and said there were no suspects.

That same day, John R. Major, 46, Oakland, reported that his Dynastar 200 skis with Marker bindings had been stolen from outside the Wisp. Sgt. G.F. Johnston is investigating that case.

Milton F. Bertholdt reported that a bug light had been stolen from the Hillside Inn in Grantsville on March 18. Tpr. J.T. Bentlejewski is investigating.

An employee of the Trading Post at Keyser's Ridge reported that a white male in his late teens had stolen a bottle of Wild Turkey whiskey on March 17. Tfc. J.E. Foley is investigating.

DWI Arrests

State police also noted four DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) arrests this past week in the county.

John J. Rhode, 48, Pittsburgh, Pa., was charged with DWI on Friday by Cpl. R.S. Farrell.

Douglas M. Copeland, 48, Oakland, was stopped on Friday also and charged with DWI by Tpr. W.E. Dixon.

Tfc. R.T. Wilson charged Roland L. Bonner, 33, Bowden, W.Va., with DWI on Saturday.

William L. Evans, 43, Kitzmiller, was charged with DWI on Saturday by Tpr. Hare.

Building Permits Down In State, Up In County

The issuance of building permits, a key indicator for the economic health of the state, decreased by nearly 21 percent in Maryland in 1990, dropping to the lowest level of activity in nine years.

According to preliminary data released this week by the Maryland Office of Planning, 30,899 new housing units were authorized for construction statewide in 1990, a drop of 20.9 percent from 1989's total of 39,049 units. This represents the lowest number of new housing units permitted in Maryland since 1981, when only 16,839 units were authorized.

"The home building industry is a critical part of Maryland's economy, and a down turn in that industry has a ripple effect through other economic sectors," said Maryland Office of Planning Director Ronald M. Kreitner.

"This drop in building activity is partially traced to a substantial decrease in permit activity in Howard County, which accounted for nearly 50 percent (4,042) of the 8,150 drop in new units authorized for construction statewide last year," he added.

Only three jurisdictions -- Anne Arundel, Calvert and Garrett counties -- of the 20 jurisdictions which report permit activity on a monthly basis recorded an increase in authorized units. Anne Arundel County reported a 52.8 percent increase (1,344 units) in permit activity, while Calvert (71 units) and Garrett (62 units) counties reported increases of 8.3 percent and 19.3 percent, respectively.

The decrease in activity, when measured in percentages, was almost equally split between single-family and multi-family homes. There was a 20.7 percent drop in single-family permit activity, representing 5,959 fewer housing units being authorized. While in the multi-family category there was a 21.3 percent drop, representing 2,191 fewer housing units.

Regionally, the Baltimore Area (Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Harford and Howard counties, and Baltimore City) has been hardest hit by the building slowdown due mainly to the decrease in activity in Howard County. The suburban Washington counties of Frederick, Montgomery, and Prince George's recorded a drop of 2,411 units, while the Eastern Shore reported a decrease of 952 units authorized for construction.

Western Maryland counties reported 118 fewer units and Southern Maryland counties recorded a drop of 449 units.

Individually, Howard, Montgomery, and Frederick counties reported the largest decrease in building permit activity, with decreases of 4,042 units, 1,633 units and 716 units, respectively.

Is It Appropriate?

Word is now out that one of our county commissioners has been going to graduate school at the expense of the taxpayers. After reviewing present county policy on tuition assistance and asking a number of questions of the commissioners, we have great concerns that the assistance provided Commissioner Elwood Groves for graduate study at West Virginia University may have been allocated inappropriately.

The major requirement in the policy that indicates this could be a misappropriation is the one that says educational leave and tuition assistance is to be for full-time permanent employees. While a case can be made that being a county commissioner is a full-time job, it is the word permanent that we believe does not apply to an elected official. An elected official may have his or her job only two, four, or perhaps six years, depending on the term of office.

The intent of the assistance is, of course, to encourage and assist county employees to take seminars and attend classes that will, hopefully, help them do their jobs better. Commissioner Groves has used the same argument, noting that the courses he has taken involve public administration. However, suppose he had lost last November's election. All of that new knowledge gained would do us, the taxpayers, no good then. Would Commissioner Groves have reimbursed the county if he lost the 1990 election?

Another requirement in the policy says that the annual cost shall not exceed $300 per year per individual. We have been informed by a reliable source that the course in which Commissioner Groves is currently enrolled is over $1,000, for just one semester. The policy also states that the $300 limit cannot be exceeded, unless there is "prior written approval by the appointing authority." Is not the voting public the "appointing authority" for the commissioners?

It also concerns us that this decision was never made public by the commissioners. Granted, they cannot possibly keep the public informed on every single day-to-day decision, but this was one that should have been revealed, not so much because of the money, but because of the principle of the thing. The amount of money is not enormous relative to the county budget, for example, but it is interesting that the commissioners recently sent out a letter to all county agencies strongly requesting that they make more cuts in their budgets. It is equally interesting that one of our county commissioners is receiving relatively large sums of tax money for his own education while the board of education is continually told it will simply have to do with less.

To Commissioner Groves's credit, he now insists that the present policy be reviewed and possibly changed. We agree with that idea. However, we also believe this particular allocation of funds should be reviewed against the present policy and a determination made as to whether it was appropriate. If deemed inappropriate, Mr. Groves should be issued a coupon booklet to begin paying that money back to the county.

To the Editor:

Our success in the Persian Gulf War is justifiably a moment of great pride for America. We should rejoice in our victory, and be thankful that its price was not greater than it was. We must also not forget the superb men and women who wear our nation's uniform -- there is no doubt that it was our quality people who made the difference.

While it is my responsibility as Chairman of the Military Personnel and Compensation Subcommittee to look after the welfare of all the armed forces, there is a group of men and women I believe deserve a special vote of thanks. I refer to who did not hesitate when called to serve, despite the likelihood of personal and family hardships. Over 190,000 reservists have been called to active duty during the crisis. Approximately 15 percent of the service members fighting in the gulf are reservists performing every conceivable duty, including front line combat roles. In many cases the reserve components offered essential capabilities that were either nonexistent or insufficient within the active duty forces.

Although Congress will be doing much to enhance the welfare of returning reservists, the one overriding fear they express is the absence of a job upon returning home. I recognize that the country has fallen, difficult economic times, [illegible] employ- [illegible] that our [illegible]dy know; there is a price for freedom. I would suggest that our reservists have already sacrificed enough and it is up to us to tighten our belts. Employers must live up to spirit of the law to ensure that our reservists share the joy and pride of victory along with the rest of the nation.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

On March 9, the Grantsville Elementary School PTA sponsored a spaghetti dinner at the school. In order to make this event a success we needed the help of many people in our community. As so often happens, those who were asked to help did their part and then a little extra.

We want to thank Mr. Dale Garlitz, principal of Grantsville, for his time and efforts in helping to organize the event and Mrs. Peggy Garlitz, cafeteria manager, for her expertise in running the kitchen. Our fifth grade girls who worked as waitresses did a great job and all of the adult workers who donated their time and more made the day an enjoyable one. To the many parents who were so generous in donating baked goods and coming to attend the dinner, we thank you. Also a big thanks to Buckel's Market, Hilltop Fruit Market, and Grantsville Foodland for their help.

In conclusion, the staff, students, and parents did a great job in coming together to make this event a success. It was a pleasure to see the school/community work together and strive for a better relationship.

Sincerely,
Grantsville PTA

THE TAXPAYER'S CHOICE

Many taxpayers overlook the tax checkoff line. That line asks taxpayers to make a choice, to indicate whether they want $1 of their taxes to be set aside for the Presidential Election Campaign Fund. To help taxpayers exercise that choice, here are the essential facts:

*The dollar checkoff does not increase the taxes an individual owes.

*Checkoff dollars go directly to qualified Presidential candidates (regardless of party) to fund their primary and general election campaigns. The Republican and Democratic nominating conventions are also funded.

*The purpose of using federal dollars to fund Presidential campaigns is to reduce candidates' dependence on special interests and to place candidates on a more equal financial footing in the campaign.

*In 1988 the Democratic and Republican Presidential nominees each received $46.1 million; 15 primary candidates received a total of $65.4 million; and each convention received $9.1 million.

*Presidential candidates use the checkoff dollars to pay for TV ads, campaign staff, campaign travel, fundraising and other campaign expenses, but not personal expenses.

*None of the money is used for Senate or House elections.

*The Federal Election Commission will spend $17 million in 1991 (not from checkoff dollars) to run the Presidential funding program and to administer and enforce all the federal election campaign laws.

*After the election, the Commission audits every campaign that received federal funds, and any surplus or improperly used federal funds must be repaid to the Fund.

*Taxpayers check off about $33 million annually.

Help taxpayers exercise their choice by sharing these facts. For more information, write the Federal Election Commission, 999 E Street, NW, Washington, DC 20463.

GARRETT COMMUNITY COLLEGE — COMMUNITY • SELF • VOCATION

This article is one of an ongoing series designed to support the development of small businesses in Garrett County. It was written by John Gould, a Coordinator for the Small Business Development Center and an Assistant Professor of Business at Garrett Community College. The staff of the SBDC at Garrett Community College invites you to call to set up an appointment to discuss your ideas and receive free help in initiating, planning or running your business. For information, call Sandy Major, Coordinator of Business Programs for Continuing Education at 387-6666, ext. 180.

Should you start a family business or hire your relatives to work for you? The answer is, "It all depends . . ." There are as many things to consider as there are families.

Beginning with the positive, you already know the individuals in your family, their strengths and weaknesses, how well they work together and with you on family matters. Communication, it would appear, should not be a problem. Trust, too, is hopefully a given. A hierarchy of responsibility and delegation is already in place and can simply be modified to fulfill the tasks and duties required. Here in Garrett County many family businesses have grown organically, the natural roles being assumed over time with a minimum of disagreement.

The problem with most family businesses, however, is that almost no family is without problems, and these problems will inevitably recur in the business setting. While this may present an opportunity to work through the difficulty in a unique way, customers and suppliers may not be tolerant of such behavior. Unconscious expectations of others and dual role conflicts within each person are much more likely in a family business.

For example, a young male may have unresolved conflicts with his father, which may be aggravated if the father is also the authority figure at work. In his recent book, Father, Son & Co., Thomas J. Watson, Jr., recounts his struggle to become his own man at IBM with a father/boss who was alternately resentful and proud of his son's growing prominence.

Even when marriage partners are not working together, the stress of starting a new business has been the primary cause of many divorces. Working together as well as living together has also resulted in many divorces and dissolutions of businesses. Healthy relationships require psychological space as well as intimacy.

In a marriage as well as a partnership sometimes outside guidance is recommendable. It is especially important in the beginning to get clear and in writing just what the relationship will be. Legal or psychological counseling is a recommended first step to defining: responsibilites, authority relationships, salary, equity and perks, succession and retirement, training, future hiring of relatives vs. outside expertise, firing of family members, grievance procedures, vacations and even office hours. The list goes on and on, and professional help at the start can prevent much grief later. At a minimum a neutral, business-wise third party should be appointed to serve as arbitrator of any disputes.

Everyone must compromise. While each person should do what he or she does best, specialization requires complementarity, each must also contribute what is needed by the family/company. The potential of a cohesive family group for success and growth is enormous. The potential for hurt feelings can be minimized through forethought and the unbiased perspective of a counselor.

To the Editor,

Now that the war is over, I'd like to take the opportunity to express my appreciation for the fantastic support I've received from the people of Garrett County and the surrounding communities.

Almost daily I received cards, letters and packages from people in Garrett County. Most times I'd look at the name and think, "Now who in the world is this," then I'd see the return address and know it was from the one of the hometown folks.

Unfortunately I wasn't able to answer each letter, but to all those people who wrote, please know that I appreciate your support.

During the stressful times of war and being separated from family, it was comforting to know that people supported all of us over here.

Also, thanks to The Republican for its efforts in generating support for the troops. Thanks to all of you, the United States came away with a swift, unconditional victory!

Sincerely,

Soil, A Gardening Basic

Without good soil, the value of the time, money, and effort you have expended on your garden could be, at best, greatly reduced or, in some cases, even lost. But what is soil? It is a mixture of particles of rock and decaying organic material containing moisture and air that covers the earth. The solid material consists of particles of differing sizes; sandy is the largest, clay, the smallest. Generally, the volume of the soil is 50% solids and 50% open space or pores which allow for the holding of air and moisture. In clay soils, the smaller particles produce more spaces for moisture retention and their smaller size holds more water against the gravitational flow, resulting in a wet, heavy, compact, dense soil. Sandy soils, being formed of larger particles, allow for the freer flow of water, resulting in a soil of just the opposite texture. Not all the open spaces are filled with water, however. In what are known as non-capillary pores, air is present. Air is needed for root and soil microorganisms to grow. If poor drainage or overly compacted soils flood these air pockets, plants die from lack of oxygen.

With this understanding of the composition of soil, the gardener can alter the existing soil to one compatible with the needs of the plants. Begin by providing good drainage. This may be done by simply altering the texture of the soil, or more extensive work may be needed. The installation of drain tiles may be required or the removal of the hard-packed or stony substructure may be necessary. In these cases, professional services may be required.

With proper drainage ensured, proceed to the alteration of the soil itself. Organic material physically added to the clay soils spreads the particles apart allowing for more air and water circulation, while in sandy soils it pulls the particles together, increasing moisture retention. This organic material, be it compost, sawdust, peat moss, or leaf mold, produces physical changes in the soil. Pick up a handful and squeeze it. It is loose but compactable, darker in color, with a rich earthy smell, closer to the "black earth," the rich, loamy soils described on the back of seed packets and found in the great agricultural regions throughout the world.

But chemical changes also take place as you alter the soil, either increasing or decreasing the acidity or alkalinity of the soil, depending upon the type of organic material added. This chemical change is known as the pH factor, which runs from 1 to 14 (acid to alkaline) on the scale, with a range of 6.0 to 6.5 considered optimum for plant growth. Although a pH reading of our soil is helpful, a full chemical analysis is recommended. This prevents over fertilization or over liming. For $5.00, the county extension office will provide a full reading of your soil and will make recommendations for soil improvements. Ask for the small garden plot service.

As you begin to correct the chemical imbalances in your garden plot, remember that just as some plants prefer wetter or drier soils, some prefer more acidic or more alkaline soils. The plant dictates the soil!

Now you are ready to dig the bed. You don't need to go to China -- ten to twelve inches is usually sufficient. Remove old roots, stones, weeds, etc. Thoroughly loosen and mix the soil, introducing any fertilizers, organic materials you may require. This is the time to straighten the edges and put in edging material if desired. Remember all those gardening books and catalogues you poured over in January and February and the plants you selected? The beds are now ready for them, and winter's dreams can become spring and summer realities.

Maryland Made With Pride

Facts From The Mental Health Advisory Committee

GARRETT COUNTY MARYLAND HEALTH DEPARTMENT

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE-SEXUAL ASSAULT

It has been estimated that close to 50% of all couples are engaged in domestic violence. Approximately 1.9 million wives are beaten by their husbands each year. According to FBI uniform crime reports, nearly 20% of all murder victims in the U.S. are related to their assailants; of these, half are husband-wife killings. These figures reflect only the reported incidents in domestic violence.

Domestic violence is: actual or threatened physical, emotional, or sexual abuse between members in a family, cohabiting, or dating individuals. Domestic violence is broken down into four categories: physical abuse, psychological abuse, sexual abuse, and destruction of property and/or pets. Each category has a serious overwhelming effect on the victims; one, a combination, or all of these categories are used to make the victim feel helpless, isolated, inadequate, and basically worthless. The victim takes on a learned passive role, eventually believing this is how things are supposed to be.

Domestic violence is a violent crime just as is sexual assault occurring in all socioeconomic classes.

Sexual assault is any sex act in which one participant does not consent.

Every SEVEN minutes a sexual assault occurs! One out of every 12 women in the U.S. will be assaulted at some point in their lives. Statistics show that only 20% to 50% of all rapes are reported -- out of these only 2% are falsely reported.

The rapist's motive is to prove his strength and power; to control, exploit, to express his/her hostility towards women/men. This act of violence compensates the rapist's feelings of inadequacy.

Well over half of all sexual assaults are premeditated and planned. Therefore, it is a myth that rapes are merely expressions of uncontrollable sexual urges or passions or that the victims asked to be raped. Rape is a forcible, violent, hostile act by one person against another for the purpose of dominating, degrading, and humiliating the victim.

Both domestic violence and sexual assault are violent crimes. Prevention starts with public awareness and education. Making a community aware of these problems does not create them, but in fact helps to alleviate them.

If you are interested in knowing more and/or have questions: call Fran at 334-9000 or 334-9053, Garrett County Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Center.

Gas Tax Dies; Road Projects Now On Hold

Governor William Donald Schaefer's proposal to raise the gas tax in Maryland was unanimously rejected this week by the House Ways and Means Committee. The proposal would have raised the state's gas tax by six and one/half cents per gallon and would have increased numerous motor vehicle fees. The measure reportedly would have raised $1.5 billion in the next five-year-period.

As a result of that rejection, no new road projects in the state will be implemented in the next two years, except for emergency and safety improvements, according to reports.

The Transportation Trust Fund currently faces an estimated $583 million deficit.

Although a companion bill is still alive in the Senate, reports indicate that the Senate's likelihood of passing the bill will be futile in light of the overwhelming disapproval in the House.

Battered Spouse Bill Approved By Committee

A bill approved this week by the House Judiciary Committee, with only one dissenting vote, would allow women who kill or attempt to kill abusive spouses or mates to introduce evidence that they were suffering from "battered spouse syndrome."

According to recent reports, the defense used by the accused would allow only that the state of mind at the time of the offense be considered when determining the sentence and not take the place of the traditional claim of self-defense.

Similar proposals were met with unfavorable response by last year's General Assembly, but have now re-entered the limelight reportedly because Governor William Donald Schaefer recently commuted the sentences of eight women convicted of assaulting or murdering their abusive spouses or mates.

One member of the House committee reportedly stated that the bill is an attempt to make sure the syndrome is considered by the courts.

Hafer's State Work Week Bill Fails

The Senate Finance Committee voted this week to kill a bill aimed at delaying or blocking Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer's proposal to institute a 40-hour week for state employees currently working only 35 and one/half hours per week.

District One Senator John Hafer, who co-sponsored the bill, was reportedly the one dissenting vote in the committee.

At present, approximately two/thirds of state employees or about 40,000 workers, are paid for the shorter week, and Governor Schaefer proposed the initiative to help save the state money.

Senate Approves Kindergarten Bill

A Senate committee this week gave tentative approval to a bill that would require five-year-olds to attend kindergarten before entering first grade in public school. The committee reportedly debated the issue of a parent's loss of control over his child's education, however, before sending the bill to the full Senate.

The mandatory kindergarten bill was proposed by the Schaefer administration in an effort to better prepare children entering the first grade in the basics of reading and writing. Currently, school districts offer kindergarten classes but the decision of whether or not to send the child is left to the parents.

If the measure is favorable to both the full Senate and the House, it will be enacted in the fall of 1992.

Bill Passed To Boost Scholarships For Poor Students

A bill to increase college scholarships and grants for Maryland students from poor families was passed this week by the Maryland Senate. Known as the Scholarship Reform Act, the measure establishes a special grant program for poor students, raises the annual amount in scholarship funds that a student may receive, and creates a new grant program for students who vow to pursue certain professions in the state.

As a result, the state's scholarship costs are expected to be increased by $16.2 million over the next five-year period.

Included in the bill are Educational Assistance Grants, ranging from $200 to $3,000, which would be awarded to college students in families of low- to moderate-income levels, and the Guaranteed Access Grant, which would pay the total cost of a student's education whose family earns less than $10,000 per year.

The measure also provides that annual ceiling on senatorial scholarship would be raised from $29,500 to $34,500 per senator and single awards would be raised from $1,500 to $2,000.

PAC Reform Bills Approved By House Panel

A House of Delegates committee this week approved three bills that seek to eliminate lobbyists from political campaign fundraising. The package of bills would, specifically, restrict political action committee (PAC) contributions to legislators and would, instead, increase personal contributions. It would also require lobbyists to account for spending in greater detail.

The bills have reportedly been in response to voters' demands that the legislature not be run by corporations and lobbyists. Currently, an individual may contribute no more than $2,000 to a single candidate during a four-year election period, and no more than $5,000 in total, but loopholes in the law allow for unlimitless contributions by PACs.

summer study group will include more broad-based input throughout the state for land management proposals. I would certainly hope that Garrett County has more input."

He further stated that he feels most people are not opposed to land management. The problem, he said, is in who will dictate the management -- the state or local governments. "There is geographical diversity throughout the state, and land management issues are more appropriately delegated to the local governments," he stated.

Edwards explained that each county was required to have a county plan in place in the early 1970's to manage growth and development. "The plans need to be updated, if they haven't been, and they need to be enforced," he stated.

In fact, Edwards suggested that a bill should be proposed for next year's legislature that would force the counties to enforce their plans, "not particularly in regard to zoning but at least in land management."

Edwards concluded, "If something passes next year, you want to be in a position where you don't have to be defensive."

To the Editor:

I would like to ask the people of Garrett County how much longer they are going to put up with the "Holier Than Thou" attitude of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department?

The alleged actions of Deputies Stoner and Nolan in regards to the treatment of Rebecca DeWitt are only the tip of the iceberg in the ongoing abuse of power against the local citizens by the Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Stoner should have been suspended by the Sheriff's Department (Van Evans), and possibly prosecuted by the State Attorney's Office on the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Apparently, by not filing these charges, the State's Attorney's Office is condoning such actions by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Nolan is well-known in the community for his police work and his apparent disregard for other people's rights. Both have been well documented in this paper in previous articles. He has been investigated on numerous occasions concerning his actions as a deputy sheriff of Garrett County, but yet he remains on the payroll of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department. Several of these investigations have suggested that Deputy Nolan has abused his position as a Deputy on the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

I am asking the people of Garrett County, when are they going to wake up and do something about the theatrics of the so-called "Keystone Kops" of Garrett County; or are the people of Garrett County going to remain silent and let this type of action continue by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department? The time has come for a change.

William E. Curtis

Note: The writer of this letter to County Commissioner Brenda Butscher requested that it appear in this column.

Commissioner Butscher:

In response to your letter of February 26, 1991, I submitted a letter to the Editor of the Republican newspaper, February 7, 1991, requesting the commissioners to answer two questions. The first one: Who gave the County Roads Department the authority to build Mellott Road, a road, which to Mr. Welch and to my understanding, has only two county taxpayers residing along the road? Did this road meet county specifications?

The second one: I was requesting information in regard to the salary of Robert Fousek Sr., County Clerk.

In your response to me, you stated Dwight Stover, attorney for the commissioners, requires a written request from me to you before this can be made public knowledge. You, in turn, must notify the employee that this is to be made public knowledge.

Commissioner Butscher, it is my understanding that an attorney is retained to issue advice and information concerning points of law that may arise. This brings another question to view. Is Mr. Stover running the commission's office instead of the three (elected by the people) commissioners? Just when do the commisioners have to go to the attorney to release taxpayer information? This will be our second request, however, there were several requests before the primary and general elections.

The information I'm asking of you is in accordance with the Sunshine Law of the United States and the Annotated Code of the State of Maryland, 10-612 and 10-613, of which a copy is attached hereto. The citizens will no longer stand for the repeated abuse of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

As I recall, this was one of the issues of your campaign — Open Government.

Mr. Stover requires a written request for this information. Fine. Now that we are on this subject, you will have your written request. It will not only be coming from me, but other Garrett County taxpayers.

The undersigners are requesting not only Mr. Fousek's salary, but the salaries of every county employee, including Mr. Stover's fee.

After all, it is the taxpayer who pays these salaries and we have a right to know, under the Constitution, how our money is being spent — not just by departments.

We would still like an answer on Mellott Road.

Mr. Welch and I, plus the other undersigners, appreciate your interest in our letter. We will be waiting for a speedy reply.

Respectfully yours,
Mary E. Leighton

To the Editor:

I would like to take this time to discuss a serious disease. The disease I'm speaking of is systemic lupus erythematosus, better known as SLE or lupus. There are more than 500,000 people in the United States who suffer from this illness.

Lupus is more prevalent than leukemia, muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, and cystic fibrosis; yet most people have never heard of it. This mysterious disease generally strikes women between the ages of 16 to 40, however there are some men afflicted with this disease.

There are two types of lupus: discoid lupus which affects the skin, with red scaly lesions; and systemic lupus, which involves various organs, joints, blood, and central nervous system. SLE is the most serious of the two types, however neither should go unattended. A physician who is familiar with this disease should check you on a regular basis.

The cause of this disease is unknown, and at this time there is no known cure, however research continues in hope that a cure will be discovered soon.

SLE is known as a connective tissue disease, or an autoimmune disorder. The antibodies which are normally produced to fight off bacteria, destroys the victim's own tissues.

Some of the symptoms are: swollen joints, low-grade fever, red skin rash (usually across nose and cheek area), excessive scalp hair loss, chest pain (pleurisy), severe fatigue, and oral ulcerations.

Please keep in mind, that each lupus patient doesn't always have the same symptoms, or require the same medication. The symptoms do not always stay the same, and may get more severe with stress or emotional upset.

Lupus is sometimes difficult to diagnose. It is known as the "Great Impersonator" because its symptoms are almost the same found in other diseases. Through patient history, physical exams, and a series of blood work, it can usually be diagnosed. However, it doesn't always show up the first time. If symptoms persist, be re-examined. If you are diagnosed, it is important to be regularly examined, and follow medications closely.

Lupus ranges from mild cases to extremely serious cases, and is rarely fatal unless the patient is ignoring medications and checkups. SLE can be controlled by different medications, and these may vary from person to person. Lupus patients may have a flare-up after being in remission for many, many years, and these flare-ups can be treated from something as simple as aspirin, to something as serious as steroids, or anti-malaria drugs.

You can't spot a lupus patient in a crowd, and you may say "she looks fine," but this is not necessarily true. The latest SLE pamphlet has an attractive lady on the front and it reads, "I may look O.K. on the outside, but I'm dying on the inside." I urge you to keep in mind, this is a very serious illness.

The reason I have taken this time to explain this disease, is because I have suffered from SLE for years. During those years I was put down by teachers because of missing school due to a severe flare-up, and constantly harassed by previous employers. That's why I have taken this time to make people aware of this problem.

I know there is a young girl at a local high school now who is experiencing the same treatment that I did many years ago. I think this is sad! I always thought teachers were there to help, not to humiliate. Please keep in mind, severe illnesses can strike anyone at anytime.

The Lupus Foundation of America, Inc., was founded in 1977, but the public is still not aware of its seriousness.

I think you would be surprised at how many people in Garrett County suffer from this disease. I encourage everyone to find out more about this illness; contact the Lupus Foundation of America, Inc., at 1-800-558-0121. Teachers and employers, take a little time and educate yourselves on this important topic. I believe it will make a big difference.

Anyone who is interested in starting a local support group, please contact me at 1-301-387-5496. I think understanding someone else's problems may benefit us all.

Sincerely,
Connie L. Miller

To the Editor:

Recently a marvelous occurrence, resulting from numerous concentrated efforts to observe selective correcting measures of justice, graced our state and county. Through efforts from the Governor, political officers, and the talented, public-minded Miss Maryland, Juanita I. Stinson was recently released early from Patuxent Correctional Institution for Women, along with several women from the Jessup facility who were incarcerated resulting from similar decisions.

Several statements should be disclosed at this time, reminding Ms. Stinson's friends and acquaintances, as well as revealing to everyone else, of her many non-faltering quality personality traits. First, the fact stands that Ms. Stinson is a forever giving and dedicated mother, putting the health, welfare and education of her children before other concerns, which stems from her own upbringing by her wonderful parents being God-fearing and exemplary of true humanitarians. Under stressful living conditions, she held the family together only through continuous efforts, raising her children with love, fervent religious instruction, and understanding guidance. Personally, she worked so very hard every waking moment of every day, starting early and finishing late, with very little time spent on herself. This behavior occurred not a short while, but actually for all her years since starting her family in 1953.

Her friends are numerous, from everywhere she has been in Garrett County, and if asked a statement of opinion, all would be in agreement, resulting in a very favorable report. Those people who, during the course of her trials felt animosity and ill will, were so very wrong. I ask all to be understanding! The family business flourished until the recent shut down of business subject, only doing so due to the hard and constant efforts of Juanita Stinson. I will say again and believe it — if it hadn't been for her part, her husband wouldn't have had the success he enjoyed, and remember, as the facts brought out, she did so while under the greatest stress and abuse possible.

Unlike the majority of her children, this writer's problems and discordant activities of late do not reflect his mother's dedicated helpful efforts; instead, resulting from going against her instruction and following "worldly" ways which have run their course, returning my behavior and goals closer to the direction of a wonderful person and mother, Juanita I. Stinson.

Much more could be stated on her behalf. As she "starts over," please send greetings and well wishes to 2504 Oakland-Deer Park Road, Oakland, Maryland.

Her eldest son,
C. F. Stinson

LOCAL STUDENTS GRADUATE FROM D.A.R.E. -- Twenty-two fifth and sixth grade students from Bloomington Elementary School graduated from the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) program offered to them from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, in conjunction with the G.C. Board of Education. The program is a 17-week police officer-led program that teaches students the skills they need to avoid drugs. Teachers of D.A.R.E. in this county are Cpl. Randy Sines and Dep. Randy Shaffer of the Sheriff's Office. Sheriff Van Evans stated that this county's youngsters join five million others nationwide who are participating in the same program this year. The program began in Garrett Co. in September 1990. Pictured above is the graduated class of Bloomington and their teachers. In the first row, left to right, are Cpl. Sines, Angie Bowers, Nicholas Zais, Andy Reed, Lee Tichnell, Garry Davis, and Mrs. Cathy Wildman. In the second row, same order, are Kristy Goodwin, Amanda Lee, Leanne Beckman, Justin Guy, Kevin Ahern, C. Scott Brown, and Sheriff Evans. In the third row, same order, are Mr. Mike Pula, Misty Riley, Stacy Taylor, Janice Abernathy, Crystal Duckworth, Jackie Brandlen (Jackie was also the school winner in the D.A.R.E. essay contest), and Tabby Streets. Fourth row: Terry A. Broadwater, Brandi Rizer, Abbie Dellinger, Debra Green, and Michelle Smith.

One Year Given To Man Charged With CDS Crimes

James L. Nicholas, 26, Deer Park, was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail for the charge of possession of marijuana. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the sentence hearing, and also fined the defendant $100 for possession of drug paraphernalia.

Nicholas pleaded guilty to the two charges at a hearing on Jan. 31. Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation at that time.

The charges against the defendant stemmed from an Oct. 6, 1990, search and seizure of Nicholas's residence, executed by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. At that time, law officers reportedly discovered marijuana seeds and plants, as well as a gram scale and other controlled dangerous substance (CDS) paraphernalia in the home.

Representing Nicholas was John R. Toston.

A West Virginia man also charged with various CDS crimes was sentenced to time in prison last week.

William J. McDaniel, 25, Grafton, pleaded guilty at a January hearing to possession of a CDS with intent to distribute. Thayer accepted the plea and at that time ordered a pre-sentence investigation. At the sentence hearing, Thayer ordered McDaniel to two years in the Garrett County Jail, and then suspended all but time served, which was 167 days, according to the court document.

Thayer also ordered supervised probation in West Virginia for the remainder of the sentence, as well as drug rehabilitation.

McDaniel was arrested by a Maryland State Police officer in September 1990 during an investigation into a traffic accident involving the defendant. The policeman discovered cocaine, marijuana, and drug paraphernalia in McDaniel's vehicle, according to the report.

Alan L. Winik represented McDaniel in the case.

William J. Burns, 24, Cumberland, was found guilty of violation of probation and his original sentence of one year in the G.C. jail was reimposed by Thayer.

Burns was convicted of third degree sex offense in 1987 and was sentenced to three years in prison with one year suspended. One year of supervised probation was also ordered.

In January, Burns was apparently convicted of battery and resisting arrest. These charges were brought against the defendant after an incident in March 1990. Because he was convicted of these charges, he was also in violation of his probation.

Defense attorney for Burns was John R. Toston.

Daniel V. Redmond Jr., 29, and Crystal A. Coddington, 20, both of Friendsville, were both allowed by the court to withdraw their guilty pleas to the charge of accessory to the abduction of a child. The two were then ordered to serve one year of probation before judgement.

Redmond and Coddington were charged after they reportedly abducted Redmond's child in September 1990, who was legally in the custody of Dianna Kelly. The pair apparently took the child from Friendsville, and then kept the youngster away from the rightful parent without consent.

Robert C. Hesson represented both Coddington and Redmond in court.

Second Rabies Case Of The Year Reported

The second rabies case of the year was confirmed Wednesday, according to Rodney Glotfelty, assistant director of the Garrett County Environmental Health Department.

Elaine Sisler, Friendsville, alerted the Health Department on Tuesday that her dog had been bitten on the face by a suspected rabid raccoon. The Sisler property is located off Md. Route 42.

Sisler reportedly killed the raccoon and wore gloves to impound her dog, a measure applauded by the Health Department. "It is extremely important to wear gloves when handling a suspected rabid animal," said Glotfelty.

The raccoon was confirmed to have rabies on Wednesday. The dog had been vaccinated and will be re-vaccinated and watched closely for three months.

VICTORY FLAG, OLD AND NEW -- A 1942 flag with a "V" made of stars is hanging in the St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, and has become the inspiration for a new flag project. Dr. David Sheets, Oakland, purchased the flag at an antique store in McHenry, and displayed it to celebrate the latest victory in Operation Desert Storm. He lent the flag to Alma Johnson to show to her second grade pupils, and she then decided to create a new flag of similar design, and to embroider the names of all Garrett County soldiers on each of the stars. A like flag will be made for Preston County soldiers as well. The flags could be used in future parades or placed on public display, and ultimately be placed in the historical museum of each county "to show our thanks and appreciation to those making this sacrifice for all of us," Mrs. Johnson said. She also stated that the concern now is to get an accurate and complete list of persons from both counties. The community is welcome to participate in the project by sponsoring the monogramming of the names on the stars (about 200) for both counties. Contributions may be sent to: Desert Storm Flag, P.O. Box 477, Oakland, Md. 21550. Any excess in contributions will be donated to the two historical societies, Mrs. Johnson said, and a financial response will be published upon completion of the project. Pictured above in front of the original flag is Dr. Sheets and Mrs. Johnson.

Gov. Schaefer Announces Statewide Heritage Tourism Marketing Effort

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced a statewide marketing plan to help strengthen Maryland's tourism industry by promoting its historic sites, thereby attracting more visitors to these sites.

The project will be jointly administered by the Department of Housing and Community Development's (DHCD) Division of Historical and Cultural Programs and the Department of Economic and Employment Development's (DEED) Office of Tourism Development.

"Maryland is blessed with a rich, diversified heritage," Governor Schaefer said. "We want Marylanders and visitors from all over the world to learn about and enjoy our history through this new project."

Two consulting firms, Oldham Historic Properties, Inc., and Davidson-Peterson Associates, Inc., will work with DHCD and DEED to begin the first phase of the two-year project. They will provide a comprehensive assessment of the heritage resources available in the state; determine which markets would find these resources most appealing; determine what communications themes and strategies will convince people to visit Maryland's historic sites; and develop a statewide marketing plan to increase dollars spent by tourists visiting these sites.

"Maryland has a great number of historic sites which already attract millions of visitors and contribute significantly to the $2.8 billion spent by tourists here each year," said DEED Secretary J. Randall Evans. "If marketed more intensely, these sites could have an even greater economic impact, as well as provide a stimulating educational experience to many more Maryland visitors."

A workshop entitled "Understanding and Sharing Your Heritage" will kick off the project May 4 in Chestertown, Maryland. The event will enable heritage and tourism representatives to openly exchange ideas. Other workshops throughout Maryland will be planned for later dates.

"Our heritage resources offer enriching as well as entertaining experiences to all Marylanders," said DHCD Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers. "We should take full advantage of these special treasures which are so close at hand."

Ms. Brown stated that she is "very interested" in meeting people in both counties and working with them to achieve their health goals.

"Injury is probably the most under-recognized major public health problem facing us in this country today," she said. "Injuries are not inevitable; they are preventable."

Ms. Brown graudated from the University of Massachusetts in Sept. 1990, with a master of science degree in public health, specializing in community health education. The Garrett County Crime Solvers cases of the week concern two incidents of theft. One of the crimes resulted in a loss of nearly $10,000.

An unknown suspect or suspects entered a private residence at the intersection of Blooming Rose Road and White Rock Road on Nov. 12, 1990, between 1:30 and 6:50 p.m. The culprit then stole 11 guns, satellite dish equipment, and a large amount of cash. In another case, an unknown person reportedly removed a Quasar VCR from the front entrance area of Electronics Unlimited, located in Loch Lynn. The theft occurred on December 12, 1990, between 4 and 5:30 p.m. The VCR has been valued at $350.

All leads in these cases have been exhausted, and Crime Solvers needs the assistance of any person who may have information about the crimes. Persons with knowledge about these incidents or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers by calling 334-1975, or by writing to: Crime Solvers, P.O. Box 731, Oakland, Md. 21550.

Persons with information do not have to give their names nor testify in court. Rewards up to $1,000 are available for persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Unclaimed Funds Ads Generate 2,000 Calls

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the Unclaimed Property Section of his office received 1,942 telephone calls last week as a result of advertising 14,483 names of apparent rightful owners of unclaimed bank accounts and other unclaimed funds.

The ads, which are also running in newspapers the week of March 18, 1991, are attempting to locate owners of millions of dollars worth of unclaimed bank accounts, unclaimed wages, the contents of safe deposit boxes or other funds. "If you see your name or the name of someone you know, there are instructions at the top of the advertisement telling you how to contact our office," Goldstein said. "We will advise you who to contact at the appropriate bank or corporation to claim your money or reactivate your account."

The comptroller noted that if a bank account has no activity for a period of five years, the financial institution must report it to his office and the owner's name is advertised in the county of last known address. "That's why it's important to make a minimal deposit or withdrawal to each account you have at least once a year," Goldstein said.

If the funds remain unclaimed, the money is transferred to the state. "However, that doesn't mean the money is lost to its rightful owner," Goldstein said. "Under Maryland's custodial law, the rightful owner or legitimate heir can claim the funds at any time in the future."

Crime Rates

Vespa.

Law enforcement authorities in Baltimore City and 14 counties reported increases in the number of forcible rapes which contributed to a 23 percent increase statewide during 1990. "There were 2,184 forcible rapes reported to authorities last year compared to 1,783 during 1989," Vespa stated.

The Maryland Crime Report includes a comprehensive overview of county crime index trends. The most significant changes were noted in two Eastern Shore counties. The crime index total for Kent County registered a 30 percent increase while law enforcement authorities in Talbot County recorded a ten percent decrease in the index crime totals.

The incidence of crime in Garrett County actually decreased in four of the eight categories: rape, eight cases to four; assault, 117 to 95; breaking and entering, 192 to 153; and motor vehicle theft, 53 to 40. Categories showing an increase were: robbery, one case to four; larceny/theft, 304 to 328; and arson, seven to 11. The cases of murder remained the same, one case each year.

The Maryland State Police Central Records Division serves as the central clearinghouse for statewide crime data. The Uniform Crime Reporting Section notes that any crime figure comparisons should not be made without first considering the individual crime factors in each region and county.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Half Of State Tax Returns In; Extra Hours Of Help Scheduled

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says about 50% of state income taxpayers have filed, but there's still plenty of extra free state tax help for those who have yet to complete their forms.

"We've received about 1.1 million returns and mailed out 580,000 state refund checks. The checks are averaging $315, which is about 10% greater than last year at this time," Goldstein said.

The comptroller noted that his office continues to receive returns from taxpayers who have not subtracted the dollar value of their personal exemptions from their taxable income. "For a family of four, this means an unnecessary additional $360 in state and local income tax," he said. "We have received hundreds of returns with this error, for no apparent reason. While we are correcting these mistakes in processing, it delays the taxpayer's refund check by a week or more.

"Taxpayers should be certain to carry the dollar value of their personal exemption from the top of the Maryland return to line 58, where they get the real tax benefit," Goldstein said.

He reminded taxpayers still working on their 1990 Maryland income tax returns that all state income tax offices will remain open on two upcoming state holidays to offer help: Maryland Day, Monday, March 25, 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.; and Good Friday, March 29, 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.

In addition, all state income tax offices are open during normal business hours, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. State tax experts at all locations will answer any questions, provide the necessary forms and even complete Maryland income tax returns free of charge. Taxpayers must bring a completed copy of their federal return and all W-2 statements to take advantage of this free service.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for state taxpayer assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Rams Anticipate Successful Year With The Return Of Six Starters

The Southern High School baseball team will undoubtedly be one of the strongest clubs in the area this spring, as six of nine starters from last season's 13-4 team are back this year, including one of the region's top hitters and pitchers in junior Brett Rice.

After missing a playoff spot the past two years, even with that impressive record last season, Coach Jim Bosley is anxious to get back into post-season play, especially since his teams made the playoffs nine straight years before the 1989-90 dry spell.

Bosley, who is beginning his 12th season as the Rams' mentor, is the winningest coach in the area, with a current win-loss record of 140-62. He will put that record on the line this afternoon when the Rams open a 20-game schedule at Petersburg.

"The key to this season is to get off to a good start, which might be too much to ask because of our weather situation," Bosley said. "We haven't been outside at all this year and both of our scrimmage dates were postponed because of rain and snow. We, and possibly the Northern Huskies, are probably the best team in the state of Maryland in the gym."

The early days of last season presented similar problems and it cost the Rams two of their first three games. They then went on to win 12 of their next 14.

Rice leads the corps of returning players, as he brings a single-season school pitching record of 8-2 and a sizzling .467 average with his bat, the second highest average ever at Southern, at least in Bosley's tenure as coach.

Other starters back are juniors Britten Martin (SS), Garth Glotfelty (2B), and David Kurtz (catcher), who form a strong nucleus up the middle; and seniors Shawn Ryan (RF) and James Bateman (d.h., 1B). Bateman batted over .300 last season.

There are only four seniors on the team, 13 juniors, and one sophomore.

Assisting Bateman at first base will be junior Joby Tasker, while Craig Calhoun, a junior, will back up Glotfelty at second and Martin will anchor short stop. Candidates for third base include senior Ryan Leatherbury, junior Billy Bittinger, and Jeremy Bosley, the team's only sophomore. Bosley will also see duty on the mound and in the outfield.

Kurtz will start at catcher and be backed up by Joe Healy and Shane Skipper.

The outfield will include Ryan in right, Skipper in center, and Bobby Evans, Nathan Dixon, Kenny Green, or Raymie Sherwood in left. Jason Rinker will pitch and also see time in the outfield.

Assisting Bosley again this year with coaching chores is the coach of the Garrett County American Legion team, Ed Wildesen, who is in his eighth season as Bosley's assistant.

"Certainly our goal is to reach the playoffs, but also to do some damage along the way," Bosley said. "I hope to make it all the way to the state tournament which, with a little luck, might be a realistic goal. With only four seniors, though, we could be a year away."

The Rams' last state tourney appearance was in 1986.

"So far, indoor practices have gone rather smoothly," he said. "But then again, we haven't played a game yet, either."

That chance will come this afternoon in Petersburg, weather permitting.

Wildesen Looks Forward To Legion Season; Collegiate Players Noted

Kevin Green

Ryan Harman

The 1991 baseball season is underway at the college and high school level, is just around the corner for professional players, and although it is still a few months until the Junior American Legion program begins its '91 campaign, Ed Wildesen, coach of the Garrett County Legion team, is already looking forward to opening day.

Wildesen commented on the quality of play in the Legion program, noting that in his three seasons as coach of the local team, nine of his players have gone on to play collegiate baseball. Two of them - Kevin Green and Ryan Harman - are playing college ball and still have one year of eligibility to play Legion ball.

Green, who is playing for the Garrett Community College Lakers, is a graduate of Southern High School, while Harman, a Petersburg High grad, is a member of the West Virginia University Mountaineers' squad.

"Kevin is a hard-hitting first baseman who makes every effort and takes advantage of every opportunity to improve his game," Wildesen said. "He is a very hard worker with a super attitude."

He described Harman as a "very emotional player who is intense from start to finish." He added, "Ryan is a hard-throwing right hander who loves the game and would drive any distance to play.

"What we look for in Legion players is: citizenship, sportsmanship, general good conduct, integrity, and playing ability," Wildesen said, adding that plans have begun to establish a Garrett Legion Hall of Fame that will honor those players who exhibit these five characteristics.

The other local Legion players who went on to play baseball in college are: Rod Cooper, Circleville High School, who is playing at Salem College; Kevin Yokum, Circleville, Davis & Elkins College; Rich Goad, Southern High, Garrett Community College; Bucky Riggleman and Mark Rohrbaugh, Petersburg High, GCC; D.G. Largent, Hampshire High, GCC; and Aaron Zumpano (deceased), Northern High, Frostburg State.

"We are proud of our kids who have or are playing college ball," Wildesen said. "In fact, we're proud of the entire district (Mountain District) because it is one of the toughest and most balanced of the districts in the state. Other districts are dominated year after year by the same few teams, but in the Mountain District, three different teams have made it to the final four in the state tournament in the past three years (Cumberland, 1988; Garrett, 1989; and Frostburg, 1990). We believe our program will produce a lot more collegiate players in the future."

Wildesen also noted the calibre of players who go to GCC. "The Lakers are definitely not the `Bad News Bears.' They get a number of players who go on to sign professional contracts. I don't think their program gets the respect it deserves."

Among the professional Hall of Famers who were Legion baseball participants are Stan Musial, Yogi Berra, Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson, Harmon Killebrew, Willy Stargell, Johnny Bench, Jim Palmer, Carl Yaztrzemski, and Joe Morgan. Sixty-two percent of the 624 players on the Major League rosters played American Legion baseball.

Wildesen said details of the 1991 season and the Garrett Legion team will be released in the near future.

Pagenhardt Leads Shaffer's Over B & L

Monty Pagenhardt was virtually unstoppable against Bausch & Lomb as he led Shaffer Ford to a 83-61 rout of the lens men in the Over 30 Association action this past week. Pagenhardt's 25-point total was the game's high, while Bausch & Lomb's Kerry Collins netted 18. Gary Newcomb and Rob Michael netted 15 for Shaffer's. Gary Heginbotham controlled the boards for the winners.

Brian Selders almost single handedly defeated Garrett Mine Service with his 26-point performance for Beachy Lumber. The game remained close until the third quarter, when Beachy's outscored their opponents, 25-17. Former Southern standout Randy DiSimone tallied 19 points for GMS. The final score was 62-53.

Paul Lewis scored 25 points for Coors, while teammate brothers Tom, Dan and Dave Bosley combined for 38 points, as Coors defeated Mettiki Coal Co., 80-66. Mike McLaughlin scored 21 points for Mettiki, but was shut out in the scoring column for the entire third quarter.

Action continues next week when Shaffer Ford visits GMS at 7 p.m., while Bausch & Lomb meets Mettiki Coal at 8 p.m. The final game at 9 p.m. pairs Beachy Lumber and Coors.

anyone who could ever receive the benefit and the fact that Elwood Groves did meant that he was a no-good, unethical scumbag who had his hand in the till or something, and I resent that."

When questioned about the policy's requirement that the recipient of the educational benefit be a "full-time, permanent employee," Groves answered, "The policy, as I understand it, does not specify that, but I'm not sure of the wording on that. Elected officials have participated in that benefit and it has not been restrictive. Of course, that might be a point we'll have to review."

Groves was also questioned about the amount of money allotted for each individual during the course of a year. He answered that the original policy stipulated a $300 limit, unless "otherwise waived," but, he said, "what evolved over the past two decades was that the cost of education went up -- the $300 limit became quite irrelevant because it was always waived."

He then explained that the policy has never been "formally amended to re-establish that minimum to match the cost of education in more recent times."

When asked if he was willing to make available to the public the amount of money he has utilized for educational purposes, Groves stated, "I'm sure that could be obtained."

A question was then posed regarding the public's lack of knowledge about the policy. Groves responded, "What would you suggest -- that we read the policy manual at press conferences? There's multitudes of things we, even as commissioners, don't know about. Through the years you learn about things, I mean, you learn something new every day."

Groves then stated, "I'm sorry if I've offended anyone. I don't think there's anything unethical as far as the policy is concerned. You can disagree with the policy and, again, that's something I insist this board deal with, amongst other policies."

Commissioner John Braskey also defended Groves's use of the policy, stating, "The way I saw it, and the way I will continue to see it, is that if taking these courses benefits us as a board, or benefits the county, then it's money well spent.

"It's just like going to seminars or conferences -- a lot of people can't justify that or justify me going to Annapolis, but if you go and something good comes out of it, then you're saving taxpayers' money."

Commissioner Brenda Butscher opposes Groves's participation in the educational benefit, and stated this week, "I don't think it's fair to use taxpayers' money to educate an elected official who might be gone in four years. We're not put in office to then turn around and get a college education off the county. He's going out of state, for one thing, and that's bad because it's more expensive."

It was later learned that Groves stated he could not get the courses he needed at Frostburg State University, and so, opted for the next nearest university.

Butscher made it clear that she does not oppose the county policy of paying for job-related courses for unelected county employees.

She also stated that she had no problem with John Braskey traveling to Annapolis. "I'm glad he was down there opposing the 2020 plan, and the public knows he was there but the public did not know that Elwood was getting a master's degree."

Groves then stated that he has taken only four courses during the last three years and that is "a long sight from getting a degree."

Braskey also stated that he thought the policy should be reviewed. "Especially in light of the tighter economic situation, we're going to have to discuss it and maybe we'll change it. But I approved of it -- I signed the invoice," he said.

Commissioner Butscher then stated, "I think from what we've heard today, those policies probably won't be changed."

County Administrator Robert Fousek stated that the press would be provided with a full accounting of the educational benefit expenditures for county employees for at least the last three years, but that it would take at least one week to gather that information.

A ROUNDBALL TOURNAMENT to benefit the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross has been slated for Saturday, April 6, at the Southern High School gymnasium, a contest that will feature members of the Southern faculty against those of the Northern High School faculty. Cindy Kutchman, of the local RC chapter, is coordinating the basketball game with the assistance of Tom Woods and Harv Speicher, athletic directors of the two high schools. Pictured above is the Northern team, consisting of, left to right, front row, Lynn Brenneman, Charlie Himmler, Phil Carr, Scott Werdebaugh, and Harv Speicher. In the second row, same order, are Rob DeVore, Roy DeVore, Jeff Montgomery, Tom Bulka, and Bob Yunker.

SHS Cheerleader Recently Named To All-PVC Squad

Paulette McIntyre, a Southern High School varsity cheerleader, has been named to the 1991 All-PVC (Potomac Valley Conference) Division I Cheerleading Squad.

Other schools represented on the squad include Petersburg, Frankfort, Keyser, Hampshire, and Musselman, all of W.Va.

Mrs. Jane Williams, SHS cheerleading advisor, stated, "Paulette has been a real pleasure to work with this year. She has worked hard, along with the other cheerleaders, to help raise the school spirit in the school."

As a sophomore, Miss McIntyre has completed her second year as a cheerleader at SHS. She is currently in her second year as a member of the track team, is class treasurer, and is involved in the student council. She has also been active in the Oak Park Church of the Brethren Youth Group for the past four years.

She is the daughter of Paul and Brenda McIntyre, Mtn. Lake Park.

PRIMATIVE LIVING in a beautiful setting might describe life in the tiny country of Togo, Africa, where the work of a Garrett County native, Dr. Scott Glotfelty, continues to improve the quality of life their, despite the fact that Dr.Glotfelty died in that remote area of the world three years ago. Glotfelty, the son of Ruth DiPaolo, Bittinger, and the late Robert O. Glotfelty, was serving in the Peace Corps at the time of his death, but a special fund established in his memory has enabled his work to continue and at least one of his dreams become a reality.

A WATER WELL may not seem like such a luxury to most people in the United States, but for the people of the desert village of Mandouri, Togo, it is literally a life saver. The construction of the well pictured above was a goal of Dr. Scott Glotfelty when he served there in the Peace Corps, a goal that was reached last summer because of funds donated in Dr. Glotfelty's memory. Present for the well dedication ceremony were two of Scott's aunts, Helen Englar, left, and Betty Hummel. Prior to the installation of the well, villagers had to walk at least two hours to obtain fresh water. Below, Mrs. Hummel fills a basin with the precious liquid after drawing it from the well.

Memorials To Dr. Scott A. Glotfelty Help Keep His Peace Corps Work Alive In Africa

by Don Sincell

"I expect to pass through this world but once. Any good, therefore, that I can do or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now."

These words of a Garrett County native are engraved on a memorial plaque beside a desert well in a far-away corner of the world. And although the author's life was brought to an untimely end by a swarm of bees three years ago, his efforts continue to thrive and improve the quality of life for an entire community.

During his short life, Dr. Scott Glotfelty made significant contributions to the 9,000 people of that African community, and since his death, the outpouring of expressions of sympathy toward his family have evolved into a perpetual memorial fund that is being used to keep his dream alive, not only in Togo, but also in other needy regions of the world.

Dr. Glotfelty, a native of Bittinger, could have settled into a comfortable career with a veterinary practice after completing his studies at the Virginia Tech School of Veterinary Medicine; however, he decided to pursue a much broader path by joining the Peace Corps and attempting to fulfill this personal commitment to his fellow man and all of creation. His assignment was in the Mandouri region of Togo, a country not much larger than the state of New Hampshire and with a population of about 100,000.

Scott's primary mission was to improve and expand the sources of protein in the natives' diet. His first step toward that goal was to help save the poultry flocks of Togo, which had been decimated by disease. He worked to obtain vaccines and to construct improved pens for the livestock. However, he quickly began to address other problems in the area, particularly the inadequate water supply in Mandouri, where the entire population depended on a single, inadequate well. What began as one of Scott's projects to construct a new well ultimately became a monument to his memory, as that new well funded by memorials to Scott was dedicated last June via a joyous celebration. Two of Scott's aunts - Helen Englar, Westminster, and Betty Hummel, Olympia, Wash. - were present for the ceremony.

Nearly $2,500 from the Scott Glotfelty Memorial Trust Fund was allocated through the Peace Corps Partnership Program for the well project. Fortunately, because of hard work by

DR. SCOTT A. GLOTFELTY

Scott's family and the generosity of local friends, businesses, and organizations, the fund carries a principle of over $10,000 and the interest from the invested monies are being released each year for other projects in Togo, or other impoverished areas in the world that are designated by Peace Corps officials. Some $700 to $800 will be allocated this year once a project is selected.

"We decided that, rather than deplete the fund on a large project, we would like to finance a small project each year with the interest generated by the fund," stated Scott's brother, Rodney. "A donation to a humanitarian project each year in his name will serve as a lasting memorial to Scott and avoid the possibility of all the money being used for a project that might not have a lasting impact."

Glotfelty said that he particularly likes directing the fund proceeds through the Peace Corps Partnership Program because it calls for a 50 percent local contribution, in the form of money, in-kind labor, and/or materials. "This way, it is not just a handout, plus it gets the local people involved in helping themselves," he said. He added that an application form for the fund is now being composed for distribution to all Peace Corps locations in the world so the monies can be used for worthy projects everywhere, including in the United States. "The only requirement is that the projects be located in impoverished areas," Glotfelty added.

The inauguration ceremony for the well in Togo, located at Kparparaga just outside Mandouri, was attended by Mrs. Engler and Mrs. Hummel; Robert Nicolas, then director of the Peace Corps in Togo; the regional governor; a number of Peace Corps volunteers; and about 200 villagers who presented a traditional welcome and celebration, including various dances and music. Scott's aunts spent two weeks in Togo, including two days and two nights in Mandouri.

"This was the first project of this type ever done in this region of Togo," stated Nicolas. "The well is the only source of clean water in the area. Before, during the dry period (which lasts seven to nine months), the women had to walk at least two hours to get clean water, and during the rainy season, they had to dig holes in some stream beds, which would then fill with muddy water that was used for drinking and cooking.

"But clean water is not the only significant contribution of the well," he said. "Perhaps just as importantly, it gave the village citizens an opportunity to see what can be accomplished when everyone works together in an organized manner. The well wasn't just put there by outside workers or Peace Corps volunteers. About one-half of the cost of the project was completed with in-kind labor and extensive community participation. This kind of effort really empowers the people from a psychological standpoint, giving them confidence to do more for themselves."

Nicolas added that the well is also allowing the village women to do some dry season irrigation in small garden plots, which was impossible prior to the installation of the well.

While a lot of the money for the memorial fund has come by donation, Scott's mother, Ruth DiPaolo, continually contributes to it by recycling cans and bottles that she collects from friends and neighbors. This effort has yielded over $1,000 for the fund.

Among the local organizations that have donated to the fund is the Garrett Choral Society, which recently contributed $250. Just prior to taking his Peace Corps assignment, Scott became a member of the Choral Society and had a lead role in the Society's production of "H.M.S. Pinafore."

Other local organizations that made significant contributions to the fund include: the Mtn. Top Ministerial Association, the Grantsville and Oakland Business and Professional Women's clubs, Woodmen of the World Camp 68, Scott's Northern High School Class of 1978, St. John's Lutheran Church, St. Paul's United Methodist Men, Oakland, the Accident Community Key Fund, and several local 4-H clubs. Hundreds of individuals have also donated, including one former classmate from veterinary school who contributed $700.

Barry Glotfelty, another brother, and his girl friend, Lisa Shirer, designed and printed T-shirts that have been sold mostly to family and friends, but several dozen of them were also taken by Helen and Betty to Togo for the children. They also took other items for them, such as crayons, pencils, and coloring books.

"The trip there was a very emotional experience for us," said Mrs. Englar. "It was really a celebration of Scott's life. It was obvious that he loved the people there and made a wonderful impression on them because so many came to visit us in our hut when they realized we were members of Scott's family."

MAKING A DONATION of $250 to the Scott Glotfelty Memorial Trust Fund recently was the Garrett Choral Society, one of numerous local organizations to do so. The principle of the fund now exceeds $10,000 and is yielding several hundred dollars of interest each year that is being used for various Peace Corps projects. Presenting the check in the above photo to Ruth DiPaolo, Scott's mother, left, is Nancy Learey, director of the Choral Society.

Besides aiding the people of Togo and other nations, the Glotfelty family also sponsors some annual local awards out of the fund. A $100 savings bond and trophy plaque are given each year to a senior student at Northern High School who exhibits outstanding humanistic qualities and intends to pursue his or her career in the sciences.

There is also an annual award of a $50 savings bond and plaque to a local senior 4-H member who exhibits outstanding humanistic qualities. That presentation is made during the annual Garrett County 4-H Achievement Night program.

While the members of Scott's family still experience the pain of his loss, they continue to work to ensure that his death will never be in vain. Other persons and organizations who wish to help with that effort by making contributions to the Dr. Scott Glotfelty Memorial Trust Fund may do so by mailing their checks to Ruth DiPaolo, Rt. 1, Box 95-A, Accident.

A MAJOR CELEBRATION, complete with tribal dancing and music, was held to dedicate the newly constructed water well near Mandouri, Togo, Africa, where the late Dr. Scott Glotfelty worked in the Peace Corps to improve the quality of life for the local natives. A number of Peace Corps volunteers, Robert Nicolas, the director of the Peace Corps in Togo, and about 200 villagers took part in the ceremony, which was attended by two relatives of Dr. Glotfelty.

Grant Program

determine their effectiveness. Original grants to property owners could not exceed 50% of the total cost of the project. Because of the high cost associated with installing innovative systems, only one grant has been awarded thus far in Garrett County.

During the 1990 legislative session the Maryland General Assembly amended Section 9-104 of the Environment Articles to allow up to 87½% of the total cost of a project to be funded if innovative technology were used to correct an existing septic system failure on improved properties.

Any property owner in Garrett County who has a failing septic system, a direct sewage discharge, or no indoor plumbing is eligible to apply for this grant. Innovative and alternative technology will only be considered for properties where conventional options have been exhausted. Situations such as high water tables, insufficient soil depths to bedrock, or lack of percolation are all factors which could preclude the use of conventional technologies.

Individuals interested in obtaining more information concerning this grant opportunity should contact Environmental Health Services at 334-8980 as soon as possible. Applications are currently being considered in the order in which they are received.

GCC Board

ress is being made. He noted that the old funding formula is detrimental to GCC and that new wording on a new formula would be more equitable to the institution.

Since the old formula will still be in place through FY1992, the college will likely experience a "lean" year. He assured the board, however, that the budget will be manageable.

Dr. Herman pointed out that sister colleges were, in many cases, in worse shape than Garrett as they had frozen positions, instituted furloughs, and cuts in services and staff.

The president told the board that the Foundation Drive has been "very successful." Staff members have erected a "Tree of Learning" that carries brass-type placards of contributors giving over $25.

Persons wishing to donate to the Foundation may do so by calling the president's office at the college.

Dr. Herman then discussed options with the board for different types of associate degrees and a review of the general education requirements.

Academic Report

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, noted that new requirements have been put in place for induction into the honorary society, Phi Theta Kappa. Dean's list and honor's list changes have also been instituted in keeping with the rest of the nation. Academic probation policies have also been reviewed.

Financial Report

GCC Comptroller John Culp informed the board that the cash flow forecast is healthy. He did say that there are rumors that the state aid payment check may be delayed, but that the college could handle the delay with short-term borrowing if necessary.

Culp also stated that the college is at even spending at the end of February. Actually the college is four and one-half percent below even spending compared to last year's budget.

The comptroller recommended to the board that they approve the purchase of the first phase of the Management Information System (MIS). College staffers have spent months studying information received on various systems and finally accepting bids. Computing Options Software received the contract.

Because of scheduling conflicts, the next board meeting has been tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, April 10.

OPERATION DESERT STORM

MAIL CALL

Operation Desert Storm

As American forces continue their assignment in "Operation Desert Storm" in the Middle East, mail continues to be a morale builder and an expression of public support of their service.

The Republican proudly lists the names and addresses of those local service personnel who are now stationed there, either in Saudi Arabia or other Middle East nations. We hope local residents will take a few moments to drop a line to these young men and women. It is not necessary to be personally acquainted with these local soldiers or with anyone else in the armed services to send him or her a letter. Expressions of upbeat support, humor, and words of good cheer will mean a lot.

Letters to anyone in the Army, Air Force, or Marine Corps, land-based in Saudi Arabia, may be addressed as follows:

In Loving Memory

Take a good look at this dog. His name is Rover. He was a family pet until one day we found him shot in the head.

I would just like for the person who shot Rover to know what they did! They KILLED my FRIEND and a part of my family. The nightmares are ungodly for me and my three children.

THIS HAS GOT TO STOP!

You people just don't know what you do to the families of these animals. I can never replace my friend, just like I could never replace one of my children. This ad will not bring Rover back, but hopefully it will save some other people's pets.

We Love You, Rover and Miss You With All Our Hearts!

GOH, City Police Conduct Project For Handicapped

The Garrett Organization for the Handicapped (GOH), in conjunction with the Oakland City Police Department, is conducting a project throughout the month of March to promote citizens' heightened awareness of handicapped parking space abuse.

"It seems like people don't take handicapped parking seriously," stated Lyz Biser, individual and family support services coordinator for Appalachian Crossroads. "Often, cars without handicapped tags or a permit park illegally in a handicapped space -- usually because the space is convenient -- and don't give it a second thought. People see other people park illegally in handicapped spaces and don't say anything," she added.

Biser further explained that the community needs to be aware of specific needs of someone with a physical disability to remind others of those needs by taking a stand against handicapped parking space abuse.

According to Biser, project plans include involving the community in the enforcement of handicapped parking regulations and laws; to make GOH reminders available to citizens to use in the community; to step up the law enforcement agencies' involvement in ticketing cars parked illegally in handicapped spaces; to clearly mark handicapped spaces in cooperation with facilities providing handicapped spaces; and to let people with disabilities know how they can apply for handicapped tags or a permit.

Biser stressed that a person using a wheelchair takes an average of seven minutes to get from a handicapped parking space to the entrance of the facility -- and that seven minutes seems even longer in the rain or other inclement weather conditions -- whereas it takes a walking person less than two minutes to perform the same task. It was also noted that some disabilities can be invisible, such as heart and respiratory disease.

A person with a physical disability may not be able to park elsewhere if the handicapped space is occupied because a person using a wheelchair, walker or other adaptive equipment needs a wider space to allow for the equipment and to be able to open the car door all the way. (Reserved handicapped spaces are wider than ordinary spaces and the person's disability may prevent him from getting to the building or facility from other parking areas.)

Additionally, fines for parking illegally in a handicapped space can be as high as $50, said Biser.

GOH has issued a list of helpful hints community members may follow in order to help with the program. They include not parking in handicapped spaces without a permit or tags; reminding other people that handicapped parking spaces are reserved for people with physical disabilities; and leaving a special GOH reminder (available from either the Oakland City Police or any GOH member) on illegally parked cars.

People with physical disabilities may apply for handicapped tags or a permit at the Oakland office of the Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA), or may request one by phone at 950-1682 (toll-free).

When applying for the tag or a permit, the applicant is asked to obtain the application, have it completed by a physician and then return it to the MVA. There is a $2 fee for the permit, and it should be displayed on the dashboard of the vehicle. It can be used in any vehicle transporting the person to whom the permit is issued.

There is no fee to change regular existing tags to handicapped tags other than the normal fee for tag renewal.

HANDICAPPED PARKING AWARENESS is being promoted by the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped and the Oakland City Police Department throughout the month of March to make people more aware of numerous parking violations by the general public. Citizens are asked to participate in the effort to learn more about the problems associated with handicpped parking and to help make their neighbors more mindful of the problem. Shown above is Lyz Biser, individual and family support services coordinator for Appalachian Crossroads, and John Sines, Oakland City Police Chief. See separate story.

Shrine Plans Spring Circus

The Ali Ghan Shrine Temple, Cumberland, recently announced that its 38th annual Shrine Circus will be held Thursday, April 4, in Frostburg with an after-school performance at 4:30 p.m. and an evening show at 8 p.m. It will be held in the Physical Education Center at Frostburg State University.

George Hubler and his International Three-Ring Super Circus will present the show, which will feature aerial, magic, comedy, and animal acts.

The event is supported by all the nobles of Ali Ghan Temple, the director general of which is Jack Fridinger, assistant Rabbon. Ernest Combs and Tom Jacobs are the overall co-chairmen of the circus, while Harold White is serving as chairman for Garrett County.

Advance tickets are available at Hometown Market and Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland and at the Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry.

Following the Frostburg performances, the circus will move to Hagerstown Junior College for two April 5 performances.

Dr. Abrahamson Gives Talk On Vietnam Trip

A workshop on Post Traumatic Stress Disorder was presented recently for the Garrett Community College faculty and staff by Dr. Craig Abrahamson, professor of psychology. Recounting some of his own experiences in dealing with persons exposed to severe emotional trauma, first with earthquake victims, and then with returning veterans, Dr. Abrahamson explained how he come to focus on this problem for his dissertation.

Through his research and study, he realized the importance of trauma victims being able to talk about their experiences, and he stressed the need for society to accept and support persons who have been traumatized.

Dr. Abrahamson told of his recent trip to Vietnam as a member of the International Council for Cultural Exchange team of 30 participants from major American universities. Within a two and one-half week period, the team visited both Saigon in South Vietnam and Hanoi in North Vietnam for the purpose of meeting with their counterparts in teaching disciplines at Vietnam universities. Dr. Abrahamson said he was surprised to find that there were no psychology professors in Vietnam because the universities do not teach psychology.

Upon further investigation, he began to realize that Vietnamese people do not have the psychological problems and emotional disorders generally found in other countries because they are, of necessity, too concerned with surviving.

For his observations, he developed the hypothesis that the continual manifestation of post traumatic stress disorder, alcoholism, drug abuse, and other emotional disorders are possible results of affluence. He gave as an example, a full professor at Ho Chi Minh University whose monthly salary is $15, and whose goal is to be able to afford to buy a can of Coca-Cola and drink it all himself.

Letters

To the Editor:

After thinking for a long time, I had no choice other than typing this letter on the word "respect" and what it really means.

I am a 42-year-old woman and was raised to believe you must respect to be respected. I have two sons who wear their uniforms with great pride and respect. Anyone who knows us will tell you the same thing.

The question is, what is wrong with the Garrett County law? I know almost everyone in Garrett County and can proudly say they have total respect for me, as I have great respect for them.

It seems that the younger generation have no respect for themselves or anyone else.

On November 15, 1990, I was at the commissioners' office and was asked to leave. I started to walk out and an official from the town came in and I guess I was not moving fast enough for this officer as I have been off work for five years due to a back injury. The officer or "smart young punk" pushed me in the back and I did tell him not to push me again. Well, I had respect enough to let this go, but I hope he comes around me again because I will not have any respect for him whether he is in uniform or not. I will take my chances.

It's a shame that one "punk" should ruin it for all the other officials.

Sincerely,
Sandy Harvey

To the Editor:

After years of being shelved, campaign finance reform has made it to the front-burner in Annapolis. The Maryland General Assembly appears poised to pass bills, sponsored by House Speaker R. Clayton Mitchell and Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller, that would limit political action committee (PAC) contributions and restrict lobbyists from fundraising for candidates who they lobby.

Why is reform needed? Common Cause/Maryland recently completed a two-year study of PAC contributions to state candidates. We found that PAC contributions to 1990 General Assembly winners increased 71% over the 1986 figure, rising from $1.3 million to $2.3 million. Eighty percent of PAC money went to incumbents, reducing competition and accountability. The largest PAC, the Maryland Legal PAC, contributed $250,000 to state candidates. Another Pac controlled by trial lawyers, Citizens Rights PAC, contributed $67,000. Insurance PACs supporting no-fault automobile insurance gave just over $44,000. Is it a coincidence that the issue of no-fault, fiercely opposed by trial lawyers because it would limit suits, has been squashed in the General Assembly this year? (Common Cause is neutral on no-fault).

Common Cause/Maryland believes reform that is needed is worth doing well. There are presently no limits on PAC contributions to state or county candidates in Maryland. The Miller-Mitchell bill would prohibit a PAC from contributing more than $8,000 to any one candidate during a four-year election cycle. Our analysis shows the $8,000 proposed limit would have had virtually no effect on PAC contributions to General Assembly candidates had it been in place during the 1990 elections -- only two winning General Assembly candidates received a contribution from a PAC above $8,000.

Real campaign reform requires a limit of no more than $4,000 on what a PAC could contribute to a General Assembly candidate over a four-year election cycle, and a limit on what a candidate can accept from all PACs combined (either a percentage of their total receipts or a dollar amount, or a combination of the two). And, as the Miller-Mitchell bill would do, real campaign reform must prohibit lobbyists from bankrolling candidates who they lobby.

1991 presents the best opportunity since the Water gate era for the passage of real campaign reform in Annapolis. The General Assembly should seize this chance to limit special interest influence and restore public confidence in state government.

Sincerely,
Phil Andrews
Executive Director
Common Cause of Maryland

THE GIFT OF HEARING was granted to an Accident Elementary School student recently thanks to efforts by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club. A device known as a phonic ear has been purchased by the club and donated to C.J. Thomas, son of Sam and Sharon Thomas, Accident, for use in the classroom of Anna Buckingham. C.J.'s hearing impairment is such that he is not able to discern what his teacher is saying unless she is looking directly at him. The money for the phonic ear was raised by the DCL Lions Club through such activities as chicken barbecues and Winterfest activities (a boat show and Las Vegas Night). According to club member Wade Grove, the Lions Club learned about C.J.'s disability when his parents attended a January meeting. By February, C.J. was using the phonic ear. C.J. will use the devise until he is able to obtain one of his own. The devise will then be made available to another student for use in the classroom. Mrs. Thomas reportedly had approached the Garrett County Board of Education to inquire about grants for the purchase of the devise but was informed that, even if she were successful, it would probably take at least two years before obtaining one. Pictured above, left to right, are Mrs. Buckingham, C.J., and Wade Grove.

To the Editor:

I am writing my complaints about people who are on welfare. I am not writing about the ones that really need it and put it to good use.

Some of these people get a welfare check and use it for alcohol. I know for a fact this is true because some of these people are my relatives, I am ashamed to say. Some of them have been on welfare for years.

I, as a taxpayer, am concerned for the children's welfare, and I feel that something should be done about this. I know that there are a lot of other people who work and pay taxes, and are also concerned for the children's welfare and feel the same as I do.

Why should these people be able to use our taxes for their booze parties? If we choose to ignore this situation the people in this community will always be the same. People will drink, party, and forget about their children's needs. That's why they get welfare in the first place, for their children.

Mikulski Seeks To Compensate Military Reservists

Senator Barbara A. Mikulski (D,Md) has introduced a bill to compensate federal employees who served on active duty during Operation Desert Storm for the difference between their military reserve salary and their regular federal salary.

"We called these brave men and women to turn in their federal ID cards for dog tags," said Senator Mikulski, "and they shouldn't return home to find a stack of unpaid bills and overdue notices next to their yellow ribbons. The next few months should be a time of triumph for these troops, not a time of hardship."

Her bill, a companion to legislation introduced in the House by Rep. Richard Durbin (D,Ill.), would make compensation pay retroactive to the day the reservist was activated for Desert Shield or Desert Storm. There were about 10,000 federal employees nationwide who were mobilized in the reserves and sent to the Persian Gulf.

Senator Mikulski praised the many businesses and state and local governments that have already agreed to compensate their employees for the difference between their regular salaries and their combat pay, calling them "good-guy employers." She added that the "federal government should be a leader in this effort -- a model employer."

SATISFYING SEAFOOD

We Americans have a love-hate relationship with seafood. We love to eat it, but we hate to prepare it. Many consumers, who love seafood in a restaurant, avoid preparing seafood at home because of the hassle, the smell and the mess.

Surimi seafood, first exported to the United States in the mid 1970s, takes the mess and inconvenience out of seafood cookery. Today we consume over 150 million pounds a year.

Louis Kemp ™ Crab Delights® and Lobster Delights® products are satisfying surimi seafood, fully-cooked and ready-to-eat. Steam-baked Alaskan fish provides the delicious taste of shell fish without its high price or high cholesterol.

Now you can easily prepare a savory sampler of international seafood entrees. Scampi, divan, stir-fry or alfredo — these entrees provide a satisfying bill of fare.

Relax and enjoy convenient, hassle-free seafood cookery. You don't always need to rely on special recipes, however, simply substitute these seafood flakes and chunks for shell fish in your own favorite salad, chowder or casserole recipes.

DO YOU KNOW THAT 25% ARE STILL ALIVE?

We are living in an amazing age. Of all the human beings who ever lived, 25% are still alive, 90% of all scientists are still living. A few hundred years ago few people were alive at 40. Now the average person lives more than seventy years. With new discoveries future generations will live longer.

Seven out of ten of the ingredients in today's prescriptions were unknown 30 years ago. Every day adds better drugs. As soon as they are released for safe use we stock them. Keep in touch with your physician. With modern medicines he can add years to your life.

Is It Fun To Be Surprised?

When each new experience springs forth like a jack-in-the-box . . . and your fondest possessions are toys . . . and your chief concern is to squeeze out of every hour the last ounce of amusement—then it's fun to be surprised!

But when you've grown too old for toys . . . when life is laced with serious challenges . . . when happiness depends on a thousand social, economic and moral decisions—then surprises can be devastating!

It is elementary that our early education must prepare us for the later surprises. The knowledge, habits and skills we acquire must be adequate for meeting the unexpected as readily as the expected.

And because religious faith and moral fortitude are our chief resources in the unheralded crises of adult life, we must nurture their development in our children.

Support, encourage, serve God's house in its vital efforts to mold the character of today's youth—tomorrow's adults.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS!

March 24, 1991

Background Scripture: Matthew 25:31-46.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 119: 10-16.

Up until a few minutes ago I was wrestling with what I felt was a strong obligation. Tomorrow is the day our church serves a meal to several thousand people in Dallas, as well as distributing clothing and toys. Last year my wife and I found it a very meaningful day and were looking forward to participating again this year.

But this has been one of those weeks—we've worked longer, gotten to bed later, gone out more frequently, and gotten further behind in weekly tasks—like getting out this column and another one we write together. Today, I fell even farther behind and I'm burning the midnight oil in order to get this in tomorrow morning's mail.

AN OBLIGATION

So, I was beginning to see tomorrow's event as an obligation that was hanging over my head and I have been rationalizing with myself as to whether I would be justified in skipping it this year. I had pretty well decided to do just that, when I sat down to write this piece on the Parable of the Sheep and the Goats.

This is always a shattering bit of teaching, but tonight it has really shaken me. The final judgment is portrayed as a division between the sheep and the goats. The sheep will go to the King's right hand—the place of favor—while the goats will be relegated to the left hand—the place of disfavor. And the basis for that division of the sheep and the goats has nothing to do with what denomination we choose, the church we attend, what creeds or doctrines we subscribe to, the church offices we hold, etc. What does matter is that we have responded to our opportunities to feed the hungry, welcome the strangers, clothe the naked, visit the sick and those in prison—in short, to help those who needed help, as Jesus indicated in the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

Of course, in the parable, Jesus puts it on a personal basis: "For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me" (25:35, 36). Those whom Jesus condemns for not doing these things want to know: "Lord, when did we see thee hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to thee?" (25:44). They are protesting that they never had the opportunity to do any of those things for Jesus.

THE LEAST OF THESE

Jesus' reply shakes us as much as it must have shaken them: "Truly, I say to you, as you did it not to one of the least of these, you did it not to me" (25:46). There's no good in protesting that we haven't had the opportunities, for, in truth, every time we see our neighbors in need was an opportunity to minister to Christ himself.

How serious is this? Very serious, for in the parable the King says, "Depart from me, you cursed, into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels." In other words, if we fail to grasp our opportunities to serve Christ through our neighbors, we will have separated ourselves from God.

The key is to be found in how we view the situations of need that we encounter. If we look upon the needs of others—as I was looking at tomorrow's event in downtown Dallas—as an obligation, than we will often fail this sheep and goats division.

I have made up my mind not to miss the opportunity that awaits me tomorrow. I can't afford to. Can you?

Actress familiar with legal system roles

Sydney Walsh co-stars on 'Eddie Dodd'

By Mary Ann Townsend

The role of private detective Kitty Greer is more than just another adventure into the world of law and order for actress Sydney Walsh. Walsh co-stars with Treat Williams Tuesday nights on ABC's Eddie Dodd, a drama about a radical lawyer and his detective friend. It is one of many roles Walsh has had that involve the legal system.

Well-versed in Shakespeare, Walsh looks at the series as a way of furthering her mastery of acting.

"TV is as challenging as Shakespeare can be. I love working on television," she said. "Each scene can be rehearsed and worked out like a play."

Walsh had been successful with stage work, but in January 1985 she moved to Los Angeles, finding work in episodic television. Her first job was on The Paper Chase, followed by a guest-starring spot on Equal Justice and a regular role as patrol officer Mo DeMott on Hooperman.

"I think that just may be coincidental. A lot of television may be about the law or about law and order or about police and crime or about justice. What attracts me to what I do is the process of acting, more than law and order or crime or any of those things," Walsh said.

Riders on the Storm, her next feature film, due out this year, is no proof of that, however.

"It's about an FBI agent who comes to Los Angeles to work for the FBI undercover as a surfer," Walsh excitedly explained. "It's Keanu Reeves, and he works with Gary Busey, and I play Gary Busey's FBI data systems specialist assistant."

'Wolves' threatens to run away with Oscar

Costner's western leads the pack

By Amy Schmidt

Tinsel Town's biggest night of the year will culminate Monday, March 25, with The 63rd Annual Academy Awards. ABC will broadcast the Hollywood gala live from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles.

Front and center with the most nominations is Kevin Costner and his western drama Dances With Wolves. Dances With Wolves scored 12 nominations, the same number as 1981's Reds and one short of the 13 nominations received by 1966's Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?

Costner's film is the first western to be nominated since 1969 and would be only the second ever to win. (Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid (1969) was the last western nominated; Cimmarron (1931) captured best picture.)

Runners-up in the most-nominated category are Dick Tracy and The Godfather Part III with seven, GoodFellas follows with six, Cyrano de Bergerac and Ghost each with five.

Vying for this year's 24 Oscars will be film professionals from 223 movies. The nominees, selected by more than 4,800 members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, include:

Picture: Awakenings, Dances With Wolves, Ghost, The Godfather Part III, GoodFellas

Actress: Kathy Bates, Misery; Anjelica Huston, The Grifters; Julia Roberts, Pretty Woman; Meryl Streep, Postcards From the Edge; Joanne Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Bridge

Supporting Actress: Annette Bening, The Grifters; Lorraine Bracco, GoodFellas; Whoopi Goldberg, Ghost; Diane Ladd, Wild at Heart; Mary McDonnell, Dances With Wolves

Oscar firsts could occur if, for instance, Costner wins best director and best actor trophies; no actor/director has ever done so. A win by Graham Greene would be the first win by a Native American; a win by The Godfather Part III would be the first win by a "three-quel" and would mean a best picture sweep by the mafioso series.

Two honorary Oscars will be awarded during the ceremonies — one to actress Myrna Loy (The Thin Man), and one to the legendary Sophia Loren. Last year's host, Billy Crystal, returns as emcee this year, and Bob Hope will make his 27th appearance on the show.

© TV Listing Inc

Billy Crystal will be among the Oscars and the stars who win them during The 63rd Annual Academy Awards, Monday. This marks the second year the popular comedian will have hosted the event, which airs live on ABC from Los Angeles' Shrine Auditorium.

HOROSCOPE

March 24 through March 30

By C.C. Clark

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
A new point of view will spur you on to the path of success. All it takes is a little open-mindedness, and new avenues you never imagined will open up to you.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Conservative advice from an old friend could prove to be quite useful. Rushing through an important project to finish on deadline may not be in your best interest.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Minor obstacles that have been a great source of frustration will be removed this week. Pay close attention to details, especially on the domestic front.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Just touching base with friends and family is important for you this week. Take some time to visit and really enjoy yourself; you'll be surprised at how good you feel.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
It is important to say what you have to say tactfully, especially when dealing with loved ones. Your words can be easily misinterpreted, so be extra careful.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
While you may feel in need of individual praise, remember others have worked just as hard to accomplish specific tasks. Let them know you appreciate their efforts.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Romance is unpredictable at best for you right now. This week may mark the beginning or the end of a long-term relationship. Either way, it will serve your best interest.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
A positive attitude could help you get the much-needed support you need for a certain project. A friend who has been out of your life for a while will return.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Be wary of becoming involved in situations you know are impossible to get out of. Watch your finances closely and trust your own judgment regarding spending.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Watch out for those with a chip on their shoulder. You don't need the hassles of dealing with these people. It is important to take care of yourself this week.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Try to keep a low profile when dealing with authority figures. When looking for a solution to a problem, remember two heads are usually better than one.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Conversations will seem to take a strange turn this week, no matter to whom you are talking. Friends and family may be heading your way soon for some fun.

500 Parties In Grantsville Raise $681

The annual 500 card parties in Grantsville to benefit the American Heart Association were "a great success," according to the organizers of the project. A total of $681 was raised during the events which are held each year at the American Legion, Post 214, in Grantsville. Various local individuals and organizations donate prizes for high scores and items to be raffled off.

This year the dates of the card parties were February 2, February 23, and March 2. Top scorers for these nights were Nancy Malloy, and for two evenings, "Doc" Shunk, both of Grantsville. A $50 U.S. Savings Bond is donated by the Grantsville American Legion, and given to the individual who has the highest score for all evenings added together. The high scorer this year was "Doc" Shunk.

Refreshments were served after playing cards each evening by Grantsville area organizations. This year the hosts were the Grantsville Foodland, Casselman Valley Homemakers, and Diehl's Ford Sales. Shelby Diehl donated a lot of her personal time to help make this annual event a success.

Raffled items this year were won by: Judy Sebold, a fresh flower arrangement donated by Flowers and Things; Mary Alice Broadwater, a customized cake donated by Sharon Garlitz; Judy Sebold, a blanket donated by Newman Funeral Homes; Shelby Diehl, Tiara glassware donated by JoAnn Kamp and Home Interior shelves, donator unknown; Eileen Damon, a homemade cake donated by Shelby Diehl; Wayne Durst, a homemade goose doorstop donated by Betty Beachy; a homemade cake donated by Grace Shunk and won by Nancy Malloy; Shelby Diehl won 4 coffee mugs, a door mat, donator unknown, and a handmade bathroom decoration, donated by Mary Kamp.

Mildred "Mike" Beachy donated a handmade latch hook wall hanging that she left here before she moved to Alaska to live with one of her daughters. This was won by Shelby Diehl. "Mike" has donated an item to be raffled for many years. So, before she left, she left an item for 1991 and 1992. Another supporter of the 500 card parties raffle is Lois Durst, who has donated an afghan for several years in a row. This year the winner of the afghan was Sue Anna McKenzie.

The card parties were coordinated by Judy Sebold, who has helped raise over $4,500 in the past seven years for the American Heart Association. Many people have assisted her in this task. "A big thank you goes out to each and every individual who in any way helped to make my job a little easier," Ms. Sebold said. "I hope everyone will continue to support the American Heart Association, either individually or through a business or an organization."

The Rally will give boys and their parents the opportunity to continue their Scouting adventure, Bryner said. There will be demonstrations by Scout troops and refreshments will be served. For more information, persons may call the Scout Service Center, 301-729-1300.

Sen. Sarbanes Lends Support To EMS Week

Senator Paul Sarbanes has joined in co-sponsoring legislation which designates the week of May 12 through 18 as "Emergency Medical Services Week" in order to "recognize those dedicated men and women who have given their time and talents to providing emergency medical services."

"The dedication of a national Emergency Medical Services Week will give EMS providers well-deserved recognition," Sarbanes said. "Here is Maryland, where we have one of the best emergency medical service systems in the nation, this week will give us an opportunity to express our deep appreciation to those who save so many lives across the state.

"This week will also create an important opportunity for greater public education about accident prevention and medical emergency management," Sarbanes said. "The American College of Emergency Physicians will sponsor events across the country during this week. These activities will give community members the chance to update and expand their knowledge of emergency medical procedures."

Providers of emergency medical services include emergency physicians, nurses, emergency medical technicians, paramedics, educators, administrators, and lay people who have learned CPR and other medical stabilization procedures. "These men and women, dedicated to the health and welfare of millions of Americans every day, deserve our thanks and recognition," Sarbanes said.

ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF JOINT ECONOMIC COMMITTEE -- Senator Paul S. Sarbanes (D-Md.) has been elected chairman of the Joint Economic Committee. Sarbanes said the Committee is examining ways to counter the current recession and to ensure a healthy recovery and is currently holding hearings on the economic outlook for 1991. It will issue its recommendations (in its annual report) within the next few weeks. The JEC holds hearings and publishes reports on various economic topics, studies ways to improve economic performance, and makes economic policy recommendations to Congress.

Project To Measure College Progress Of Maryland High School Graduates

A major project by the Maryland Higher Education Commission will measure the academic achievement of Maryland high school graduates who attend colleges and universities in Maryland.

The Student Outcomes and Achievement Report (SOAR) will allow educators to evaluate the college progress of students from individual high schools. An estimated 15,000 Maryland graduates enroll in colleges and universities in the state each year. Individual students will not be identified.

"This study promises to become a valuable resource, both for high schools and for colleges and universities," said Shaila R. Aery, Secretary of Higher Education. "It will be especially helpful for high schools in curriculum development and counseling."

A county-by-county report on the Fall 1990 freshman class, available later this year, will provide preliminary baseline data for the study. The first SOAR report by high school will be published in 1992.

Among the information the study will ultimately provide to educators, students and parents:

*Data on the relationship between the high school experience and college success.

*College and university grade point averages and retention rates, by high school.

*Transfer patterns of students among Maryland colleges and universities.

*Academic success in freshman English and mathematics courses, by high school.

Secretary Aery said that the study will be valuable to colleges and universities in the admissions process and should enhance cooporation between high schools and colleges.

Beitzel Earns Honors At Annual Photo Exhibit

Beitzel was one of 298 photographers entered in the six-state regional competition. His photographs entitled "Bear" and "New Age" received blue ribbon awards.

These blue ribbon photographs also earn certificates of merit from the Professional Photographers of America, and will be exhibited at the International Exposition of Professional Photography in Dallas in July of this year. After earning 25 certificates of merit, a photographer may receive the degree, Master of Photography, which usually takes several years.

In the same competition, he received a red ribbon--award of achievement for this photograph entitled "Danger! High Voltage."

Judged by masters of photography from all over the United States, the Mid-East Regional Competition consists of entries from Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Ohio, and is one of the largest print competitions in the country.

Beitzel also attended the 38th annual convention and trade show of the Professional Photographers of Ohio where he presented a program on "Creative Fluorescent Backgrounds Using UV Light." This concept, developed by Beitzel and his wife, Esther, is new to the portrait photography market.

Beitzel specializes in the area of glamour photography, but does all types of photography.

Maryland Invited To Celebrate "Tree-Mendous Month" In April

To build on the momentum created by the national celebration of Earth Day 1990, Governor William Donald Schaefer announces April 1991 as "Tree-Mendous Month" and invites Maryland citizens to plant trees across the state.

"Last year thousands of Marylanders united to clean up streams, remove trash from highways, and plant marsh grasses on Earth Day," Governor Schaefer said. "This April, I encourage all citizens to help me plant one million trees to improve our environment, especially the Chesapeake Bay.

"There is a role for every person in Maryland during April," the governor said. "Individuals, civic and community associations, businesses, schools, and farmers can all participate and plant trees during April's Tree-Mendous Month."

Individuals can plant trees on their own property or can join community tree plantings on public lands. Students can also help plant trees on their school property. Businesses can join their fellow co-workers to help beautify business property, or can help plant trees on highway interchanges to enhance regional roads. Farmers can receive financial assistance for planting trees on private land through a special state cost share program.

Coordinators are available in every county to assist civic organizations and community groups to organize tree plantings in their area.

According to the Department of Natural Resources, trees help to control and prevent soil erosion. They also help reduce air pollution by removing pollutants from the air. Trees can increase the value of a homeowner's property, and reduce costs for both heating and air conditioning by supplying a wind barrier in winter and shade in summer. Trees also provide habitat and supply for birds and other wildlife.

Tree-Mendous Month is being organized by the DNR, the Governor's Chesapeake Bay Communications Office, and Maryland Office of Planning. For additional information, persons may call the Forestry Division at (301) 974-3776.

Scout Show At Mall Involves 900 Members

Some 900 Scouts of all ages were on hand to celebrate the oldest and most successful youth movement in America -- Boy Scouting -- when Potomac Council held its annual Scout Show at the Country Club Mall recently. From first-grade Tiger Cubs to senior-high Eagles to Scouters with over 50 years tenure, all shared their Scouting experience with the thousands of on-lookers drawn to the mall.

A very telling remark was made by an older gentleman: "These young men have learned something," stated on older visitor. "They've learned courtesy."

As with past Scout shows, no complaints were registered concerning Scout behavior. Nemacolin Trail District Chairman Steve Shaw said he thought it was the best Scout show ever. "The units obviously worked hard to prepare for this year's show," he said.

Over 35 units prepared 32 displays. They were: Cub Scout Packs 4, 9, 11, 20, 24, 28, 32, 35, 44, 49, 50, 69, 70, 83, 90, 116. Boy Scout Troops included Troop 4, 9, 10, 12, 16, 17, 24, 27, 31, 32, 35, 42, 69, 70, 82, 83 and 90.

As in years past, the Scout jail proved a popular way to raise money for camp scholarships. Council Executive Brad Burr was arrested by Brent Northcraft of Troop 9, was tried, convicted, and sentenced all within a matter of minutes. A total of $560 was raised to bail him out.

Scouting welcomes all boys age 6 through 18. For more information, persons may call the Scout Service Center at 301-729-1300.

New Horizons Program Reps Attend Conference

State and federal job training programs and the business community can do much more to help ready women for paid employment. Particular attention should be paid to single parents, low-income women, and those re-entering the work force later in life.

These conclusions were reached by the more than 550 employment and training experts and women's advocates from around the nation who met in Washington, D.C. at the "All in a Day's Work" conference in February. Three area representatives for the New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College attended the three-day conference February 10-12 on women's economic opportunities, which included addresses by Representative Eleanor Holmes Norton (D-DC), Office of Personnel Management Director Constance Berry Newman, Working Woman Magazine editor Kate Rand Lloyd, and ABC News correspondent Carole Simpson. "All in a Day's Work" was sponsored jointly by the National Displaced Homemakers Network and Wider Opportunities for Women.

"At this conference, we learned that the obstacles that conspire to keep single parents and displaced homemakers in low-paying jobs here in Maryland are pervasive nationwide," said Barbara Frey, director of the New Horizons Program. "Too many job training programs which receive state and federal money still are geared primarily to men. Encouraging business leaders to open higher paying and non-traditional jobs to women is an ongoing challenge virtually everywhere. At a time when the economy is week, it is imperative that lawmakers understand that job training and employment programs make good economic sense."

Eleven members of Congress who have led the fight to open job training and employment opportunities to displaced homemakers and low-income women were honored, at the conference. Representative Constance A. Morella (R-Md.) was one of the members of the group honored. Sue Sines and Mary Kirkland, of the New Horizons Program, also met with key staff members for Senator Barbara Mikulski to ask them to support:

* Full funding for the Displaced Homemakers Self-Sufficiency Assistance Act, which was passed by the Congress and signed into law by President Bush last year, with a target $35 million authorization;

* Enactment of the Non-traditional Employment for Women (NEW) Act to increase women's opportunities for training in high wage occupations;

* Strengthening student financial aid provisions in the Higher Education Act to reflect the needs and family responsibilities of women students who are returning to school.

The New Horizons Program provides services for single parents, homemakers, displaced homemakers, and sponsors The Caring Connection Program, which serves adolescent single parents and pregnant teens. Services include peer and career counseling, decision making, career testing, skills identification, pre-employment skills training, vocational skills training in both credit and non-credit courses, job awareness assistance, and service agency referrals.

Persons interested in learning more about the New Horizons Program and eligibility requirements are encouraged to call New Horizons at 387-6666, ext. 171, weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

For further registration information, persons may call Dr. Herman at 387-9199.

DHR Announces Additional Cuts In Welfare Grants

Carolyn W. Colvin, secretary, Department of Human Resources (DHR) and Charles L. Benton, secretary, Department of Budget and Fiscal Planning, have announced an additional $1,745,000 in spending reduction for Fiscal Year 1991 for DHR.

Beginning April 1, welfare grants to Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and General Public Assistance (GPA) will be reduced to last year's level (2.5% reduction in AFDC and 5% in GPA) because the General Assembly did not provide adequate funding, to meet the increasing demand for public assistance, Secretary Colvin said. The budget cuts will affect an estimated 98,000 cases statewide.

"For the past four years, Governor Schaefer has been very supportive of programs for the poor, but no one could have predicted the tremendous increase in the numbers of people who need this assistance," Secretary Colvin said.

"The Governor and I know that this change will be hard for you and your family," Secretary Colvin said in a letter sent to all AFDC and GPA recipients. "We know that welfare grants are already too low. We hope that the General Assembly will soon provide the money to increase your grant," Colvin said.

WOW Lodge Has February Meeting

Woodmen of the World Lodge 11 met at the Lodge Hall on Tuesday, Feb. 27, with 16 members present. John Sines, president, called the meeting to order.

Two new members were accepted into Lodge 11.

The youth report was given by Asa McCain, who said planning for summer youth camp will begin soon.

The Lodge voted to make a contribution to the Oakland Little League.

Robert Rodeheaver reported that there is a shortage of U.S. flags because of the demand for flags because of Operation Desert Storm. Woodmen of the World is the second largest purchaser of U.S. flags.

The spring meeting of the Western Md. Association will be held this Sunday, March 17, at Grantsville.

George and Ellen Zimmerman were selected to represent the Lodge at the Fraternal Congress meeting at Hagerstown in May.

A contribution will be made to Habitat for Humanity in honor of Asa McCain Sr.

The 1989-90 Lodge scrapbook is nearly completed and George Zimmerman will deliver it on Friday, March 1. Marcette Danner created and coordinated the graphics for the contents. Robert Rodeheaver designed and Asa McCain constructed the cover. This project is always a combined effort of numerous members of Lodge 11.

The "Go For The Gold" project is completed and has been submitted.

Delegates to the Jurisdictional Convention in Atlantic City, April 19-21, were urged to get their reservations confirmed at the Claridge Hotel as soon as possible.

Insurance coverage for the Lodge property was discussed and the trustees were requested to check on this and report at the March meeting.

Spencer Graham then shared some of his experiences with the Lodge.

The next meeting will be held March 27 at the Lodge Hall on Herrington Manor Road. All members of Lodge 11 are invited to attend.

Dennett Road School Arboretum Committee Meets

The Dennett Road School Arboretum Committee held meetings on February 25 and March 4 for planning spring activities and identifying priority needs relative to further development of the arboretum. Those in attendance were Clark Sharpless, school principal; Mrs. Linda Fleming, Chapter I resource teacher; Les McDaniel, school guidance counselor; Mrs. Billie Sue Durham, parent; Mrs. Liz Shiflett, parent; Mrs. Donna Cook, Chapter I resource assistant and parent; Mrs. Carol Tuomisto and Mrs. Barbara Schick, parents and co-chairpersons of the Arboretum Committee.

Upcoming activities that will involve fourth and fifth graders at Dennett Road include: April 3, tree staking and spreading of wood chips along one of the marked pathways, in celebration of Maryland Arbor Day; and April 26, tree plantings in recognition of Earth Day.

Several needs were identified in accordance with the project's objective of developing the arboretum into a true learning laboratory. The school has recently applied for its second annual grant from the Forest Conservancy District Board through the Chesapeake Bay School Reforestation Program. All monies awarded by the Forestry Board must be used by the school for the purchase of trees only. Therefore, all other arboretum plantings (such as flowering plants, shrubs), equipment, and supplies must be obtained through other sources. These include donations from local businesses and service organizations, private donors, or other grant programs when available.

"The school appreciates the overwhelming support it has received from the local community since the project's inception in January 1990," stated a committee spokesman. "Likewise, the school is hopeful that this generosity will continue as the Arboretum Committee strives to meet its objective of providing a learning site for students and a place of public interest as well."

Current needs include the purchase of additional park benches and large-capacity (seating for 12) picnic tables for instructional purposes and relaxation for public visitors; construction of a new, front-lawn school sign that will be architecturally compatible with the arboretum's environmental theme; purchase of permanent sign markers for tree identification; acquisition of a bird bath; and purchase of wooden waste receptacles to be permanently installed at various locations within the arboretum grounds.

The Dennett Road School will "gratefully accept" any and all donations toward the arboretum project, the spokesman said. All contributors will be publicly recognized on a plaque to be permanently attached to the school's new front-lawn sign, once it has been funded and built. All interested donors are asked to contact Clark Sharpless at Dennett Road School, 1217 Dennett Road, Oakland; phone: 334-3452.

The Arboretum Committee will meet again Monday, March 25, at 2 p.m., in the school's Chapter I room. The public is welcome to attend.

Students, Veteran Groups Present Patriotic Program

The students of Kitzmiller Elementary School, in conjunction with the Disabled American Veterans, Post 29, based in Oakland, and the DAV Auxiliary, conducted a patriotic program Friday, in honor of all the Americans who fought in the Persian Gulf War.

Members of Mountain Top Post 29, Commander Conrad James, Bill Myers, Bill Corbin, Aveta McCrum, Wilda Sanders, Sandra Corbin, Clara Gauer, and Commander of the DAV Auxiliary Hazel Myers, presented flags, pins, and a flag booklet to every child in the school, and informed the children about the meaning of the pledge to the flag and the proper care of the flag.

The students then performed their portion of the program by singing patriotic songs. Mrs. Shipley's 3-4 class sang "America," Mrs. Brady's K-1 class and Mrs. Morris's 1-2 class together sang "Flag Song," Ms. Burrell's 4-5 class performed "50 Nifty United States," and then the students in grades 3, 4 and 5 sang "America, America" and "America, the Beautiful."

In closing, James Morris, principal, presented flags to Mrs. Leona Brantner and Mrs. Teresa Moyer and her two children, Wayne III and Joey, in honor of family members serving in the Gulf "for a job well done!" Mrs. Brantner, an assistant in the school, has a son, Michael, serving in the Navy on the USS Thomas S. Gates. Mrs. Moyer's husband, Wayne Moyer Jr., is in the Army in the Gulf area. Wayne Moyer III is a student in the Head Start Program at Kitzmiller School. The two flags were also donated by the Disabled American Veterans, Post 29.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM PRESENTED -- Pictured above are some of the persons honored recently in a patriotic program presented by the students of Kitzmiller Elementary School, in conjuction with the Disabled American Veterans (DAV), Post 29; and the DAV Auxiliary. The presentation was held last Friday and was to honor those who fought in the Persian Gulf war as well as those soldiers' families (see story). Pictured left to right are Conrad James, Commander of DAV, Post 29; Wayne Moyer III, Joey Moyer, Teresa Moyer, James Morris, principal; Leona Brantner, and Hazel Myers, Commander of DAV Auxiliary.

Dennett Road Parent Advisory Council Meets

Dennett Road's Parent Advisory Council (P.A.C.) held another parent meeting on March 14 in the school cafetorium. Thirty-two people attended, including 28 parents and four staff members, one of whom is also the parent of a Dennett Road student.

Clark Sharpless, school principal, welcomed the group and introduced the day's guest speaker, Dr. Michael Yura, associate professor of counseling and guidance at West Virginia University. Dr. Yura's presentation, "Teachable Moments," focused on the importance of "seizing the moment" with one's child relative to discussing issues that present themselves as significant in the child's life at a particular time. Such discussions may address specific topics in the areas of cognitive skills and academics; emotions; social behaviors; and physical growth and development or physiological changes as they concern the child or those around him.

As part of his presentation, Dr. Yura invited parents to share personal stories of "teachable moments" that they'd experienced with their children. He also explained that there are valuable lessons to be learned from both positive moments (for example, in showing concern for another person's feelings) and negative moments (such as in witnessing the behaviors of a group that is "high" on drugs).

Following Dr. Yura's talk, Dennett Road's P.A.C. president, Mrs. Bonnie Edwards, opened the business meeting by introducing the following people as they presented individual committee reports; Mrs. Pat Bowser, County Council of P.T.A.'s; Mrs. Elizabeth Shiflett, Chapter I Regional School Meeting; Mrs. Karen Metheny, School Beautification; Mrs. Barbara Shick, Arboretum; and Mrs. Donna Pumphrey, School Volunteers.

The following P.A.C. events were announced by Mrs. Linda Fleming, Chapter I resource teacher:

Tuesday, March 19: A parent workshop will be held in the Chapter I room, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., for the purpose of finishing kindergarten registration packets and summer packets. All parents are invited to come for all or any part of the day as helpers.

Tuesday, March 26: Dr. Michael Yura will be speaking to parents of Dennett Road, Broad Ford, Crellin, Red House, and Kitzmiller schools at Broad Ford School, 1:30 p.m. His topic will be "Motivating Your Child" and "Homework." All parents are encouraged to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Fleming then thanked Mrs. Bonnie Friend and Mrs. Susan Sines for their help as hostess and registration coordinator, respectively.

The meeting concluded with the awarding of a door prize by Mrs. Naomi McKenzie. The large, handled basket donated by Fitzwater Furniture was presented to Mrs. Jeannie Matras. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

THE MOUNTAIN ANTHEMS MIXED CHORUS, under the direction of Menno Beachy, will present a concert at the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren in McHenry this Sunday, March 24, at 7 p.m. The a capella group has been sining gospel music for about 28 years in churches, prisons, and at various events in 21 states, Washington, D.C., and Canada. They have produced 14 recordings which are available for sale at the concerts. The members come from Western Pennsylvania and Maryland. The public is invited to attend the Sunday's concert.

Fire Marshal Announces '90 Dept. Statistics

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has released the departmental statistics for the period January through December 1990.

In 1990, the Office of the State Fire Marshal recorded a 12.7% increase in fire code inspections statewide. Last year, there were 14,848 fire code inspections recorded, as compared with 13,179 the previous year.

The Agency conducted a total of 4,413 total fire and explosive investigations in 1990, a slight reduction from the 4,520 recorded in 1989.

Additionally, the Agency conducted 561 arson investigations of the 1,356 initial fire investigations which were performed. That is, approximately 41.4% of the initial fire investigations conducted by the Agency were determined to be arson investigations.

The busiest month for initial investigations occurred in March with 193. December was the slowest month of the year with only 135 initial investigations conducted.

During 1990, the Office of the State Fire Marshal's Bomb Squad responded to approximately 597 explosive incidents. This was a dramatic increase from the 433 explosive incidents recorded in 1989.

In 1990, 203 persons were arrested by State Fire Marshals for arson and fire code violations. Of the 203 arrests, 147 were for arson-related crimes.

The Eastern Region, consisting of Queen Anne, Caroline, Dorchester, Talbot, Somerset, Wicomico, and Worcester counties, led the agency with 37 individuals arrested for arson. The Western Region recorded the highest total number of arrests for arson, explosives, and fire code violations, with 49.

During 1990, the Agency performed 14,848 inspections throughout the state. The busiest month for inspectors during the year was June with 1,608 fire code safety inspections conducted. These inspections are conducted to insure buildings meet Maryland's minimum fire safety regulations.

Those properties receiving the most frequent inspections by State Fire Marshals were multi-family residential and educational occupancies, with 3,218 and 2,638 inspections conducted, respectively. The Fire Protection Engineering Bureau performed 4,053 plan reviews, the second highest number of plan reviews performed in the Agency's 27 year history.

The Office of the State Fire Marshal, an agency of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services, is mandated by law to perform fire safety inspections and to suppress arson among its various duties and responsibilities.

Commenting on the Agency statistics for 1990, State Fire Marshal Gabriele stated, "1990 was an extremely productive year for the men and women of the Office of the State Fire Marshal. During this time of budget constraints, the Agency continues to give 100% to the citizens of the State."

SCIENCE EXPO WINNER - Ginger Zimmerman, a senior, is the winner of this year's Science Expo at Southern High School. Her project was entitled The Stress of Expectation. It used a biofeedback microlab to determine the biological reactions to test taking. Earlier this year, a spokesman from the Maryland State Department of Education said that after searching, she found no other high schools in Maryland using this level of technology in psychology classes. Other students placing were: Nancy Alvarez, second place, The Role of Ideal Living; Heather Savage, third place, Effects of Color on Eidetic Imagery; honorable mentions went to Dan Nordeck, Love and Suicide; Kristen Szal, Are You Under Stress?; and Amy Piper, Adolescents, How Are They Influenced? Zimmerman and Alvarez will now compete in the Garrett County Science Expo '91 at Garrett Community College on March 22. The Regional Expo will be held at Frostburg State University on April 19. These students are all psychology II students under the instruction of Douglas Oxford.

Nineteen were baptized in symbol of their dedication to Jehovah. Local Elder Del Evans noted that 152 from the Oakland Congregation attended the one-day event.

Workshop On Income Opportunities Focuses On Using Natural Resources

The Cooperative Extension Services of Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania, the Small Business Development Center, and the Maryland Tree Farm Committee will cosponsor a workshop on income opportunities for rural areas on April 6 at Allegany Community College, Cumberland, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The greatest limitation for those interested in income opportunities is the lack of good technical and business knowledge needed to produce, market, and finance nontraditional products and services. The workshop will include down-to-earth discussions on developing a business plan, what a bank is looking for in a loan application, and liability considerations.

A cost of $6 will include lunch and materials. Pre-registration is required, by calling the Allegany County Cooperative Extension Service at (301) 724-3320 or the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service at (301) 334-1990. Brochures are available.

The idea that land can produce products and services that provide income for the landowner and meet a market demand is nothing new. What is new is that many landowners who have produced traditional products and services in the past are looking at new financial opportunities based on utilizing renewable natural resources that may have been previously ignored. There are also many new landowners who can find opportunities in this area. While many of these involve some risk-taking, the possibility for success is there for those who do their homework.

The demand for recreational opportunities by an ever increasing population has resulted in overuse of public lands. People are looking for and willing to pay for quality recreational experiences of fishing, hunting, winter sports, lodging, etc. This has created opportunities for private landowners with fee fishing, hunting, camping, and bed 'n breakfasts.

Most areas of Maryland are within easy reach of diverse urban markets that provide unique marketing opportunities for nontraditional products as well as services. Cut flowers, ornamentals, exotic mushrooms, and other products provide opportunities for farmers and others to diversify their operations and increase income.

One income opportunity that holds great potential is aquaculture. The demand for fish continues to grow as a health conscious public searches for farm raised fish. Marketing and technical assistance is available for those who wish to get involved through the University of Maryland System Cooperative Extension Service.

Perhaps the most underutilized resource on most lands is the forest. While some landowners will occasionally harvest some timber, better marketing of forest products will improve income return and assure good forest management practices. Utilizing low-value products for firewood or growing shiitake mushrooms provide marketing opportunities, and small portable mills open up opportunities for small business to provide custom sawing services.

After lunch consecutive sessions will be held on the following topics: aquaculture, hunting leases, fee fishing, camping, sporting clays, bed 'n breakfast, forest products, custom sawmilling, ornamental cut flowers, organic fruits and vegetables, shiitake mushrooms and ginseng.

Persons who have ever thought about, or considered, any of these enterprises, will find this the opportunity to have questions answered by experts, and gain access to the most current literature available.

Mountain Fresh To Hold Vegetable Production Clinic

The Mountain Fresh Producers are sponsoring a Vegetable Production Workshop on Thursday, March 28, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension Office.

Dr. Chuck McClurg, vegetable specialist, University of Maryland, will be on hand to present the program. Dr. McClurg will be covering several topics such as growing vegetables in the field under plastic, pest management (weeds and insects), cole crop production, and variety selection.

There also will be a question and answer period. The public is invited to attend, and should make reservations by contacting the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1990.

The highlights of the Mountain Fresh Producers Association February 28 general membership meeting included a brief report on the West Virginia Direct Marketing Meeting held in Morgantown by Ed Grose. Highlights of the meeting were a computer seminar and the FFA presentation. Grose also attended a seminar on a prototype spray boom developed by the WVU Ag Engineering Department. Grose reported that it has a six-row, 21-foot boom designed for small farm use. Basic plans are available from the Ag Engineering Department, and can be build for an approximate cost of $180 for materials.

To help defray the general operating expenses of the organization, it was voted to reinstate the membership fee for 1991. Fees are due June 1 and are $10 per family or $5 per student.

New members to the board of directors were elected for the 1991-92 term. They are Terry Hauser, Doug Herbert, and Jim Fearer. They will join Vicki Weeks, Barb Sanders, Ed Grose, and Robert Jones on the board. Board members will meet prior to the next membership meeting to elect officers for 1991.

The following pavilion use policy will be tried during the 1991 tail-gate market season. Members have priority use and spaces will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis. Non-members can use any unfilled spaces but cannot move under the pavilion until after that day's market opening time. Approximately 18 spaces are available, enough for a typical market day. It was also agreed to abide by the opening time for each market day. No selling will be permitted until the market coordinator signals the opening of the market.

The next general membership meeting is scheduled for April 4 at 7:30 p.m., at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office.

Wye Angus Sale Set For April 6

Wye Angus beef cattle will go to the auction block at the 13th annual sale commencing at noon on Saturday, April 6.

The Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station is offering 30 bulls (26 yearlings and four two-year olds) at this year's sale. The sale also features 15 cow/calf pairs.

At the 1990 auction, 25 yearling bulls were sold at an average price of $1,530, for a total of $38,250.

Prior to this year's auction, there will be a Bull Selection Clinic starting at 9:30 a.m. in the new Wye Herd Handling Facility. Focusing on the use of Expected Progeny Differences (EPDs) for young sire selection, the clinic will begin with "the ABCs of EPDS" by Wye Beef Program Manager Dean Bryant, followed by Norman Vincel from Select Sires Inc. and Dr. Ronald P. Lemenager from Purdue University.

The clinic is geared toward those with no prior EPD knowledge and is suitable for older 4-H and FFA youth, as well as producers. After the clinic, lunch will be provided from noon to 1 p.m.

This year's sale also offers an opportunity to see the new herd handling facility, scheduled to be completed by sale time. The facility includes a sales arena, herd handling room and staff office.

The Wye Angus herd was donated to the University of Maryland Foundation in 1978 by Arthur Houghton. Named for the late Houghton's Wye Plantation, the herd is managed by the Agricultural Experiment Station at its Wye Research and Education Center in Queen Anne's County.

The center is located seven miles southeast of Queenstown on Maryland's Eastern Shore, or 3 1/2 miles south of U.S. Highway 50, on Carmichael-Wye Neck Road. For a sales catalog or auction schedule, interested persons may contact Dean E. Bryant, Wye Research and Education Center, P.O. Box 169, Queenstown, Md. 21658, or phone (301) 827-6016.

Governor's "2020" Bill Fails; Proposal Tabled For Summer Study

Committees in both the Maryland State Senate and House of Delegates decided to table the Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act (2020 legislation) Thursday, March 14, for summer study.

"There was simply a lack of input into the (2020) commission's study," said Ken Schisler, a member of the House Environmental Matters Committee that studied the 2020 bill. Schisler was one of its vocal opponents, along with many, many farmers, landowners and county officials across the state.

"The commission, because of its makeup, closed out certain groups — bankers, for example," he said. "Because of (the lack of input), the commission couldn't do justice to the bill. We shouldn't pass legislation until we know what we're passing."

Governor William Donald Schaefer's administration heralded the bill as the way to stop the state's growth from destroying both the Chesapeake Bay and rural areas.

It would have divided the state's land into four categories: "Rural resource areas," designated growth areas, developed areas and environmentally sensitive areas. Growth would have been funneled to growth areas and already developed areas, under the 2020 proposals.

The legislature's decision disappointed the administration, who pushed for adoption this year and did not feel the bill needed further study.

"Clearly we're disappointed," said Thomas Burke, spokesman for Schaefer's Chesapeake Bay program. "The problem isn't going to go away. Nature will not take a hiatus. The fact that continual sprawl is detrimental to the bay is out there for everyone to see."

Burke said the problems of growth management have to be addressed now or in the very near future. He put much of the blame for the bill's failure on "misinformation" he said was spread about the measure.

He also suggested that there may be a land development rush now, as people try to develop land before a law preventing rural development is passed.

Farmers opposed the bill, saying it would greatly decrease their land's values and destroy their equity. County government officials opposed the plan because one state agency — the Maryland Office of Planning — would assume a huge role in determining zoning issues statewide.

County officials argued that many of the goals outlined by the 2020 Commission's proposals already were being accomplished at the local level.

At the urging of the Maryland Farm Bureau, more than 1,000 Maryland farmers attended two February legislative hearings on the proposed bill to voice their opposition to it.

Maryland Farm Bureau public affairs director Jack Miller was elated at the news that the 2020 bill was tabled for summer study.

"We're glad the system worked," Miller said. "The people voiced their concerns and the legislators listened."

He added: "We're assuming there will be a study now (of the issues discussed in the 2020 bill). We're hoping that study will include bankers, farmers (and others that were not included in the first study)." Throughout the 2020 debate, Miller has said that the 2020 Commission did not look at the big picture.

He suggested that the commission made some assumptions and based a lot of its findings and suggestions on those assumptions.

"You have to look at the economics of the issue and not go into it with any assumptions," he said.

Some supporters of the 2020 bill have said they are afraid that by tabling the growth control measures for a year, the legislation may never surface.

But the object of putting the bill in summer study is to create a bill that could be more acceptable to the legislature.

Ag Groups Back "Fast-Track" Trade Extension

Fifty-one agricultural organizations, including the American Farm Bureau Federation, are urging Congress to reject proposals that would deprive the Bush administration of "fast-track" negotiating authority for trade agreements.

The groups said in a letter sent Thursday to all members of Congress that the benefits of trade agreements "should not be foreclosed by denying fast-track authority to our negotiators."

Fast-track authority, the organization said, "is essential to a successful and acceptable Uruguay Round trade agreement. Without an agreement, American agriculture will be faced with the very real threat of escalating and damaging trade conflicts in agriculture."

Under U.S. trade law, fast-track authority means the administration could negotiate an agreement and Congress would have 60 to 90 days to consider it. Congress could only vote up or down on the pact as a whole. No amendments would be allowed.

President Bush is seeking extension of such authority, which expires June 1, to complete the four-year-old Uruguay Round of trade talks, and to start negotiations on a North American Free Trade Agreement with Mexico and Canada.

"A vote on the fast-track authority is not a vote for a GATT agreement or for a North American Free Trade Agreement," the groups noted. "A vote for fast-track is a vote to enable the talks to proceed."

Congress, the groups noted, still could offer its views to the administration during the negotiations and still would have the final say when voting on the agreements.

Groups supporting fast-track with Farm Bureau include the National Grange; National Cattlemens Association; National Pork Producers Council; American Feed Industry Associates; the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association; American Oat Association; American Soybean Association; California-Arizona Citrus League; National Association of Wheat Growers; National Barley Growers Association; National Corn Growers Association; National Grain Sorghum Producers Association; and the Rice Millers' Association.

MDA Open House To Begin Saturday With 10-K Run

The third annual "Maryland With Pride 10-K Run" will be held on Saturday, March 23, in conjunction with the annual Maryland Department of Agriculture Open House in Annapolis.

Co-sponsored and sanctioned by the Annapolis Striders organization, the race features a varied flat and hilly course. In 1990, the winning time over the 6.2 mile (10-K) course was about 36 minutes.

Day-long activities are planned for the open house, and will feature laboratory demonstrations, a free plant clinic, food and cooking demonstrations and, new for 1991, an "Old Tyme Farmers' Market" of vendors selling everything from herbal bread to craft items and carved decoys.

Referendum For Grain Checkoff Approved By MDA

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. has recently given approval for the Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA) to hold a state referendum for an all-grain checkoff.

"As state and federal budgets decline, it is becoming increasingly more important for commodity organizations to take the leadership and promote their own products," Cawley said.

The grain referendum will be held on July 26 in each county Cooperative Extension office. All grain producers will be eligible to vote. If the vote is in favor of the checkoff, collection of one half of one percent of the net value will start on October 1. Soybeans are already under a checkoff program.

"This grain checkoff will help us promote the industry," said MGPA President Lawrence Meeks.

"Just 25 years ago as much as 90 percent of the grain produced was fed to farm based livestock and poultry. Today only half of the grain crop is utilized on the farm. We had better get out there and develop new markets if we want to stay ahead of the game," Meeks said.

According to Drew Stabler, chairman of the subcommittee organizing the referendum, there is much potential for using grain in the manufacturing sector of the economy. Ethanol fuel, biodegradable packaging, corn sweeteners, building materials, textiles and plastics are a few of the examples where grain can be used.

The MGPX is now working to develop details of the referendum. For more information contact Drew Stabler at 301-253-3824.

Proper Management Can Make Spring Lambs Healthy And Profitable

March is an exciting time for youngsters on Mid-Atlantic farms with sheep flocks. That's when most of the lambs are born.

During the first few hours after birth, lambs need to nurse vigorously in order to gain full benefit from the disease-protecting antibodies in their mother's colostrum — the vitamin-rich "first milk" produced by all female mammals after giving birth.

Newborn lambs should have their navels disinfected with iodine as soon as they have started breathing, advises Scott M. Barao, sheep specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland System.

This also is a good time to ear-tag and weigh the lambs for record-keeping purposes.

Newborn lambs are susceptible to death by starvation and hypothermia, Dr. Barao notes, because they have very little energy reserves in the form of body fat. So they need to be watched carefully for at least a week after birth. Bright eyes, vigorous nursing and frequent naps are signs of a healthy lamb.

But getting lambs off to a good start is only the first step if you want a successful sheep operation, Barao says.

Flock-owners, or shepherds, need to practice sound management and good planning to insure a profit — especially during the current era of depressed market prices.

Here are some guidelines:

Aim for a 200 percent lamb crop — two lambs per ewe instead of the usual one. This can be achieved by cross-breeding, high-energy feeding of pregnant ewes, and a high lamb-survival rate.

Use resources effectively. Raise lambs to market weight on good quality forage instead of high-priced grain rations. Rotate pastures with temporary fences. March is a good time to interseed legume mixtures into permanent grass pastures. Barao recommends a five-to-one ratio of red clover to ladino clover.

Explore marketing opportunities. Aim for supplying fresh lamb to specialized markets on a year-round basis. Think about specialty diets to capture quality premiums. Avoid feed additives if you want to capture consumers who prefer "naturally grown" lamb.

"One thing is clear," Barao emphasizes. "If you're in the sheep business to make money, you've got to do a lot of little things properly."

Ridomil Fungicide Approved for Alfalfa

Many of you have used Ridomil on your vegetables, particularly snap beans, for control of root and stem diseases. Ridomil has now been approved for use on alfalfa for control of damping-off caused by Pyhthium spp. and root rots caused by Pytophthora spp. Soil applications on newly seeded alfalfa can be applied at up to four pints per acre as a broadcast surface spray at planting. However, the manufacturer says that normally one to two pints per acre should provide adequate seedling protection. Both of these diseases are very common in Garrett County.

A Reminder on the IPM Program

Many of you received a detailed letter on the Integrated Pest Management Program that we are attempting to initiate. AFBF Backs The Common-Sense Wetlands Bill Presented To Congress

The American Farm Bureau Federation Board of Directors voted to back the Comprehensive Wetlands Conservation and Management Act of 1991, calling it a common-sense approach to a serious national wetlands dilemma.

The AFBF Board said the measure, introduced in the House last week, helps resolve farmers' concerns about wetlands regulation and private-property condemnation.

AFBF President Dean Kleckner said the measure addresses the wetlands policy adopted by Farm Bureau members and their most recent convention in January.

"This bill moves in the direction of restoring economic growth, while conserving true wetlands," Kleckner said. "It greatly narrows the current definition and interpretation of wetlands in a manner that reflects true wetland values."

The bill introduced by Reps. Jimmy Hayes (D-La.), Thomas Ridge (R-Pa.), W.J. "Billy" Tauzin (D-La.), Beryl Anthony (D-Ark.), and Don Young (R-Alaska) proposes to replace Section 404 of the current Clean Water Act. To date the proposal has 53 cosponsors.

One major change in Section 404 regulations would be the identification and delineation of wetlands with a concise method based on function and value. Under current law federal regulators can delineate a wetland on the basis of soil type. In contrast the new bill requires the presence of all three indicators — water, soil and vegetation — during the growing season before a wetlands delineation can be made.

Kleckner said the bill aims to balance the need for economic growth and protection of landowners' rights with conservation of genuine wetlands.

"Farm Bureau policy is clear in its support for regulating true wetland areas, but the law must, above all else, protect fundamental private property rights," Kleckner said.

Under the new bill regulators must consider not only the value of the wetland, but the value of the proposed project, the cost, the impact of the project on the area, and other competing social, economic and environmental needs.

The bill provides needed reforms in the current regulatory system, said Kleckner. The bill, he noted, reflects AFBF priorities in many areas including the following:

•Realistic Wetlands Definition — Under the new bill water must be saturated at ground surface for 21 consecutive days during the growing season in years of normal rainfall instead of the old 404 interpretation of saturation within 18 inches of the surface for a period of seven days. As called for by AFBF policy, the new bill's growing season has been defined as the historical average of frost free days within a particular geographic area.

•Exclude Prior Converted Cropland — The bill will exclude in statute "prior converted cropland" from land eligible to be delineated as wetland. Kleckner said, "These lands no longer exhibit any wetland characteristics and should not be regulated as if they still possessed wetland values."

•Expand Normal Farming & Ranching Practices — The legislation includes language restating Congress' intent to exclude normal farming and ranching practices from any permit requirement, which is what AFBF said wetlands legislation should reinforce. In addition the bill allows the Agriculture Department in consultation with the state Extension Service, the land grant colleges and agricultural production groups to determine normal practices, whoch is currently done by the Army Corps of Engineers field personnel.

•Wetland Classification — "Common sense dictates that wetlands should be classified according to their value and functions," Kleckner said, and this bill would achieve this purpose by classifying wetlands into three groups, Types A, B, and C. Type A wetlands must be truly unique and significant wetlands areas and generally could not be altered. On the other end of the scale, Type C wetlands would be considered very common and have only marginal values or importance. No permits would be required of Type C wetlands.

•Provide Compensation — AFBF agrees with the bill's sponsors that landowners who have type A wetlands, which would be largely restricted, should be compensated at fair market value, including attorney's fees.

•Exclusion of Man-Made Wetlands — Farm Bureau does not believe that wetlands created unintentionally by farming practices should be regulated under the 404 program. The bill would exclude from regulation all farm ponds, irrigation ditches, drainage ditches, as well as incidentally created wetlands exhibiting wetlands values and functions for less than five years.

•Compatible Wetland Crops — Some crops, such as cranberries, can be produced compatibly with wetland conservation, and in fact often enhance the wetland area, Kleckner said. This bill would allow cranberry growers to expand production without permit requirements.

Spring Showers Bring On Scours In Beef Calves

Snow, sleet, cold rain and blustery winds aren't the traditional components of spring. But more often than not, that's the weather beef and dairy producers are faced with during or following spring calving. This year is no exception, and unfortunately, this is weather that can cause an explosion of scours in calf herds.

When scours occurs, calves' lives are jeopardized and fast action is necessary to minimize the losses as well as the long-term effects on the survivors. Overall, the average calf death loss to six months of age is 10 percent. Half of that is due to scours.

But it's not the diarrhea that kills, it's dehydration. The loss of essential body fluids causes an imbalance in the calf's electrolytes which can lead to kidney failure, shock and death in a relatively short time.

"Electrolytes are minerals in the blood that are required for normal fluid balance and movement," explains Dr. Vic Cortese, senior technical services veterinarian, Dairy/Ruminant, SmithKline Beecham Animal Health. "These include sodium, potassium and chloride." A scouring calf also loses energy-sustaining nutrients such as glucose, fatty acids and vitamins. And another danger is acidosis, an oversupply of acid in blood and body tissues.

Nasty weather and other stresses such as unsanitary conditions, difficult calvihg, poor quality colotrum or low intake, overcrowding or poor physical condition of the pregnant cow can cause scours or make an existing condition much more severe. But the actual infectious agents that act alone or in combination to cause calf scours are E. coli bacteria, rotavirus or coronavirus and Clostridium perfringens Type C. These agents may also be complicated by the presence of internal parasites, such as coccidia.

The latter type of agent is particularly deadly, says Cortese. "With C. perfringens as the causal agent, often the first sign of disease is death." The other types of scours are generally slower acting, but "if you have a real hot E. coli bacteria, an animal can have the beginning of scours in the morning and be dead 12 to 24 hours later."

That's why Cortese urges prompt action. "At the first sign of scours, no matter how slight, start rehydration therapy with oral electrolytes, followed by administration of a systemic antibiotic.

"By the time you see the scours, you already have electrolyte imbalances and some dehydration is occurring, so oral rehydration therapy should be your first step. A calf can quickly lose 10 percent or more of its body weight through dehydration. Its fecal output during a severe bout of scours may be 40 times greater than normal."

The goal of rehydration therapy is to replace the calf's lost water volume, replace lost electrolytes, correct acidosis and maintain an adequate intake of calories.

Choosing the Product

Cortese says an effective oral rehydration product should provide the proper balance between sodium, potassium, chloride, phosphate and bicarbonate. "If a calf has stopped nursing or if it has been subjected to cold temperatures, it's also critically important that the calf regain its energy," he says.

With several products available, Cortese recommends consulting a veterinarian for help in matching options to specific needs. "Based on experience, he or she will know the glucose, citrate and bicarbonate needs of scoring calves in the area."

In general, he says the choice will hinge on the condition of the calf and environmental factors. "The calf's condition is especially important because scouring calves that are further stressed by cold, wet weather may need a high energy solution. Calves that are off milk have higher energy needs, and if acidosis has set in, the presence of citrate or sodium bicarbonate in the product is important.

"If the calf has stopped nursing and is showing signs of weakness, a high glucose content will help it quickly regain needed energy while replacing essential fluids. At the same time, bicarbonate will help keep the calf from acidotic.

"But if the calf is still nursing and getting some nourishment and energy from the mother cow," says Cortese, "a product containing lower levels of glucose and sodium bicarbonate should do the job."

The condition of the calf also determines the amount of fluid to give. "A mildly dehydrated calf with mild diarrhea will need five to six quarts of fluid in a 24-hour period," he says. "A more severely dehydrated animal with severe diarrhea will need as much as 12 quarts in 24 hours."

Administer both electrolytes and the systemic antibiotic "until the stool is normal," says Cortese. "Then continue the antibiotic a day or two longer than stopping the electrolyte treatment just to make sure the problem is resolved."

It's important to know how to use rehydration agents effectively," he concludes. "But it's equally important to work with your veterinarian to find out which causative agent or agents were involved in the first place. This way, you can work toward prevention of scours problems altogether in the future."

HEARING AIDS
DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?
This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.
We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".
Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

3. 92-X WXIE-FM MOVES FROM 92.1 TO 92.3 ON YOUR FM DIAL

92-X congratulates all of our servicemen in the Persian Gulf for their outstanding efforts in freeing the people of Kuwait and bringing peace back to the Middle East.

We'd like to say our move from 92.1 to 92.3 on your FM dial was done in celebration of the end of the war. But, to be honest, we've been working on this for over a year, and we would have moved anyway, even if the world had never heard of Saddam Hussein.

By moving from 92.1 to 92.3 on the dial, more Garrett Countians will be able to pick up 92-X at home, at work, and in the car. That means more will be able to hear our award-winning local news coverage, Paul Harvey, and more classic hits 24 hours a day.

Barring any unforeseen events, we expect to make the big switch this Friday. And, as a bonus, we'll be tripling our power so more of you can enjoy Steve and Susan in the morning, and more classic hits all day long.

Maryland Sells Bonds At Lowest Rate Since 1980

The Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor William Donald Schaefer, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, and State Treasurer Lucille Maurer today sold $95 million in Maryland General Obligation Bonds for a low interest bid of 6.310138%. This is the lowest interest rate since May, 1980, when the state sold $121.9 million in general obligation bonds for a low interest bid of 6.09956%. The bonds are rated "Triple A," the highest possible rating, by Moody's Investors' Service, Standard and Poor's Corporation, and Fitch's Investors' Service, the three major bond rating agencies.

The winning bid came from a syndicate of financial institutions led by Bankers Trust of New York. A total of six bids were received at the Annapolis meeting of the Board. This is the first time in memory that six bids have been received. All six were in the 6.3% range.

The Board of Public Works is authorized to approve the sale of General Obligation Bonds, and to supervise the expenditure of all funds obtained from the sale of these bonds. Proceeds from the sale will be used to fund a variety of loan authorizations, including $45.2 million for general state construction, $20 million for public school construction, $3 million for higher education facilities, $13 million for water quality projects, $11.2 million for a variety of state and local projects including senior centers, cultural, recreational, educational, and health facilities and local correctional facilities in almost every local jurisdiction.

Maryland remains one of only a handful of states in the nation to win the coveted triple A rating from all of the major bond rating agencies. These 15-year bonds, backed by the full faith and credit of the state, are sold in denominations of $5,000. They are available to the public from brokers and bond dealers.

In commenting on the bond sale, Treasurer Maurer said, "While other states have been put on a negative 'credit-watch,' all three major rating agencies demonstrated their continuing confidence in Maryland by again awarding our bonds the coveted triple A rating. I am also pleased to note the increased interest in the bidding for our bonds. We received a record-setting six bids from syndicates representing the most prestigious financial institutions in America."

Comptroller Goldstein said, "Maryland is fortunate to catch the market at a good time. The triple A rating is a great statement of confidence in our financial management through those unusual economic times."

Governor Scheafer said, "The excellent interest rate is a reflection of our triple A rating and I congratulate the treasurer, the comptroller, and the General Assembly for working so hard to retain the rating."

The low interest rate obtained by Maryland on general obligation bonds is important to every state taxpayer because of the significant savings in repaying the bonds. The highly regarded triple A rating ensures that Maryland taxpayers benefit from the state paying the lowest possible cost of borrowing money for the capital projects. Both state real estate taxes and general funds are used to repay the bonds.

Alcohol, Drugs, Seniors Program To Be Presented

Garrett County Health Department (GCHD) Addictions Prevention Services will be presenting "Alcohol, Drugs, and Seniors" at all Area Agency on Aging (AAA) Senior Nutrition "Eating Together" sites. These drug abuse prevention programs, which can potentially reach 450 senior citizens, will begin April 2.

According to Don Swogger, Addictions Services Substance Abuse Prevention coordinator, the project is funded through Alcohol Drug Abuse Administration and lists six objectives:

*To alert senior citizens to the dangers of alcohol and drug addiction specific to their age group.

*To demonstrate the adverse physical and psychological affects of addiction.

*To identify warning signs of addictions in seniors.

*To teach the danger of combining alcohol and prescription drugs.

*To show that addiction can be treated.

*To identify sources of help for seniors wanting to recover from addiction and to encourage them to seek help.

Swogger developed the project curriculum, which consists of a two-hour program, and also trained project personnel. Norma Bolding, director of Home Health, assisted with the recruitment of appropriate staff, while Barbara Hornyak and Jane Sickeler, AAA, coordinated program scheduling.

Dates, times, locations, and presenters for the "Alcohol, Drugs, and Seniors" program are as follows:

April 2, 11 a.m., Kitzmiller Community Building, Susan Murray;

April 3, 11 a.m., Twila's Old Mill, Friendsville, Jeanne Thayer;

April 9, 10:30 a.m., Starner Hill Apartments, Grantsville, Phyllis Roque;

April 9, 11 a.m., Swanton Community Building, Susan Murray;

April 10, 11 a.m., Jennings Community Building, Phyllis Roque;

April 11, 11 a.m., Old Mill Grill, Gorman, Jean Coviello;

April 18, 11 a.m., Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, Jeanne Thayer;

April 18, 11:30 a.m., Bull's Restaurant, Bloomington, Jean Coviello;

April 23, 11 a.m., Finzel Fire Hall, Phyllis Roque;

April 26, 11 a.m., Oakland Senior Center, Mt. Lake Park, Jean Coviello.

The Area Agency on Aging and GCHD Addictions Service urges Garrett County senior citizens to attend one of these programs. Interested persons may obtain meal reservations by contacting the individual sites.

A follow-up program, "Seniors Taking Charge: Medication Management," is being arranged by both agencies for the month of May, according to Ms. Hornyak. "This is a state-wide program in which seniors may bring in all medications (prescriptions and non-prescription) in a 'brown bag' to have them reviewed by a volunteer pharmacist," she said. The goals of the "brown bags" are:

*Promoting better older person/health professional communication.

*Spotting duplicate, out dated, or poorly stored medicines.

*Reviewing instructions for use and precautions.

*Identifying and solving compliance problems.

Local pharmacists participating in the "brown bags" are: Gerry Beachy Paul Chorpenning, Clint Englander, Ernie Gregg, Jerry Herpel, Lori Kiddy, Milton Proudfoot, Carl Shepp, and Jerry Wolford.

Ms. Hornyak said seniors should watch this paper for additional information or call the AAA, 334-5856, extension 110.

FLAGS ACROSS AMERICA — Lucretia Sines, as a tribute to Desert Storm Troops, set out to make American flags to be worn by a person in each state of the United States. She successfully sent a flag to each state and one to Mrs. George Bush, as well as students of Friendsville and Accident schools, many parents and local citizens. The recipients of the flags signed their names to a form which they returned to her. In her letter of introduction, she asked that each person who received a flag, and is wearing one of her flags, send her their photo for a "tree of support" which she intends to display in the center of Friendsville for soldiers in the Gulf to see when they come home. Sines says she began making flags to "burn" up nervous energy while watching the news and thinking of the men and women serving in the Persian Gulf. She says her project has been a success thanks to Julia Sines and Louise Brenneman's help making the flags and Ross Glotfelty's help typing her letters. Sines is pictured above, left, helping students (left to right) Tammy Michaels, Scott Sisler, Donald Davis, Mindy Robinson and Shane Frazee make flags. Also pictured helping is Julia Sines.

Openings Remain In CPR Class

Space is still available in the CPR class sponsored by the American Red Cross. The class is scheduled for Saturday, March 30, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., in the Garrett County Health Department assembly room at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Instructor for the class will be Susan Athey-Oxford.

American Red Cross Community CPR is eight hours long and will cost $20 per person. This includes the CPR book.

When CPR is combined with quick delivery of the right medical care, it has been shown that about 40 percent of cardiac arrest victims can be saved, according to the Red Cross.

Pre-registeration for the CPR class is required. Those interested may contact the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross at 334-3916 no later than Wednesday, March 27.

The CPR class during the month of April will be held in Friendsville. The date and time will be announced later. Each month, the local chapter will offer a CPR class in a different community in Garrett County.

HEAD START SEEKS ENROLLEES

The local Head Start Program is currently recruiting three and four year old children for enrollment in September, 1991.

Head Start is a pre-school child development program for children from families who fall within federal income eligibility guidelines. Head Start has six (6) major components: education, health, nutrition, parent involvement, social services and handicap. The education program is of learning experiences to foster intellectual, social and emotional growth. Children participate in indoor and outdoor play and are introduced to concepts of words and numbers. They are also encouraged to express their feelings, develop self confidence and the ability to get along with others.

Children with handicapping conditions, participate with other enrolled students and receive all the same services, plus services for their individual special needs.

Head Start provides each child with comprehensive health and nutritional services. Children are served two hot meals every day in order to meet at least two-thirds of their nutritional requirements.

Parents are the most important influence on a child's development and an essential part of every Head Start project is the involvement of parents in all aspects of the program. Many parents volunteer in the classroom, participate in decision making and in training sessions provided by Head Start. Educational activities that can be implemented at home are also available to parents.

140 children are presently enrolled in the Head Start Program. Centers are located in Crellin, Oakland, Jennings, Accident, Kitzmiller and on Dennett Road. We also offer a home-based program, which began in Dec. of 1990.

Applications are accepted in May for the fall term. If you are interested, now is the time to apply. You will find applications at any center, at the Community Action Office, 360 W. Liberty St. or at the Head Start Office, 221 S. Third St., Oakland, Md.

Parents are requested to bring verification of family income, parents' social security numbers, and their children's birth certificates when applying.

For more information, contact the Head Start Office at 334-5856. We will be pleased to receive your call.

Big Brothers, Big Sisters Open Office

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies officially opened its Garrett County Branch office in Oakland. The office will serve the Garrett County area with the free service of screening both adults and children, assigning matches, and supervising existing matches for Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America.

The organization provides for the matching of adult volunteers with children who are in need of a "Big Brother's" or "Big Sister's" undivided attention for a few hours a week.

The new office will be located in St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. The office hours will be from 9 a.m. to noon Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, with evening and after-school appointments available. Dan Seib, coordinator, said he will "be happy" to answer any questions concerning Big Brother/Big Sister services, volunteers, and how to enter children into the program. He is also available to speak to any group about Big Brothers/Big Sisters. He can be reached at 334-3591 or by writing to Big Brothers/Big Sisters, P.O. Box 122, Oakland, MD 21550.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

Garrett County Commissioners

The purpose of this Notice is to identify two separate but related actions to be taken by the County of Garrett.

On or about April 8, 1991 the above named County Commissioners will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds under the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following projects:

Habitat for Humanity Home-ownership Project

Location: State Route 560 near junction of Steyer Mine Road

This is a 17 acre site which will be purchased and developed into 12 building sites with individual septic systems, a well location, utilities to lot lines and access roads. These lots will be sold to Habitat for Humanity Home-buyers.

Crellin Water System Spring Rehab Project

Location: Crellin, MD

This project involves the rehabilitation of two existing springs used to supply water to Crellin, construction of a new transmission line from the springs to a new pump house, construction of a new pump house and chlorination system and replacement of a small portion of distribution line.

Finding of No Significant Impact

Notice is hereby given that the above named County Commissioners have prepared an Environmental Review Record on the projects described in this Notice and have determined that said projects will have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment. No further environmental review of said projects is proposed prior to requesting Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant Impact is based on the following:

The construction involved with the Crellin Spring Rehab project will be short term in nature. The necessary permits and certifications for water quality, wetlands or floodplain will be obtained prior to the start of construction. The Habitat for Humanity project involves only the site development. The required septic and well permits and stormwater management permits will be obtained prior to construction on the homes.

The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of these projects is available for public examination at the County Planning & Zoning Office -- CDBG Administrator during normal business hours (Room 307, Old Courthouse, phone 334-1920).

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written documents respecting the environmental impacts of the described projects to the office of the CDBG Administrator - County Planning and Zoning Office and to the Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than April 5, 1991. All comments will be considered and the County Commissioners will not request the release of funds nor take any action on the projects prior to this date.

Request for Release of Funds

The County will undertake the projects described above with Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds. This notice also certifies that Brenda J. Butscher, serving in the official capacity of Chairman of County Commissioners consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews decision-making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the County may use the Small Cities Community Develfopment Block Grant Funds and the Maryland Department of Housing and Communmity Development will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Objections to Release of Funds

Objections to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if it is on one of the following bases:

(a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Certifying Officer; or (b) that the County Environmental Review Record for the projects indicated omission of a required decision finding or step applicable to the program in the Environmental Review Process; (c) no opportunity was given to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation or its Executive Director to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places or found to be eligible for such listing by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with 36 CFR part 800; (d) objections by a Federal Agency. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the County and to the SCCDBG Program Coordinator, Department of Housing and Community Development, 45 Calvert Street, Annapolis, Maryland 21401-1907. Accident Begins Planning For July 4 Events

The Steering Committee for Accident's Fourth of July Homecoming held its monthly meeting on March 15 to further plan for this year's festivities. This is the third year for the expanded, all-day festival, co-sponsored by the Accident Volunteer Fire Department and the Accident Cultural and Historical Society.

A committee spokesman said Accident will be doing its part to carry out President Bush's desire for July 4 to be "a jubilant celebration all across the Nation."

Many special events are planned for the day. The parade down Main Street will begin at 11 a.m. Accident's American Legion Post 208 has been asked to plan the afternoon's Patriotic Program beginning at 2 p.m. Invitations to participate will be sent county-wide to other service organizations, the mayor and councils of other municipalities, and especially to all veterans and those who served during the Persian Gulf conflict.

The festival will begin at 9 a.m. and close at 10 p.m. and will be held in the complex on South Street. The facilities include the fire hall, the Accident Community Park East, and the Flowery Vale Community Center.

The members of the Steering Committee are Rev. William Carlson, Marjorie Fratz, and Joanna Sisler, representing the Accident Cultural and Historical Society, and Paul Miller and Doug Ringer, from the Accident Volunteer Fire Department.

Anyone wishing to participate in planning for the event may contact one of the above persons or telephone the Town of Accident at 746-8149.

The Operation Desert Storm "Mail Call" listing as published in The Republican Newspaper and The Garrett Addition will be used for sending special invitations. Any names and addresses of any other local service personnel are welcomed and may be sent to the Town of Accident, P.O. Box 190, Accident, MD 21520.

Scouts In Action

Cub Scout Pack 70 Events:

March 22: Pine Wood Derby, 5:30 p.m., at Broad Ford School cafeteria.

March 28: Committee meeting, 7 p.m. at Jerry's office to discuss the Blue/Gold Banquet.

Anyone interested may attend.

Troop 82 Activities

Members of Boy Scout Troop 82, Accident, met Sunday, March 17, at the home of Ralph Miller to work on advancement requirements. George Landers, social studies teacher at Northern Middle School, met with the boys to discuss their constitutional rights and obligations as a United States citizen. The scouts viewed a video on the importance of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. Questions and discussion followed the presentation.

The scouts then completed an orienteering course which consisted of eight stations covering over 3/4 of a mile. The scouts had to take compass readings, distance measurements to the next station, and measure the height of a telephone pole using the pencil method.

Scouts participating were Jason Reed, Lee Collins, Paul Chevelier, Doug Mayle, Danny Sweitzer, Aaron Miller, Jeremy Reed, Curtis Chevelier, Tim Williamson, and Brian Chaney. Adults participating were Michael Reed, scoutmaster, Ralph Miller and Chevy Chevelier, assistant scoutmasters.

There is no single cat called a panther. The name is commonly applied to the leopard, puma and the jaguar.

First United Ranked Among Top 100 Banks

"I'm very pleased to see First United listed among the top 100 midsized banks in the Southeast. This ranking reflects our goal of continuing growth while maintaining a strong earnings record," stated Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board and president of First United National Bank & Trust.

First United was ranked 59th in the South among banks with $200 million to $1 billion in assets. The ranking appears annually in a popular banking periodical, Southern Banker. This is the second year the magazine has posted these ratings, with First United listed among the top banks each year.

The ratings are based on comparisons of the bank's Return on Assets and Return on Equity. The March 1991 Southern Banker article shows First United posting a 1.43 percent Return on Assets and a 16.18 percent Return on Equity, as of June 1990. These ratios place First United as the fourth highest among midsized banks in Maryland.

Remarking on First United's performance, Stanton continued, "The first year in this new decade was challenging for many in the industry. With challenge, however, there are always opportunities for banks that are well-positioned, fundamentally strong and adaptable to change. First United intends to be among those companies which are both prudent and opportunistic."

First United has continued to be ranked high among its peer banks for the last several quarters. The IDC Financial Publishing company has rated First United as Superior, their highest rating, for eight consecutive quarters. And, Sheshunoff Information Services has rated First United as "A+", their highest rating, for seven consecutive quarters. These rating organizations base their scores on capital strength, earnings, asset quality, management, and other pertinent characteristics.

First United National Bank & Trust is a subsidiary of First United Corporation, headquartered in Oakland. As of December 31, the Bank posted assets of $322,088,000.

"FOR THEE THE WONDER-WORKING EARTH PUTS FORTH SWEET FLOWERS," said Titus Lucretius Carus in the days before the birth of Christ. Many Christians now view bountiful spring flowers as hope -- the promise of the coming of Christ who died for our sins. These types of flowers will be enjoyed by many this Easter Sunday. The tulips, jonquils, Easter lilies, hyacinths, and azaleas shown above were captured by our staff photographer, Craig Phillips, at a local greenhouse. This Saturday also marks the first day of Passover for the Jewish community.

Man Wanted For Attempted Armed Robbery

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is currently investigating an armed robbery attempt that occurred at the home of an elderly county resident on Monday. A composite drawing of the culprit is pictured above.

According to the police report, the suspect entered the home of Iris Stone on Dry Run Road at approximately 10 a.m. by prying open a patio door. The victim heard the noise and went to investigate. She was confronted by the suspect, who ordered her into a bedroom. He then fled the residence.

Mrs. Stone told police that he was holding a small blue steel pistol. She described him as being a white male, approximately 40-50 years old, six feet tall, and weighing 180-190 pounds. He had gray wavy hair and wore prescription glasses, was clean-shaven, and was wearing dark pants at the time of the incident. She described him as "nicely dressed," according to the report.

The culprit did not remove any items from the house, police said.

Members of the sheriff's department, Maryland State Police, the Allegany Co. Sheriff's Department K-9 Unit, and the MSP Helicopter Unit conducted an extensive search of the area immediately following the victim's report. The MSP Crime Lab processed the scene of the incident as well.

Any persons with information about the crime are urged to contact Detective Pat Kelly of the Garrett Co. Sheriff's Office at (301) 334-1911.

St. Police Arrest Oakland Man For Handgun Violation

The Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, arrested an Oakland man early Sunday and charged him with a handgun violation and with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

William C. Metz, 26, was operating a 1979 Dodge van on U.S. Route 219, north of the King's Run Road, when he was stopped by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater for the DWI charge. A search of Metz revealed a small box in his

Southern VICA Students Capture 12 Firsts At State Championship

The Southern High School Chapter of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) was not only represented at the Maryland VICA Skills Championships in Baltimore Saturday, but they also captured six first places and one third place in the event, a record for the school. According to Steve Cosner, chapter advisor and SHS teacher, this was the best showing of all the 34 schools from around the state that participated.

Five of the first place trophies were won in individual events, while the sixth was won by a team of seven Southern students. Lynn Savage, a senior, won first place in both the Electronics Technology and Outstanding Club categories. The other individual firsts were won by: Dave Biser, a junior, in Action Skills Demonstration; Heather Baker, junior, Display; and Todd Fearer, senior, Safety Notebook.

The team of Mandi Guy, Vickie Harvey, and Jennifer Reeves, juniors, and Richard Hetrick, Becky Martin, Ben Reeves, and Jeanine Shank, seniors, won the Leadership Competition with their opening and closing ceremonies and parliamentary procedure presentation.

The third place award was won by Dave Rager in the Auto Service Technology competition.

Over 700 students participated in the state tournament. Other Southern VICA members competing were: Coit Custer, Ty Miller, Brandy Hinebaugh, John Moreland, Chris Brinkley, Elmer Moreland, Rick Bowling, Aaron White, John Lee, Jason Sisler, Rodney Rounds, Jason Rinker, John Fink, Jason Roth, Brenda Paugh, and Pat Piper.

When asked why he believed the Southern students were so successful at the tournament, Cosner said, "It was because of their dedication and practice. They spent many, many hours preparing themselves, spending time and effort over and above their regular school assignments, other extra-curricular activities, and in many cases, after school jobs."

Lisa Bender, another of the club advisors, added that the preparation for the state event was still more difficult because of the renovation project at Southern that has required split shifting of students. Usually sophomore members of VICA would also be eligible to compete, but because of the split shift schedule this year, there are no sophomores in the club.

Other teachers who also serve as advisors to the club are Jim Koon, Tom Powers, and Bill Freyman, plus supports services aide, Pam

Fires Destroy Local Dwellings

Two Garrett County houses were destroyed by fire this past week, as a single-story wood frame structure in Friendsville was leveled early Saturday and a small single-story house along U.S. Rt. 50 near Gorman burned Wednesday afternoon.

Volunteer fire fighters from Friendsville, Accident, Deep Creek, and Markleysburg VFDs were called at 1:07 a.m. Saturday to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glaze along Blue Goose Road near Friendsville. The structure was fully involved in flames upon their arrival, according to Terry Spear, Friendsville fire chief.

Mr. and Mrs. Glaze escaped the house unharmed, however all of the contents were also destroyed. The loss was estimated to be $75,000.

The cause of the blaze is under investigation by the state fire marshal's office. According to a family spokesman, it was believed that the cause was electrical in nature.

The couple reportedly did have insurance on the house.

Also responding to the scene was the Northern Rescue Squad. Units remained there for over three hours.

Gorman, Bayard, and Mt. Storm firemen were summoned yesterday at 3:37 p.m. to the Buck Moreland residence, located along the area of U.S. Rt. 50 known as Alt House Hill, just west of Gorman. Upon their arrival, the small wooden structure was fully involved in flames.

Guy Carola, deputy state fire marshal for Garrett and Allegany counties, is investigating the cause of the fire. His preliminary findings suggest that a cigarette dropped just outside the house in some dry grass and debris may have been the cause. Carola said Moreland was working on his car outside the house and turned around to find his house in flames.

Also responding to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad and the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Friendsville VFD. There were no injuries reported. Firemen remained on the scene for nearly two hours.

The loss was estimated by Carola to be about $5,000.

Commissioners Petitioned To Change Current Form Of County Government

Several Garrett County citizens this week presented a petition to the Garrett County Commissioners in an effort to change the current county commissioner form of local government to charter home rule -- a type of county government consisting of an elected county executive and elected council members.

The petition reportedly contained 870 names -- more than were needed to start the process. That process involves a 30 day period, from the time the petition was presented, for the commissioners to verify all the names and to appoint a committee to study and adopt a plan for charter home rule. The committee then has one year in which to present the charter.

It was also noted by Ronald Rowan, Garrett County resident, that if the county citizens are unhappy with the selection of persons to serve on the committee, a three percent voter approval could provide for a special election to be held for the purpose of changing those selections.

Garrett County resident Mary Leighton presented it to the board, stating that the purpose of the petition was "to give the people a voice in the way the county government is run."

Another local resident Ted Raynovich stated that "this was the only way to get it on the ballot for the people to choose," in reference to charter home rule. He explained that the committee was to have between five and nine members.

Garrett County Commissioner Brenda Butscher responded to the presentation by stating, "I think the present form of county government is good the way it is, but if that's what the people want, then we'll have to consider it."

Commissioner Elwood Groves stated that the process would have to include a county-wide debate and that the residents of the county would have to review the merits of each of the forms of government. He noted that charter home rule would be "the greatest departure from the present form of government" adding, "The important thing is that the facts are communicated to the public so an intelligent choice can be made."

Commissioner John Braskey responded to the presentation by saying, "If that's what they want, that's what they can have."

Connie Margison, president of the League of Women Voters of Garrett County, stated that the league is scheduled to make a presentation of its study of charter home rule to the commissioners next week.

In other news from the commissioners' office this week, Commissioner

Clancy To Be Lincoln Day Dinner Speaker

Tom Clancy, author of five best selling novels, will be the speaker for the Lincoln Day Dinner, April 27, at the Grantsville Fire Hall. The dinner, sponsored by the Republican State Central Committee, is set for 6 p.m.

According to a spokesperson, Clancy's rapid rise to success in the literary world, sometimes referred to as a "publishing fairy tale come true," began with the publication of his first novel The Hunt For Red October by the Naval Institute Press in 1984. That book sold over 500,000 copies in hard cover, 2 million in paperback, and was made into a movie that became a box office hit.

It was followed in short order by four other successful books, Red Storm Rising, Patriot Games, Cardinal of the Kremlin, and Clear and Present Danger. He is currently working on his sixth book, The Sum of All Fears.

Although his novels show a remarkable knowledge of military weapons and technology, Clancy's only experience with the service was the time he spent as an ROTC student at Baltimore's Loyola College, where he majored in English and as-

WOMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED -- Rescue squad personnel and firefighters assisted an Oakland woman who was seriously injured last Friday in a three-vehicle accident on U.S. Route 219, just south of Oakland near Monte Vista Road. Piney Lenora "Lenny" Powell, 46, was listed in "fair" condition at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., this morning by a hospital spokesman, her condition has been upgraded from "critical." She is expected to remain hospitalized at least four more weeks as a result of the serious head injuries she received in the accident. The accident occurred when Richard F. Show, 30, Confluence, Pa., operating a 1989 Subaru Justy, crossed the center line and side-swiped the Powell vehicle, a 1987 Oldsmobile Delta. Upon impact, Powell's vehicle swerved into the southbound shoulder and struck a parked C&P telephone truck. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Powell to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. She was then transferred to Ruby Memorial. Tfc. J.K. Moore investigated the 1:15 p.m. mishap and charged Show with failure to drive right of center. Garrett County Emergency Management also dispatched Oakland volunteer firefighters to the scene.

VICA CHAMPS - About 30 members of the Southern High School Vocational Industrial Club of America Chapter traveled to Baltimore Saturday to participate in the Maryland State VICA Skills Championship, and 11 of those members came home with first place trophies and the opportunity to participate in the National Skills event in June. From all indications, the Southern High Chapter had the highest finish of the 33 other Maryland high schools in the competition. The Chapter and teacher/advisors are planning to hold some fund-raising events and are hoping to receive some financial contributions to help them make it to the national competition, which will be in Louisville, Ky. First place winners pictured left to right above are, front row, Becky Martin, Vickie Harvey, Jeannine Shank, and Jennifer Reeves. In the second row, same order, are Dave Biser, Heather Baker, Todd Fearer, Ben Reeves, Richard Hetrick, and Mandi Guy. Not present for the photo was Lynn Savage.

THEY'LL ALL COME MARCHING HOME AGAIN, HURRAH! -- Three service men originally from Mountain Lake Park were welcomed home this week by Mayor David Turney and Commissioner Brenda Butscher under the town tree in Oakland. Pictured above, left to right, are Pfc. Paul Love of the 101st Airborne who served in King Kahlid City; Turney; E-5 Stephen Gonco of the Air Force, who served in Daharan; Spec. 4 David Gilbert, currently stationed at Fort Benning, Ga.; and Mrs. Butscher. As soldiers return to the county, they will all be welcomed by their hometown mayors at the town tree.

"THE COUNTRY SAMPLER" is the name of the next concert to be presented by the Garrett Choral Society, a program that will feature a variety of popular folk and pioneer music, complete with accompaniment by fiddles and hammer dulcimer. The concert will be presented in the Garrett Community College gymnasium April 12, 13, and 14 and tickets are now on sale at Englander's Pharmacy and from any Choral Society member. Above, director Nancy Learey conducts one of many rehearsal sessions.

CDS Cases Dominate Docket In Garrett County District Court

CDS (controlled dangerous substance) cases dominated the docket in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Gerald A. Coddington, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to possession of a CDS (marijuana). Judge Jack R. Turney accepted his plea and handed him a one-year jail term (all was suspended but 30 days), fined him $100, and placed him on 18 months of supervised probation.

Coddington had been arrested on December 12, 1990, by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department for a traffic violation. A search of his vehicle revealed suspected marijuana.

Dana R. Stinson, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, was also found guilty of CDS possession last week in an unrelated case.

Stinson was given a 90-day jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), fined $50, and placed on 12 months of supervised probation. She was also found guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs. For that offense, she was handed a 30-day suspended jail term, ordered to pay a $500 fine, and placed on 12 months of DWI monitoring.

Two CDS paraphernalia charges against Stinson were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

Stinson had been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department on December 16 of last year following a routine traffic stop. Charged along with her were her two passengers, Tracy E. Hartman, 24, Mtn. Lake Park; and Beverly R. Davis, 27, Deer Park.

Davis had been charged with CDS possession and with removing a required label from a prescription drug. The possession charge was dismissed and she pleaded guilty to carrying a prescription drug without the required label. (She had told police the bottle had broken and that the drugs in question had been prescribed to her). She was fined $50 and placed on 90 days of unsupervised probation.

Hartman had also been charged with CDS possession, but that case was not prosecuted.

In other District Court news, one case was mistakenly missed from the March 12 docket and not reported.

That case involved Kevin A. Lohr, 18, Oakland, who pleaded guilty to theft under $300. In a plea agreement, charges of theft over $300 and two counts of malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney.

Judge Turney accepted Lohr's plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation in the case.

Lohr had been arrested following a reported theft and destruction of property that occurred on November 15, 1990, at the Bausch and Lomb parking lot. Tires had been slashed on the vehicles of Sean Foley and Carlton Reams. Stereo equipment, tapes, a license plate, and a shirt were stolen from the two vehicles.

An investigation led to the arrest of Lohr and a juvenile. The juvenile was processed with Juvenile Services.

Two DNR (Department of Natural Resources) cases were also heard in District Court last week.

Steven G. Savage, 31, Friendsville, was found guilty of casting light rays into a field at night with a firearm in his possession. A second charge of shooting a weapon from a vehicle was not prosecuted.

Savage had his hunting privileges revoked for two years and was ordered to pay a $100 fine. He had been arrested by the DNR police on September 11 of last year.

Leroy E. Friend, 54, McHenry, pleaded not guilty but was found guilty of unlawful unauthorized activity in a non-tidal waterway or flood plain. A fine was waived.

Friend had been arrested in November of last year.

Several sentencing hearings were held last week during court proceedings.

Delana D. Rizer, 20, Swanton, who had been found guilty of theft on December 11 in District Court was given a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation. She had been charged on May 30, 1990, with stealing personal checks from Jeanette Moyer.

Christine L. Tucci, 41, Stratham, N.H., who had been found guilty of theft over $300 in District Court on November 27 last year and given a pre-sentence investigation, was sentenced for her crime last week.

Tucci was given a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

She had initially been charged by the First United National Bank and Trust after admitting to taking $2,882 from the bank while she was employed there.

Ralph W. Fox Jr., 21, Mtn. Lake Park, who had been found guilty of theft and ordered a pre-sentence investigation on January 29 was sentenced last Thursday.

Judge Turney handed him a one-year suspended jail term, fined him $100, and placed him on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to make restitution to Bette Hall for merchandise obtained on her credit card and cash from her checking account.

Three counts of credit card offense, and four counts each of forgery and uttering were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

Richard W. Jenkins, Grantsville, had been ordered a pre-sentence investigation on November 27 after being found guilty on two counts of destruction of property.

His sentence included a one-year suspended jail term, a total of $100 in fines, and being placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

He had been charged in July by Russell Kyle for causing damage to two trucks at the Grantsville Shopping Plaza. He was also ordered to make restitution to Kyle for damages.

At a sentence revision hearing last week, David D.

Sheriff's Dept. Notes Arrests, Thefts, DOP

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department made several arrests this week on charges including destruction of property, driving while intoxicated (DWI), and failure to make deferred payments.

Sharon A. Porter, 43, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested March 20 on charges of assault, battery, trespassing, disorderly conduct, destruction of property, and breaking and entering a dwelling.

Porter apparently came to the property of Michael Madigan on Rt. 135 on March 17 and forced her way into the residence. Once inside, the defendant reportedly assaulted Elise and Randy Bernard, who were the only two persons at the residence. Bernard told Porter to leave, and forced her out.

After she left the house, Porter proceeded to damage vehicles parked in the driveway, according to the report. Dep. C. Nolan made the arrest on the strength of a warrant.

In other sheriff's office news, Robert W. Shahan Sr., 51, Oakland, was charged with DWI on March 25. Dep. J. Murphy stopped Shahan when the officer observed him to be driving erratically on Rt. 39 in Rosedale. Shahan was driven home after signing the citation, according to the report.

Jeffrey J. Bittner Sr., 25, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a body attachment issued from Garrett Co. Circuit Court. Bittner was served with the attachment on March 24.

David L. Moats, 27, Gettysburg, Pa., was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant issued from Garrett Co. District Court. Moats reportedly failed to pay deferred payments.

Howard V. Sisler, 20, Friendsville, was served with a warrant for violation of probation. The warrant was issued from district court, and was served on March 22 by Dep. R. Sines.

A bench warrant was served to Connie L. Hershman, 23, Oakland, on the charge of failure to appear in district court. Hershman was scheduled to face bad check charges, according to the report.

Elbert R. Bittinger, 66, Grantsville, was served a warrant from Allegany Co. District Court. The warrant was served by Dep. C. Feller on March 21.

Theft, DOP

The theft of a Yamaha four-wheel off-road vehicle was reported to the sheriff's office this week. The owner of the vehicle, Allen W. Uphold, Oakland, told police that the green and white "Blaster" was removed from his yard, located on Fingerboard Road, on March 22 sometime after 9 p.m.

The vehicle's worth has been estimated at $2300. An investigation into the theft is continuing.

A case of destruction of property was also reported to police this week. Richard K. George, Eighty-Four, Pa., stated upon his return to the area, he discovered that windows in his summer cottage were shot out with a BB gun.

Dep. J. Sowers responded to George's call, and found three windows to be shattered with BB's at the cottage, located on Paradise Point Road. The shooting occurred sometime between March 10 and 24. The damage to the cottage has been estimated at $300.

An investigation into the destruction of property is continuing, according to the report.

Pa. Man Charged With DWI After Vehicle Accident

Thomas E. Fisher, 27, Markleysburg, Pa., was charged with driving while intoxicated after he was involved in a personal injury car accident on Saturday. Garrett Co. Sheriff's Office Deputy J. Murphy made the arrest after he investigated the 7:30 p.m. mishap.

According to the report, Sherri R. Beachy, 18, Grantsville, was operating a 1978 Chevy Mazda on Rt. 42 and attempted to turn left into a private drive. Fisher, who was operating a 1988 Ford F150, then began to pass Beachy on a double line. Fisher apparently failed to reduce speed to avoid a collision, and the cars hit. The impact forced Beachy's vehicle into the east-bound lane.

Fisher's vehicle traveled across the roadway and came to rest on top of the guardrail in the west-bound lane.

The Southern Rescue Squad was dispatched to the scene, and transported David L. Truly, 51, Grantsville, who was a passenger in the Beachy vehicle, to the Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was apparently treated and released.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my son "Dink" who died on Good Friday, April 1, 1983.
It is lonely here without you, so sad along life's way. Life does not seem the same to me, since you were called away. It broke my heart to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of me went with you that day God called you home. They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget, but time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet.
Dearly loved, fondly remembered, ans sadly missed.

Season Of Hope . . .

"While there's life, there's hope." So said the philosopher Terence nearly 200 years B.C.

When despair reaches its climax, somewhere beneath all the agony, hope survives. After the bitter winds of winter apparently sap the very life from the flower, spring comes without fail and life is miraculously restored. Using the words of Terence in the negative, one could say that without some glimmer of hope, there can be no life.

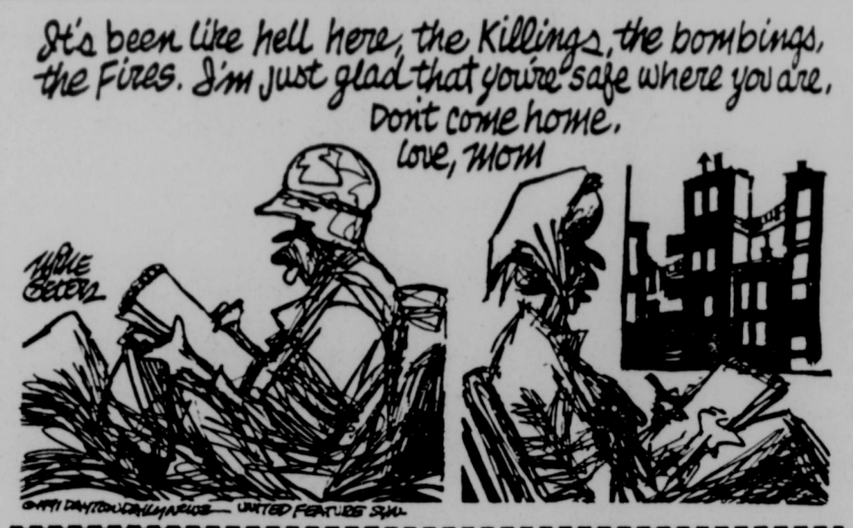
For the Christian, it is most fitting that Easter is celebrated in the season of spring, the season of new life, the season of renewal. Life is at times extremely unfair and, usually because of the sinful nature of man, it can be brutal and cold. However, for the Christian who truly practices his faith, life is never without hope, no matter how horrible the situation may be at the time.

Human beings sometimes have nothing to cling to except hope, and if they lose that final grip, then survival is impossible. Surely it was only a feeling of hope, no matter how minuscule, that allowed many in the Nazi prison camps to survive their nightmarish ordeal. It is only hope that allows some to defy death even when the obvious bare necessities, such as food and water, are unavailable for days.

Dire situations aside, hope is necessary just to make it through the every-day grind of living. Without that anticipation of better times, of knowing that the Friday will come, along with some time for fun and relaxation, one can quickly be overcome by depression, the intensity of which can literally become life-threatening. Alcoholism, drug abuse, clinical depression, and suicide are among the tragic results of the total absence of hope in people's minds.

Perhaps this is why the Easter season is so uplifting to those who have chosen Christianity as their religion. The Easter event brings not only hope, but absolute assurance to the Christian that, no matter how rough the road of life in this world may become, there is nothing that can separate the Christian from the love of God. There are no guarantees that the Christian will somehow escape the pain and evil so vividly present in the world, but there is a much greater guarantee that a much better life, totally and eternally free from such things, lies ahead.

So to all, we wish a joyous, and hopeful, Easter.



Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: A letter appeared in last week's issue of The Republican that was critical of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department was written by William E. Curtis. A spokesman for the Sheriff's Department contacted The Republican wishing to make it known that Mr. Curtis is presently in a state penitentiary serving time for forgery, theft, and the sale of illegal drugs.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Mr. Franklin DeWitt's letter of March 14, 1991. Mr. DeWitt, when I read your article in the Republican, I was greatly saddened to think that someone such as you could cut down a public servant and the whole Sheriff's Department as you did.

When Deputy David Stoner was discharged from the United States Air Force, after serving five honorable years for his country, he wanted to return to Garrett County and make it home for his family as well. David decided to be a Garrett County Deputy Sheriff to help make life better and safer for his family and all others. The proudest day of David's life was when he pinned the Garrett County Deputy Sheriff's badge on his chest to represent the County which he loves. I am proud of David as I believe he does his very best for his fellow man.

Your accusations are untrue and disgusting and your threats to the Department are outlandish. Deputy Stoner has nothing to fear from your slanderous remarks, based on hearsay and gossip, because his good merits speak for themselves. Deputy Stoner did not contribute alcohol to your daughter, Rebecca, a 20-year-old minor. He would not do anything to impair or endanger the life of another human being (in uniform or off duty). Deputy Stoner loves family and life too much to do such an act.

It is a shame that you have to cut down the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and their Deputies, and splatter mud on them because you can't control your own problems at home. If I were you, I would be very careful not to accuse and slander these people because we never know when we might need them. They are public servants and they must do their duty in their highest standards and best abilities whatever the circumstances.

As for the Garrett County taxpayers, I'm sure their tax dollars are well spent as the crime in Garrett County is kept pretty much to a minimum. Who do we owe these good graces to? You are right, the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and the Maryland State Police.

Don't judge a person until you walk a mile in their shoes. Then you have the right to complain, if you want to.

Freddie and Esther Stoner
(and family)
The parents of Deputy
David Stoner

To the Editor and Ram Supporters:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank our Southern Ram basketball fans for their support over the 1990-91 season. Your constant enthusiasm and cheering helped us immensely during the season.

This season was certainly a "different" one due to the renovation of Southern High School. It was definitely a relief knowing that, whatever obstacles came up, our faithful following would still be there for the team. Our 16 wins would not have been possible without your support.

The administration, faculty, staff and students at SHS have certainly done a remarkable job in adjusting to numerous special arrangements because of the renovation. We also want to thank them for their assistance.

In summary, the Ram fans are super. The team and staff consider you a major part of our program. It was a great feeling when we were at Middletown to see that we had more fans than the host team. Thank you, again, for all of your past, present, and future support.

Sincerely,
SHS Basketball Staff:
Tom Bosley, Barry Louden,
and Jim Bosley

Note: The writers of the following letter to the Garrett County Board of Education (Beverly Sines Murphy, president) requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Mrs. Murphy and Board Members:

The Northern Garrett Band Boosters would like to respond to information that we have received concerning Dr. Ryscavage's proposal to eliminate transportation funding for the activity buses, as well as the band and sports programs for both Northern and Southern.

We vehemently oppose such a proposal. This would create a hardship for band members and athletes that could not be overcome. We are a small rural county and fund-raising has already reached the highest level just to try to provide extras for the band and sports. Our booster groups simply cannot do much more. Transportation would become a burden that we could not manage.

Education comes not just from the classroom, as we are sure that you are aware. These band members and athletes experience so much more by traveling to other schools, meeting other young people, and representing their school with pride. Without the transportation funds, the band competitions and athletic events will not happen and students of Garrett County will be deprived of some valuable learning experiences.

We urge you for the students sake, both present and future, please vote to keep adequate transportation funding in the budget.

Sincerely,
Northern Garrett Band

To the Eidtor:

No words can ever express the great blessing God has given our military during the gulf crisis. The people rallied to pray and God answered. It is great that the people stood back of those who suffered the desert hardships and were willing to put their life on the line. May God continue to be with each one of them.

Our president waged a war to win. The military was back of him. The fact that this victory is in Israel's favor brought God's blessing too. Concerning Israel, "God said He would bless them that blessed Israel and curse them that cursed Israel." God will continue to defend His people Israel as well as all of his believers.

In our appreciations and celebrating the victory, let us not forget the One who gave the victory — God. Let's all of us say thank you, God. Watch God's mighty hand and see the future events with Israel. I invite you to attend our Christian videos every Thursday, at 7 p.m., at the Mt. Lake Park Town Hall on Rt. 135. Everyone is invited. "Wise men lay up knowledge." (Prov. 10:14). "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge. Because they reject knowledge, I will reject you." (Isaiah 5:13).

Respectfully,
Homer Mellott

To the Editor:

When is a dollar no longer a dollar? When it becomes a collected tax dollar. It then becomes budget money . . funding money. No, I didn't say "funny money", but it may as well be, because that's the way politicians, and too many people in the public sector treat our hard earned tax dollars! The concept of frugality is totally foreign to them. Their use of the word "budget" is a farce, so far removed from the true meaning of the word that it would be laughable if their actions were not so painful to the over-taxed members of our community, state and nation.

I recently reported that our "esteemed" county commissioner, Elwood Groves, "III", used our tax dollars to further his education. If you listened to the Oakland radio station on March 20th, you are aware that this poor excuse for a public "servant", took his colleague, Brenda Butscher to task for telling me that he used taxpayer dollars for a purely personal expense!

First; let me hasten to say that Mrs. Butscher did not tell me about Groves' misuse of our tax dollars. I'm sorry to say, she signed the authorization. Since she is now stating publicly that she will no longer endorse such misappropriation of our money, while Mr. Groves, and Mr. Braskey continue to defend his outrageous interpretation of the proper use of our tax dollars, I, for one, will consider Mrs. Butscher's acquiescence to "Business as Usual", as an aberration, a momentary lapse; and I feel we can all continue to consider Mrs. Butscher, the "Reform" candidate we all voted for last November.

Second; the very least we should expect of our public servants is that they not use the public coffers as their own personal treasure-trove. Anyone who understands the English language, knows the very first sentence of the "policy" Mr. Groves is attempting to protect his backside with, clearly and unambiguously, eliminates him as a participant. Read my lips Mr. Groves: You are not an employee! You are an elected official! And it's not at all surprising that the $300.00 cap means nothing to you; it's only tax money! Well, I can assure you, it means a lot to the people who have to pay it!

Respectfully,
Ronald R. Rowan
Kitzmiller

To the Editor:

On Wednesday, April 3, the half-hour radio program "Focus on the Family," presented by Dr. James Dobson, will be devoted to an analysis of the United Nations' "Convention on the Rights of the Child." The articles and provisions of this document will impact children around the world. Governing bodies of some nations have already ratified it, and it is my understanding that if our Congress ratifies it, the provisions will be as binding as our Constitution. It has been estimated that it will breeze through Congress with little, if any, resistance.

It is my hope that educators, parents, indeed everyone will listen to Dr. Dobson's presentation, for a new insight on the direction of education. Hear him on WAIJ 90.3 on the FM dial, at 12:30 p.m., or at 8:30 p.m., April 3.

Very truly yours,
Paul A. Eary

To the Editor:

I read an article in your March 21 edition which finally got to me enough to make me respond. I am talking about Dr. Craig Abrahamson's "hypothesis" on PTSD. He speaks of affluence being the possible cause for it.

In a twisted way, he's right on the button. He was (admittedly) one of the many thousands of protestors against the Vietnam War. He was affluent enough to be able to stay away from Vietnam, and exercise his right to "free speech," while we (the less affluent) went and did what our government told us to do, so he could have that right. I really find it odd, however, that he would want to go to Vietnam in 1991 when he could have travelled "for free" in the 60's and in the 70's. I also wonder if he ran across any of the 2,400 plus MIA's still unaccounted for in Vietnam, or if he even thought about them.

As for that communist professor at Ho Chi Minh University desiring an entire "can of Coke" to himself, I would say, "You can thank the protestors, news media, and our government's handling of the war for your present 'downturn' in your economy." We Vietnam vets knew then and know now who our enemies were. We fought North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Russia, China, and, the most devastating of all, the U.S.A. The silent majority stayed silent and the government was run by an affluent and loudmouth minority. They, like Abrahamson, are demanding and getting belated attention for their action in the 60's and 70's. You have no right to a hypothesis about our problems until you walk a mile in our boots, Dr. Abrahamson, which at this point in history would be tough.

I will take the memories of my fallen brothers to my grave along with the hurt and anger that this country instilled in me. I went through the cursing, name calling, and the spitting, all in the name of free speech. I would not, however, advise anyone to try it now. I am exercising my right to "state my position" against articles like that of March 21. The Vietnam veteran can be thanked for lessons learned. But for our efforts we still get lip service, runarounds, and next to nothing in the way of medical and psychological help. This abuse is commonplace for us.

I do thank God that this protesting element was suppressed during the recent Gulf War. I also thank God that we didn't lose more brave people — both men and women. I am proud of these soldiers.

Sincerely,
Donald James
Kitzmiller

To the Editor:

I'm an inmate at the Westville Correctional Center. I don't have anyone to write to or visit me. It seems as though the friends that I once had only lasted as long as I could pay the tab.

I have been incarcerated since 1989. In the past couple of years, I have written to different people who I felt might remember some bond of friendship. But night after night passes without any response as if I've been forgotten about, and it hurts!

I am lonely and it would mean a lot to me if I had someone to correspond with. I'm not in here for any hideous crime; I just had problems with drugs. I now realize my mistake and now my life has been put back in proper prospective. I'm a 37-year-old male, 6 feet, 200 pounds, black hair, and brown eyes. I also love sports and music.

I do regret that I don't have the money to pay for an advertisement. I only make ten dollars a month for working here. If you publish this, I promise to write to everyone who responds to me and my plea promptly.

Thanks for listening, and have a nice day.

The Mind Wanders

by Sherry Frantz

The desperate attempt I've been making in the last few months to reconcile the fact of an imminent war that turned to reality, along with the public's overwhelmingly favorable response to it, has left me... well, uncomfortably confused, disappointed and sad.

I wanted to believe that it was the "right" thing to do. I wanted to believe that I had been given all the information -- from start to finish -- about the events leading to the war, the facts surrounding it, the statistics during it, and the political, media and public reaction to it throughout and afterwards.

I wanted to feel good about a country I knew needed to change its ways. And I wanted to believe, as 90 percent of the American public seems to do, in the government and military leaders.

Even now, I don't totally discredit the sincerity (I try so hard not to be cynical about these matters) of those leaders. But, even if I did have total faith in the intentions, there is still the small matter of sincerity not necessarily producing morality. I wonder, also, how many of us have made the important distinction between a military victory and a humanitarian one.

With the varying levels of knowledge we all have about the rest of the world's varying degrees of disdain for "the American way," I am also troubled that we may have latched on to this tremendous and awe-inspiring military machine that was sent to destroy, Nintendo-style, the evil we saw embodied in one Saddam Hussein as a means of feeling good about ourselves and retrieving some of the respect we may have lost from other countries.

Could Chris Wallace (speaking on a "Nightline" episode) have been correct when he said, "America needed to exorcise a ghost?"

When responses of "What else could we have done?" seemed to be the most common I heard in response to my negative reaction to the war, I kept thinking about our collective responses to our children who have resorted to physical violence as a means of getting their own way -- and our admonitions of "fighting is not the answer" haunts me still.

When I discovered that this particular war had no room, no allowances for protestors, I experienced everything from embarrassment to alienation. In the fog, I thought I heard someone's patronizing voice tell me that the simple lessons we'd all learned about fighting each other were not at all a black and white matter. "It's more complicated than that," it said.

So I waited and watched and, eventually, reminded myself that I have never in my life seen anything as being merely black and white.

To me, it seemed as if this war was the last straw in a long series of incomprehensible, unacceptable events I'd been asked to understand and accept.

To me, it felt as if a dream had gone sour in the cloud of a swift and massive display of fireworks.

Still, I extend my arms in a heartfelt, appreciative gesture as the troops return, and I hope that the national euphoria and pride in unity (no matter how it was accomplished) will endure long enough to right some internal and universal wrongs.

Eyler.

All 11 of the first place finishers will now advance to the national VICA competition, which will be held in Louisville, Ky., June 24-29. The club plans to send the students to the nationals and is beginning to plan various events to raise the estimated $4,000 that will be needed to finance the trip.

"We hope local businesses and individuals will help us by making a donation and supporting whatever fund-raising events we have," Cosner said. He said that the club members are available to present demonstrations to local groups. "Not only will that show local organizations what the competition is all about, but it will also give our kids more exposure and practice," he said.

Organizations wanting to schedule such demonstrations may contact Mary Ann Shipe at 334-9470 from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Those wishing to send contributions should make their checks out to Southern High School VICA and send them to Southern High School, c/o Steve Cosner, 1100 E. CDS Cases

Thomas Jr., 27, Frostburg, was given probation before judgment in lieu of his earlier sentence last September which included being found guilty and given 30 days in jail (all but 48 hours had been suspended), being fined $100, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

He had been charged with a CDS violation last year by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Stanley R. Ervin, 37, Deer Park, was given probation before judgment at another sentence revision hearing last week.

He had earlier been found guilty on two counts of trespassing, fined $50, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Ginger Hoye had filed the charges against him last summer.

jacket pocket that contained an unloaded 22 cal. Derringer handgun.

Three other DWI arrests were also logged Sunday by the Maryland State Police.

Danny E. Wilt, 40, Grantsville, was charged with DWI by Tpr. G.S. Becker.

Allen J. Brown, 29, Pittsburgh, Pa., received his DWI citation from Tfc. R.T. Wilson.

Tpr. S.H. Anderson arrested Steven L. Deal, 35, Newark, Ohio, and charged him with DWI.

In other state police news, Tfc. J.K. Moore is currently seeking information in a reported theft on March 21.

Marylu Liller, Deer Park, told police that an unknown suspect was observed in her tool shed. When he spotted the person watching him, he reportedly dropped the tools to the ground and fled in a gray vehicle.

The gray-haired suspect is described as an older white male in his 50's or 60's. He is believed to be about five feet tall and was wearing a brown shirt and pants.

THAT'S A GOOD QUESTION AND I WOULD LIKE TO STATE THE PROBLEM MORE CLEARLY AFTER I COME UP WITH A MORE DEFINITE AMBIGUOUS ANSWER.

Butscher responded to a question concerning her signing of a voucher that allowed Commissioner Groves to be paid for a course he is currently taking at West Virginia University.

"Yes, I did sign the voucher," she stated, adding, "It passed over my desk. I had no idea what it was, so I asked Mr. Fousek about it. He explained what it was and I questioned if the county should be paying for this."

After a few weeks, she said, she had talked to several county residents "who had never heard tell of it before."

Butscher then reiterated her stance on the policy, stating that taxpayers' money should not be used for such purposes.

Status Of Bills Sponsored By Edwards Noted

Following is a list of legislative bills sponsored by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and their status in the 1991 Maryland General Assembly:

HB 465 -- Sales And Use Tax -- Exemption. This bill, for the purpose of allowing an exemption from the sales and use tax for sales at the Garrett County Fair by certain non-profit organizations was given an unfavorable review by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Note: Delegate Edwards explained that this year's budget deficit was the deciding factor in the failure of the bill, and noted that he would probably introduce it again next year, in hopes that the state budget would be in better shape.

HB 477 -- Land Surveying -- Notice To Landowners. This bill also received an unfavorable review by the House Economic Matters Committee. This bill was for the purpose of requiring a land surveyor to notify at certain times all owners of land that adjoin certain tracts of land that are to be surveyed.

HB 533 --Load Extension Limits -- Exemption. This bill received an unfavorable review by the House Constitutional and Administrative Law Committee. It was for the purpose of broadening an exemption from certain vehicle land extension limits to exempt a vehicle carrying certain roof trusses under certain circumstances regardless of how the trusses are loaded on the vehicle, and extending the length that a certain load may extend beyond the rear of the bed or body of a certain vehicle and still qualify for the exemption.

HB 553 -- Garrett County Board of Education -- Membership. The bill has passed in the House and is being heard by the Senate this week. It seeks to alter the membership of the Garrett County Board of Education by adding the chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, serving ex officio as a non-voting member, and requires the chairman to serve without compensation.

HB 640 -- Income Tax Credit -- Coal Processing Equipment. The House Ways and Means Committee gave the bill an unfavorable review. The bill was the purpose of allowing a manufacturer a credit against the state income tax for the cost of certain equipment necessary to use coal in conformity with federal and state environmental requirements.

HB 641 -- Firearms -- Use in commission of a felony or crime of violence. This bill also received an unfavorable review by the House Judiciary Committee. It was for the purpose of altering current provisions of law so as to make it a separate offense to use any firearm in the commission of a felony or crime of violence.

HB 642 -- Garrett County -- Negotiation of Representation Fee. The bill has now passed in the House and is currently making its way through the Senate. It authorizes the public school employer in Garrett County to negotiate a service or representation fee with the employee organization that is the exclusive representative for public school employees in a unit, to be paid by specified employees.

HB 645 -- Garrett County Local Officials -- Salaries. This bill passed in the House and has received a favorable review by a Senate committee. The bill requires the Garrett County Commissioners to set the rate of compensation for certain officials subject to certain limitations, alters the powers and duties of the Garrett County Salary Study Commission, and authorizes the commission to make recommendations concerning certain salaries to the county commissioners.

HB 1268 -- Creation of a State Debt -- Target, Inc. No action has, as yet, been taken on the bill by the House Appropriations Committee. Delegate Edwards stated it would probably be heard this week. The bill authorizes the creation of a state debt not to exceed $225,000 ,the proceeds of which would be used as a grant to the board of directors of Target, Inc. for the construction of a fully accessible seven-bed recreational facility for developmentally disabled children and adults on Deep Creek Lake.

HB 1306 -- Garrett County -- Tax Notices Publication Requirements. The bill alters the number of newspapers in which the treasurer of Garrett County must publish certain notices relating to the tax levy and delinquent tax payments, and making stylistic changes. The bill has passed in the House and is now being considered in the Senate.

HB 1323 -- Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation -- Offer Cycles. The bill has passed in the House and is now in the Senate. It authorizes the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation to suspend all but one offer cycle for fiscal years 1992 and 1993 only.

House Passes Bill To Curb Auto Emissions

According to District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards reported that the House of Delegates this week approved, by a narrow margin, a measure that would reportedly reduce vehicle emissions, and result in the state adopting a policy that is twice as strict as federal law now permits.

Maryland's standards, if the measure is enacted, would equal those of California, a state which has adopted a plan to meet the overall clean air standards set forth by the U.S. Congress in the Clean Air Act of 1990.

If the bill is passed, vehicle manufacturers will be required to supply Maryland car and truck dealers with vehicles equipped with strengthened emission reduction equipment. It is estimated that the tougher law would result in an extra cost of between $70 and $170 per vehicle.

Delegate Edwards stated that he did not vote for the measure simply because he felt it would not be an effective strategy unless regulated at the federal level. "If vehicles from Pennsylvania and West Virginia travelling through Maryland do not have to adhere to the same standards, the measure would not be an effective one --it needs to be an across-the-board law," stated Edwards.

The bill is now being heard by the Senate.

Senate Approves Stronger Open Meetings Bill

The Maryland Senate last week passed a bill strengthening the current open-meetings policy and eliminating loopholes in the law, one of which was disallowing an exemption that provided for agencies to bar the public from its meetings if two-thirds of the members voted there was reason enough to do so.

Criticism of the current law came largely from a Senate subcommittee who submitted that the exemption allows for too much flexibility in the law. The bill also seeks to establish a three-member open Meetings Compliance Board to mediate over those open-meeting decisions made by governmental agencies.

The bill would also impose a $100 civil penalty on intentional violators of the law.

The bill now goes to the House of Delegates where it is expected to receive amendments.

People believe if you catch a falling leaf, you will have a good and happy life.

Bill To Raise Speed Limit Passes House

A bill co-sponsored by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards to raise the speed limit on interstate highways in the state of Maryland to 65 mph from the current 55 mph has now been passed by the House of Delegates but remains a question in the Senate. There, it will receive its first reading today.

HB 466 was introduced for the purpose of increasing, to the extent authorized by federal law, the maximum speed at which a person may lawfully drive a vehicle on certain interstate highways.

Delegate Edwards stressed that it is important to make the distinction between federally-designated interstate highways and routes such as 219, 50, 135 and 40, noting that highways around urban areas would not be affected by the increase.

He explained that it would, however, apply to Rt. 48 after it becomes designated as Interstate 68. That should happen sometime this summer, he said, following the completion of the construction currently taking place on Rt. 48.

"I don't buy the argument that if you increase the speed limit to 65 mph, people will then travel 75 mph," said Edwards. He also noted that over 40 states have established that speed limit, and none of them have reversed that decision because of reduced safety factors.

House Passes New Tire Tax

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards was among the members of the House of Delegates who voted in favor of a bill that would impose a $1 tax on new tires sold in the state of Maryland, raising an estimated $4 million to be used to clean up scrap tire dumps and to establish used tire recycling centers throughout the state.

The program would be administered by the Maryland Department of the Environment.

Volunteers Being Solicited For Tree Plantings

Local groups and individuals are currently being solicited for help in coordinating and implementing the planned tree plantings that will take place in Garrett County during "Tree-mendous Earth Month," according to John Nelson, local coordinator of the Chesapeake Bay Clean-Up Effort, co-sponsored by the office of Governor William Donald Schaefer and the Garrett Forestry Board.

1,000 seedlings are being sent from the governor's office for use in the county. Two of the sites are the Swanton Hill Road area and the Round Glade area. The Forestry Board is coordinating an effort to have students plant trees in each of the seven school districts, as well.

The plantings at the two county sites are scheduled to take place during the last week in April but specific times need to be set, pending availability of the groups or individuals who volunteer for the effort.

Interested participants in the program are asked to contact John Nelson at 334-1920 or Ernie Metz, the designated Green Shores forester, at 334-3305.

dead tree problem (head to come)

Because the Maryland Department of Natural Resources is concerned about the hazards of dead and declining trees in the Day Use picnic area of Deep Creek Lake State Park, according to a spokesperson, a general strategy session will be held Sunday, April 7, from 3-4 p.m., for citizens to discuss the situation and to offer possible solutions to the problem.

According to John Mash, DNR spokesperson, "Most of the trees in that area have died or are in decline because of the effects of a drought about four years ago, followed by three years of insect damage from the looper complex and gypsy moth, and the effects of wear and tear of a heavily used playground and picnic area."

Mash also stated, "The Shoestring fungus, which kills tree roots and the two lined chestnut borer have invaded the grove of trees. These two agents attack trees under stress and kill them."

According to Mash, the park has spent $17,767 during the past three years to trim dead limbs from 571 declining trees in an attempt to save them. Last year, approximately 100 dead trees were removed. Currently, 244 trees have been identified as hazardous, and entomologist and foresters reportedly agree that the decline will spread to the trees because it is believed that trees in decline are rarely able to recover once they show symptoms of attack by tree pests.

Mash indicated that the DNR now "lacks confidence in the health and safety of this tree stand. The area underneath the dead trees contains picnic areas, shelters, restroom facilities, and the children's playground."

He continued, "Cutting, removing the wood, and clean-up of branches of the affected trees is overwhelming for the staff. It has to be done if the park is to be safely used by the public."

All interested persons are encouraged to attend the strategy session and offer their comments on the problem.

A HUGE AMERICAN FLAG CAKE sold for $1 a piece at a recent fundraiser held to benefit the Garrett County Operation Desert Storm Support Group "Welcome Home Fund." The event was sponsored by Browning's Foodland and featured a cake measuring six by four and one/half feet, and took 36 boxes of cake mix, nine dozen eggs, one gallon of oil, and eight 15-pound buckets of icing to make. The cake took about eight hours to prepare and ice, and netted approximately 900 slices. The support group noted its appreciation to Browning's Foodland and Rick DiSimone, store manager, for sponsoring the event, and to Tina Legeer, Shari Burrell, and Donna Sheally, store employees, who baked the cake. Shown above (with the huge cake) are, left to right, Rick DiSimone, Shari Burrell, Donna Lewis, Tina Legeer, Kim Flanagan and Janet Hinebaugh. Support group members not present at the time of the photo were Sandy Brantner and Faye Bittinger.

"Mini-Mester" Courses Planned At GCC Campus

An innovation in the Garrett Community College summer schedule this summer will be a 3½-week "mimi-mester" for adults, from May 20 to June 12, according to a college spokesperson. Courses offered at this time include a special section of Expository Writing (English 101), and a seminar in portfolio development (LS 104).

Joan Crawford, who will teach the three-credit English course, explained the concept of the mini-mester. "This short semester has been designed to encourage adults to take that first step toward a college education, no matter what their age. We believe in lifelong learning, and we know that adults feel more comfortable in a group of their peers. Many adults have had learning experiences in non-academic settings that can now be evaluated for college credit," she said. Students seeking this credit will also enroll in a one-credit seminar in portfolio development taught by George McDowell.

According to Crawford, students in the English course will learn all the fundamental composition skills of expository writing, as well as techniques of writing a research paper. For the students seeking credit for prior learning, writing assignments will focus on documentation needed for development of their portfolios. For other students, writing assignments may be more general, but will still be tailored to their lives as adults.

Students who have already had English 101 and who desire to have their prior learning experiences evaluated may take only the LS 104. The English 101 course will meet four mornings a week, Monday through Thursday, from 9 a.m. until noon. The seminar for portfolio development will meet at arranged times on an average of once a week until the required documentation has been collected and the writing completed so that the portfolio can be evaluated.

Students may register for the mini-mester at the Registrar's Office of the college, beginning April 8. Tuition for these courses is $32 per credit hour. It is waived for persons 60 years of age or over.

Anyone desiring further information about the mini-mester should call Crawford or McDowell at 387-6666.

WINTER GUARD TAKES SECOND -- The Southern Garrett Winter Guard took second place in their first competition Saturday. The group was competing against six other guards at East Allegheny High School near McKeesport, Pa. The guard also achieved the highest rating by a significant margin in the "equipment caption," which is the section that rates the difficulty of the drill and how well the performers execute that work. The winter guard will travel back to Pennsylvania on April 6 to perform in the championships. Because they have only competed once in the season, they will only be permitted to perform in exhibition. In response to much public interest, however, the guard will perform again for the home crowd before they go on a spring trip with the Southern Garrett Band to the Strawberry Festival in Buckannon, W.Va. The time and place of the home performance will be announced. The winter guard is under the instruction of Blair Glass, Amy Barnhouse, Lara Carlson, and Scott Clever, and is a part of the Southern Garrett Band, which is directed by Richard Clever, assisted by Margorie Clever.

SUNRISE SERVICES

Community Sunrise Services will be held on Easter morning at 6:30 a.m., in the Aurora United Methodist Church. Their customary Easter breakfast will follow in the Memorial Building. Everyone is welcome to begin their Easter Day by attending this service of worship.

HOMEMAKERS BUSY

With Anita Lantz serving as hostess, the Aurora Extension Homemakers gathered March 19 in her home to discuss plans for the spring season and to study the subject of "Nutrition, the Brain, and Alzheimer's."

Providing the devotionals was Virginia Martin. Martha Bolyard presented the study subject, stressing some of the known facts about Alzheimer's disease, the search for further information, and sources of information for those confronted with the problem of caring for someone suffering with this disease.

The club is planning to hold a Christmas bazaar from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., on November 2, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. Anyone who would wish to have a table for this event is asked to contact either Martha Bolyard at 735-5835 or Mary Jane Hanline at 735-5482. This will provide advance notice for those who wish to participate.

The club will also sponsor a class in cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and those who wish to have this training, which will be May 8 and 9, are asked to contact Sue Mayne at 735-5897.

The Keyser area Extension Homemakers will meet in Petersburg on April 13, with the theme for the day to be "Day After Today." On April 4, a county Demonstration Day and judging of cultural arts entries from the county will take place at St. Sebastion's Church in Kingwood. May 16 is set for President's Day when county club presidents and committee chairmen will go to Wheeling.

National Extension Homemakers Week, May 5-11, will be observed by each member being presented a gold and blue corsage to wear on Sunday and during the week. Each member will also receive a post card to be sent to some non-member to encourage others to join the Homemakers Club.

President Opal Myers reported on decisions made at County Council and read a letter concerning the sale of calendars for the Preston County Historical Society. She announced that reception to the Santa tree sponsored by the county Homemakers was so good that it is planned again for next year.

The club will provide for the president to attend the county President's Day.

Showing a wall hanging which she is quilting, the hostess displayed the special feature. Opal Myers was winner of the pig-in-the-poke. On April 16, the club will meet in the home of Virginia Martin where Mary Jane Hanline will demonstrate stir frying at 1 p.m.

Other than the hostess, those attending were Wilda Wilt, Opal Myers, Dorothy Spaid, Betty Fint, Virginia Martin, and Mary Jane Hanline.

Spelling Bees Held At Dennett PTA Meeting

The highlights of the Dennett Road PTA meeting last Thursday evening were the fourth and fifth grade spelling bees.

These were preceded, however, by a short business meeting during which PTA President, Mrs. Pat Bowser announced the following school events slated for April: Variety Show (April 8, grades K-1; April 11, grades 2-3; April 12, grades 4-5); Spirit Week (April 15-19); and Science and Social Studies Fair (April 18). Mrs. Bowser also advised parents to contact members of the Garrett County Board of Education regarding budget concerns they may have for the 1991-92 school year.

PTA secretary, Mrs. Barbara Schick, took a count of parents in the room for determination of a pizza party award for the classroom with the most parents in attendance. Mrs. Rickman's fourth grade won, with 16 parents present.

The business meeting was followed first by the Fifth Grade Spelling Bee. Fifth grade winners were: John Laverdure, first place; Sara Sincell, second; and Nicole Jones, third. The Fourth Grade Spelling Bee then got underway, resulting in the longest "spell-off" between the last two finalists ever to occur in the school's history, according to principal Clark Sharpless. Fourth-grade winners were: Matthew Cook, first; Janet Cook, second; and Peter Porcaro, third. Individual trophies were awarded to all first, second, and third-place winners, courtesy of the Dennett Road PTA. Sharpless expressed the school's gratitude to Jim Cornelius, who served as moderator and pronouncer for the spelling bees. Refreshments were served following the contests.

The next scheduled PTA meeting will be Thursday, April 18, at 7 p.m. in the school cafetorium, at which time the fifth graders will present their Science and Social Studies Fair.

His interest in writing fiction surfaced in 1976 when he read of the attempt of a Soviet frigate's crew to defect to Sweden, and event which gave him the idea for The Hunt For Red October. GCC Lakers Drop A Pair To Pioneers Before Whipping Devils

The Garrett Community College Lakers played three games this past week, two of which they lost to Anne Arundel Community College Sunday at Allegany CC in Cumberland and the third of which they won over the Community College of Baltimore Tuesday afternoon, 16-7, on the Red Devils' diamond. The Lakers, who are now 3-3 overall and 1-2 in the Maryland JUCO Western Division standings, will meet the Marietta College junior varsity this Friday in Ohio and then host CCAC South on Saturday at 1 p.m.

The Lakers were topped by Anne Arundel 5-0 in the first game and 11-6 in the nightcap. After going scoreless for three innings, the Pioneers recorded four in the top of the fourth frame, when Rick Martin rapped a two-run homer and Billins followed with a two-run double.

Jim Sebroski smacked an RBI double in the seven for the final run of the contest.

The Lakers were held to just four hits by Bob Forney, who struck out five. Steve Ujcic hit a double for Garrett, while Todd Booth, Mike Leshok, and Mick Bayle each singled.

Mike Berlin absorbed the loss on the mound for Garrett.

The Lakers hit considerably better in the second contest and held a 6-3 lead after four innings, but the Pioneers knotted the score in the top of the fifth and added five more runs in the top of the seventh to record their second win of the day.

Anne Arundel scored three runs in the third frame, which were answered run for run by the Lakers in the bottom of that inning. Mike Clark led off the Laker third by reaching on an error, Leshok followed with a single, and Bayle walked to load the bases. D.G. Largent sent one run home with a fielder's choice, Todd Booth singled to score the second one, and Rod Freeman reached on another error to send Bayle home with the tying run.

Clark walked and Leshok singled to open the bottom of the Laker fourth. Ujcic followed with a bunt single that was thrown away, allowing Clark to score. Bayle then rapped a single to send Leshok and Ujcic home and give the Lakers their 6-3 advantage.

The Pioneers tied the score in the fifth without recording a single hit. Two walks and a mis-fire on a pickoff attempt by starting pitcher Brian Shaffer, coupled with three walks by reliever Tony Angelo gave Anne Arundel the three scores.

A two-run fielder's choice, a two-run single by McNally, and a run-producing single by Sebronski accounted for the Pioneers' five runs in the seventh.

Pacing Garrett's hitting was Leshok, who had three singles, while Ujcic and Bayle finished with two singles each.

Anne Arundel, who won the JUCO East Division title last year, is now 8-2 on the season.

The Laker bats really came to life Tuesday against CC of Baltimore, as they pounded out a dozen hits and scored four runs in four different innings: the first, second, fourth, and sixth.

Leshok scored the first run of the game in the first inning when he singled, moved to third on two errors, and came home on a single by Ujcic. Angelo capped the inning with a two-run single.

The second frame was highlighted by a two-run triple by Buddy Lechliter and an RBI single by Rod Freeman.

Garrett made it 12-1 in the fourth, as former Southern standout Kevin Green smacked a two-run double and Bayle added a two-run single.

Baltimore rallied for five runs in the bottom of the fourth, but Garrett added four more in the sixth on three singles, two walks, and an RBI single by Largent. The contest was called after six innings because of darkness.

The Lakers capitalized on six errors by the Red Devils.

Bayle, Freeman, and Green each finished with a double and a single, Largent and Leshok each singled twice, and Lechliter added a triple.

Burley led the Devils with a grand slam and two singles.

Mark Rohrbaugh was the starting pitcher for the Lakers, but reliever Jerrod Hardy, who worked his way out of a bases-loaded jam in the fourth, was credited with the win.

The Lakers' also lost a contest last Wednesday, 10-4, to arch rival Allegany Community College in Cumberland. Freshman lefthander Steve Kline recorded the win for the Trojans as he allowed only one earned run and five hits in eight innings.

Coach Carr Hope Experience Will Lead Huskies To Winning Season

"I'm counting on our experience," stated Northern High baseball coach Phil Carr as the Huskies entered their 1991 campaign this week, and that experience paid off in the Huskies' opener Monday afternoon as they walloped host Turkeyfoot, 16-2. The contest initiated a 19-game regular season schedule for the Huskies, who hope to improve upon their 4-10 record last year.

Jon Houser, Mark Beals, Chad Sines, and Paul Edwards led a balanced hitting attack for Northern against Turkeyfoot, while pitcher Jerry Uphold allowed only two hits and struck out five in going the five-inning distance.

Houser singled and doubled to record two runs, Beals singled twice for an RBI, Sines doubled and singled for a run, and Edwards smacked a two-run double.

Coach Carr and the Huskies are hopeful that this win, plus a strong finish at the end of last season, will provide momentum to keep them in the win column this year. In their final three regular season games last year, the Huskies defeated Bishop Walsh, were nipped by powerful Southern, 3-2, and concluded with an 8-3 win over Beall.

Seven starters are back from the 1990 team. "Being a young squad last season provided a lot of time for our players," Carr said. "We will still be young, but the experience will be a key for us."

Hitting and defense should be the strongest areas of the game for the Huskies. Returning in the outfield will be senior starter Chad Sines, juniors Eric Umbel and Rich Schofield, also returning starters. Also expected to see time in the outfield will be junior Todd Burdock, sophomores Brian McKenzie and Rob Beachy, and probably freshman Rob Speicher.

The infield should also be solid with the return of several more starters. Juniors Jon Houser and Harrison Foy will anchor first base, while Mark Beals, a junior, will return to second, where he started every game last year. Moving from third base to short stop will be Doug Brenneman, a junior, and senior Dennis Deigert will is starting at third.

Also expected to see infield playing time are Aaron Morris, a senior, sophomore Paul Edwards, and junior Chad Anderson.

The catching chores will be handled by junior transfer Jarrett McKenzie, Anderson, and Burdock.

Two veteran pitchers will be back on the mound this year in senior Jerry Uphold and Jon Houser. Eric Umbel will move from his third base spot to pitch and others expected to take the mound are Deigert, Speicher, Anderson, and freshman Larry Wakefield.

"The team shows a lot of enthusiasm and confidence, especially for a young team," Carr said. "Our depth at each position is probably the best thing about this squad. Practices have really been competitive and the players are pushing each other to work hard."

The Huskies will return to action this weekend in the Westmar Easter Tournament. They will face Frankfort at 11 a.m. and Westmar at 7 p.m. on Saturday.

Northern Girls' Softball Team Expected To Continue Success

With seven starters returning from 11-4 season last year, Coach Robert Yunker and the Northern High girls' softball team members are anticipating another outstanding season, which was to have begun Monday with a doubleheader at Turkeyfoot.

"We should be stronger and better than last year," Yunker said, noting that only two players from that team which was seeded fourth in the Region IA playoffs, were lost to graduation. "It is hard to replace senior leadership, but I think we have the girls who will work hard to do just that," he said.

Leading the Huskies will be senior captain Karen Wilhelm, a four-year starter who will anchor the infield defense from her third base position. She will also see some time on the mound.

Another senior leader is letterman Tracy Teats, an outfielder, who is one of the Huskies' most powerful offensive weapons. She, too, may see some action on the mound and at first base.

The only other senior on the squad is Connie Wiland, who possesses a strong bat and is competing for an outfield position.

Juniors make up a majority of the roster, with Audra Speicher returning to again lead the Huskies on the mound. She compiled an 8-3 record there last year and appears to be stronger physically this season. Cara Wachter, a three-year starter, returns to second base and is continuing to improve defensively; however, Yunker said her strength is at the plate. "She has tremendous bat control," Yunker said. "She can bunt, hit with power, or go to the opposite field."

April Slagle, another junior, will be the starting pitcher in the second game of Northern's doubleheaders. She came on strong in the latter part of last season to finish with a 3-1 record. she will also play shortstop, where Yunker says she "possesses good range and a very strong arm."

Brandi Bender, who has one of the strongest arms on the team, will start at catcher, while Stephanie Thomas will start in the outfield. "Stephanie gets a good jump on the ball, has excellent speed, and has a good arm," Yunker said. "She should be an offensive threat at the plate, too."

Rounding out the juniors on the team is first-year player Brandy Beckman, who is competing for an outfield position.

Traci Beitzel, a returning letterman, leads four sophomores on the squad. She will alternate between centerfield and shortstop. Possessing lots of power at the plate, Yunker said he expects her to "drive in a lot of runs".

Connie Wiland, who has good fielding ability, is seeking a position in the outfield, but could see action at first base, while Trina Green could also move into the starting line-up in the outfield and Jamie Strawser will play outfield and, because of her quickness, may be used in pinch running situations.

The lone freshman on the team is Kelly Durst, who has been working out at catcher and first base. Yunker says he believes she has "lots of potential" and just needs game experience and continued practice.

Assisting Yunker this year is Vonda Yunker, former coach of the Grantsville softball team in the Cumberland Sugar and Spice League.

MT. TOP CHAMPS, RUNNERS-UP - The Mt. Top Basketball League concluded its season last week with its annual championship playoffs, which were won by Martin's Auto Glass, a team that finished fourth in the regular season standings. Martin's Tops Buffalo For League Title

Martin's Auto Glass, who finished fourth during the regular season, returned to the top of the Mt. Top Basketball League as they captured the 1991 Championship last week by knocking off second place Buffalo coal, 81-74.

The first half was a tight battle with six lead changes and one tie as Buffalo was able to build a lead as large as six points. But down 26-22 with under four minutes remaining in the first half, Martin's went on a 16-1 tear to finish off the half with lead at 38-27.

This would be a lead that Martin's would never relinquish the remainder of the game. Buffalo was able to cut the lead on five and six points on two different occasions in the second half, but each rally was thwarted by the tough Martin's defense.

Martin's had four players finish in double figures. Poke Winters was the high point man for the game with 29 points while teammates Rick Selders, Dennis Gibson, and Pete Brosnihan netted 15, 14, 11 points and, respectively.

Buffalo was led by Mike Saturday with 22 points, recorded eight steals on defense, and also held Dennis Gibson to half of his season scoring average. Brian Selders scored 20 points for Buffalo with all of them coming in the second half.

Jon Hinebaugh led in assists with 53 and Brian Kamp recorded the best field goal shooting percentage (52%). The team also had one of the best overall academic records in the history of the school with just under an 87% team grade point average during the second term. Chris Wachter, Tim Hinebaugh, Bobby Fritz, Chris Bittner, and Chris Wright all made the honor roll during the season. The team was coached by NHS graduate Merv Yoder. Errors, Walks By Rams Lead To 8-8 Tie With Petersburg

Costly fielding errors and walks plagued the Southern High Rams in their baseball opener at Petersburg last Thursday evening, and the best they could come home with was an 8-8 tie when the game had to be called because of darkness.

The Vikings opened the scoring by recording two runs in the second inning, when Chad Vance doubled, scored on an infield error, and Jamie Ault and Mike Moyers followed with back-to-back singles to make it 2-0.

The Rams came back to score five runs in the top of the third. Dave Kurtz led off the inning by reaching on an error. Ryan Leatherbury followed with a walk and Garth Glotfelty rapped a ball that was mis-handled by Petersburg, allowing Kurtz to score. Brett Rice then singled home Leatherbury, Shane Skipper followed with an RBI double, and later came home on another Viking error.

Petersburg made it 5-4 in the bottom of the third on an RBI single by Marty Berg and another Ram infield error.

After tying the score at 5-5 in the bottom of the fifth, the Rams recorded six runs in the sixth, as Rice tripled home a pair of runs and Skipper doubled again to plate Rice.

However, the Vikings knotted the score in the bottom of that frame by getting back-to-back walks that were tripled home by Brian Hefner and Doug Fletcher followed with a single to score Hefner.

Rice finished with three hits and four RBI for the Rams, while Skipper added two doubles and two RBI.

After a postponement of a game at Hampshire Monday, the Rams will travel to Westmar this weekend for an Easter tournament. They are slated to meet the Wildcats at 10 a.m. and then face Frankfort at 1 p.m.

GCC Schedules Breakfast For Business People

A special "working breakfast" and mini-seminar is being planned, by Garrett Community College for managers and supervisors of small businesses.

"This breakfast program will provide area businesses with valuable ideas for increasing productivity," stated Sandy Major, coordinator of Business Programs for GCC's Continuing Education. The program will be held Thursday, April 11, from 7 to 8:30 a.m. at Garrett Community College. It is designed to provide an opportunity to learn a lot about productivity resources in a small amount of time, Major said.

"To maximize profits, managers need to have productive motivated workers and use processes and equipment designed to increase effectiveness," she said. "This mini-seminar will connect area businesses with resources in both these areas."

Those wishing to register for the breakfast seminar should call Lynne Glotfelty or Sandy Major at 387-6666, ext. 180. A small fee will be charged to help cover the cost of the breakfast. The registration deadline is April 8, but Ms. Major said it's important to register early since space is limited.

Celebrate Spring with an Easter Feast

Easter marks the start of spring. As families gather to usher in this long-anticipated season, a sumptuous feast customarily tops off the celebration. With this family-pleasing menu featuring an easy-to-carve boneless ham and make-ahead accompaniments, hosting the holiday celebration can be as simple for the seasoned cook as for the first-timer.

Ham has been a part of Easter celebrations on many early American farms where home-curing was a holiday ritual. Today, however, convenience is crucial to busy cooks who rely on the wide variety of hams that are readily available in the supermarket. Choosing the size of a boneless, bone-in or semi-boneless ham depends largely on how many guests will be seated around your table. A boneless ham yields about five 3-ounce servings per pound; a bone-in or semi-boneless ham will yield about 2-1/2 to 3 servings per pound. When selecting your holiday ham, you may want to plan for leftovers, as this versatile lean meat lends itself to many other convenient meal preparations.

This holiday ham is glazed with a spiced Peach Chutney made from tart-sweet canned California cling peaches, onions and aromatic spices. The rich fruit glaze mingles with the flavorful ham as it roasts and fills the house with a tempting aroma. The Peach Chutney Glaze, which doubles as a condiment to be served at the table, can be made in advance, as the flavor and texture of cling peaches holds up beautifully when cooked.

Cling peaches are picked when their flavor and nutrients are at their peak. Their juicy sweetness adds a refreshing note to the Spring Green Salad of assorted lettuce tossed with red bell pepper strips and a raspberry vinaigrette.

Show-stopping Chocolate Layer Cheesecake fills all the requirements for a rich, elegant ending to a holiday dinner. The secret behind this make-ahead finale is the buttery pound cake crust beneath creamy cheese and chocolate layers. Moist and tender, the crust has the taste of an old-fashioned scratch recipe, but it's made with the convenience of a packaged mix. This is definitely a dessert worthy of a dazzling flourish on top, such as the first berries of the season.

And for ardent chocolate fans, decadent Raspberry Fudge Bars showcase the endless possibilities of a pound cake mix. Whether made into this fudgy, layered bar cookie or simply baked into a traditional loaf and served with fresh fruit and ice cream, pound cake mix is a versatile baking staple.

Embellish the meal with fresh asparagus or peas, baked yams and warm dinner rolls for an impressive, worry-free Easter feast.

Peach Chutney Glaze & Sauce

- 3 cans (16 ounces each) California cling peach halves in juice or extra light syrup
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup white wine vinegar
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon minced candied ginger
- 1-1/2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 3/4 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Drain peaches, reserving all liquid for other uses. Chop peaches into 1/4-inch pieces; combine with remaining ingredients in a large saucepan. Bring mixture to a boil; simmer for 1 to 1-1/4 hours, stirring occasionally, until slightly thickened, like a soft jam.
Makes about 3 cups.

TO GLAZE HAM: Brush ham with 1/2 to 3/4 cup warm Peach Chutney Glaze for the last 20 minutes of roasting. Pass remaining chutney as a sauce.
NOTE: Chutney may be made in advance. Cover and refrigerate. Warm chutney to soften before glazing ham.

Perfect Easter Ham

Place the ham, straight from the refrigerator, in a shallow roasting pan. By using a meat thermometer, there's no guesswork. Simply insert the thermometer so the tip does not touch bone or fat. Add water or liquid as directed. Cover pan tightly with aluminum foil. Roast in 325°F oven. Do not preheat oven except for hams 2 pounds or under. Remove the ham from the oven when the thermometer registers 135°F; the temperature will continue to rise to 140°F as it stands. Allow the ham to stand 10 minutes for easier carving.

Spring Green Salad

- Raspberry Basil Vinaigrette
- 2 cans (16 ounces each) California cling peach slices in juice or extra light syrup
- 4 to 5 quarts mixed salad greens, torn into bite-sized pieces
- 1 large red bell pepper, cut into thin strips
- 1 cup crumbled feta cheese

Prepare Raspberry Basil Vinaigrette; set aside. Drain peaches, reserving all liquid for other uses. In large salad bowl, lightly toss together salad greens, peaches, pepper strips and cheese. Toss with dressing before serving.
Makes 8 servings.

Raspberry Basil Vinaigrette

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 3 tablespoons raspberry or red wine vinegar
- 1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
- 1 teaspoon dry basil leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper

Whisk together all ingredients until well combined.

Raspberry Fudge Bars

- 2 tablespoons cold butter or margarine
- 1 package (16 ounces) Dromedary Pound Cake Mix
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1/3 cup red raspberry jam
- 1/3 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1 cup (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate morsels, melted

In mixing bowl, cut butter into 1 cup of pound cake mix until evenly distributed. Mix in nuts; press evenly over bottom of a 9-inch square baking pan. Bake crust at 375°F (or at 350°F if using glass baking dish), 12 to 15 minutes, until edges are golden; cool. Gently spread with jam to within 1/4-inch of edges; set aside. In mixing bowl, beat remaining pound cake mix with milk and egg on low speed of electric stand mixer (medium speed if using electric hand mixer) for 4 minutes. Stir in melted chocolate; blend well. Gently spread evenly over jam layer. Bake for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool before cutting into bars.
Makes 2 dozen bars.

Chocolate Layer Cheesecake

- 1/3 cup cold butter or margarine
- 1 package (16 ounces) Dromedary Pound Cake Mix
- 3 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 3 eggs
- 2/3 cup (4 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate morsels, melted
- Strawberries and raspberries, for garnish
- Currant or apple jelly, melted

In mixing bowl, cut butter into pound cake mix until evenly distributed. Reserve 1 cup crumb mixture. Press remaining crumb mixture evenly over bottom and halfway up sides of a 9-inch springform pan. Bake crust at 350°F for 20 minutes (crust will fall slightly during baking). Remove from oven. With back of spoon, press crust back into place along sides and bottom of pan. Beat cream cheese, sugar and vanilla until smooth. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Remove half of batter (about 2 cups) to separate bowl. Stir in melted chocolate; spread over crumb crust. Sprinkle reserved 1 cup crumb mixture evenly over chocolate layer. Top with remaining cheese mixture, spreading gently to cover. Return to oven and bake for 45 to 50 minutes, until just set; cool. Refrigerate 8 hours or overnight. Decorate with whole and sliced berries; brush with melted jelly.
Makes 12 servings.

POST NASAL DRIP BEGINS IN THE NASOPHARYNX

To maintain moisture, the nasal passageways produce copious quantities of both a watery secretion and a thicker mucous. A certain quantity always lingers in the upper throat or nasopharynx. If an oversupply accumulates, particularly of the mucous, the result is a post-nasal drip.

Some basic causes are air irritants, smoking, chemical or physical damages to membrane, gross deformities in nasal passageways, climate, altitude or humidity. Gargling is not considered effective. Do not neglect medical treatment of post-nasal drip. Otherwise the tissues thicken, resulting in permanent deformities which require surgical correction.

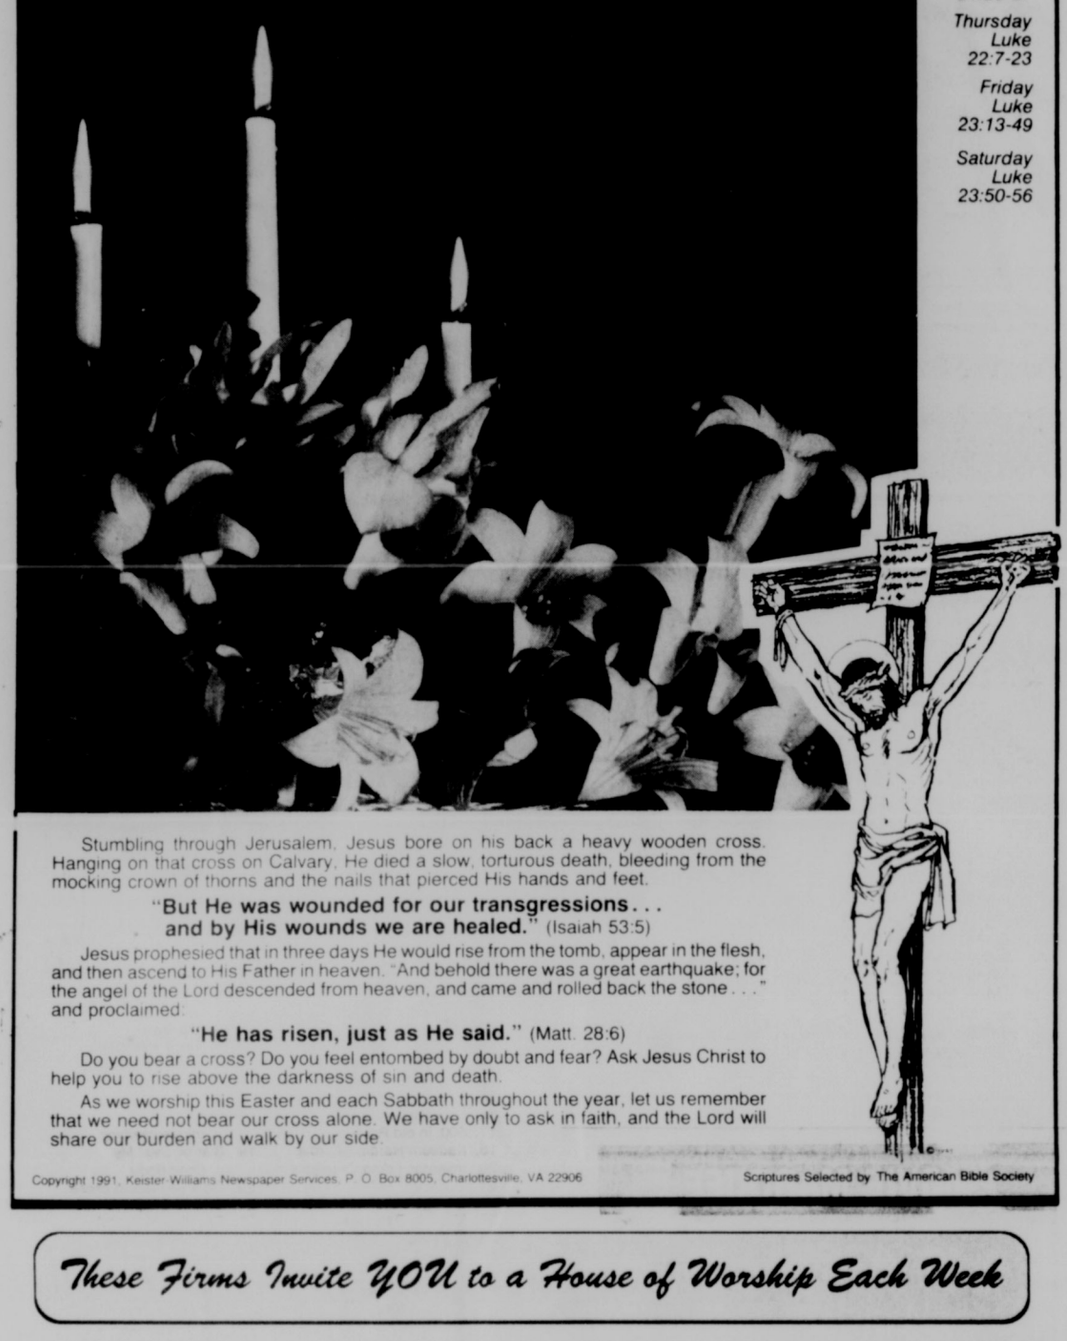
Jesus Paid The Price



Sunday Mark 1:1-11
Monday Psalm 72
Tuesday Mark 3:13-19
Wednesday Luke 21:20-37
Thursday Luke 22:7-23
Friday Luke 23:13-49
Saturday Luke 23:50-56

Stumbling through Jerusalem, Jesus bore on his back a heavy wooden cross. Hanging on that cross on Calvary, He died a slow, torturous death, bleeding from the mocking crown of thorns and the nails that pierced His hands and feet.

"But He was wounded for our transgressions . . . and by His wounds we are healed." (Isaiah 53:5)

Jesus prophesied that in three days He would rise from the tomb, appear in the flesh, and then ascend to His Father in heaven. "And behold there was a great earthquake; for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone . . ." and proclaimed:

"He has risen, just as He said." (Matt. 28:6)

Do you bear a cross? Do you feel entombed by doubt and fear? Ask Jesus Christ to help you to rise above the darkness of sin and death.

As we worship this Easter and each Sabbath throughout the year, let us remember that we need not bear our cross alone. We have only to ask in faith, and the Lord will share our burden and walk by our side.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IS IT ALL IN VAIN?

March 31, 1991

Background Scripture:
1 Corinthians 15:
Luke 23:55 - 24:12
Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 15:11

I have just come home from a funeral. A 37-year-old mother and friend of the family died suddenly after a few days of hospitalization for an as yet unknown illness. We were in a crowd o 200 people who were forced to stand outside the packed church. We couldn't see or hear much from where we stood, but at one point we did recognize the strains of "Amazing Grace" coming from inside. In the midst of this sorrow, God's amazing grace was still discernible to us in the promise that Nancy is a victor over the grave.

Little did I realize that I would come home and be writing about Paul's great exposition on the subject of life after death. Without this promise, life would be futile indeed. In the church at Corinth there were probably some who, influenced by Hellenistic prejudice against the phyical body, rejected the idea of resurrection. But Paul knew that without the resurrection, life would be a blind alley: "If Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile and you are still in your sins" (15:16).

THE SPIRITUAL BODY

Some years ago when I spoke at a neighboring church, a minister told me he didn't really believe in the survival of death. "I believe we live on through our children, our influence, and the works we leave behind us," he said. But Paul is not taljing of that kind of immortality. "If for this life only we have hoped in Christ, we are of all men most to be pitied." A hope that lasts only from birth to death and not beyond is not a hope that can sustain us.

In the days in which Jesus lived, Jews were divided on the question of life after death. Th Sadduccees, basing their belief on certain scriptures, believed that there is no existence beyond death. The Pharisees, however, using other Jewish scriptures and traditions, taught the resurrection of the physical body. So, the early Christians and the Pharisees at least agreed on life after death.

But what kind of life after death? Paul comes up with a novel concept, the "spiritual body." Actually, this is a contradiction in terms: if something is body, it is physical, not spiritual; if something is spiritual, it cannot have a physical body. "Spirit" and "body" are seemingly self-contradictory terms.

DEATH SWALLOWED UP

Nevertheless, despite Paul's linking of these two apparent opposites, this idea of a "spiritual body" helps us to contemplate the divine mystery of life beyond death. Paul is not giving us an accurate description of the form of our afterlife, he is simply telling us that we will experience life after death in some kind of form or state of being. Our consciousness will continue in a form that is like physicality but still not physical. What is different about this form is that it will be imperishable not perishable, glorious not dishonored, powerful not weak.

This is the victory that forms the hope by which we live in a world of death and decay. So we can sing with Paul, "Death is swallowed up in victory. . . thanks be to God who gives us this victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (15:57). And because we can anticipate this victory beyond death, we can live victoriously before death. "Therefore, my beloved brethren be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that in the Lord your work is not in vain"!

Odd-job career was short for successful Robert Duvall

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Who was it that played Gus in Lonesome Dove? Please tell me a little about him, how old he is, what else he has been in, etc. —Betsy Paton, Tribes Hill, N.Y.

Robert Duvall

A: Robert Duvall played Augustus (Gus) MacRae in Lonesome Dove. A self-confessed "Navy brat," Duvall, who was born in San Diego, Calif, Jan. 5, 1931, grew up in Virginia, where his Naval officer father was stationed. He earned a degree in drama at Principia College in Elsah, Ill., before going on to study at New York's Neighborhood Playhouse under Sanford Meisner, working odd jobs to support himself. The odd jobs didn't last long. Within a few years, he had been seen in more than 60 productions on and off Broadway. Since his film debut as Boo Radley in To Kill a Mockingbird, Duvall has worked steadily at his craft. Some of his films include *The Detective, True Grit, M*A*S*H, The Godfather, Network, Apocalypse Now, The Conversation, The Great Santini* and Tender Mercies. His television credits include the six-hour miniseries Ike for ABC and The Terry Fox Story for HBO. He has earned four Oscar nominations and a best actor award for Tender Mercies.

Q: Recently I have been watching reruns of the series Stingray. Could you please give me some information on the lead actor, Nick Mancuso? He seems as mysterious as the character he portrays. —Debbie Wayman, Gary, Ind.

A: Nick Mancuso, born in Italy in 1956, was raised in Toronto. The acting bug bit him in high school when he starred in a production of Hamlet. However, it wasn't until after he earned his psychology degree from the University of Guelph that he became a full-time actor. In 1982 he won Canada's Genie Award as best actor for his performance in the film Ticket to Heaven. He currently resides in Los Angeles.

Q: Could you please give me an address for Oprah Winfrey? I've looked up to her for years. As a black woman, she has given me a lot of strength and encouragement to follow my dreams. On her talk show she did a segment on alcoholism. I have, since then, become a recovering alcoholic. I will soon be celebrating a year in recovery, and I wanted to write her and share this special time in my life. I pray you can help me, if not, maybe by some chance she might read this in your column. —Rita Broussard, Palmer, Alaska

A: Congratulations, Rita. I am sure Oprah Winfrey would be very happy to hear from you. The address I am sending you is of her production company, where she should receive your letter. Write to: Oprah Winfrey, Harpo Productions, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Suite 1782, Chicago, IL 60601. Good Luck!

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748.

Alfred Hitchcock set pace with 'The 39 Steps'

By Steven Alan McGaw

The 39 Steps (1935)

Alfred Hitchcock instituted many of his film trademarks with this suspense classic. Madeleine Carroll was the first in a long line of "icy blondes," Robert Donat was the innocent man wrongly accused, and there is no shortage of things that are not what they appear to be.

Film historians tell us lines were added at the end of the film to remind us what "the 39 steps" (the MacGuffin, for true Hitchcock aficionados) even is; the plot itself is just a vehicle to bring Donat and Madeleine Carroll together. Their biting repartee set the standard for romantic comedy for years to come.

There are, certainly, some breathlessly exciting touches in the film. The first such chill comes as Donat grimly realizes powers on both sides of the law wish to see him convicted for the murder of the strange Teutonic woman who told a garbled tale of espionage just hours before her demise. She'd told him to beware of a man missing part of his little finger; shortly after, he finds himself in the man's living room! Donat stumbles into a political meeting where he is welcomed with surprising fervor. Minutes after, he's introduced as the featured speaker of the evening ... and raises the crowd to its feet.

Hitchcock made slicker, darker films than this, but The 39 Steps remains a stylish, very entertaining film.

Dramas fill Easter week basket of TV movies

By Anne Wheeler

The networks have filled the made-for-TV-movie Easter basket with stories of murder mystery, human tragedy and romantic escapism.

On Sunday, March 31, Daniel J. Travanti stars as Roy Baxter, an American who travels to Kenya to retrieve his only daughter (Jennifer Grey) from the perils of the African bush. The trip becomes a nightmare when he is arrested for a murder he did not commit in CBS' Eye of a Witness.

Also on CBS, Mario Van Peebles has the title role in A Triumph of the Heart: The Ricky Bell Story, a fact-based drama about an all-star pro football player who inspires a young fan to overcome physical and verbal disabilities, only to be faced with his own rare muscle disease. Polly Holliday and Susan Ruttan co-star in the drama, Tuesday, April 2.

Dramatic romance is in the air Monday on NBC as Cheryl Ladd and Michael Nouri play successful professionals trying to make their new marriage work in Danielle Steel's "Changes." Ladd's character is a New York TV correspondent forced to choose between her career and her newfound love for a Los Angeles heart surgeon.

Emmy-winner John Erman will direct from a teleplay by William Hanley. Tony Roberts and Zeljko Ivanek appear in the film.

Bravo to CBS' Knots Landing, which recently celebrated the filming of its 300th episode.

Reunions, reunions: Jameson Parker recently appeared in an episode of former Simon & Simon co-star Gerald McRaney's series, Major Dad. Parker guest-starred as Polly Cooper's old boyfriend, a free-spirited type who quickly found himself at odds with the Major. Meanwhile, sisters Audrey and Jayne Meadows acted together for the first time in over 20 years in an episode of CBS' Uncle Buck.

Demi Moore will star in a comedy called Cloak & Diaper, about a pair of FBI agents in New Orleans. It seems the two go undercover as a married couple ... complete with a baby as a prop.

Steve Martin will headline a remake of Father of the Bride.

Sad but true: Susan Dey, Jimmy Smits and Harry Hamlin are all leaving L.A. Law at the end of this season. Oh well, new characters can be pretty interesting, too.

Eric Allan Kramer plays a brawny, not brainy, ex-jock on NBC's Down Home, Saturdays.

Olympia Dukakis stars in The Last Act Is a Solo, a one-act play airing Tuesday on A&E.

HOROSCOPE

CAPRICORN

March 31 through April 6

By C.C. Clark

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
This is a busy week for you, especially at work or school. Try to keep a level head. It is important to clarify any details that could cause problems later on.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
A friend or relative who makes you happy will visit soon. It is important to look your best, as you may gain a new relationship or rekindle an old flame.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
This should be a week of relaxation for Geminis. Take time away from those things that give you stress and just sit back and take it easy. You deserve it.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Straighten out loose ends this week, especially when dealing with finances. Check those details closely and you may find some extra cash you didn't know you had.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
This is an exciting week for lucky Leo. At times things may seem crazy, but even the madness will be fun. Share this time with special friends and loved ones.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Don't let loved ones be overly critical of you. They probably don't realize the kind of pressure you have been under. If you explain things calmly, they will understand.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Celebrate with friends this week, but don't undertake the burden of making sure everyone has a good time. Let others take charge of organizing some of the activities.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Be affectionate toward loved ones; they need your undivided attention. You will be surprised how good you feel by helping others make a better life for themselves.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Things that wouldn't normally upset you probably will this week. Avoid gossips. The topic may seem interesting at first, but it will soon make you uncomfortable.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Whatever happens this week, don't take out your frustrations on loved ones or friends. Making these people angry will only cause you more headaches.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
It is time for a change, and you are most definitely ready for whatever might come your way. A friend may offer advice, but it is probably best to follow your intuition.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
It is important for Pisces to stay away from situations that would involve making hasty decisions. Be careful not to overlook an important detail on the domestic front.

Easter Bunny hits trail for Walt Disney World

101 dalmations take spotlight

By Anne Wheeler

The Easter Bunny won't be top dog as 101 dalmations take the "spot" light at this year's Walt Disney World Happy Easter Parade.

Collected from dozens of breeders throughout Florida, the black-and-white spotted puppies will serve as an early promotion for this summer's re-release of the animated Disney classic 101 Dalmations.

In the coast-to-coast telecast Sunday, March 31, on ABC, Mr. and Mrs. Easter Bunny will be joined by Regis Philbin, Joan Lunden and Alan Thicke, who will guide viewers through the festivities.

Noted dog lover Betty White will also be featured in the telecast, welcoming viewers to her Golden Girls house at the Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park.

As has become a tradition for the annual gala, the theme park's newest attraction will be sneak previewed. A showy Mardi Gras celebration introduces viewers to The Port Orleans Resort, a New Orleans-themed hotel scheduled to open in June.

The Easter parade will also re-create numbers from classic Disney films with some of Disney's most-beloved characters — Alice in Wonderland, Mary Poppins, Cinderella, Winnie the Pooh and Tigger and more. Of course, Mickey and Minnie will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Easter Bunny in the parade.

Patriotism rages high at the parade, too. The U.S. Navy Drum and Bugle Corp from Annapolis, Md., will give a rousing performance, while thousands of well-wishers show support for the troops still in the Mideast with a round of "God Bless America."

Edie Lehmann musically adept

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: Who is and what happened to the lovely actress playing Katherine Delafield on General Hospital? Is she truly a classical pianist? —F. Fitch, Nacogdoches, Texas

Dear Reader: Edie Lehmann (ex-Katherine on GH) left the show in November 1990 because she felt her character had been put on the back-burner and wasn't going anywhere.

GH was Lehmann's first attempt at acting. Born in Buffalo, N.Y., she began her musical training at age 4, and by age 6 she had performed in several recital halls in New York. She moved to Los Angeles when she was 8 and began studying piano, chamber music and music theory at the University of Southern California. After graduation from high school, Lehmann continued her studies at USC. Lehmann wants to continue to act.

Dear Candace: I like watching The Young and the Restless, but I cannot stand the lady who plays Mary Williams (Paul's mother). She's not on the show very often, but what little time she is, is too much. She has her nose stuck in everyone's business. —Elizabeth Bowen, Goodland, Kan.

Dear Elizabeth: If you don't like the character of Mary, then you have to admire the great job Carolyn Conwell does playing her. Remember, the actress only performs the lines the writers write. You are not supposed to like the busybody Mary, so Conwell is doing her job.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748. © TV Listing Inc.

Michael Nouri goes through 'Changes'

Danielle Steel movie mirrors professionals

By Amy Schmidt

It's raining in L.A., and the war has come to an end. "It's a great day," says actor Michael Nouri. Nouri, who co-starred with Jennifer Beals in Flashdance, has just finished the NBC film Danielle Steel's "Changes" and has found some time to talk about it.

"The thing that really grabbed me about the part in Changes is that there's an art to the character," begins Nouri, whose smooth, tranquil voice almost entrances you. "And you see that he goes from being insular to being more involved and going through the painful process of having to admit he's been neglecting his own emotions and also the emotional needs of those closest to him."

In Changes, airing Monday, April 1, on NBC, Nouri plays a handsome, celebrated heart surgeon whose wife has died, ironically, of a heart ailment. Enter Nouri's Changes co-star Cheryl Ladd. Ladd plays a beautiful and famous New York TV correspondent who falls for Nouri. She's a single mother; he's a single father. Together they have everything going for them. However, when they marry, the crises that follow do not make for a happy Yours, Mine and Ours ending.

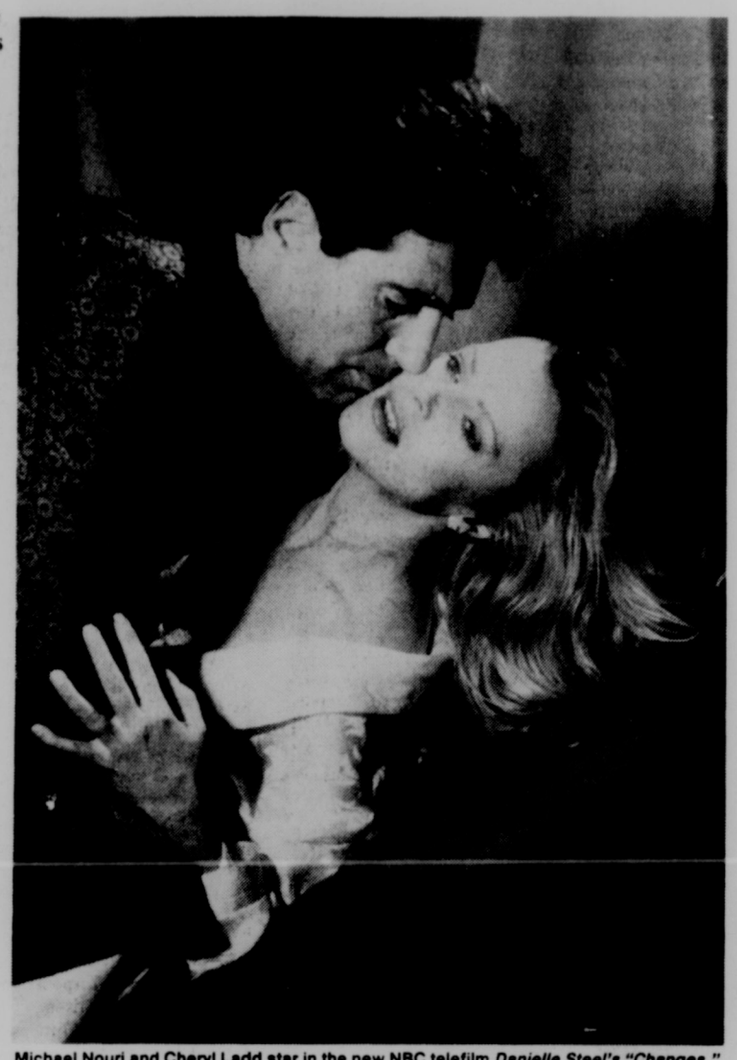
"I think, especially, professional people will relate to this," says Nouri. "Maybe we can all relate to it on the level of how we will turn to something else rather than face our feelings about something. Have a drink. Have a cigarette. Have a meal, whatever it takes to not deal with the real thing coming up. We're part of a culture that's learned to anesthetize its feelings, kind of numb it until the feeling goes away. But the feeling never goes away. It usually comes back harder and bigger...."

The glamour, wealth and power exhibited in Steel's miniseries are sure to be enticing elements of Changes. But in real life, it's evident they aren't what the real Michael Nouri is about. The actor says it's been necessary for him to divorce his success from fame and money — penchants of Hollywood. "My professional life is unpredictable. It's a real roller coaster ride. Sometimes I'm high; sometimes I'm low, and there are the attendant emotions that go with both. I'm still having to remind myself that I am not what I do. I do what I do. But I am what I am."

Nouri, who meditates daily, takes this philosophy so seriously that in the early '70s he quit acting and traveled across Europe and the U.S., living out of a VW van. To earn money he'd open his guitar case, "prime it with a few bucks," and strum on street corners.

The actor eventually settled down in 1975, going to work on Search for Tomorrow, for which he won an Emmy. His current projects include two feature films, Total Exposure and Psychic, scheduled for release this year. But it is his work with the National Multiple Sclerosis Society about which Nouri seems most earnest. He was recently named the organization's official ambassador.



Michael Nouri and Cheryl Ladd star in the new NBC telefilm Danielle Steel's "Changes," based on the best-selling novelist's book by the same name. NBC hopes Changes will steal the ball from CBS' NCAA championship basketball coverage. Both air Monday.

Baby Shower Event Urges Pregnant Women To Kick Smoking Habit

About thirty pregnant women from all areas of Garrett County who currently smoke or who have quit smoking in the past year recently attended "Maryland's Largest Baby Shower" at the Silver Tree Inn, Deep Creek Lake. A number of the fathers-to-be were also present.

This event was sponsored by the American Lung Association of Maryland and the Garrett County Health Department. In addition to a free lunch and prizes for the participants, the program included speakers who educated about the benefits of quitting. Mothers-to-be were encouraged to quit smoking and to avoid areas where others are smoking.

Among the speakers were Mary Ellen Lichty, R.N., who spoke to the group about the health-effects of smoking on the unborn baby; Donald R. Richter, M.D., who talked about the dangers of breathing "second-hand" smoke; and Betsy Herpel, an ex-smoker and mother of healthy triplets, who spoke about her experiences with quitting and the benefits to her children.

Doris Baker, a representative from Smoke Stoppers, Wellness Together, gave the group tips on how to comfortably become a non-smoker without the withdrawal effects many people experience. She said that whether or not they openly admit it, "most people who smoke would like to quit." She said that there is help for people who are ready to quit.

Brenda Butscher, county commissioner, acted as the moderator and introduced all of the speakers and sponsors. She encouraged everyone to practice healthier habits.

Lisa Baker, a recent cigarette quitter from Grantsville, attended with a friend. After the shower, she said that the information given was helpful. "It made me think about the harm cigarette smoking could do to my baby and children," she said, and reported that she intends to remain a non-smoker after her baby is born.

Glen Besa, the area representative from the American Lung Association, "especially extends thanks to the staff of the Garrett County Health Department who promoted and coordinated the event and to the area merchants who sponsored and donated gifts for the shower." Area merchants included: Brenda's Body Shop, Englander's Pharmacy, Deep Creek Pharmacy, Charmette Beauty Salon, Garrett County Healthy Start, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Green Acres Flower Basket, J.C. Penney, Presentations, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, S. Schwab Company, Silver Tree Inn, The Toy Chest, and Flowers by Webers.

New Pest Control Firm To Locate In Oakland Area

A new pest control firm called Ask Mr. Ted, The Exterminator is now locating in the Oakland area, according to Robert "Ted" Pritchard, owner of the company. The business will cover all phases of pest elimination with the exception of termites.

Pritchard stated that with the exclusion of chlordane by the Environmental Protection Agency, it is "very difficult, if not impossible, to eliminate termites with the present day technology and/or chemicals."

The firm will be offering complete home inspection, covering structure, electrical, plumbing, mechanical, and termite aspects for the potential home buyer at sensible prices.

Carpenter ant elimination will be a specialization. A recent expansion of the business includes sewer and drain cleaning.

The owner of the business plans to use local persons as employees to enhance the local economic picture. He further stated that he plans to put revenues into the local economy whenever possible.

Ask Mr. Ted, The Exterminator is licensed by the State of Maryland, Department of Agriculture, is fully insured, and will be in full operation by June of this year with the pest elimination and home inspection service being offered at the present time. The firm may be contacted by calling 334-1027.

Senior Citizen Writing Contest Deadline Extended

The Area Agency on Aging and the Garrett County Commissioners have decided to extend the deadline for essay submissions for the Senior Citizens' Creative Writing Contest to April 9, in the hope more seniors will take the opportunity to share their impressions of their state. This year's theme is "Maryland Through Your Eyes."

The rules include that the entrants must be age 60 or over, must reside in the county where the entry is submitted, and must never have been employed as a professional writer.

Entries must be hand printed or typed, double-spaced; must be 600 words or less; include name, address, zip code, and daytime phone number, and must be received by Area Agency on Aging, P.O. Box 449, Oakland, MD 21550, on or before April 9, 1991.

All senior citizens are encouraged by Agency officials to enter the contest. Every entrant will receive a personalized certificate. The grand winner in Garrett County will be honored by Governor Schaefer at a ceremony and luncheon. Each grand winner will also receive a "Maryland Getaway Weekend" for two. Entries will be judged by a panel of professionals and shall become the property of the State of Maryland.

Seniors who have difficulty writing may dictate their essay to a relative or friend if they wish, but it must be submitted in their own words.

Wildflower, Plant Identification Courses Offered

Two biology courses dealing with wildflower and plant identification will be offered by Garrett Community College on Saturdays at arranged times beginning next month. Both courses will be taught by Kevin Dodge, assistant professor of wildlife biology, and both will meet on specified dates throughout the growing season.

One of these courses, Wildflowers of Garrett County (BIO 111), is designed for anyone with an interest in learning to identify the native wildflowers of this area, and in knowing where they grow. Students in this course should wear comfortable walking shoes and expect to walk along trails and through areas where wildflowers can be found. The course can be taken for one credit or as a non-credit offering.

Plant Systematics (BIO 210), a four-credit course, is designed for students who desire a more in-depth study of plants. Students in this course will do a plant collection from a designated area.

Anyone interested in taking either of these courses should contact Dodge at the college, 387-6666, for information about registration and the first class meeting.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club met Tuesday, March 19, at the home of Susannah Kurtz. A program on landscape design was presented by Kathie Smith and Karen Browning, club members who, along with Ruta Savage, completed a three-day "Landscape Design Study Course" at West Virginia University, Morgantown.

A perennial exchange, election of officers, and committee meetings will highlight the next monthly meeting to be held Tuesday, April 16. The goals of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for 1990-91 are; 1) to learn more about preserving and using the natural habitat in which we live, 2) to encourage creative use of nature's bounty. Committees to facilitate attaining these goals are focused on birds, trees, wildflowers, herbs, conservation, and horticulture.

Cashing State Refund Checks Made Easier

What do you do if you've received your Maryland refund check but you don't have a bank account and are having trouble cashing the check?

"We've made arrangements for check-cashing with at least 208 locations of Maryland National Bank throughout the state," Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said. "These banks will cash your Maryland income tax refund check whether or not you have an account with the bank and without charging a fee -- as long as you present proper identification."

The comptroller noted that his office has mailed 645,718 state income tax refund checks to taxpayers. The average state refund is currently $316. Mr. Goldstein also said his office has received 1,127,000 state returns so far out of the expected 2.2 million.

The comptroller reminded the nearly one million taxpayers who have yet to file that any error on the return can delay processing of the refund check.

"That's why it's important to set your return aside for a while, and go back to it later. The error rate goes up closer to the end of the filing season when taxpayers are in a hurry." Goldstein said.

To help avoid errors, the comptroller offered these important tips to taxpayers still working on their returns:

- *double-check all entries and calculations;
- *enter your correct subdivision code in the box provided; (see the list on page 2 of the state tax packet instructions)
- *be sure to enter the dollar value of your personal exemptions on line 58;
- *if itemizing deductions, attach a copy of federal Schedule A;
- *if claiming the state tax break for child care, attach a copy of whichever federal form you filed with I.R.S. to report your child care expenses;
- *use the pre-printed address label, if the information on it is correct;
- *attach all W-2's;
- *sign the return, and if someone else has prepared the return, have them sign also.

"If you need help, we have plenty of opportunities for free Maryland income tax assistance available," Goldstein said.

All state income tax offices will offer extra hours of free state tax assistance on the following dates:

Good Friday, Friday, March 29, 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.; Monday, April 1, 5 p.m. - 7 p.m. Phone Help Only; Saturday, April 6, 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.; Monday, April 8, 5 p.m. - 7 p.m. Phone Help Only; Saturday, April 13, 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.;

Deadline, Monday, April 15, 8:30 a.m. - 7 p.m.

State tax officials will complete Maryland income tax returns free of charge so long as taxpayers bring a complete copy of their federal return and all W-2 statements.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories.

The statewide toll-free number for state taxpayer assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Byrd Scholarships Are Available To Maryland Students

The State Department of Education has announced that 97 Robert C. Byrd Scholarships are available for public and non-public school students in this year's graduating class.

The $1,500 scholarships will be awarded to selected students in the top 1% of their senior class. The scholarship program recognizes exceptionally able students who have achieved excellence and show promise of continued excellence. Recipients must be Maryland residents and admitted to an institution of higher education.

Maryland's 24 local school systems are allotted specific numbers of scholarships available for their students based on the number of seniors in public and non-public schools, the number of students qualifying after completing the GED, and students attending out-of-state schools.

Nominations for the scholarships will be made by public and non-public high school principals and headmasters.

Completed application forms must be postmarked no later than May 9 and submitted to Dr. Susan K. Travetto, Special Projects Office, Maryland State Department of Education, 200 W. Baltimore St., Baltimore, MD 21201-2595.

Scholarship recipients will be selected from among those nominated by a drawing. Principals will be notified on May 15.

Frostburg State Radio Station Seeks Volunteers

WFWM, the public radio station at Frostburg State University, has announced that it is seeking volunteers to assume announcing positions for the classical music portion of its broadcast day.

An information meeting for interested area residents and FSU students is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the University's Lane Center on Wednesday, April 3.

Volunteers will receive technical training, assist in planning programs, and serve as on-air announcers. "All that is required is knowledge and appreciation of classical music and a desire to learn how to become a member of the station's announcing staff," stated Charles Harris, station manager.

Harris said the station has acquired state-of-the-art broadcasting equipment and new studio facilities. WFWM is located at 91.7 on the FM dial.

FSU's public radio station was established to provide an alternative to commercial radio and has been providing an increasing amount of classical programming since 1987. The classics are currently featured Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on Sunday from 7 a.m. to noon. Remaining portions of the daytime programming are devoted to jazz, news and public affairs.

Additional information about the meeting on April 3 or the station in general is available by calling Harris at 689-4143 or René Atkinson, 689-4161.

JTPA Offering Older Worker Job Program

Garrett County residents, aged 55 and older, who meet the Job Training Partnership Act (J.T.P.A.) requirements, are now eligible to participate in the job training program. The purpose of the program is to provide older workers with a skill which would enable them to enter the job market.

"The older worker program has been very successful in other counties in Maryland to get older workers back into the labor market, giving them a sense of pride and usefulness, and giving employers dedicated and dependable employees," stated Robin Witt, J.T.P.A. representative.

Training is also being considered for volunteer projects that would benefit the local community. Any older worker who would like to be considered for training is asked to call Al Whitmer, at 334-8136, at the local Western Maryland Consortium office

The program is also considered beneficial to employers, as half the wages are paid to any employer who hires an older worker while they are learning the job. Employers interested in hiring an older worker are asked to call Robin Witt at 334-8136.

Westvaco's Luke Mill $200,000,000 Economic Impact

Westvaco's Luke mill, the oldest manufacturer in Allegany County and one of the nation's largest paper mills, has a very significant impact on the economy of the area surrounding the mill.

The total impact of the Luke mill operation was well over $200,000,000 in 1990. The skills, knowledge and dedication of 1,900 valued employees help make this a reality.

The tremendous growth of this economic impact in recent years is reflected in the dramatic increase in taxes paid, pulp wood and coal purchased, and employees' wages and benefits.

Drug Arrests On Highways Total Over 2,000

Maryland's tough stance on highway safety has helped Maryland State Police make more than 2,000 drug interdiction arrests on state highways during 1990.

"Our (drug interdiction) traffic stops are based on aggressive traffic law enforcement efforts," said First Sergeant Bernard E. Spangler, Jr., of the Special Traffic Enforcement Unit. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, First Sergeant Spangler said drug traffickers can be quite creative in hiding drugs for vehicular transport.

"We have found drugs concealed inside steering wheels, teddy bears, aerosol cans, engine air cleaners, oil cans with false bottoms and diaper bags," added Spangler. During 1990, Maryland State Police made 2,117 vehicular drug interdiction arrests.

The Federal Highway Administration has released federal overtime funding through the Maryland Department of Transportation for interstate drug interdiction enforcement involving large commercial motor carriers. "The Maryland State Police are working with law enforcement authorities in a multi-state exchange of drug enforcement intelligence information," Spangler said. Last month, State Police, using a canine, discovered more than 40 pounds of marijuana concealed inside the refrigerated portion of a tractor trailer carrying a cargo of frozen shrimp and lobster. The marijuana, found inside a cardboard box marked "Christmas tree lights," was discovered by Bo, one of the Twelve Dogs of Christmas deployed as part of the holiday drug interdiction patrols.

Strict enforcement of Maryland's 55 mile per hour speed limit led to the recent seizure of more than 11 pounds of marijuana during a drug interdiction traffic stop in Cecil County. During a recent traffic stop along Interstate 95, north of Baltimore, State Police seized crack cocaine, marijuana and handguns with the arrest of two Virginia men who had been charged with murder in connection with a homicide investigation in Richmond.

"In addition to cocaine and marijuana seizures, we are seizing heroin, LSD and psilocybin (hallucinogenic) mushrooms," Spangler said.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Portions of this program are carried on the Maryland State Police Newsline, (301) 653-4275.

State Jobless Rate Steady, County's Jumps

Maryland's estimated unemployment rate remained at 6.1 percent in January 1991, holding steady at the adjusted unemployment rate reported for December 1990, according to statistics released this week by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED).

Garrett County's rate, however, jumped from 11.0 percent in December to 13.2 percent in January. The January 1990 rate was 9.7 percent.

"This stability of the state jobless rate is encouraging for Maryland's economy as we move through the time of year that is usually most difficult for Maryland's workforce," said J. Randall Evans, DEED secretary.

Maryland's monthly unemployment rate usually climbs to a peak annually in the early months of each year. Between 1980 and 1990, the statewide unemployment rate climbed an average of .6 of a percentage point between December and January of each year. Last year, the unemployment rate climbed from 3.5 to 4.3 percent.

In addition, between December and January, national joblessness climbed from 5.9 percent in December to 7.0 percent, again jumping ahead of Maryland.

Maryland's steady unemployment rate was due primarily to a labor force decline. Within the workforce, employment dropped by 14,080 workers. An estimated 12,777 persons were counted as workers who left Maryland's labor force leaving the remaining 1,303 persons to be added to the number of unemployed in the state.

Workers who leave the labor force are not counted as unemployed because they are not seeking nor are they available for work. As a result of workers leaving the labor force, competition for jobs within the state is reduced for those who continue to seek employment. In addition, their exit helps to reduce any increase in unemployment.

Seasonal employment declines were scattered throughout Maryland resulting in job losses in retail trade, particularly in general merchandise and apparel stores; and in the services industry, including amusement, business, agricultural and educational services.

Slower business activity prompted employment declines in trucking and construction while college and university semester breaks caused the decline in public sector employment during the month.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, a major recall of workers in the auto manufacturing industry contributed to the decline in the area's estimated unemployment rate from 6.9 percent to 6.4 percent. In Baltimore City, joblessness dropped by almost a full percentage point from 10 percent to 9.1 percent. However, layoffs in Carroll and Queen Anne's counties, along with an increase in jobseekers, caused the two counties' unemployment rates to rise to 7.1 percent and 7.5 percent, respectively.

In the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, an additional 2,300 jobless workers pushed the estimated unemployment rate up from 4.3 percent to 4.5 percent. This increase was due largely to layoffs reported in construction, manufacturing and government particularly in Calvert and Frederick counties. All counties in the area showed increased unemployment estimates except Montgomery County which remained steady at 3.3 percent.

Western Maryland recorded the highest estimated unemployment rate of the state's four regions. Despite the climb from 9.6 percent to 11.4 percent in that region, employment growth was still evident in Allegany and Washington counties. That growth, however, could not counter the increase of 2,127 workers in the labor force for the two counties. Allegany County's unemployment rate climbed from 10.2 percent to 12.3 percent while Washington County's estimate jumped from 8.9 percent to 10.4 percent.

Statewide, local estimated unemployment rates ranged from 3.3 percent in Montgomery County to 17.2 percent in Worcester County.

Sales Of New License Plate Said Successful

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that $717,869 have been raised from the sale of the new commemorative Chesapeake Bay license plate in three months. The governor and Motor Vehicle Administration Administrator W. Marshall Rickert presented the first check of the Chesapeake Bay Trust, the beneficiary of the proceeds from the sale of the Bay plate.

"I am overwhelmed at the citizen response to the Chesapeake Bay license plate," Governor Schaefer said. "Marylanders across the state are showing their commitment to the Chesapeake's preservation by purchasing this special Bay plate."

The governor also toured a water quality monitoring workboat from the Echo Hill Outdoor School used to teach students about how pollution affects the Chesapeake Bay. In addition, the governor watched as representatives of the Chesapeake Wildlife Sanctuary demonstrated their volunteer rescue program for wildlife harmed by oil spills. Both projects were made possible by grants from the Chesapeake Bay Trust.

The Motor Vehicle Administration has sold 68,939 Chesapeake Bay plates since they went on sale December 24, 1990. The commemorative Bay plate features a rendering of the Great Blue Heron, hearty Bay grasses, and the slogan "Treasure the Chesapeake."

The governor kicked off the two-year Bay license plate campaign in December 1990 with a goal of raising $1 million from the sale of the $20 plate. The Chesapeake Bay license plate can be ordered by mail or purchased at any Motor Vehicle Administration Office through December 31, 1992. All registered drivers of passenger cars, multi-purpose vehicles, and trucks up to 3/4 ton are eligible to purchase Bay plates. Citizens can call the Motor Vehicle Administration information line at 950-1MVA for more information.

In addition, the Chesapeake Bay Trust is offering a limited number of special plates with the letters "BAY" and three numerals for $100 to $500. Since the sale of these plates began last December, 307 "BAY" series plates have been sold, raising $36,930 for Bay cleanup projects. Citizens can purchase special "BAY" plates by calling (301) 974-2941.

Researchers Find Solutions To Mine Subsidence

Subsidence -- just mentioning the word to many homeowners produces feelings of fear and apprehension. They envision cracked driveways and walls, and even the entire house sliding from its foundation. But, with funding from the National Mine Land Reclamation Center, researchers at West Virginia University have developed techniques that help avoid the damage caused by subsidence.

The techniques are used in areas where longwall mining is taking place. In longwall mining, miners and machinery start at the far end of a block of coal and proceed toward the front. The block of coal, or panel, is usually 600 to 900 feet wide and 3000 to 7000 feet long. Since the roof collapses almost immediately behind the longwall miners, researchers are able to better predict and control subsidence damage. On the other hand, in conventional room and pillar mines 60 to 80 years can pass before subsidence occurs.

"First, we use our computer prediction model to predict when the longwall mine face is in a certain location with respect to the house, and what kind of surface subsidence would occur if nothing is done," said Dr. Syd S. Peng, chairman of the Mining Engineering Department at WVU. "Based on that prediction, we design measures to minimize stresses on the building movement."

Peng's interest in subsidence is a natural outgrowth of his expertise in longwall mining. Most recently, he has been working with a coal company in Pennsylvania, providing subsidence assistance at the longwall mining site. "At this particular longwall panel, there were houses that needed protection. The company wanted to be a good neighbor and protect the homes to the satisfaction of the owners."

Two major techniques were used to protect the homes. One method was to dig a trench around the house. As the researchers predicted how the ground would move, they decided how wide and deep the trench should be and on which side of the house it should be located. In some cases, they recommended that cable be used to tighten the house.

Another method was to place hydraulic jacks at certain locations of the houses and to raise or lower the jacks to a certain plane as the longwall face moved under and past the house, thus subjecting the house to minimum ground movement.

Peng believes that seeing the actual process of subsidence can cause anxiety to homeowners. To ease concern, both Peng and company officials explained to homeowners what they were doing and what possible house and ground movement, and water conditions could result.

"When the longwall comes along, the earth does open up, but after it passes, it (the gound) closes back up again," he explained. "I told one homeowner that she should not fill in the two inch crack in her driveway because it would close back up after the longwall moved past. She didn't believe me until the crack actually closed." Overall, Peng fells that the homeowners most satisfied with the results were those who best understood the process.

For Peng, personally field testing the subsidence model was the most satisfying aspect of the research. "Approximately 20 coal companies are using our computer model. They often call with questions about it, but this was the first time we were actually invovled at a site. Having the mine located so close to WVU gave us the opportunity to see the project through from theory development to field testing, "he concluded.

National Teacher Act Supported By Sarbanes

Senator Paul Sarbanes has joined in sponsoring the National Teacher Act "to bring and keep the very best individuals in teaching and support those already in the classroom."

"Teachers across our nation have made a solid investment in the future," Sarbanes said. "Their work in education, developing the talents and abilities of the next generation, is at the heart of building a healthy society. This legislation is aimed at attracting the best individuals into the teaching profession who are willing to continue this commitment."

The National Teacher Act provides for improved recruitment efforts by expanding the Paul Douglass Scholarship Program, creating a new Teacher Corps, and establishing a national foundation to assist highly qualified students preparing for careers in education.

This measure also provides assistance to teachers now in the schools by establishing up to 10 national teacher academies and creating the Christa McAuliffe Career Teacher Corps. These programs, aimed at providing the best teachers with an incentive to remain in education, will allow them to upgrade their skills and increase their knowledge and understanding of the subject matter they teach.

"Maryland's teachers have demonstrated a long-standing and very deep commitment to quality education," Senator Sarbanes said. "This act will help ensure that these high standards are carried through in this state and throughout the nation in the years to come."

DHCD Provides Low-Interest Mortgage Funds

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) has announced that $68 million is available for mortgage financing and is encouraging eligible Maryland families to take advantage of the special funding.

The Community Development Administration, a division of DHCD, is providing this special financial assistance under its Maryland Mortgage Program (MMP). Funds became available as of March 21. They can be used to finance newly-constructed or existing single family homes, including townhouses, detached or semi-detached homes and condominiums.

"Our Maryland Mortgage Program helps families, often first-time buyers, find homes with mortgages that they can afford," said DHCD Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers.

The maximum purchase price for a newly-constructed home under the program can be $85,000 and $80,000 for an existing home. This amount differs for certain areas.

Today's conventional interest rate is over 9 percent. Terms of the MMP loans, payable over 30 years, are 7.75 percent interest for households with annual incomes no higher than $28,200, and 8.75 percent for eligible households with incomes above $28,200, up to the program limits. Income limits are $32,000 for an individual and $40,000 for a family of two or more.

To obtain a Maryland Mortgage Program brochure, persons may contact DHCD's Homeownership Programs at (301) 974-3590.

Noted Storytellers To Perform At Student Festival At FSU

Beth Vaughan, actress and professional storyteller from White Hall, along with local professional storyteller Dr. Gail Herman, and other area storytellers will perform and assist student storytellers with their performances during the Tapestry of Talent Student Storytelling Festival of Western Maryland at Frostburg State University on April 6, noon to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Vaughan, a grandmother of nine — two in attendance at Calvary Christian Academy in Cresaptown — has entertained student audiences last year in Allegany schools and in the Baltimore area for years. She also appeared on the Emmy Award Winning TV show "Three Stories Tall" and in County Clare, Ireland. One mother of three said, "She tells a story vividly and fluently. She is able to hold my three active boys spellbound."

"And so she does with her charismatic characters and Irish and Applachian accents, sense of humor, and vivid descriptions," stated Dr. Herman, Festival coordinator.

Besides helping with the daytime festival. Ms. Vaughan will perform during the evening with area storytellers Katie Holwager, Susan Bell, Greg Gerhard, Denise Volk-Webber, and Dr. Herman, in Room 201, Lane Center, FSU, at 7:30 p.m.

Denise Volk-Webber is a park ranger for the Department of Natural Resources. She studied storytelling with Dr. Herman, and uses storytelling as a source of information and entertainment in programs at New Germany State Park in Garrett County. A graduate of the University of Maryland, she received a B.S. degree in natural resource management. She will tell an original story that has been published.

Susan Bell is a local real estate agent who also studied storytelling with Herman. An actress who studied at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York, Ms. Bell most recently performed in "Crimes of the Heart," presented by the Garrett Community College Theatre Department.

Katie Holwager is a French teacher at Beall Junior High School in Frostburg. She is a storyteller who most recently performed at the Autumnal Equinox Storytelling Festival held in September in Friendsville and Garrett Community College.

Greg Gerhard is a senior at Frostburg State University who has been active in theater events. Besides acting and directing in local theater, he conducted creative dramatics and story theater workshops for students in the area during the summer.

Other local teachers to help with story sharing at the day events include Marianne Green, Ross Glotfelty, and Tammy Woodward.

Admission at the door for the 7:30 evening performance is $3.00 for adults, $1.00 for children (FSU students free with ID). Daytime admission for the student storytelling event is $4.00. To obtain registration forms for participation in or observation of the daytime event, persons may call Dr. Herman at 301-387-9199. Individuals interested in studying with Dr. Herman at FSU this summer in movement and dramatic (stortelling) to teach curriculum concepts should contact her for more information.

The festival is made possible with contributions from Mettiki Coal Corporation, Bausch & Lomb, and various individuals. The Department of Educational Professions at FSU is the sponsor.

Oakland, FSU Conduct Vacation Package Study

The City of Oakland, with Frostburg State University, is conducting a market study within the Baltimore/Washington metropolitan area to survey levels of interest in a weekday ski train vacation package to the western region.

The proposed vacation package would include stays at both Wisp Resort in McHenry and Canaan Valley Resort near Davis, W.Va.

Working with Oakland Mayor Asa M. McCain Jr. on a contract through the FSU Master of Business Administration graduate program is student Nancy E. Thoerig of Mount Savage. Overseeing the MBA program field experience is Dr. Robert Donnelly, lead professor.

Dr. Schrock To Be Honored On 80th Birthday

Penn Alps is planning a celebration to honor Dr. Alta Schrock on her 80th birthday. The event is scheduled for Sunday, April 7, at 3:30 p.m. the Alpine Room at Penn Alps Restaurant, Grantsville.

Dr. Schrock founded Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Store over 30 years ago and, over the years, she founded numerous other organizations, such as Spruce Forest Artisan Village, to promote the well being of the people and communities of the region. "Her tireless and selfless dedication motivated many to join her in developing programs directly beneficial to the area," stated an organizer of the event. All organizations were not for personal profit.

"Alta Schrock is recognized as an area and statewide treasure," the spokesman said. "Both the organizations and their principles and mode of operation -- the craft store, for example, is considered a most unique one in the county -- are today models of how communities can preserve and better themselves."

At a March 5 ceremony in Annapolis, Dr. Schrock was inducted into the Maryland Women's Hall of Fame. Both Governor Schaefer and Phyllis Trickett, chairperson of the nominating committee, noted her "immense contribution" to the region and to role of women in creative leadership.

"Friends, associates, acquaintances and the many who are thankful for Dr. Schrock's contributions are invited to come to this unique opportunity to celebrate and to thank," the spokesman said. A brief program of song, story, reading will commence at 4 p.m. In place of gifts, a card and money tree will be available at the celebration.

Thayer Sentences Two For Violation Of Probation

Judge Fred A. Thayer of the Garrett County Circuit Court recently presided over two hearings for men charged with violation of probation.

Lonnie C. Bucy, 28, Frostburg, pleaded no contest to the charge in a hearing on March 14. Judge Thayer reimposed a sentence of one year in the Garrett County Jail for the defendant.

The original charge against Bucy was possession of marijuana, which stemmed from a September 1989 incident when the defendant was involved in a Maryland State Police undercover narcotics operation. The incident occurred at the Stonehenge Bar near Grantsville, according to the court document.

Bucy began serving his term after the hearing.

In a separate case, Michael T. Snoberger, 21, Grantsville, was found guilty of violation of probation at a March 21 hearing. Thayer reimposed a 30-day jail term, and then suspended the sentence and ordered 18 months of supervised probation.

Thayer also ordered Snoberger to participate in alcohol rehabilitation and to remain totally abstinent from alcohol and drugs during the duration of probation.

Snoberger was originally charged with driving while under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol in December of 1989, according to the court document.

The university will offer more than 600 courses during the two summer sessions from May 15 to June 30 and July 1 through August 9.

These are offered to reduce wait lists next fall and to provide opportunities for students to graduate on time or early, according to Dr. Rudy Filek, director of WVU's summer sessions. Several of these courses fulfill certification or license requirements or may be needed by students who are transferring from other colleges.

Undergraduate courses cost $53 a credit for state residents and $172 for nonresidents, plus special activity fees. Graduate courses cost $75 a credit for state residents and $242 for nonresidents, plus special activity fees.

Last year, about 5,000 students enrolled in each summer session.

Clinic Treats Work-Related Lung Illnesses

A new clinic at the West Virginia University Health Sciences Center, Morgantown, W.Va., will provide diagnosis and treatment for people suffering from lung diseases as a result of exposure to dust or chemicals in the workplace.

The Occupational Lung Clinic was established early this year as part of a program funded by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) to develop a center for research, treatment and medical training related to workplace-related lung disease.

In West Virginia and surrounding states, occupational lung diseases are most commonly associated with the coal, chemical and glass industries, said Dr. Daniel E. Banks, director of the clinic.

"Coal and silica dust, airborne asbestos, and chemicals are the agents most typically associated with lung problems," Banks said.

WVU doctors often treat patients with workplace-induced asthma, a condition which can be developed after exposure to isocyanates, industrial paints, electrical soldering or gases.

In addition to Banks, Dr. N. LeRoy Lapp, former director of the Division of Respiratory Diseases of the NIOSH laboratory in Morgantown; and Drs. Marvin R. Balaan, Henry Abrons and Edwin Morgan, physicians with considerable experience and training in occupational lung diseases, will treat patients. NIOSH physicians will also participate in the clinic.

The clinic will also perform OSHA-mandated lung disease screening for people in hazardous occupations.

Persons who think they may be suffering from occupational lung disease should consult a physician. Physician referrals to the clinic at WVU can be made by calling (304) 598-4855.

In addition to treating patients, the clinic will train practicing community physicians in techniques for assessing the health of workers suspected of having occupational lung disease. Physicians who would like to participate in this training may call Banks at (304) 293-4661.

Other projects supported by the NIOSH grant include a long-term study of respiratory health among employees of the Weirton Steel plant, and the development of an internal medicine training program for doctors who plan to specialize in occupational lung disease.

"GOPHER GOOD HEALTH" was the name of a contest held recently by employees of the Garrett County Health Department and Garrett County Memorial Hospital, who were given points for daily and weekly wellness activities, such as wearing safety belts, eating a nutritious breakfast, completing a colo-rectal cancer screen, attending mini-sessions during the lunch hour, and many other health related activities. Winners pictured left to right are: Nancy Wagner, first place, GCMH; Neva Frantz, third place, GCMH; Janet Tressler, second place, GCMH; Donna McClintock, first place, GCHD; Steve Uphold, second place, GCHD; and Pauline Faucett, third place, GCHD. The top "gophers" were given their choice of various prizes donated by Silver Tree Inn, Village Nautilus, Brenda's Body Shop, Book Mark'et, Ashby's Fire Equipment, Englander's Pharmacy, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, Revco, Gregg's Pharmacy, Bausch & Lomb, Linda Theriot, Marvin's Men's Wear, End of the Line, the American Heart Association, Farmer's Market, Par-Matt Lanes, Eberly-Wood Distributors, High Mountain Sports, Deep Creek Outfitters, Dr. Willy's Seafood, and Merry Maid Service.

Congress Drops Dairy Amendment

A Senate decision to temporarily increase price supports for dairy farmers was dropped last week by a House-Senate conference committee. The American Farm Bureau Federation had urged the conference committee to reject the Senate measure, saying it would distort market prices for dairy products.

The temporary increase in the basic formula price for Class I milk sold by farmers for fluid consumption had passed the Senate on a 60-40 vote Tuesday.

Language mandating the increase was attached as an amendment to an emergency supplemental appropriations bill. Conferees voted Thursday to remove that provision.

The measure, introduced by Sen. Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.), called for substituting an arbitrary government-established price for the current Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) Class I price of milk.

In a letter to all senators, AFBF President Dean Kleckner warned that substituting a government-mandated price for a market-determined price will distort dairy markets.

"Although we are concerned about the current financial stress of many dairy producers, federally administered prices that have no relationship to supply and demand are not the answer," Kleckner said.

The Farm Bureau president pointed out that a review of the M-W, mandated by the 1990 farm bill, is under way at USDA. "Actions taken as a result of this thorough review are clearly preferable to action taken without the benefit of hearings," he said.

Kleckner called for Congress to hold hearings to thoroughly examine the relationship between farm prices and the amount consumers pay for milk.

"Farm Bureau is concerned that the farm-to-retail spread for dairy products has widened as milk prices at the farm gate have fallen," he said.

Farming In Maryland..... Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Maryland Ag Continues To Develop Ties In Eastern Europe And USSR

Maryland secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr. has announced that since Governor William Donald Schaefer's trade mission to Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union last spring, his department, along with the University of Maryland, has continued to build strong ties with these countries.

"In Poland, Hungary, Romania and the Soviet Union, we have increased our contacts and exchanges. Our follow-up from the Governor's trip has been fantastic," Cawley said.

"In January, my department and the University hosted the governor and a delegation from Poznan, Poland. An immediate result of their visit is a serious effort by a Maryland poultry processor to further explore a joint venture in the poultry area," said Cawley.

"In Hungary, we are working with an American businessman on developing a 6,000 acre farm. The University of Maryland System sent three experts to Hungary at the expense of the Hungarians to help on the project. The potential is unlimited," Cawley said.

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker met with the Romanian Ambassador in Washington and as a result, the minister of Agriculture from Romania invited two of the department's animal health experts to visit Romania at the expense of the Romanian government. The trip took place last fall and laid the groundwork for future business contacts.

The department's most extensive contacts have been with various Soviet organizations. Maryland farmers hosted 10 students this past summer from the Timiryazev Agricultural Academy and the Moscow Institute of Agricultural Engineers. In addition, the Maryland Department of Agriculture hosted the Deputy Director of the Williams Fodder Institute in Moscow, the leading Soviet feed research organization, and the Minister of Fisheries of the USSR.

"Taken altogether, I am gratified about our developing contacts in support of Maryland's People Program. I particularly appreciate the cooperation of the Maryland agricultural community for their continuing hospitality and participation," said Cawley.

Heifer Program Health Checks Being Introduced

Dairy producers will soon have an opportunity to gauge the productivity of their herds. The heifer program checkup is part of the USDA:APHIS National Animal Health Monitoring System's (NAHMS') National Dairy Heifer Evaluation Project. The program will assist producers across the United States in identifying areas of potential improvement relating to herd health within their operations.

Evaluations will be offered for milk replacer quality, heifer growth, colostrum delivery system, fecal shedding rates for common enteric agents, and blood selenium levels. The participating farmers may choose to take part in one or all of the areas. In addition, producers will be asked to record occurrences of health events in preweaning calves for a three-month period. At the end of the three months, the results of all the evaluations will be returned to them with comparisons to averages of other, anonymous area producers.

Producers from 28 states, including Maryland, will be contacted regarding participation beginning in the spring of 1991.

NAHM and the National Dairy Heifer Evaluation Project are sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS).

For more information, those interested may contact David F. Bogt, AVIC, USDA APHIS VS, 2568A Riva Road, Room 207, Annapolis, MD 21401, 301-962-7726.

AFBF Addresses Need For More Rural Physicians

Rural physicians work 20 percent more, earn 15 percent less and treat 30 percent more patients than urban doctors. By addressing those inequities, rural America will find the solution to its doctor shortage, according to American Farm Bureau President Dean Kleckner.

In a speech to the Association of Departments of Family Medicine, Kleckner said that 2,300 new family physicians enter practice each year. Since there are more than 15,000 slots to choose from, that magnifies the shortage of rural doctors.

"How can we expect medical school graduates, who have high debts and face the cost of establishing a practice, to come to a rural area, where they are practically assured of lower income and longer hours?" Kleckner asked the group of medical officials.

"Since rural physicians also put in more time with more patients, we see more burnout since there is no nearby doctor to cover when the local practitioner wants to take a vacation or go to a seminar."

He said new physicians also fear they would lose touch with the medical progress they encountered through the urban-based research and teaching of medical schools.

Some observers believe admissions programs at medical schools could even be contributing to the overall problem by discriminating against rural students, who often lack college prep courses in their secondary education.

"We know that a doctor who has been raised in a rural area is more likely to practice in a rural area," Kleckner told the group. "But, relatively few of the students accepted into medical schools have rural backgrounds. Efforts to assist rural students have had a positive effect. I would hope more universities would make this effort."

Rural discrimination is also a matter of concern when it comes to Medicare reimbursements. A lower rural reimbursement rate for cases involving Medicare often has negative effects on rural physicians' incomes. Medicare incorrectly assumes that costs are higher in cities than in rural areas, but often urban medical costs are lower due to the economy of scale.

"This practice must change if we are to obtain and maintain family doctors in rural areas," Kleckner said.

He urged the medical officials to support, as written, a new reimbursement approach – the resource-based relative value scale – which will be phased in during 1992. It is estimated the new system will raise Medicare revenues for family physicians by up to 40 percent.

Also of concern is a trend of creating too many specialists and not enough generalists, who would be more geared to rural practice. While other nations sport a one-to-one ratio of specialists to primary care physicians, there are four specialists for each primary care physician in the United States.

Kleckner said the time between the end of World War II and the early 1980s could be dubbed "the time of the specialist and hospital-centered health care."

"People bragged about visiting a doctor with a specialty so new that few Americans could pronounce it," Kleckner said. "We didn't question the limits of specialists, either in terms of medicine or economics. Now, we have an opportunity to question the system.

"Society is beginning to recognize the limits of new procedures. People are learning what farmers have known for a long time. It's a lot less expensive to keep an aminal healthy than it is to make it healthy. Preventing illness will be the goal, not curing symptoms."

Garrett Holstein Assoc./DHIA Holds Annual Joint Dinner Meeting

Ken Stromski of the Producers' Equalization Agency was the guest speaker at the annual joint meeting of the Garrett County Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the Garrett County Holstein Association March 19 at the Bittinger Community Building in Bittinger.

Approximately 135 dairy farmers heard Stromski explain the structure and purpose of the "Agency" which now has over 3,100 members out of a possible 5,000 in Federal Order 36. He said that for those 5,000 sellers, there are only 20 buyers in the order. Farmers, he said, are used to asking "How much do you want?" and "What will you give?" He told the dairymen present that they must think like marketers.

"Dairys are the buyers. They won't offer a higher price for the milk they buy because they're businessmen. But, they will pay a higher price if producers also act like businessmen and price their product."

Other guests introduced were: Larry Sebold, Garrett County DHIA president; Steve Lichty, Garrett County Holstein Association president; Marlin Martin, Maryland Holstein Association president; Eugene Long, Maryland DHIA manager; Dr. Lee Majeskie, University of Maryland; and Dr. Mark Varner, University of Maryland.

Also introduced by Lichty were local residents Oren Bender, recently elected Maryland Holstein Association vice president, and Delvin Mast, newly elected Maryland Holstein Association director. Sebold introduced county resident Darwin Bender, who serves on the Maryland DHIA Board of Directors. State DHIA Manager Eugene Long introduced Garrett County DHIA Supervisor Roman Yoder and Technician Elizabeth Fullerton and presented them with incentive checks and words of thanks for jobs well done.

Recognized for all his work with the county's dairymen was Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms, who received a round of applause from all those present.

State Holstein Association President Marlin Martin told the group that "the state association does appreciate the input from Garrett County." He again noted that county residents, Bender and Mast were serving in the state association, and added that he felt 1993 would be a good year for Garrett County to host the state Holstein convention.

DHIA Production Awards, sponsored by Potomac Valley Production Credit Association, First United National Bank & Trust, and Casselman Veterinary Services, were presented. Receiving awards for Top Milk Production were Homer and Sadie Kinsinger, Guernsey; Philip Beachy, Holstein; and Paul and Naomi Petersheim, Jersey. Honored for having the Lowest Somatic Cell Count was Stanley Baker, and the award for the Greatest Percentage of Increase was presented to John Wass of Maple Valley Farms. Receiving Herdsman Awards were: Philip Beachy, first; Piney Run Farms, second; Jonas Kinsinger, third; Homer and Sadie Kinsinger, fourth; and Wayne Schrock, fifth.

The Garrett County Holstein Association presented awards to the outstanding herdsmen at the 1990 Garrett County Fair. Those awards went to the Carl Bender Family, the Oren Bender Family and the Steve Lichty Family. The Holstein Association also presented a check to the Garrett County Fair Board toward the building fund for the new dairy barn at the fairgrounds.

Both organizations elected directors at the annual meeting. Elected as new directors for the Garrett DHIA was Randall Beitzel to replace out-going director Dean H. Georg. Re-elected was Wayne Schrock. The new directors will serve with other board members Steve Lichty, Larry Sebold, Dorsey Guard and Robert Bender.

Three new directors were elected to serve on the Garrett Holstein Association Board. They were: Kenten Bender, Alice Bender and Becky Lichty, to replace out-going directors Roy Umbel, Paul Yoder and Sherry Beitzel. Other directors on the board are: Randall Beitzel, Darwin Bender, Delvin Mast, Jeff Bender, Steve Lichty, and Rufus Peachey.

The evening concluded with entertainment by the Paul Petersheim Family.

Honey Bees Must Be Certified Mite Free

The supervisor of the Maryland Department of Agriculture's (MDA) Apiary Inspection Program reminds individuals purchasing packaged honey bees or queens from out of state firms that all packages must have a valid inspection certificate issued in the state of origin stating that the bees are free of diseases, including varroa mites.

Only shipments of varroa mite-free honey bees produced in mite-free areas will be allowed entry into Maryland. All shipments of packaged bees or queens, with the exception of those bees shipped from Alabama, must contain Apistan (miticide strip/queen tab), which provides insurance that the bees or queens will be varroa mite-free upon arrival in Maryland.

Alabama is the only major packaged bee-producing state that has not detected varroa mites. This makes Alabama exempt from Maryland's requirements for including Apistan package bee strips and queen tabs in shipments to Maryland beekeepers.

"We need to be strict in the matter of importing disease-free packages and queens in order to protect Maryland's honey bee population. Last year, three shipments of honey bees to Maryland contained varroa mites. These shipments did not contain the Apistan package strips that would have killed the mites," said Bart Smith of MDA's Apiary Inspection Program.

Packaged bees can be used not only to establish new colonies, but also to replace those bees lost during the winter or to strengthen weak and queenless colonies.

Any questions on Maryland regulations regarding the purchase of packaged honey bees should be addressed to Bart Smith, Apiary Inspection, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD, 21401, telephone (301) 841-5920.

Local Dairymen Honored At Annual Maryland Holstein Convention

Several Garrett County Holstein breeders were honored at the 27th Annual Maryland Holstein Convention held March 8 and 9 at the Turf Valley Hotel and Country Club, Ellicott City.

In a message given by Association President Marlin E. Martin, he told the dairymen that they are being faced with lower prices for their dairy products in the nineties, and added that this would be a good time to maximize the promotion of the registered Holstein cow.

"I am sure if we each move our best foot forward and work together, we will have something of great importance and lasting value to pass on to the next generation. The future of the Maryland Holstein Association is in our hands today," he said, "so let each one of us work to make it a great one!"

Garrett County dairyman Oren C. Bender serves as vice president of the state organization, and county dairyman Carl Bender serves as a state director for Garrett and Allegany counties.

Named as 1990 Progressive Breeders Registry Award winners were local dairymen Carl L. Bender, eight years; David W. Yoder, three years; and Wayne E. Schrock, one year.

Dairy Economist Says First Signs Of Turn-Around Are Evident

Milk production may be making a favorable turn for struggling, price battered dairy farmers, according to Robert Bjorklund, dairy market analyst for "Farmshine Magazine."

Bjorklund says it is the first encouraging development they (dairymen) have seen in the past 10 months as milk prices went through a record drop.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's milk production report for February shows a decline in the rate of increase in milk production.

Robert Cropp, University of Wisconsin-Madison dairy marketing economist, said "Milk production in the 21 major production states, was up just 2.5 percent in February compared to the same month a year earlier – the smallest increase since May of 1990, when production was up just two percent."

He said it appears that milk production is lower because of the record drop in basic milk prices from $13.43 per hundredweight in July to $10.04 in February.

It was the increasing milk production during this period that caused milk prices to decline, he said. More milk was channeled into cheese production and the increased inventories cut basic cheese prices sharply, thus triggering the largest milk price drop in history.

Cropp said milk production is increasing more slowly now, in part, because milk cow numbers are decreasing. For the 21 major states in February, there are 8.4 million dairy cows, which is 45,000 less than those states had a year earlier.

In the top five milk production states, which account for 52 percent of the nation's milk production, only California reported an increase in milk cow numbers (10,000 head) and that, along with an increase of four percent per cow, resulted in 7.2 percent more in total milk production.

In the other top five states, cow numbers are down 9,000 in Wisconsin, 6,000 in New York, 30,000 in Minnesota, and 10,000 in Pennsylvania.

But dairy farmers are seeing the results of better breeding, feeding and herd management as milk production per cow climbed 2.9 percent.

The largest increase per cow was 4.4 percent in Pennsylvania, which pushed milk production up 2.9 percent to 808 million pounds compared with 785 million pounds in February a year ago.

The national increase in production per cow figures out to a net increase of 2.5 percent because February cow numbers were down .4 percent, thus leaving the 2.5 percent net figure.

Cropps' analysis shows that Texas, surprisingly, an area where milk production has been rapidly expanding, fell below year ago levels. Besides Texas, the three states with milk production below that of a year ago were Iowa, down 3.6 percent, Minnesota, down 1.2 percent, and Missouri, down 2.6 percent.

Cropp has felt all along that milk prices could increase between 75 cents to $1 per hundredweight by November as milk production declines.

The price increase to farmers could be stronger, he said, but with the government purchasing cheese at the rate of two million to four million pounds a week, there is cheese in government storage that will be placed on the market in the fall and dampen the milk price increase to farmers.

There is one other program that could help farmers and that is the governments recent approval of the Export Enhancement Program for dairy products.

Cropp said this could help reduce government stocks and thus lessen their impact on milk prices this fall.

In Wisconsin there also was a flare up of talk on formation of a marketing agreement in common among cheese production cooperatives on a regional basis in an attempt to boost cheese prices, and, in turn, improve farm milk prices. Each penny a pound cheese prices to up means a 10 cent per hundredweight increase in basic farm milk prices.

Such a plan would require agreement between different cheese producers. With low milk prices and some farmer discontent over the dairy economy any move is possible.

To control the price of cheese, all cheese supplies would be handled under the one marketing agreement.

This is similar to the way cooperatives gain additional price for Class I milk sales.

Each month the cooperatives announce the price dairies will pay for the milk in the following month. The dairies agree to the price or they will get no milk deliveries.

Pesticide Survey Will Aid Risk Assessments

Both the Alar apple hysteria of 1989 and recent with-drawal of EBDC fungicides from the marketplace probably could have been avoided if accurate information had been available on their actual usage. So says Amy E. Brown, pesticide information coordinator for the Cooperative Extension Service University of Maryland System.

To help head off misinformed risk assessment by government decisionmakers, Brown reports that the Cooperative Extension Service is conducting a survey this spring and summer to provide the U.S. Department of Agriculture with accurate information on the usage of various pesticides by Maryland producers of fruits, vegetables and field crops.

Golf courses and lawn care companies throughout the state also will be surveyed.

The USDA will then have reliable information to provide the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and other environmental risk-benefit assessment bodies.

Brown notes that the following pesticide-use practices by most commercial agricultural producers often are over-looked by government decisionmakers, thus contributing to misleading reports in the news media:

- Actual usage of a particular chemical may represent only a small fraction of the total crop acreage.
- Pesticide application rates vary with the pest, soil type and other considerations.
- Many producers make fewer applications than allowed on the pesticide label. A significant number of them use Integrated Pest Management practices, thus ensuring that pesticides are applied only when needed.
- Growers normally can choose among several products registered for a particular crop. Some of them may not need to use any pesticides in a season when pest problems are not severe.

Brown asks all growers contacted by survey workers to cooperate fully. She reminds them that accurate data on crop yields, pesticide usage and alternative control practices will help avoid the likelihood of useful – and environmentally safe – pesticides being removed from the marketplace by regulatory agencies.

Ridomil Fungicide Registered for Alfalfa

We have been using Ridomil the last couple of years for successful control of diseases on many vegetables. It has now been registered for use on new alfalfa seedings. For the last two springs we have lost a lot of new alfalfa stands to Phytophthora Root Rot and Damping-off (Pythium). Ridomil helps control these two diseases. First, prepare and plant your alfalfa as you usually do. Then apply Ridomil 2E at a rate of 1 to 2 pts. per acre right after planting. Don't delay because you need immediate control. The cost will be around $20.00 per acre, but in my opinion, the return will be well worth the cost.

Deer Found our Alfalfa Demo Plots

Last year the University established Alfalfa Varieties test plots at the Garrett Community College. It didn't take the deer long to find the alfalfa plants. Thanks to Oakland Southern States, they put us in contact with the Lifetime Fence Company from Carmichaels, PA, who donated the deer fence and installation. They have the most up-to-date fence installation equipment. If you are interested in seeing the fence installed for deer control, you are invited to stop by on April 15. The plots are located above the baseball diamond at Garrett Community College, off Bumble Bee Road.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Capt. James Schreiner Returns From Gulf

Captain James Schreiner returned from the U.S. Air Force base on the Island of Bahrain in the Persian Gulf on Saturday, March 23. Along with the 561st Technical Fighters Squadron, Schreiner piloted his fighter jet to George Air Force Base in Southern California.

His parents, Mary and Herb Sutcliff, Lake Shore Drive, said the trip took three days and that 12 of the 24 jets flew in formation across the Atlantic Ocean, along with four mother tankers for the purpose of refueling. Although he is back in the U.S., Capt. Schreiner won't be taking his week of leave until the week of April 27 so that he may serve in his brother's wedding.

Capt. Schreiner flew 33 missions in 40 days during the war in the Middle East and has flown over 60 missions while stationed there. Most of the missions were flown at night. He pilots an F4G "Wild Weasel" and his duties included knocking out surface to air missile sights (SAMS) to make the air safer for the bombers to do their job.

Schreiner reported that he was usually not in too much "real danger" except one foggy night when he was returning from a mission to Baghdad and could not find the mother ship to refuel in the air. He was able to find a friendly Saudi Air Field and came flying in at 250 mph when the plane was supposed to land at 200 mph. Fortunately, with the parachute extended behind the plane, he and his navigator landed safely.

Capt. Schreiner has been in the Gulf since August 12. He will be featured in a new book, published by USA Today, called, Desert Warriors, which will be in book stores on April 1.

Schreiner graduated from Bethesda High School and enrolled in the ROTC at the University of Maryland. He then transferred to the University of Vermont where he was second in command of his ROTC unit and was commissioned as a second lieutenant. He received his wings in Columbia, Miss., and became a flight instructor for the T-36 and the T-38. Next, he spent two years at Alconberry Air Force Base near London, England, flying the A-10 fighter also known as the "Thunderbolt." He was elected to the "Order of the Daedelius," an honorary flying society. He is also a member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Christopher J. Arnold, son of Roy and Teresa Arnold, Rt. 1, Oakland, recently enlisted in the Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program.

Christopher, a 1990 graduate of Southern Garrett, is scheduled to begin Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, on April 30.

According to TSGT Bob Scholl, the local Air Force recruiter, Arnold will earn credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the Community College of Air Force upon completion of basic training and technical training school

Sp/4 Christopher S. Bentley, son of Helton and Pamela Bentley, Sunnyside, is on assignment in Saudi Arabia with the SRTV (soldiers, radio, and television) as a broadcast journalist.

He graduated in 1984 from Southern High School and in 1986 from Garrett Community College.

Sp/4 Bentley resides in Laurel with his wife, Holly, and daughter, Alana.

U.S. Navy Airman Recruit Christopher S. Brake, son of Lisa C. Browning, Route 1, Oakland, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

During Brake's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

His studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

A 1990 graduate of Southern High School, Brake joined the Navy in June 1990.

GCC Summer Courses To Be Given Regardless Of Enrollment

Courses offered in the summer seven-week day and evening sessions at Garrett Community College, from June 10 to July 26 this summer, are guaranteed to be taught, regardless of enrollment, according to Dr. Steve Herman, GCC president. Heretofore, these courses have required a minimum enrollment.

Dr. Herman explained that the new policy will permit students who want to take summer courses to make definite plans, with the assurance that the courses will be given. An added advantage is the comparatively low in-county tuition rate at GCC.

In the summer seven-week evening session, six courses will be offered, each meeting two evenings a week, from 5 to 8 p.m. On Mondays and Wednesdays, Expository Writing (ENG 101), Introduction to Literature (ENG 102), and General Psychology (PSY 101) will be given. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, Bioscience (BIO 100), Introduction to Chemistry (CHE 100), and Basic Speech (SPC 101) are scheduled. Both of the science courses will require lab time in addition to the instructional hours.

During the seven-week day session, Introduction to Computers (CS 105) will be given Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a.m. to noon.

Students can register for these courses at the Registrar's Office of the college beginning April 8.

"Triduum" Set At St. John's Episcopal Church

The Garrett County Episcopal Missions will celebrate Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Holy Saturday, at St. John's Episcopal Church in Deer Park, beginning with a Seder meal at 6:30 p.m. on Maundy Thursday.

During the Maundy Thursday event, the prayers of the Passover meal will be read, and special foods will be used. Parishioners will be invited to have their feet or hands washed in a symbolic service. The Holy Eucharist and the stripping of the altar will follow, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

A dramatized Way of the Cross will be presented on Good Friday evening at 7:30 p.m., at which time pantomime parts will be enacted by the parishioners while readings -- both contemporary and traditional -- will be read. Hymns will be interspersed throughout.

The Great Vigil of Easter will be observed Saturday, March 30, at 8 p.m.. This is the oldest of all the traditional services held, and covers the history of salvation. A candle light procession and a renewal of baptismal vows will be held that evening, followed by the celebration of the Holy Eucharist and an Easter party.

The public is invited to attend any and all of the events.

On Easter Sunday, there will be one service only, to be held at 10 a.m., during which time the Solemn Holy Eucharist will be celebrated. A social hour will follow.

DCL United Meth. Churches Slate Easter Services

The Deep Creek Lake Charge of United Methodist Churches has announced the program of Easter Week services scheduled at the Hoyes, McHenry, and Paradise United Methodist Churches.

A Seder will be observed on Maundy Thursday at the Hoyes United Methodist at 7 p.m.

The Good Friday service will take place at the McHenry United Methodist Church, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

A sunrise service on Easter morning will be held at the Hoyes Church. Regular Easter services will be held at Hoyes Church at 9 a.m.; the Paradise United Methodist at 10 a.m.; and at the McHenry United Methodist at 11 a.m.

OPERATION DESERT STORM

MAIL CALL

Operation Desert Storm

As American forces continue their assignment in "Operation Desert Storm" in the Middle East, mail continues to be a morale builder and an expression of public support of their service.

The Republican proudly lists the names and addresses of those local service personnel who are now stationed there, either in Saudi Arabia or other Middle East nations. We hope local residents will take a few moments to drop a line to these young men and women. It is not necessary to be personally acquainted with these local soldiers or with anyone else in the armed services to send him or her a letter. Expressions of upbeat support, humor, and words of good cheer will mean a lot.

Letters to anyone in the Army, Air Force, or Marine Corps, land-based in Saudi Arabia, may be addressed as follows:

We will publish this list periodically over the next several weeks. Names and addresses of other local service personnel not listed here are welcome and will be added for future publication.

JESUS DIED FOR YOU.
WHAT WILL YOU DO FOR HIM?

Perhaps you've heard the Easter story so often that it has no effect on you. Won't you take a moment to consider what actually happened?

Our Creator sent His only Son to give His life so we could have eternal life!

It is impossible for us to imagine the agony of His death on the cross of Calvary by crucifixion, or how painful it was for God to watch and feel the pain His Son experienced for us.

Pleas read Chapter 23 of St. Luke sometime this week, and read Chapter 24 on Easter Sunday.

In order to learn how to gain peace in this life and for instructions on how to live the Christian life, read the Bible every day.

It is also necessary to pray every day. When you pray the Lord's prayer (as recorded in Luke, Chapter 11), realize that it was given to us by Christ as an example of how we should pray.

After reading what He did for you, you should now want to live your life for Him.

Start today — for a better today and an even better eternity!

God bless you at Easter.

THE COLLEGE AND ME PROGRAM at Garrett Community College is about to wrap up its second successful year of providing a "week of college" for all of Garrett County's fifth grade students. Above, Jim Allen conducts a demonstration in his engineering and bridge building class. See story.

College And Me Program About To Conclude Second Successful Year

As another school year draws toward a close, another group of Garrett County fifth graders will leave the year with memories of one week spent on the campus of Garrett Community College as participants in the College and Me program.

For the second year, the college has housed the program cosponsored by RESA and the Garrett County Board of Education. This early intervention program is designed to make young students and their families aware of educational opportunities available to them through their nearby college.

According to Linda Strider, coordinator of College and Me, this year's program has followed the same basic format as last year's, when it first started. Fifth grade students are bussed to the college with their regular teachers who teach them their usual subjects each day. In addition, every group attends two special interest activities taught by college faculty members each day.

Persons who conduct these special activities are: Vicki Teets, Origami, the Japanese art of paper folding; Tony Artice, stretching exercises of Tae Kwan Do; Edna Bender, oil painting; Carolyn Deniker, the use of microscopes to learn about plants and animals; Mike Logsdon, rivers and their currents; Jim Allen, engineering and bridge building; Dana Shimrock, library treasure hunt; George McDowell, music and rhythm; Nancy Priselac, math think and making a game board; Bausch and Lomb, manufacturing and marketing candy bars; and Ben Sincell, a live theatre presentation.

HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

Garrett County Commissioners

The purpose of this Notice is to identify two separate but related actions to be taken by the County of Garrett.

On or about April 8, 1991 the above named County Commissioners will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds under the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following projects:

Habitat for Humanity Home-ownership Project

Location: State Route 560 near junction of Steyer Mine Road

This is a 17 acre site which will be purchased and developed into 12 building sites with individual septic systems, a well location, utilities to lot lines and access roads. These lots will be sold to Habitat for Humanity Home-buyers.

Crellin Water System Spring Rehab Project

Location: Crellin, MD

This project involves the rehabilitation of two existing springs used to supply water to Crellin, construction of a new transmission line from the springs to a new pump house, construction of a new pump house and chlorination system and replacement of a small portion of distribution line.

Finding of No Significant Impact

Notice is hereby given that the above named County Commissioners have prepared an Environmental Review Record on the projects described in this Notice and have determined that said projects will have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment. No further environmental review of said projects is proposed prior to requesting Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant Impact is based on the following:

The construction involved with the Crellin Spring Rehab project will be short term in nature. The necessary permits and certifications for water quality, wetlands or floodplain will be obtained prior to the start of construction. The Habitat for Humanity project involves only the site development. The required septic and well permits and stormwater management permits will be obtained prior to construction on the homes.

The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of these projects is available for public examination at the County Planning & Zoning Office -- CDBG Administrator during normal business hours (Room 307, Old Courthouse, phone 334-1920).

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written documents respecting the environmental impacts of the described projects to the office of the CDBG Administrator - County Planning and Zoning Office and to the Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than April 5, 1991. All comments will be considered and the County Commissioners will not request the release of funds nor take any action on the projects prior to this date.

Request for Release of Funds

The County will undertake the projects described above with Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds. This notice also certifies that Brenda J. Butscher, serving in the official capacity of Chairman of County Commissioners consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews decision-making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the County may use the Small Cities Community Develfopment Block Grant Funds and the Maryland Department of Housing and Communmity Development will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Objections to Release of Funds

Objections to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if it is on one of the following bases:

(a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Certifying Officer; or (b) that the County Environmental Review Record for the projects indicated omission of a required decision finding or step applicable to the program in the Environmental Review Process; (c) no opportunity was given to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation or its Executive Director to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places or found to be eligible for such listing by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with 36 CFR part 800; (d) objections by a Federal Agency. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the County and to the SCCDBG Program Coordinator, Department of Housing and Community Development, 45 Calvert Street, Annapolis, Maryland 21401-1907. All such comments must be received no later than April 23, 1991.

GCC Faculty Members Give Presentations

At a recent staff development session at Garrett Community College, three faculty members gave presentations for members of the faculty and administration.

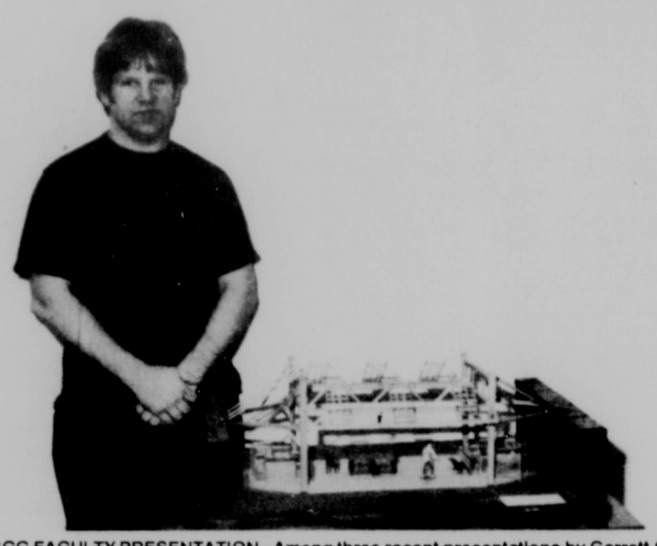
Assistant Professor of Business John Gould and Assistant Professor of Social Science Beth Hurley, both of whom attended the National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development Convention last year in Austin, Texas, shared some information and ideas from that conference.

Gould's presentation dealt with the need for faculty to accommodate different learning styles, and with ways in which principles of marketing can be applied to students as customers. Ms. Hurley focused on international education in her presentation, and shared literature from community colleges that provide international educational opportunities to their students in their academic programs.

The third part of the program was presented by Ben Sincell, assistant professor of theatre, who demonstrated the various steps he follows in designing a set for a major theatre production. He showed the entire process, from the original conception, detailed blueprints, preliminary construction, and finished model of the set to be constructed on the stage.

Using a model he had made for the production of Arthur Miller's The Crucible at West Virginia University last year, he explained the research he had done to create the four scenes of the pastor's house, a Puritan home, the meeting house, and the jail in an atmosphere of mass hysteria and fear.

This model and other models constructed by Sincell will be on exhibit in the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery of the college in August.



GCC FACULTY PRESENTATION - Among three recent presentations by Garrett Community College faculty members to other members of the faculty and the administration was demonstration of a working model of a stage play set constructed by Ben Sincell, associate professor of theatre. Sincell designed and constructed the set for the play "The Crucible" by Arthur Miller, which was then performed last spring at West Virginia University. Other presentations were given by John Gould, assistant professor of business, and Beth Hurley, assistant professor of social science. See story.

Republican Central Committee Studies Redistricting

The Republican Central Committee met recently and discussed the topic of redistricting in the state. John E. Hinebaugh, a committee member, spoke on redistricting to the group, and reported on the March 2 meeting of the Republican Party Redistricting Committee.

According to Hinebaugh's written report, the state's constitution requires the governor to submit a redistricting plan to the General Assembly when it convenes in 1992. The constitution calls for the governor to appoint a five-member bipartisan commission to formulate the plan.

Hinebaugh stated that it is not expected that Maryland will lose or gain a congressional seat as a result of the 1990 census, but will maintain its eight congressional seats. However, the lines of all congressional, legislative, and delegate districts will have to be redrawn because of the shifts in population. Each district must have an equal population, or as equal as possible with a difference of no more than a percentage point, Hinebaugh said.

The population of each legislative district will have 101,733 persons, which is the state's current population -- 4,781,468 -- divided by 47 districts. The total population of Garrett and Allegany Counties combined is 103,084, which means that Garrett Co. may have to share the senator position with much of Allegany Co., according to Hinebaugh.

The lines for the delegate district 1A may have to be redrawn to incorporate the 7,773 additional persons from Allegany Co. The change for the sixth congressional district may not be significant, Hinebaugh said.

"In anticipation that the governor's redistricting plan may favor the Democratic party," Hinebaugh's report states, "the Republican party will move early to prepare its own redistricting plan by a fair and open process that will provide equal political competition throughout the state."

The Republican party also plans to make its plan public, and will take it to court if necessary "to assure a just plan without gerrymandering."

The first step in preparation of the plan is to acquire a computer and a redistricting computer program, Hinebaugh explained. To assist in the start-up cost, each committee member volunteered to donate $100.

When the plan is prepared, Hinebaugh said the group anticipates that litigation will be required to defend the party's stand, or to assure fairness. Total estimated cost to prepare the plan and for litigation has been estimated at $150,000. A corporation is being organized to raise the necessary funds.

The Republican party sent a multiple-signatured letter to Governor Schaefer on Jan. 9, requesting a meeting concerning redistricting. A response has not yet been received, Hinebaugh said.

The Redistricting Committee will meet again when the preliminary plan is prepared, which is anticipated to be in approximately one month.

Following her coronation during the Kick-Off reception, Ms. Schmidt was present for most of the Winterfest activities, which she says she enjoyed very much. "It was very exciting, and I met many nice people," she commented.

Being recognized as a leader is nothing new to Ms. Schmidt, who was very active in extra-curricular activities at Northern High School. Among her activities were volleyball, Girls' Varsity Club, cheerleading and Cheerleaders' Club, color guard, silks, junior and senior class secretary, Student Council secretary, and magazine campaign sales captain. VICA Students Being Watched For Measles Outbreak

The 26 VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) who recently attended the State VICA Skilled Olympics have learned that they may have been exposed to measles, according to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

One VICA student (not from this area) who attended the March 23 competition, was reported as "having a rash and illness compatible with measles" on March 28. Approximately 35 schools and more than 1,000 people attended as participants, spectators, or judges, and may have been exposed to measles at the event.

The Garrett County Health Department is currently immunizing the local students who attended the Olympics. The students are also being watched for signs of the infectious disease.

A Health Department spokesman noted that the early symptoms (in which a person is most infectious) include flu-like symptoms such as cough, congestion, high fever, and eye irritation. These symptoms occur 3-5 days before the rash appears.

Persons experiencing symptoms should contact their physician's office and make an appointment with their doctor if deemed necessary, said the spokesman.

The Health Department also offers measles immunization clinics by appointment. Children should have two mumps, measles, and rubella shots before entering school. Health officials also strongly advise that

Battery, Child Abuse Case Placed On Stet Docket

A Grantsville man who had been charged with battery and child abuse had his case placed on the stet docket in Garrett County District Court proceedings at the request of the victim and the victim's attorney.

A case placed on the "stet" docket does not clear the defendant of the charges against him; rather, it is held open for a year pending the behavior of the defendant.

Robert R. Warnick, 64, had been charged with those crimes on August 23, by Linda Warnick, Grantsville, who alleged that Mr. Warnick beat his wife and his grandson and barricaded them in the house.

Judge Paul Stakem from Allegany County District Court was the presiding judge in last week's proceedings.

In other District Court news, Robert L. Lewis Jr., 25, Oakland, who had been charged with reckless endangerment, assault, and battery, was found guilty of assault. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Stakem.

In a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office, the charges of reckless endangerment and battery were not prosecuted.

Lewis had been charged on January 3 by Angela J. Lewis, who alleged that Mr. Lewis had pointed a handgun at her head at least two times.

Wayne E. Burkey, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, was found guilty of two counts of theft. Judge Stakem ordered a presentence investigation.

Burkey had been charged

Mediation Fails Between Teachers And Garrett Co. Board Of Education

After over two hours of contract discussion recently held between the Garrett County Teachers Association (GCTA) and representatives of the board of education, no agreement was met by the two groups and the next step in the impasse process, which is the fact-finding and report compiling procedure, has begun.

The GCTA and the education board declared an impasse in late February after contract talks failed. The main point of conflict concerns a salary increase, although several other points of contention are also involved in the deadlock.

The process of the impasse procedure is as follows: at first declaration of impasse, both parties must mutually agree on an arbitrator. The groups in this case chose Louis Aronin, who is a representative of the American Arbitration Association. After the arbitrator/mediator is decided upon, the groups return to the table to again discuss their positions with the mediator present.

In this situation, the groups met last Thursday. The GCTA entered the talks with a compromise of their previous nine percent increase request, offering to agree to a six percent increase. This request was denied by the education board, which kept its offer of three percent.

Other requests by the GCTA include raising the amount of insurance coverage paid per employee from the present 65% to a higher amount, which would be equal to an additional $10-15 amount per month per employee. Tom Shaffer, a negotiator for the GCTA, explained that the education board's present coverage of 65% is 15% lower than the statewide average. In comparison, the Allegany County schools system provides 85% coverage, he said.

Shaffer said that although budget plan for the education board provides for a significant increase in insurance coverage, there is no plan to raise the amount paid for employees. He also noted that the increase of three percent in salaries is one of the lowest increases in the state, citing the Eastern Shore area's eight, nine, and 10 percent increases, and Allegany's 6 percent.

"It's not just the wealthier counties who are receiving higher percentages," Shaffer said.

Other requests include extra-duty pay for extracurricular activity heads, such as band directors and coaches, who put in extra hours. The GCTA also requested an additional 15-minute planning time for elementary teachers. All requests were denied by the education board.

Fire Destroys Mobile Home At Altamont

A fire believed to have been caused by an electrical problem totally destroyed a trailer along Rt. 135 at Altamont last Thursday afternoon.

The 1977 Young American 14-by-70-foot mobile home was owned by Arthur "Joe" Kitzmiller and occupied by Lisa Edwards and three children. Ms. Edwards was just in the process of moving into the trailer. She lost all of her possessions and had no insurance.

Volunteer fire fighters from Deer Park and Kitzmiller were called to the scene, located about one quarter mile south of the intersection of Rts. 135 and 495, at 12:58 p.m. Upon their arrival they found the structure fully involved in flames.

Guy Carola, deputy fire marshal for Garrett and Allegany counties, said that no one was home at the time of the blaze, adding that Ms. Edwards was at work. There were no injuries.

Carola said that Kitzmiller had insurance on the trailer.

Also called to the scene was a tanker from Oakland VFD, the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Friendsville VFD, and the Southern Rescue Squad. Units remained on the scene until about 5:30 p.m.

CDS Charges Against Local Man Dismissed

Criminal information charges of possession and distribution of cocaine against Richard E. Reall, 36, Mtn. Lake Park, were dismissed last week in Garrett County Circuit Court after the defendant's lawyer declared double jeopardy.

Reall was charged with possession, distribution, and conspiracy to distribute cocaine in early 1990 after he was reportedly observed giving a bag of cocaine to another man. Witnesses included undercover Maryland State Police officers. When the case came to trial in November 1990, State's Attorney James Sherbin nolle prosequi the counts of distribution and possession, which means he decided not to prosecute those charges.

Because of lack of evidence, Sherbin then failed in his attempt to convict Reall of the remaining charge of conspiracy to distribute, according to the court document. Reall was acquitted.

After the acquittal, Sherbin then re-charged Reall with criminal information counts of possession and distribution of cocaine, and set a trial date for March 28. At that trial, Sherbin used the same evidence concerning the crime as he had used in the previous trial. The defendant's attorney, Deborah Lawson, claimed that this was not allowable according to the law. She declared double jeopardy in the form of "collateral estoppel," which simply means that evidence used in a trial that ends in acquittal cannot be used again with the same defendant in another trial.

Judge Thayer acknowledged Lawson's assertion and granted the defendant's motion to dismiss the charges.

In other circuit court news, Brian K. Miller, 18, Frostburg, was sentenced to one year in prison for escape from the Backbone Mtn. Youth Center in October 1990. Judge Thayer then suspended all but time served, which was 148 days.

Cohesiveness Of Commissioners' Board Queried

Members of the Garrett County Board of County Commissioners were questioned this week by members of the local press concerning the transition period they have been undergoing since the election of a new board member, and the controversial issues which have surfaced since that time.

When asked about the current relationship between the board members, and the prevailing mood among them, Commissioner Brenda Butscher responded by stating, "We've had disagreements but they've been out in the open, and then we get on with the business of county government."

Commissioner John Braskey answered that, while some of the policy issues recently brought out need to be addressed, "we were elected to serve Garrett County and we need to get on with those important issues -- especially the budget. We need to move forward."

Commissioner Elwood Groves also responded to the inquiries, stating, "My record has always demonstrated a willingness to work together for the good of the county, in spite of whatever difference might exist between any players. Obviously, this board has been through a rough transition period -- it's been a challenge, to say the least -- but there's right ways and wrong ways to do things in regards

Depleted Transportation Funds Could Cause Glendale Bridge Project Delay

Officials Disagree On Project Plan

The current status of the Glendale Bridge replacement project was discussed this week between the Garrett County Commissioners and Garrett County Roads Department officials, in light of the apparent lack of state funds for such projects. The current budget deficit in the Maryland Department of Transportation has been reportedly worsened by the failure of the gas tax increase in the Maryland General Assembly this year.

Commissioner John Braskey reported that a recent call to the state transportation department yielded the information that the promise of a $1 million interest-free loan might have to be delayed for about 18 months. County Roads Administrator Paul Shockey, he said, is scheduled to meet with state officials this week to determine whether or not the money will still be available.

According to Braskey, "Right now, the start up and completion dates for the bridge construction depends a lot on state money. If the money is not available, I don't think we can continue to expect to do the Glendale Bridge starting after Labor Day."

The issue of whether or not state money will still be forthcoming -- and when -- is compounded by the fact that disagreement over the way to proceed with the bridge project exists among the members of the commissioners' board. While Commissioners Elwood Groves and John Braskey continue to favor the bridge being replaced on its present alignment and piers, Commissioner Brenda Butscher reported that she is in favor of the new alignment/new pier construction method.

"If the state funds are available, I would still like to see a new bridge, a new alignment, like I had stated before," said Butscher, and added, "I had thought last fall that everything was cut and dry, that we had to go with the plan. But now that it hasn't been established that far along, I would still like to go with the new alignment bridge."

She also stated that since the project is already costing millions of dollars, "it makes common sense to use new piers to ensure a better bridge that's going to last longer." The projected difference in cost between the old and new alignment bridge is approximately $1 million.

Commissioner Groves disagreed with Butscher's assessment, stating, "I have a hard time justifying an expenditure of that significant size when the engineers say the pier is good, and with the state-of-the-art techniques and materials avail-

County LWV Discusses Charter Home Rule With Commissioners' Board

The Garrett County Commissioners this week met with the League of Women Voters of Garrett County regarding the recent petition to set up charter home rule as the new form of county government. The league also recommended to the commissioners that the commission members who are to be appointed to write the charter, include representatives from nine different organizations or sectors in the county.

Commissioner John Braskey reported that the league made this suggestion in order "to avoid controversy."

The meeting came about as the result of the commissioners being presented with a petition last week to implement charter home rule as the county form of government. The petition included 870 names and, this week, the league presented the commissioners with an additional 100 names.

Charter home rule is a form of county government wherein a county executive and council members are elected as the county officials, instead of the three-commissioner form of government. After a charter commission is formed and approved, it will be given one year in which to write the charter and present it to the voters in the form of a special election or place it on the 1992 Presidential Election ballot.

The commission, or panel, will be appointed by the commissioners as soon as the petition names are verified by the county election board. If the petitioners do not agree with any of the selections for the panel, they would have the legal right to challenge the board's appointees.

In its letter, the voters' league included the names of various organizations and sectors from which the appointees could be selected, including: the League of Women Voters of Garrett County; the Chamber of Commerce; the legal profession; the business, industry and education communities; health and social services; the religious or ministerial sector and the Garrett County Historical Society.

The letter, signed by the LWV Board of Directors, concluded by stating, "We trust that the charter writing process will be a learn-

Suspect Sought After Sexually Assaulting Woman

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating a sexual assault which occurred near Rt. 135 in Deer Park on Tuesday at approximately 2 p.m.

According to the report, the suspect (composite shown above) came to the 37-year-old victim's house, and after a brief conversation, the victim went inside. The suspect followed her. A struggle ensued, and the woman was sexually assaulted. The man then fled in an older green pick-up truck with faded areas and flared fenders.

The culprit is described as a white male, six feet tall with a medium build and in his early 30's. He has a full beard and mustache, which are partially gray, and there is a scar under his right eye. The man was wearing blue jeans, a dark sweatshirt, and a dark ball cap at the time of the crime.

The victim was transported to the Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

The Maryland State Police crime lab was called to the scene for processing.

Lucas Receives Five Years For Sex Offense

Randy R. Lucas, 20, Oakland, was sentenced to five years in the Maryland Department of Corrections on the charge of second degree sex offense. Judge Fred A. Thayer of the Garrett County Circuit Court handed down the sentence last Thursday.

Lucas was charged with the offense last fall after he sexually abused a teenager, according to the court record. The abuse to the 14-year-old apparently often occurred during boy scout meetings in a hidden location at the meeting place. Lucas was acting as the troop leader at the time of the crime.

Since the time of the defendant's arrest, boy scout leaders and other officials have conducted an extensive investigation into area scout troops to search for other possible incidents of abuse. After several months of this investigation, no other evidence of any type of abuse has been found, according to a spokesperson.

Lucas was remanded to the Garrett County Sheriff after sentencing. Defense attorney for the defendant was Robert C. Hesson.

ROTARY SUPPORTS HOSPITAL FOUNDATION - The Oakland Rotary Club recently presented a donation to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. In making the presentation, Andrew Messer, president of the Rotary Club, said, "The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation needs the support of every citizen in the county. The good that the Foundation does can possibly be measured in lives saved. The equipment purchased by the Foundation certainly makes diagnosis and treatment of illness and accidents a much more expedient and safer process." Pictured left to right above are: Benjamin Rosenthal, president of GCMH; Messer; Annette Livengood, vice president/public relations for GCMH; and William Grant, chairman of the GCMH Foundation.

LIONS DONATE TO ATHLETIC BOOSTERS -- During the past football season at Northern High School, the Grantsville Lions Club operated a concession stand at the football field under the direction of Lion Harold Lipscomb. A total net profit of nearly $2,800 was realized and donated to the Northern Athletic Boosters to be used for various athletic needs at the high school. Coach Harvey Spiker, right, attended a Lions Club meeting recently and accepted the check from Lions President, Rich Towers.

Sheriff's Dept. Notes Battery, DWI Arrests

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office made various arrests this week, many of which involved charges of battery or driving while intoxicated (DWI).

An arrest warrant was issued for Brandon M. Wolf, 19, Oakland, after he allegedly assaulted Melinda L. Skiles on March 28. Wolf also reportedly entered onto the private property of Tammy L. Skiles in Mtn. Lake Park against her wishes.

Dep. J. Sowers served the warrant on March 29.

In a separate case, Lucinda M. Spink, 21, Oakland, was arrested March 27 on the strength of a warrant for one count of battery. Spink reportedly entered the home of Stephen Guthrie in Oakland where she struck and kicked Guthrie repeatedly.

Spink then attempted to hit Guthrie with her car, according to the report. Dep. R. Shaffer made the arrest. The defendant was later released on $500 bond.

David L. Moats, 27, Gettysburg, Pa., was stopped by Dep. J. Murphy after he reportedly failed to stop at a red light on Oak and Third Street in Oakland early Friday morning.

Upon investigation, Murphy found the defendant to be intoxicated and charged him with DWI. The officer also discovered that Moats had a revoked license in West Virginia, and charged him accordingly.

Clarence L. Bonner, 30, Bayard, W.Va., was charged with DWI after Dep. Murphy observed him operating his vehicle in an erratic manner at the intersection of Oak Street and Rt. 135.

Bonner was stopped at 1:15 a.m. on March 28.

An arrest warrant was issued from Garrett Co. District Court for Paul Viragh Jr., 36, Mtn. Lake Park, for possession of marijuana. Lt. P. Pratt made the arrest on March 28, according to the report.

A body attachment was issued from Washington Co. Circuit Court for Wayne L. Seilhamer, 32, Swanton. Seilhamer apparently failed to appear in court to face charges of non-support.

Dep. Sowers served the body attachment on March 28.

A bench warrant was served to Rex H. Ashby Jr., 22, Deer Park, who apparently failed to appear in district court to face bad check charges. Sowers served the warrant on March 28.

Property Recovered

Sheriff Dep. Randy Sines and Maryland State Troop R.J. Resh worked together in locating two stolen four-wheelers this week. The policemen received an anonymous tip that led them to the two vehicles, which were found in separate areas.

One four-wheeler was located at a residence on Sand Flat Road, and another on Walnut Bottom Road, Sines said. The owners of the stolen vehicles are Allan Uphold and Larson Harvey.

One juvenile has been arrested for the theft, and other arrests are pending, Sines stated.

Swanton Woman, Daughters Injured As Van Overturns

A Swanton woman and her two daughters received minor injuries Saturday morning when their van overturned on Md. Route 39, near the Dilley Road.

Sheila Vance, 28, lost control of the 1988 Plymouth Voyager she was operating because of snow and ice on the roadway, according to Tfc. W.E. Dixon of the Maryland State Police. Vance, and her daughters, Sara, 8, and Rachel, 3, were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

The three were treated for minor injuries and released from the emergency room. Tfc. Dixon noted that all three were wearing seat belts which likely prevented more serious injuries in the mishap.

Two persons were treated and released from the local hospital following a Monday accident on Md. Route 135, according to Tpr. S.H. Anderson.

Transported to the hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad were Dan Nordeck, 17, Oakland, and Nanette Dixon, 20.

According to Anderson, a vehicle driven by Heather Hinebaugh, 17, Oakland, pulled from a parking lot into the path of a vehicle operated by William Braithwaite, 23, Mt. Storm, W.Va.

Nordeck was a passenger in the Hinebaugh vehicle, while Dixon was a passenger in the Braithwaite vehicle. Both were treated in the emergency room and released, according to a hospital nursing supervisor.

Police said none of the four occupants in the two vehicles were wearing seat belts.

FACT-FINDING MISSION -- Rep. Beverly Byron, Sixth Congressional District, visited the Garrett County Health Department Monday in order to gain more information about the proposed decrease in the funding of the WIC program. WIC benefits the nutritional health of women, infants, and children with funding provided to educate pregnant women and mothers, WIC coupons that enable these women to obtain healthy foods, and health care referrals. There are income and other eligibility requirements for the WIC program.

GCSO Probes Several Theft And DOP Cases

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office are currently investigating several incidents of theft and destruction of property that have occurred in the local area.

Veronica L. Fazenbaker, Grantsville, reported the theft of 190 horsepower electric inboard/outboard boat motor that was apparently taken from the basement of her residence on New Germany Road.

Ms. Fazenbaker told police that the lower shift unit had been placed in the basement for repairs, and was stolen sometime between January 10 and February 10. Total loss in this case has been estimated at $3,745.

Ezra D. Conklin reported an incident of property destruction and theft that occurred sometime on April 1. Conklin said that a culprit or culprits entered onto land owned by Irvin F. Shreve, Oakland, and proceeded to shatter the windows of a backhoe, also owned by Shreve. The suspects then apparently broke a key off in the ignition of the machinery, and drifted the vehicle over a bank.

A fire extinguisher was also missing from the backhoe, but was located on the ground some time later. An investigation is continuing into the incident. Damage done to the backhoe has been estimated at $700.

Patricia Boyce, Swanton, reported the theft of a tool box owned by her husband, Harold Boyce. Approximately $650 worth of tools were in the box, including various wrenches, screw drivers, pipe cutters, sockets, and ratchets.

Mrs. Boyce told police that the tool box was removed from the basement of their home on Old Wilson Road sometime on March 29.

Pete Martini, Dundalk, reported an incident of theft that occurred at his summer camping lot on Old Morgantown Road in Selbysport. Martini was away from the lot from March 10 until the 29th. Upon his return, he discovered that a person or persons had pried open the door of a trailer on the lot and had removed several items. The culprit also broke into Martini's 1968 Ford truck, which had been parked on the lot.

Stolen items in the incident included a carburetor, Ford 400 engine, battery, shovel, tow chain, 1-ton come-a-long, a full 30 pound propane tank, pry bar, and rake. The loss in this theft has been set at $530.

Charles E. Moreland, Deer Park, reported the damage of one acre of his land off of Rt. 560. Moreland told police that a suspect apparently drove a vehicle over the land, making deep damaging ruts in the ground. Damage done to the area was estimated at $200. The incident occurred sometime during late March 31 and early April 1.

Donnie L. Dodge reported an incident of property destruction involving his vehicle. The vehicle, a 1980 Chevy Chevette, was parked at Dodge's residence on Cranesville Road on the night of March 27. Sometime that evening, a person or persons shattered the windshield and back window of the car.

Damage to the vehicle has been estimated at $200. There is a suspect in this case, according to the report, and an investigation is continuing.

Young Friendsville Man Charged With Assault, Battery

A young Friendsville man was charged with assault and battery last week by the Maryland State Police following an incident in the boy's locker room at Northern High School

Stacy A. Fike, 18, was charged after allegedly harassing a 17-year-old male after tennis practice. During the scuffle, Fike reportedly attempted to shove the victim's head into a garbage can. He then allegedly wiped deodorant in the victim's mouth and eyes.

Tpr. S.H. Anderson investigated the incident which occurred between 5 and 6 p.m.

In other state police news, Tfc. P.R. Brown in investigating a reported breaking, entering, and theft that occurred sometime between March 10 and March 27 at the vacation home of John Serpone.

The unknown suspect(s) reportedly stole $1,900 of personal property from the residence.

Tfc. J.E. Foley is currently investigating the reported theft of four bar lights from two pickup trucks parked at Diehl Ford Sales in Grantsville.

The theft occurred sometime between 5 p.m. on March 23 and 9 a.m. on March 25.

Tfc. Brown is also investigating the reported theft of $22 worth of high test gasoline from the Grantsville Market. Brown said that an unknown person pumped the gas and left the business before paying for it.

State Police are also investigating the burglary of a vacation home on the Fairview Road, off New Germany Road, in which nearly $8,000 worth of items were stolen.

The suspect(s) reportedly entered the home of Keith H. Albright, Sykesville, by forcing open a sliding glass door. Police said eight guns, a television, tools, fishing equipment, and other miscellaneous items were taken.

DWI ARRESTS

State police arrested two men for driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs this past week.

Danny E. Wilt, 38, Grantsville, was charged with DWI on March 24 by Tpr. G.S. Becker.

Jeffrey E. Bodes, 22, Springs, Pa., was charged by Tpr. Hare with DWI on Friday.

New Germany State Park Open

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that New Germany State Park will remain open due to volunteer efforts. A proposal from a citizen volunteer group for operation of the state park near Grantsville has been accepted by the governor.

New Germany is the fourth park to be operated in a cooperative partnership of citizen volunteers and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR). DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D. noted that his department will provide the management, training and law enforcement assistance to the parks.

Governor Schaefer said in his approval of the New Germany volunteer plan, "We are proud of the citizens of Maryland who have come forward to be counted. I congratulate them on their attitude and thank them for their commitment."

The governor has received what he termed "an overwhelming response from the citizens of Maryland" to an earlier decision for closing 12 state parks until July 1 because of budget constraints. Maryland has nearly 50 state forests and parks offering a wide range of recreational pursuits.

Rep. Byron Hears Concerns Of Health Officials On Possible WIC Fund Cuts

Rep. Beverly Byron, Sixth Congressional District, visited Garrett County Monday, along with her legal aide, Sara Morningstar, to hear concerns of Garrett County citizens. While here, she visited the Garrett County Health Department to hear concerns about possible cuts in funding for the WIC program.

The WIC program provides mandated services, including supplemental foods, nutrition education, and facilitation of referrals to other related health care and social assistance programs. It provides these services for eligible women, infants, and children under five years of age.

Studies have shown that WIC benefits decrease Medicaid costs. A study of over 105,000 mothers and their infants found that every $1 invested in pre-natal WIC participation reduced Medicaid costs by $1.77 to $3.13 during the first 60 days after birth.

Jackie Snelson, R.N., M.S.N., director of personal health services at the Health Department showed Rep. Byron a report of compiled statistics that prove the benefits of WIC.

Snelson stated, "If state WIC benefits are decreased, it will have a terribly negative impact on the health of pregnant women and their babies."

She continued, "Many of these women are working hard to have healthy babies and it seems as if they are being punished for it. We have gotten such good results from it . . . good birth rates . . . healthier babies."

Late last week, just four days after refusing a Schaefer administration plan to provide $1 million next year for the WIC program, the Maryland House of Delegates gave final approval to a proposal to mandate the same program in 1993.

In a 1228-2 vote, the House passed the bill to allocate $1 million in state aid to the WIC program.

Earlier last week, Governor William Donald Schaefer inserted the same amount of money in a supplemental budget for FY1992 that he submitted to the legislature. Lawmakers rejected the budget, which proposed $48.3 million in social programs, including WIC, because it came so late in the 90-day session and because the programs would have been financed by money set aside for transportation.

Legislators were said to have been embarrassed by having to vote against the various welfare programs which is why the House approved the proposal. The Senate will now have to vote on the proposal before Gov. Schaefer can provide funds for WIC next year.

Members of the chapter will serve as waitresses for both the 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. seatings. Ten percent of the cost of the meals plus all of the gratuity will be donated to the local chapter for use in Garrett County.

The tickets will be $17 per person, plus gratuity, and persons will have the choice of three entrees, soup or salad, coffee, or tea, and dessert. Tickets are available at Englander's Pharmacy, Marvin's Men's Wear, and the Clipper Ship in Oakland, and at Arrowhead at Deep Creek Lake.

Waitresses will be Cindy Kutchman, Donna Heginbotham, Lucy Burnett, Debbie Frantz, Barb Speicher, Artie Dixon, Connie Beachy, Rose Baker, and Norma Hesen, while the waiter will be Dave Bardsley and the bus boy will be Ralph Burnett.

"We hope a lot of folks come out for an evening of fine dining in a Victorian setting to help the Red Cross," stated a spokesman for the local chapter.

Dennett Road School Holds B.E.A.R. Day

B.E.A.R. Day was celebrated at Dennett Road School on Wednesday, March 27. This event marked the celebration of the program "Be Enthusiastic About Reading," and was designed to further promote reading as an enjoyable activity for children and adults, both individually and as a sharing time.

Mrs. Kayla Cathell, parent volunteer, headed a B.E.A.R. Day Committee of the following people: Mrs. Sheila Hetrick and Mrs. Susan Sines, parent volunteers; Mrs. Linda Fleming, Chapter I resource teacher; and Mrs. Donna Cook, Chapter I resource teacher assistant.

Initially, the committee sent home requests to all parents for volunteers as guest readers at all grade levels. Time slots of 15-20 minutes for individual classes at designated times were then confirmed with responding parents.

All students made posters depicting an interest in reading during their regularly scheduled art classes in the week preceding B.E.A.R. Day (3/11-3/22), which were then posted throughout the school hallways by the B.E.A.R. Day Committee. Committee members also prepared and posted additional posters advertising the upcoming event.

The committee communicated with all instructional staff regarding the day's planned activities, which included: silent sustained reading period from 9:00-9:10 a.m., with total school involvement of staff and students; "judging" of favorite, stuffed bears brought to school by students, whereby each bear "visitor" received an award badge for his or her own special qualities; distribution of bear stickers to all students; contribution of bear snacks by homeroom parents; and a special R.I.F. (Reading Is Fundamental) book distribution for all students, which was carried out by Mrs. Linda Wengerd and Mrs. Sharon Schwalm, parent volunteers and R.I.F. chairpersons.

At the close of the school day, school principal Clark Sharpless publicly thanked all parent volunteers, staff, and students for a "very successful" B.E.A.R. Day. "From the smiles on the faces of children and their bear friends, one could assume that they took home some very happy memories about books," stated a committee spokesman.

The group also seeks to provide educational, as well as emotional, support for family and friends of those persons who are in need of long-term care because of mental illness.

The guest speaker for the evening will be a representative from the Allegany County chapter of AMI. More information may be obtained by contacting Mary Ann or Junior Brenneman, at 895-5366; Barbara Pritts, at 387-5030, or Shirley Bender, at 895-5680, all after 6 p.m., or by calling Linda or Debbie at the Lighthouse, at 334-9126, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Board Won't Budge . . .

We won't be surprised if next Tuesday's Board of Education meeting is a standing-room-only situation, as all local teachers are being urged by the Garrett County Teachers Association to be in attendance and voice their concerns about the present impasse that exists between the GCTA and the board.

From where we sit, it seems that GCTA, the teachers' bargaining agent, has offered to compromise on its original contract requests, but the board has refused to budge on every single item at issue. The teachers originally requested a nine percent salary increase, while the board offered a three percent raise. In an effort to compromise, the teachers then suggested a six percent hike, but the board is still offering only three percent.

The teachers requested a $25 increase per month toward teachers' insurance premiums. The board offered no increase. The teachers then asked for a $15 increase. The board still says no increase.

There are presently 10 issues at impasse, two of which were just described. Some of them involve previously bargained-for contract items that are now being taken away by the board.

While we do not side with the teachers on all 10 issues, we do side with them on the most important ones, namely, the salary increase and additional help towards insurance premiums. The reason we side with them is based upon what exists in other counties of Maryland. Garrett County's teachers remain the lowest paid in the state and they are receiving 65 percent coverage on their insurance premiums while the average assistance in all counties is 80 percent.

Meanwhile, the salaries of the administrative and supervisory staff of the Garrett County Board of Education rank about 16th among the counties. Why is this so? On the average, the A&S personnel earn nearly $20,000 more than the teachers in Garrett County. Most of those who hold A&S positions have no more education than many of the teachers, in terms of graduate degrees. While we believe the A&S personnel should be paid more, primarily because they are basically year-round employees, we do not believe they are earning an average of $20,000 more than the teachers. In fact, we believe there are several who are not actually earning half of their salaries.

Will the A&S personnel also take a three percent raise this year? Of course, a three percent raise for a $50,000 salaried employee (A&S) is exactly double that of a $25,000 salaried employee (teacher).

We have had many requests to publish the salaries of Garrett County Board of Education A&S personnel, as well as those of many county agency department heads. We are going to do just that in next week's issue of The Republican. Readers will see that just over 40 board of education A&S personnel share over two million dollars in salaries. Readers can decide for themselves whether or not this is reasonable.

We believe the board is being so stubborn with the funding this year because of the cost of the Southern High School renovation project. When the county commissioners and the majority of the voting public refused to fund the project with the sale of bonds, the board was placed in an extremely difficult financial position. The board has proceeded with the project, although many corners have been cut by necessity. However, we do not believe it is fair to force our teachers, and ultimately our students, to pay for this project out of their personal pockets. Already they have had to do without even basic supplies in the classroom because of major funding cuts.

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

A SMART BLUEPRINT FOR MARYLAND
by Governor William Donald Schaefer

Last week I had a chance to get out of the office and visit a neighborhood not too far from the State House, in Anne Arundel County. I went to this specific neighborhood, and took along some legislators, because it was a good example of "smart growth." Throughout the fall election campaign people kept telling me they were worried about how their counties and cities are growing. A lot of times the new growth isn't well thought out, and new houses and businesses end up scattered all over.

The 526 houses we toured in Anne Arundel County were built on 165 acres of land, but even with that kind of concentration, a full 60 percent of the total development was devoted to open space. The residents of those new homes have plenty of grass, areas for biking and jogging, and can enjoy the trees that the builders were able to leave in place.

If that same number of houses had been built without a plan — like so many neighborhoods are in Maryland — they could have taken up more than 1,500 acres of land instead of the 165 acres. Because the homes were built in a compact area, the county ended up saving money: they did not have to install extra miles of water and sewer lines, or build more roads to serve those new homes.

I like to think about the whole state of Maryland in terms of that one neighborhood I visited. We all have to start thinking that way because we are going to need more new homes, businesses, schools, and roads in the coming years. We already know today that in the next 30 years, Maryland's population will increase by 1 million people. It's not just a question of how much space all those people will take up, and how many trees or how much farmland could be lost to new development. It's also a question of making sure all that new construction doesn't increase sediment and runoff, and ruin the progress we've made cleaning up the Chesapeake Bay and state waterways.

We have spent a lot of time and money in recent years trying to restore the Bay's water quality, and restore the populations of fish that were once so abundant. I talk about the Bay so much, but it's really one of our greatest resources. People make their livelihoods on the Bay. Marylanders and visitors enjoy seafood — tons of it every year — that's caught in the Bay. People swim, fish, and sail in the Bay. Our duty is to make sure that what we do on the land doesn't end up hurting the Bay at a time we are on the brink of seeing a "comeback" of its health.

How can we do that? We can let local governments look at what areas they think are best for growth, and decide which areas are best to preserve. Then the state can help with planning — not take away any low zoning powers, but work with localities to stimulate growth, and make sure new development occurs sensibly.

I proposed legislation this year to start the mechanism for this smart growth because I want a framework that will help us plan for the future. It's estimated that counties could save $1.2 billion in the next 20 years in utility and road expenses if we spend a little time and energy planning where new neighborhoods and businesses will be built. We also know that cutting down on distances between neighborhoods and jobs, or shopping and other services, can help the air quality. I found out — and this was surprising — that if we reduce the amount of miles traveled by just 10 percent, we can reduce vehicle pollutants by 15 tons a day, and cut gas consumption by 1.8 million gallons of gas a day.

Proposing a growth plan doesn't mean that we do not want new neighborhoods, businesses, roads, or development. We want the new growth — we just want it in a smart way. It's a small enough investment to make today to make sure we have a Maryland tomorrow that people will still want to visit, or live and work in.

If you have some ideas about how we can make Maryland a great state, I want to hear them. Write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis MD 21401.

Letters to the Editor

The writer of the following letter to Mrs. Mary Leighton, Oakland, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Mrs. Leighton:

Per your request, I am enclosing a list of county employees with their annual salaries.

Concerning the Mellott Road, as you know, I was recently elected to the office of County Commissioners. Any information I give you will be from county records and not from my personal experience. According to the records, the Mellott Road was taken into the system in 1956. In 1988 it was clear cut, 1989 construction work occurred to improve the surface and 1990 a tar and chip surface applied.

Your question as to Dwight Stover, the County Attorney's salary is as follows: he receives $833.33 per month as a retainer, this includes being present at the Commissioner's meeting each Tuesday from 2:00 p.m. to adjournment, he receives $90 an hour for outside work and for fiscal year ending June 30, 1990, he received a total of $12,133.

To answer your question, "Does Mr. Stover run the Commissioner's Office?" My answer is, he does not tell me what to do, but he is our attorney and I do seek legal advice from him. The questions you have asked are public information and the taxpayers do have a right to know. If in the future, I can be of any help to you, please do not hesitate to call or write.

Sincerely,
Brenda J. Butscher
County Commissioner

Editor's Note: The county employee annual salary statements, referred to above, will be published in next week's edition of "The Republican."

To the Editor:

Polishing Mrs. Butscher's halo makes my blood boil. She is as much to blame for the misuse of our money as Mr. Groves and Mr. Braskey.

A week ago she didn't think it was right to use taxpayers' money, let alone attend classes out of state. How noble. She knew what was going on and made no attempt to stop it.

Now she confesses to signing the voucher, without reading it first. She didn't even know what it was. It's like Henry Blake signing unauthorized leave for Hawkeye and B.J. No one knew? Hogwash! Who's passing the buck?

Really, y'all, she's not God. She is a human being who opened her mouth to change feet. Thinking back to last November elections — "What fools we mortals be."

Catherine Durst
Accident

Editors note: The writer of the following letter to Garrett County Commissioner Elwood Groves requested that it appear in this column.

Commissioner Groves,

I am writing this letter to request that you return the funds received for your master's program at West Virginia University. County policy states that educational leave may be granted to full-time, permanent employees for the purpose of taking courses related to their work as determined by the appropriate department head. Mr. Groves, you are not a full-time or permanent employee. The policy uses the terminology "as determined by the appropriate department head." I believe this statement alone should have alerted you that the program was created for county employees, not elected officials. Be fair, don't wait for a coupon book, return these funds now.

Another issue I would like to address is the personal use of county vehicles. I have on many occasions seen county vehicles being used for non-county business. If county officials need vehicles for county use, they should be picked up and signed out at one of the county road garages. This would cut personal use to a minimum.

Also please advise about the $5,000 additional health insurance coverage to certain elected officials and department heads. I understand this is for coverage above and beyond the health insurance limit.

In closing, I have learned that many more county properties will be going up for sale this spring for nonpayment of county taxes. This would indicate to me that many property owners can no longer afford the tax levied on their property. Please remember the many taxpayers who suffer when their tax dollars are wasted. I am requesting that the commissioners open up the books and meetings. Good government has nothing to hide.

Paul J. Frantz
Deer Park

To the Editor:

To use county funds clearly intended for the benefit of employees is an indisputable mistake. Yet, Commissioner Elwood P. Groves defended his action for doing so and exhibited disdain toward those who spoke out against this misuse of funds.

Commissioner John Braskey said he also approves of spending the taxpayers' money to educate elected officials because, he implied, such self improvement may help the county save money.

This is questionable logic because no one, not even Commissioner Groves, can guarantee that he will be in office long enough to do this.

I would like to know if the funds used by Commissioner Groves denied any bonafide county employees from furthering their education? Surely county funds for this are not inexhaustable.

Sincerely yours,
Herb Sutcliffe
Deer Park

To the Editor:

This is in regard to the recent stories on Commissioner Groves, or should I say "Professor," and his taking college classes paid for by the county (probably on county time as well as studying for them at commission meetings).

It appears to me that Mr. Groves is confused or is trying to confuse the voters. I am from out of the area and am trying to establish my residence here. I always thought that elected commissioners, acting in conjunction with other commissioners, comprised a group which was then authorized to act as agent on behalf of the voters. If this is true, then that commission has a duty to provide essential services for and on behalf of those voters (i.e. schools, roads, parks, landfills, social services, etc.), and to provide them in the most reasonable, fair, and least costly manner. In other words, they aren't supposed to steal or eat the chickens. They're supposed to be guarding the chicken house.

I have always heard references to the duties of elected officials. Duties, to me, imply that elected officials must take action and make decisions based on what is best for the majority. Are these classes a duty to provide a benefit for the majority? the answer is no, but he sure is stealing and eating these chickens.

Mr. Groves has referred to his taking classes as the same as any other employee. Anyone who believed that should think about it again. First, as agent for the voters to the commission, he is not an employee, but in fact is a compensated agent for the voters. Let's say you are a farmer who has trouble with paper work; you hire an agent to handle it for you. He is to pay your bills and see that things get done. For this you pay him a fee (keep in mind he works for himself). He pays all your bills as they come due. This goes on for several years, then you start having trouble with a farm hand. You decide to pay for his education so long as it benefits your operation, and you instruct your agent to pay this additional expense. Several years go by and a quick check of the books show that this agent has now started taking money for his education as well. You scream, "I didn't authorize this!," and now the agent says, "I'm an employee too." That agent can not wear two hats, and neither can Groves. (For the record, all the commissioners appear confused about this and they appear to be co-conspirators to these acts. They should all have to pay it back). They all knew he was stealing the chickens, but they gave gas money for the truck to haul them.

Groves swore to execute the duties of office when he took this job. Therefore he, nor any other commissioner, needs any more education than is necessary to understand the duties of the office or county charter, and to see those duties executed

Light At The End Of The Tunnel

Clinically dead and subsequently brought back to life is an experience of more and more people. When they talk about that experience they share remarkable similarities; they speak of passing through a narrow space into brilliant light. They speak of experiencing joy and contentment.

Christians have just celebrated Easter, the event commemorating the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Crucified, dead, and buried, and on the third day brought back to life. But what does resurrections mean? In the biblical sense it means bringing back to life that which was dead. In broader sense it means that which injures, corrupts, and destroys is overcome by that which heals, makes whole, and creates anew.

We have all experienced little deaths in our lives. The death of relationships, the death of self-esteem, the death of a marriage. We know how narrow, confining, and constricting anxiety can be. We know how painful is our sense of loss. But resurrection is a very real possibility in the here and now of our existence. Resurrection for you and me begins with us acknowledging that some part of our lives has become unmanageable. We acknowledge that we are powerless over part of our lives. We cannot pull ourselves up by our boot laces. We need help. That help is available for the asking through our Higher Power and through people and agencies in Garrett County who are committed to helping us. St. Irenaeus said, "That joy of God is a person who is fully alive." We can become the joy of God, we can know Resurrection as a present reality for us.

Resurrection is always a mystery. It is the eternal act of a living God, a God who, in spite of everything, still loves us because we are precious in his sight.

GARRETT COMMUNITY COLLEGE COMMUNITY • SELF • VOCATION

A STORY OF GOVERNMENT AT ITS BEST
by Dr. Stephen Herman
President, Garrett Community College

I am writing this article to express my appreciation to the many state officials who worked very hard and very effectively to restore $61,000 in state funding to Garrett Community College. So often people think of elected and governmental officials as uncaring bureaucrats. A recent case shows how many fine and concerned people serve our state.

Here's what happened. Five Maryland community colleges are scheduled to lose state funding in fiscal year 1992. Four are losing funding because they lost enrollment. GCC is the only college losing funding although it gained enrollment. You're probably asking the same question I did. How could this be?

GCC grew so much that it grew into another size category. The higher the size category, the lower the state funding, so GCC lost $56,000 due to its growth. GCC also was scheduled to lose $61,000 because county per capita wealth was reported to have risen. So GCC was scheduled to lose a total of $117,000 in state funding, roughly 10% of GCC's state appropriation.

The people at the State Board for Community Colleges and the Maryland Higher Education Commission recognized that GCC was being harmed due to unintended consequences of the language of the current law. A new funding bill is now working its way through the legislature with revised language that would have restored the full $117,000 to GCC. But to everyone's surprise, state revenues fell well short of projections, and the bill, even if passed in this session, will not be funded. As a result the language of the old bill will remain in force, leaving GCC out in the cold -- short $117,000.

What happened next is remarkable. I contacted Garrett County's Delegate George Edwards and our State Senator John Hafer. Delegate Edwards immediately contacted key State agencies and he arranged to meet with Charles "Buzzy" Ryan, the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Dr. Jean Hunter and Sue Dowden of the State Board for Community Colleges worked with them. Senator Hafer initiated contact with Eloise Foster, Governor Schaefer's assistant legislative officer, who took a lead role and worked actively and vigorously in GCC's behalf. She learned that Garrett's per capita income had not been calculated on the most recently available figures as law required. For the purpose of calculation, Garrett County's population had been projected at 26,600 although U.S. Census of Population figures put the population at over 28,000. The higher figure should have been used.

In the meantime Dr. Ron Phipps, assistant secretary at the Maryland Higher Education Commission, also took a lead role. He too worked with the Governor's office and with departments in the administration.

Dr. Sheila Aery, secretary of High Education, strongly supported Dr. Phipp's efforts. She brought our situation to the attention of Governor Schaefer, and true to his "do it now" concern for ordinary people, the governor acted immediately to authorize the release of $61,000 to GCC.

GCC will still be $56,000 poorer next year, but what could have been a disaster is now a manageable hardship. We hear so much bad news in the press, and often we hear bad news about governmental officials who don't really care. I thought you'd like to hear a true story of public servants at their very best. My thanks to all who helped, and my apologies to the others who helped in the background but whose names I do not know.

Senate Approves Motor Vehicle Fee Increase

The Senate this week approved a measure that would increase motor vehicle fees, providing the state with an estimated $42 million for use in the depleted State Transportation Fund. The measure, a part of the Schaefer Administration's proposal to raise revenue in the form of a gas tax hike, was reportedly the only part of the larger proposal that was accepted by legislators.

The bill would raise fees for driver's licenses and approximately 60 other Motor Vehicle Administration services. A decline in car sales has reportedly led to fewer funds going into the transportation trust fund.

The bill is now headed for the House, but reports indicate a less than favorable response there is anticipated.

Seat Belt Law To Include Light Trucks

The House of Delegates this week enacted legislation that will expand the seat belt law to include use in light trucks as well as in automobiles.

The bill further requires that a child be secured in a safety seat if the child is under the age of four or weighs less than 40 pounds. The current law applies only to those children under age three. Older children will also be affected, as the law would expand to require those under the age of 10 and weighing over 40 pounds to use a seat belt.

The legislation is expected to be signed by Governor William Donald Schaefer and go into effect July 1.

House Approves Cancer Bill

The House of Delegates this week overwhelmingly approved a Schaefer administration bill that is intended to help researchers track cancer cases throughout the state. The bill was introduced following a report that Maryland's cancer death rate is now the highest in the nation.

The bill will require hospitals, labs and other healthcare facilities to report all newly diagnosed cases of cancer to a central computerized registry for clues as to why Maryland's rate is so high.

Bridge Project

able, the pier can be waterproofed to a degree never dreamed of in 1925, when it was built, and significantly extend the life of it."

Groves continued, "The only thing you would get out of the greater expenditure is a better alignment -- I stand by my original decision."

Butscher, however, also expressed concern that the detour routes to be used during the bridge replacement are "much more dangerous" than most detour routes, especially for school buses, rescue squads, fire trucks, etc."

Butscher also stated that she has been looking into the possibility of the Glendale Bridge being replaced with a timber bridge instead of the traditional concrete structure.

Braskey commented that he would be willing to pursue the idea of a timber bridge if the plan proved to be "feasible."

Groves stated that, even though "we've been successful with the timber bridge movement -- with two bridges in the Friendsville area having been constructed that way, and one in Grantsville scheduled for this year -- it's my understanding there are a lot of engineering problems with timber bridge construction with that size of span. In essence, you would have to have more than the one center pier for that distance. So, even though you would be saving money, you would have to build two piers instead of one."

Braskey then added that, even though the engineers assured the board that the existing piers were sound, the decision by the previous board "was based on finance -- the same way many of the decisions in this office are made. It all gets down to affordability."

Regardless of the kind of bridge or how it is to be constructed, Groves noted that the board intends to "move forward on completing the plans, taking it through the state approval process, and then be in a position to move forward at whatever date the state fulfills its commitment to the county."

He also stated that, except for the right-of-way acquisition costs, "most of the costs in the planning process have already been incurred, so it doesn't represent any major further cost."

It was noted at the meeting that it would be determined within the next several weeks whether or not state funding would be available for the upcoming year or sometime in the future.

Home Rule

ing experience for Garrett County, regardless of whether or not it passes."

Commissioner Braskey noted that no other form of county government may be considered by the voters at the same time charter home rule is being considered.

County resident John Hinebaugh, who was present at the meeting, stated that code home rule is not implemented through a referendum vote, as is charter home rule, but rather can only be adopted by the commissioners through a resolution. "That's all it takes," he said, "but once a petition is submitted for charter home rule, they cannot submit a resolution for code home rule."

Commissioner Braskey reported that the county league was concerned about educating the public about the charter process. "They asked if we were going to do that, but I don't think that's our job," said Braskey, adding, "I feel it should be done by the League of Women Voters."

On a related note, members of the charter home rule petition committee recently submitted information to The Republican newspaper because of their concern that "an avalanche of misinformation from those with a vested interest in maintaining the status quo" might be expected. As a result, they drafted a list of "facts" regarding charter home rule. Included in that list were the following points:

"The cost of county government will not rise; the charter will re-institute the concept of 'public service' based on giving of one's self, and service to the community, rather than high salaries; the charter will include a term limitation provision; the charter will not include a provision for a high-powered, high-priced county executive; the charter will provide a broader-based county council-type of government (5-7 members), more reflective of the will of the people, and the charter will be a reflection of (and possibly an improvement on) the eight charter home rule counties already in place in our state."

According to the LWV of Garrett County, counties which currently use the charter home rule form of government are Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince George's, Talbot and Wicomico. Cecil and Frederick Counties are both currently in the process of writing charters.

ARBOR DAY CELEBRATED -- The Garrett County Forestry Board recently donated a red maple tree to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, the mayor of Oakland, and the citizens of Garrett County to commemorate Arbor Day and the Maryland governor's Tree-Mendous tree planting program. The tree was planted in the Oakland town park. April 3 marked the 108th year that Marylanders have celebrated Arbor Day. Now is a good time to start thinking about spring and tree planting. "The many trees and seedlings that are planted on Arbor Day really focus attention on the values of our trees and forests," said Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz. "It's important to plant trees every year so that future generations can enjoy their beauty, appreciate their ability to reduce soil erosion, moderate temperature and wind, and provide wood fiber, wildlife habitat, and recreational opportunities. Each year, to help commemorate Arbor Day, the Forestry Division of the Department of Natural Resources gives pine seedlings to public school third graders with the hope that they will be planted, nurtured, and recognized as important renewable resources. Information about managing forest land may be obtained by calling 334-3296. Pictured above, left to right, planting the maple tree, are Mike Kozier, director of Garrett County Soil Conservation and county coordinator for the Tree-Mendous program; Commissioner Brenda Butscher, Mayor Asa McCain, Commissioner Elwood Groves, and Commissioner John Braskey.

Md. Sergeant Fires Against Orders In Iraq; Is Recommended For Medal

Editor's Note: The following article appeared in the April 1 edition of the "Baltimore Sun," and is being reprinted with their permission. It was written by Doug Struck, a Sun staff correspondent, while in Southern Iraq. Gary Hartzell is the son of Clyde and Alice Catherine Hartzell, Boonsboro, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Perry VanSickle, Friendsville.

SOUTHERN IRAQ -- Sgt.Gary Hartzell learned of war in a split second when he decided to fire against to orders of his captain.

The quick action by the 22-year-old sergeant from Boonsboro, killed an Iraqi rocketeer and may have saved his captain.

For that he has been recommended for a Silver Star.

The incident happened at the start of an eight-hour tank battle that the commander laments "will go unnoticed by history."

Sergeant Hartzell is a 1st Armored Infantry Division gunner on a Bradley Fighting Vehicle, a box-like troop carrier. On Feb. 26, the third day of the gulf war's ground offensive, his unit was pushing through southern Iraq toward Kuwait when it rumbled into the thick of a Republican Guard armored unit.

It had been an eerie day, recalls Capt. Bob Burns, commander of Charlie Tank Team. They has been the first through the Iraqi front defenses Feb. 24 and had been pushing forward ever since.

They were exhausted by nightfall, and a weird fog had closed in on them. By the crackle on the radio and the rumble of tanks, "you really got the sense of a great army moving. You could feel the armored vehicles," Captain Burns said. "You had the sense you were part of something huge."

Suddenly, the company found itself in the midst of Iraqi trenches, and in their night scopes they picked up soldiers running about them. Sergeant Hartzell, riding in a Bradley behind Captain Burns' tank, saw an Iraqi soldier pop up from a shallow "spider trench" with a rocket launcher on his shoulder.

The M1-A1 tanks are well-armored, but their weakest spot is in the rear. The Iraqi soldier was directly behind Captain Burns' tank. He looked quickly at the tank, then at Sergeant Hartzell's oncoming Bradley, and swung his weapon toward the M1-A1, said the sergeant.

They had orders not to fire without direct permission, he said. But there was no time. Sergeant Hartzell brought the cross-hairs of his sight onto the Iraqi gunner, and pushed the button of his 25mm "chain gun," an armor-piercing machine gun.

"It was like a blur. I just saw him pointing the weapon, and it was almost like instinct. I reached over and pressed the button to fire," he said. The huge bullet cut through the Iraqi soldier.

The shot was the first of many that night. Charlie Company and other companies of their battalion struggled through a field of Iraqi tanks and armored vehicles. Most were manned and moving, and some fired back. But they were blind to their attackers. The Bradleys and M1-A1s had night-vision systems that allowed them to destroy the enemy confused by the dark.

"There were so many targets. So many tanks, so many trucks," said Captain Burns. "It got to the point we were just bypassing them."

Col. Gregory Fontenot, head of the 2nd Battalion, said that the Battle of Norfolk -- named after a code name on their map -- was "a historic battle. We destroyed 70 armored vehicles in an eight-hour tank battle at night, and did it without a scratch. But nobody has reported it. It will go unnoticed by history."

Sergeant Hartzell said he was proud of the recommendation for a Silver Star, although "I really didn't think I did anything spectacular. It was my job."

More important to the soldier is getting back home, he said. He was married three months before his unit left Fort Riley, Kan., for the Mideast in December. His wife, Kara Hartzell, is from Gaithersburg but has stayed in Kansas for classes at Kansas State University.

"I'm surprised at how much I miss the everyday things," said Sergeant Hartzell. "The separation is worst."

His parents are proud of his heroics and relieved that he has survived the war without any injuries.

"We've been worried about him like all the other mothers and fathers," said his mother, Alice Hartzell, who is anxious for him to come home. "He'll probably be one of the later ones to leave."

35% Of Taxpayers Still To File; Tax Help Available on Weekend

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said his office will be receiving state income tax returns at the rate of 2,400 per hour as the pace quickens during the last two weeks of the filing season.

"More than 1.4 million returns have been filed so far, out of an expected 2.2 million. We've also mailed out 794,596 refund checks to taxpayers, averaging $322," Goldstein said.

The comptroller urged taxpayers still working on the remaining 800,000 state returns to take advantage of extra hours of free state tax help during the upcoming weekend.

"Most Maryland taxpayers do their own returns and work on them over the weekend," Goldstein said. "To assist them we are offering hours of extra assistance the first two Saturdays in April and on Monday evening, April 8."

All Maryland income tax offices will remain open to help taxpayers on Saturday, April 6, and Saturday, April 13, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Taxpayers can also get help over the telephone on Monday evening, April 8, from 5 until 7 p.m.

"We offer these extra hours of assistance as a convenience for taxpayers who work during the week. Taxpayers who want their Maryland returns completed free of charge should bring a completed copy of their federal return and all W-2 statements to take advantage of this free service," Goldstein said.

Goldstein offered a few pointers to taxpayers still working on their returns; noting that tax returns filed close to the April 15 deadline usually have more errors than those filed earlier:

—double-check all calculations (mathematical mistakes still account for the largest number of errors);

—enter the total dollar amount of your personal exemptions on line 58;

—enter your correct subdivision code from the list on page 2 of the state tax packet instructions;

—use the preprinted address label (if it's correct);

—if itemizing deductions, remember to attach a copy of your federal Schedule A;

—attach your W-2 statements and a check or money order for any state tax due;

—sign your return (if someone else has prepared your return, have them sign also).

All Maryland income tax offices are open Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Extra hours of assistance are listed inside the front cover of the state tax packet. The addresses and phone numbers of the state income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories.

For free state income tax assistance in the Baltimore area, Maryland residents may call 1-800-MD TAXES.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

Aurora VFD Meeting

An emergency meeting of the Aurora Volunteer Fire Department has been scheduled for Monday evening, April 8, at the fire hall. The meeting will begin at 7:30. All members are urged to attend.

MT. GROVE VFD ACTIVITIES

Brad Shaffer, Mt. Grove VFD chief, has released the following report of activities for the month of February.

There was one regular business meeting, a trip to Charleston for lobbying effort, and attendance at a meeting of Tucker County EMS. A delegate was sent to the Preston County Fire Association meeting, and there were five work sessions, four emergency calls, and two training exercises.

Emergency calls involved a call for possible entrapment at the foot of Cheat Mountain, a vehicle accident, a mutual aid standby at the station, and one false alarm. Mutual aid companies who were given or received aid were: the Aurora VFD, Union Ambulance Association, Rowlesburg VFD, and Rowlesburg Ambulance.

FRANTZ BIRTH

Announcing the birth of their fourth child and first son are James and Dianna (MacMillan) Frantz. He was born March 30 at Yakota Air Force Base Hospital, Yakota, Japan, weighing 10 pounds, eight ounces, and his name is John Taylor. His three older sisters are Erin Lynn, Lori Ann, and Rene Leigh. Maternal grandparents are John and Christine MacMillan, Oakland; and paternal grandparents are Raymond and Hilda Frantz, Eglon.

RESPIRATORY AWARENESS

Several attended the March 28 meeting that concerned respiratory awareness. Serving as emcee was Rose Ina Harsh, president of Union Ambulance Association and a member of the Eglon Farm Service FHAC committee. First on the panel was Jeff Harsh of the Mt. Grove VFD who stressed the importance of each farmer keeping a list of the fertilizers, pesticides, and herbicides that are stored. In a case of fire, these become hazards and are to be allowed to burn while persons are evacuated from the area.

Speaking as a representative of Union Ambulance, Mrs. Harsh stressed learning first aid (often listed on pesticide labels) and keeping the airway open. Delbert Waybright of the Aurora VFD and a local dairyman, mentioned gases most often present on the farm and told of mishaps occurring which ended in disaster.

Charlie Fox of Southern States, told of using a toxilyzer, an apparatus which measures the presence and amount of gaseous presence on a local farm, and finding uncommonly high levels in areas which would be unsuspected. He spoke also of the fact that this may affect animals and their health, as well as that of humans.

Doyle Harsh said that farmers need more training in pesticide handling safety and in identifying pests so that it is not used unnecessarily. Joseph Patton, of the Soil Conservation, also spoke about keeping labels, but stressed animal waste disposal and nutrient management.

Preston County Extension Agent Tom McConnell mentioned the presence of toxic factors in dusts, hair, molds, fungi, dander and bacteria which can cause toxic organic dust syndrome, an acute disease, or farmer's lung, a chronic one.

Norman Sims, representing West Virginia University's Department of Safety and Health Training, is a safety engineer, and stated that his department is beginning to develop methods to measure and test for reasons for illnesses.

The Soil Conservation Service and WVU Extension in this county will be sponsoring a water testing program for the entire county, which will be kicked off April 15. Further information on this subject will be forthcoming.

Homer Fike, of Eglon, will observe his 90th birthday on April 17, and the family is holding a card shower in his honor. His address is P.O. Box 44, Eglon, W.Va. 26716. An early celebration with family and friends will be in the form of a carry-in dinner at Maple Spring Church on April 7 following morning services. The Broadford Quartet will provide afternoon entertainment, to which the public is welcome.

Thank You!
to the two men who pulled our old dog out of the pond on the Oakland Country Club golf course last Friday. If you two gentlemen had not shown compassion for our dog we doubt he would be alive today. We thank you very much.

Governor Seeks Volunteers For Defense Force

In a letter to the media in December, Governor William Donald Schaefer stated that about 1,500 members of the Maryland National Guard and other reserve organizations have been activated as a result of Operation Desert Shield, and he asked Marylanders to keep these men and women "in their thoughts."

Now the governor is issuing a call for volunteers to serve in an all-volunteer, state military organization known as the Maryland Defense Force (MDDF).

When units of the National Guard are activated, it is the job of MDDF to take over the vacated armories until the National Guard returns. Also, during the absence of reservists who are on active duty, the MDDF will provide assistance to the reservists' dependents. "If Operation Desert Shield continues or expands, there may very well be a critical need for the MDDF to step in and help out," stated a MDDF spokesman.

The MDDF is a military police type organization which is totally funded by the state, under the command of the governor. Unlike the National Guard, the MDDF cannot be called to active duty by the federal government. Its missions include: to protect the citizens of Maryland in the event of natural disasters, to maintain law and order during periods of civil disturbances, to assist civil authorities, and to accomplish other tasks assigned by the governor.

The MDDF is represented locally by the First Security Battalion with headquarters in the Brown Avenue Armory in Cumberland. The first Battalion is responsible for all of Maryland from Frederick to the western border of the state. Units of the First Battalion are located in armories in Oakland, Cumberland, Hagerstown, Highfield, and Frederick.

MDDF needs volunteers to serve as commissioned officers, noncommissioned officers, and as enlisted personnel. Former commissioned officers or senior noncommissioned officers in the regular service or reserves may be considered for commissions, depending on experience. The MDDF is also seeking enlisted personnel.

Prior military service is not a requirement for joining the MDDF. Males and females between the ages of 17 and 70 are eligible to join. Health and physical fitness standards are not as high as for the National Guard, but volunteers must be physically capable of performing their assignments.

For information about joining the Oakland MDDF unit, persons may call Capt. Julius Boulyard at 334-4955.

Rosenthal Speaks To Civic Club

Ben Rosenthal, president of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, was the guest speaker at the first meeting of 1991 of the Civic Club of Oakland, held March 26. Rosenthal's topic concerned the overall operation of the local hospital, services available, and plans for the future.

He said that there are 49 different departments in the hospital and that many services that are typical of large hospitals are also available at Garrett Memorial, partially because of the added funding capability provided by the Hospital Foundation. He said a survey will be conducted by the hospital in the near future to help pinpoint concerns and opinions of the general public, both negative and positive, about the hospital to assist management and the board of governors in providing new services and making improvements where necessary. Hospital employees will also be asked for their opinions on services available and those still needed.

Among the present identified needs Rosenthal noted are additional parking at the hospital and a psychological ward.

Some time was spent by the club members discussing the grant received from the American Council of Life Insurance. A survey is being conducted throughout the area to determine if there is a need for more long-term care in Garrett County.

The members were informed about how the recycling project in Garrett County is progressing. Club representatives recently met with the county commissioners to indicate their desire to support the recycling effort and help make arrangements for collection sites in both ends of the county.

Members were given a list of options on how to use the proceeds from the club's annual antique show during the Autumn Glory Festival. The funds will be donated to various non-profit organizations.

The April meeting, to be held at Will O'the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, on April 30, will focus on the foreign exchange students presently visiting Garrett County schools. Betty Moran and Elizabeth McComas will present the program.

Old Mill To Hold Benefit Meal Friday

Veterans Club Organizes At GCC Campus

One of the busiest student organizations at Garrett Community College this spring is the newly formed GCC Veterans Club. The stated purposes of this organization are to support American veterans in continuing their education and to provide an outreach and support group to veterans in this community.

In an effort to raise money for their scholarship fund, members of this group have planned a number of fund-raising activities. Among these are a pool tournament, bake sale, fishing tournament, country-western dance, and Bingo games. A unique activity will be the sale of hand-made wooden holders for a baseball glove, bat, and ball.

Organizers of the Veterans Club, Clifford Everett, Raymond Bixler, and Keith Doyle, invite all veterans in the area to join their organization. Persons do not have to be students at GCC. Anyone who served as a member of the Armed Forces who was discharged or released from active duty under any condition other than dishonorable, or anyone who is still on active duty, is eligible.

The group meets at the college in the cafeteria the first and third Thursdays of every month at 6:30 p.m. Anyone desiring further information about the Veterans Club may call Dee Thomas at 387-6666.

Lakers Sweep A Pair From Butler To Up Record To 5-3

The Garrett Community College baseball team improved its record to 5-3 Tuesday afternoon by sweeping a doubleheader from host Butler (Pa.) Community College, 14-6 and 12-5. The weather finally allowed the Lakers to get back into action after seven straight games had to be postponed.

Garrett took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning of the opener on RBI groundouts by Mick Bayle and Buddy Leichliter.

Butler responded with a single run in the bottom of the second frame, but Leichliter made it 4-1 for the Lakers with his two-run homer in the top of the third.

Butler came back to score a pair in the bottom of that frame, but GCC added two more in the top of the fourth with an RBI single by Kevin Green and a ground-out by Rod Freeman to make it 6-3.

An RBI double by Bayle and two unearned runs in the fifth made it 9-4, before Butler narrowed the lead to 9-6 in the bottom of the fifth on a two-run double by Schiffauer.

The Lakers put the game away with a five-run sixth inning, as Mike Leshok scored on a wild pitch, D.G. Largent followed with an RBI single, Freeman sent home a pair of runs with a single, and Brandon Biehl scored on a wild pitch.

The Lakers didn't let up in the second game, as they opened with four runs in the first inning. A bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Leichliter sent home the first run, a fielder's choice by Freeman sent home Steve Ujcic, and Chris Lollis and Tony Angelo each added run-producing singles.

Garrett made it 6-0 in the second inning when Ujcic rapped an RBI triple and Leichliter recorded another sacrifice fly.

Ujcic, Bayle, and Dave Butina each singled home runs and John Collins scored on a passed ball in the four-run third inning to give the Lakers a commanding 10-1 advantage.

Butler came back to score a run in the fifth and two in the sixth, but Tom McDermitt secured the win for the Lakers when he worked out of a bases-loaded sixth inning jam.

Ujcic finished with three hits, while Bayle, Lollis, and Dave Butina each had two hits. Leichliter recorded three RBI.

Bayle, who was the eighth ranked hitter in the nation last season with a .496 average, is off to another amazing start this year, as he is currently hitting .500 (13 for 26). He also has walked nine times so far for an on base average of nearly 70 percent. The first baseman has scored a dozen runs and has yet to strike out this year.

Meanwhile, Steve Ujcic is currently batting .419 (13 of 31), while Mike Leshok, the lead-off hitter, is hitting .333 (9 of 27) and has also walked nine times for an on-base average of nearly 60 percent. He is also five-for-five in steals and has scored 12 runs.

Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt and the Lakers have a busy week ahead of them, as they are scheduled to play a conference doubleheader at Prince Georges CC this Friday, a twinbill at Harford CC on Saturday, two at Montgomery-Rockville Sunday, and a doubleheader at home next Wednesday against Hagerstown Junior College.

Trojans Score Three In Sixth To Defeat Rams

In their second outing of the season, the Southern High Rams were defeated by Hampshire yesterday afternoon, 6-3, as the Trojans broke a 3-3 tie with three runs in the sixth inning. The result left the Rams with an 0-1-1 mark, having tied with Petersburg in the season opener.

Southern's Garth Glotfelty opened the first inning with a double and was then singled home by Shawn Ryan to give the Rams a 1-0 lead.

The 2-0 Trojans came back in their half of the inning with a run on a single by Matt Kesner to knot the score. They went on to a 3-1 lead in the second inning as Danny Slocum and Travis Oates both came home on errors.

The Rams came back to tie the score with singles runs in the fourth and fifth innings. Jeremy Bosley's double accounted for the fourth inning score and the tying run in the fifth was unearned.

Jamie Ganoe opened Hampshire's sixth inning with a single, Jay Hott followed with a walk, and after both runners advanced on a passed ball, Brian Free sent them both home with a double. Free then scored on a single by Bill Casto to conclude the scoring.

Eric Hott earned the win on the mound in going the distance over Brett Rice. Hott yielded six hits, while Rice gave up nine.

Coach Jim Bosley's Rams will go after their first win this afternoon at Keyser. They will host Tucker County in a doubleheader this Saturday, beginning at 1 p.m.

to bringing up issues."

Groves continued, "The issues that have been controversial over the past few weeks are, in themselves, legitimate policy issues that can be discussed, debated and talked about. My biggest gripe was the way things were handled."

Groves was referring, in particular, to the recent publicity over the county's educational benefit policy, and his use of it over the past few years to take business administration courses at West Virginia University. He is currently enrolled in one of those courses, which reportedly is costing the county $1,026. Commissioner Butscher recently brought this information to the public' attention, and stated that she felt it was a misuse of the county employee policy.

Groves also stated that, while he hopes the board members now have a better understanding between them, "I don't thing it's fair for any member of this board to put the other members at a disadvantage with this kind of surprise tactics. It causes a lot of personal animosity."

Commissioner Braskey then added that he feels the board now has a "fresh start," and stated, "The sooner we set up a committee to look at these policies and make recommendations, the better I'm going to feel."

When asked if she had a "clear conscience" about the manner in which the policy was brought to the public's attention, Commissioner Butscher responded, "I did what I felt I had to do and my conscience is clear. "

Groves was then asked if he had a clear conscience about his interpretation and use of the county educational policy, and he responded by stating, "Absolutely. I feel like I'm a victim of circumstances on that issue."

Commissioner Braskey explained that the board was looking into establishing a county policy review commission which would be charged with studying the policies and making recommendations to the board of county commissioners. He stated, "They can interpret the policies and if they come back and recommend to me that I shouldn't use the educational benefit or have a county car, then I'm more than likely going to agree with that. I'd be a fool not to."

Commissioner Groves concluded the questioning session by stating, "My main concern is that we don't return to the bad old days of continual infighting on the board of commissioners, political turmoil and contentiousness emanating from this office. I've been here for eight years, and I can tell you the job is hard enough without having those kind of shenanigans going on."

Mediation Fails

superintendent of G.C. schools, explained that the board has made this stand because of extreme financial constraints. When asked if he foresaw any compromise in the next step of the impasse, he stated that he could not speak for the entire board, and will not know until the fact-finding mode is complete.

Another point of contention Shaffer stressed was the disparity between the average pay of teachers as compared to the average pay of board administrators. According to Shaffer as well as other sources, the average salary of an administrative employee is approximately $48,000, while the approximate average of a teacher is $29,470. The ranking of administrators' salaries in the state falls between 16 and 18, while the teachers rank 23rd-24th out of 24 counties. The contrast in the rankings is the greatest in the state.

"I think this is the biggest problem for most teachers," Shaffer said. "I don't believe that there is any argument that the administrators deserve more money -- they work year around and have many responsibilities. But we want to close up that disparity. There is something wrong with an average difference of nearly $20,000. I know there are lots of reasons for it, but in a time when all employees are being told to 'tighten their belts,' this problem should be addressed."

The fact-finding mode of the impasse procedure allows the arbitrator to gather information from both sides. He, Aronin, will study the information provided and will then compile a report containing his findings as well as his recommendations. The arbitration is not binding -- the board can choose whether or not to follow the recommendations.

There are other contractual changes that the education board is requesting and that the GCTA is against. They include changing the method of teacher transfer. Presently, transfers are based on seniority. The board wishes to make transfers based on other information. Secondly, the board wishes to alter the policy that pays teachers one third of their salary after they have utilized their accumulated sick days. The education board is seeking to cut out those monies.

The arbitrator's report will be completed on April 19, at which time the groups will meet to review the report.

RESTORED TO ITS 1880 APPEARANCE is the Mountain Lake Assembly Hall where the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center is located. The building is one of the surviving remnants of the historical park, and was in a sad state of repair before the Camp Meeting Association funded an extensive restoration project. The pregnancy center volunteers are currently planning an open house on April 28. The public is invited to visit the center and learn of the services offered there. Light refreshments will be served. The volunteer organization is also gearing up for its third annual walk-a-thon, which will be held on May 11. More information about the event is forthcoming.

SHOWN IN THE COUNSELING ROOM are volunteer Gail Richter, left, and counselor Nellie Ashby at right. The counseling area is decorated in a homey fashion where those who seek help may feel comfortable and at ease. Mrs. Ashby explained that although professional counseling is not offered at the center, she and many of the other volunteers participate in seminars and other courses regularly to keep abreast of the latest guidance techniques. Most of the seminars the volunteers attend revolve around Christian ideals and methods. If someone has a problem that is beyond the center's capabilities, Mrs. Ashby said that he or she will readily be referred to a professional in the field.

HELP COMES IN MANY WAYS to the center, as shown here by Mr. Ashby. He is pictured standing next to one of many shelves full of donated clothing and baby items, given by people in all walks of life. The items are used in assisting women who choose to keep their babies despite the financial burden, and is given freely when there is need. The Ashbys hesitated to list their many donators, mainly because they feared leaving someone out.

A STAGE WAITING FOR PLAYERS -- Ward Ashby stands on the stage in the 350-seat auditorium located behind the assembly hall. Ashby explained that the stage area is unused most of the time, and to help the crisis center in their endeavor, plans are underway to rent out the auditorium to interested persons. He advised that the center would be most open to Christian programs in keeping with the atmosphere of the grounds.

Mtn. Top Crisis Pregnancy Center Offers Help To Others; Seeks Help In Endeavor

By Mary Sincell McEwen

While the discovery of a pregnancy comes as a wonderful surprise to many women, the same situation for others may be traumatic -- unplanned and unwanted. The latter reaction may occur for countless reasons, perhaps when the prospective mother is a teenager, unmarried and still in school; or when she has become pregnant after a short-term relationship with no commitment, or even after the crime of rape; or simply when money constraints make it seemingly impossible for her to have a child and care for it properly. The circumstances surrounding an unwanted or "crisis" pregnancy vary enormously, and for whatever reason, they often cause the woman to search for an alternative to becoming a mother.

Abortion is one alternative for the pregnant woman. However, this method is not the answer for all women, as it conflicts with their own beliefs and/or values. When abortion is out of the question, the choice of adoption may be considered, but many women do not know how to approach the option, such as who to contact or how the system works. They also may hesitate at just "giving away" their baby to some unknown family in some unknown place.

Some women or girls find themselves alone at this crisis time, as the father of the child may abandon the mother, or the parents of a teen may force her to leave home. Even if the woman wants her child, the stress caused by abandonment can be nearly impossible to withstand.

There is a haven for these women in Mountain Lake Park. It is called the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center and is established at the Camp Meeting Grounds on G Street. The purpose of this Christian organization is to provide alternatives to abortion in a crisis pregnancy situation, as well as provide counseling, support, and aid to not only pregnant women, but also to young couples.

The center, which was established nearly two years ago, is managed by Ward and Nellie Ashby. Ward serves as the president of the board of directors, and Nellie acts as one of the center's counselors and coordinates the 15-20 other volunteers. The center survives mainly through donations from area churches and clubs, some of which give monthly gifts to the organization. All of the workers are volunteers.

The function of the center varies for each individual who takes advantage of the services there. Free and confidential pregnancy testing is available, as is a 24-hour hotline for persons with questions or concerns, or for those who are in a stress pregnancy situation and simply need to talk with someone. The hotline number is 334-1058, or 1-800-866-2400.

"We've gotten quite a few calls on the hotline," Mrs. Ashby stated, "with all sorts of questions." She went on to explain that a volunteer is always "on call" for the hotline, 24 hours a day, and if that volunteer cannot help the caller, then she or he will contact someone who can.

Counseling is offered, Mrs. Ashby explained, although professional or extensive therapy is not available at the center. When a person displays a need for in-depth counseling, the pregnancy center personnel will refer the patient on to professional help. However, in cases of simple support and a "listening ear," the center is always available.

"We're not judgmental," Mrs. Ashby stated. "A lot of people probably think we're strict 'right-to-lifers,' but we're not. We do not advocate abortion, nor do we offer any sort of referral service for abortion, but we will not judge any woman who decides to go that route even after hearing our alternatives." She explained that the center also does not judge or place blame on any women in a crisis pregnancy. A major part of the training for center volunteers centers on teaching the volunteer to remain non-judgmental, no matter how he or she feels personally about a situation.

"We've found that love is the best way to help. Just love and support," she said.

Mrs. Ashby did stress, however, that another extremely important function of the center is to help prevent unwanted pregnancies by offering counseling to young men and women who may be confused about sexual relationships.

"Some kids just don't realize that abstinence is an option," Mrs. Ashby said. The center counsels young couples to abstain until marriage, she explained, and teaches them --both boys and girls -- that it is all right to say 'no.'

Also offered at the center is a post-abortion support group, led by Diane Yoder. The first session of this type of counseling recently came to a close with successful results, Mrs. Yoder said. The support group is there to help women who suffer from feelings of guilt and remorse as a result of a past abortion. Mrs. Yoder explained that the course teaches these women to replace the guilt with energy, and to move beyond the remorse. The women are counseled to re-channel their energy into positive areas, such as helping others in similar situations.

"We want to help these women help themselves," Mrs. Yoder stated, "and to guide them in better directions." Another session of the post-abortion counseling is scheduled to begin soon. The center also plans to form a single mothers' support group in the near future.

After an unwanted pregnancy has begun, alternatives to abortion are offered by the center, which include counseling for a woman who may decide to keep the child even though her circumstances may seem insurmountable, or a unique adoption service that gives the birth mother the right and ability to choose the parents for her baby. In cases where pregnant girls are forced from their homes, the center offers "shepherding" families, which means they provide a temporary home for the girl with a family who has offered to help. If the pregnancy is a product of incest or rape, the center refers the victim to professional assistance.

If a woman decides to keep her child, the center offers a wealth of assistance in the forms of maternity and baby clothing, accessories for those who truly need them, and support counseling for the woman who is unsure of becoming a mother. When the child is born, volunteers from the center give specified new mothers and babies a "bundle," which includes a baby's bath tub, diapers, blankets, clothing, and -- as an added touch -- a small bible for the infant. All bundle items are new.

The Ashbys explained that the clothing and other items are donated by many area churches and clubs. Many recipients of the donated goods return the articles when their children have outgrown them, and often give twice or three times as many belongings back to the center.

"It's heartwarming that so many people donate so many things for us," Mrs. Ashby stated, noting that one church, for example, provides knotted baby quilts for each bundle given to a new mother and infant. On the day of the interview with the Ashbys, another donor had recently dropped off numerous bolts of cloth to the center, which will quickly be made into maternity clothing by yet another volunteer.

When asked what the center lacked in donations, Mrs. Ashby said that they are in some need of larger maternity clothing, sizes 18-20. She also stated that more volunteers would be welcomed, especially those who could serve in the center (as opposed to covering the hotline from their homes). Some training is involved in becoming a volunteer, and interested persons are invited to contact the center for more information.

The adoption service offered by the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center is a unique one which allows the birth mother to explore many options in choosing a home for her baby. There are portfolios at the center that contain pictures and letters from hopeful parents who for some reason cannot have a child of their own. The counselors at the center do extensive research on each applicant by conducting what is called "home research." This entails contacting the couple, meeting the couple in person, and discussing the adoption plan with them. The counselors then interview other family members, and request written information from the family physician explaining exactly why the couple cannot have their own child.

The center then compiles the portfolio which eventually holds about six pictures of the prospective parents, their home, and perhaps other family members. Also in the portfolio are two letters, one from each hopeful parent, describing themselves, their relationship with their spouse, and their wish for a baby. The adoption families handled by the crisis pregnancy center are all of the Christian faith.

After a birth mother (and father, if he wishes to help) has studied the portfolios and has chosen the parents she thinks she wants for her baby, then she may meet them in person. After the child is born and is given to the adoptive parents, the birth mother has the option of receiving three sets of photos in the baby's first year of life, and then has the opportunity to meet the child when he or she turns 18.

"This adoption program requires the birth mother to be very unselfish," Mrs. Ashby stated, explaining that she has to give the baby up on the premise that the child will have a better chance in life with the adoptive parents. "But it also gives her an important role to play in choosing her baby's family."

The Ashbys said that they had three portfolios at one time, but now have only one left. However, they do expect other hopeful parents to contact them before long.

The Mtn. Top Pregnancy Crisis Center has helped 250 people, the Ashbys said. Now the establishment is in some danger of losing its location. The center was renting their space in the Camp Meeting Hall from the Camp Meeting Association until recently, when the association over-extended itself monetarily and may lose the establishment. The meeting ground consists of 5.6 acres of partially wooded land in the center of Mtn. Lake Park. Buildings on the land include a 350-seat auditorium, an assembly hall which has been restored to its 1880 appearance, a new 31-room dormitory building complete with central dining/lounging area, and a modern kitchen.

The crisis center's desire is to acquire the property completely for their work. Some of their future ideas include using the dorm area for an un-wed mothers maternity home and/or temporary shelter for families experiencing a domestic crisis. The shelter could feasibly serve a four to five state area including Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and perhaps Ohio. The board of directors has already agreed to a request to hold an open meeting in Keyser, W.Va., to determine if their is enough public interest in starting a crisis center there.

The funding for this project has been agreed upon by the members of the Camp Meeting Association, who would still be able to conduct their yearly ten-day retreat at the center. The crisis pregnancy group has until May 1 to raise a "cushion" fund which would satisfy the mortgage holder. The goal for the cushion fund has been set at $75,000, and the total cost of the area is approximately $485,000. The center's board of directors is urgently seeking donations to help the organization acquire the area (see advertisement this page).

"The place has so much potential," Mrs. Ashby said, adding that the brand new dormitories are used only ten days per year for the camp meeting. The Ashbys did point out that senior citizens make use of the dining and lounge area on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and are certainly welcomed there. But most of the time, the building stands empty.

"I would just hate to see it sold off in sections," Mrs. Ashby said. "This is an ideal place for people to find peace--it should be kept that way."

Ward Ashby noted that the buildings are available for rent by organizations, preferably for Christian activities "in keeping with the 108-year tradition of a Christian atmosphere," he explained. More information on renting the spaces can be obtained by contacting the center.

In a letter sent out by Ward concerning the present financial emergency, he states that any pledge or donation would be greatly appreciated, "but if you are unable to give at this time, we do request that you keep us and this endeavor in your prayers."

HOPPING TO A HAPPIER AWARENESS of the disabilities of others were third and fourth grade students at Crellin Elementary School, who participated in a "Hop-N-Ing" to raise money for the Easter Seals. The students have been learning about different disabilities with which many persons must live every day. In the photo above, Crellin teachers Ellen Zimmerman and Patty Dixon count the hops of two students. Top hoppers were Jeff Maule with 356 hops and Casey Wessel with 321. Other students participating in the event were:Dennis Stottlemeyer, Jessica Bittinger, Randy Dixon, Jeff Lewis, Eric Shaffer, Andy Zimmerman, Delbert Canan, Billy Martin, Misty Sereno, Jonathan Wildesen, and Andrew Windle.

Swanton Center To Serve Ham Dinner

The Swanton Community Center will be serving a ham dinner on Saturday, April 13, beginning at 4 p.m.

The cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. A salad bar is included with the meal, according to a center spokesman.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers' case of the week involves a breaking, entering, and theft incident that occurred in March.

A suspect apparently entered a log residence under construction on the Stockslager Road sometime during the night of March 7th or the early hours of the 8th. Once inside, the culprit removed numerous carpenter tools.

The tools stolen included air nailer guns, a belt sander, a 10-inch surface planer, and a used wheelbarrow. The total loss in this case has been estimated at $2,110.

Any person who may have information about this or any other crime are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names, nor do they have to testify in court. Rewards up to $1,000 are available for persons who provide tips that lead to an arrest.

In Loving Memory of George "Pete" Artice who passed away April 6, 1986.

An angel up in heaven
With a halo on your head
Is how my Mommy told me
When she said 'your daddy's dead'
I don't have a lot of memories
Except pictures in a frame
But without you here with me, Dad,
Nothing is quite the same.
Mommy tries to help me with the things
That other boys get to do,
But we all know deep in our hearts
It should be done with you.
So when I close my eyes at night
And get ready to go to bed
I think about an angel dad
With a halo on his head.
When you have read this poem
I don't want you to be sad
Because all the words and all the thoughts here are a tribute to my dad.

Very much missed by wife Sherry and son Michael.

through the proper administration heads (i.e. school or road superintendents, social service heads, etc.). In other words, an idiot can guard the hen house; the question is, "Does he know how to aim and shoot the gun?"

This whole deal looks like a large, road-kill skunk. I, and everyone else, including Groves, know the skunk smells. The question is, "Does it stink?" The answer is, you'd better believe it! Especially if you hope to benefit from the ownership of those chickens.

I am just a poor, dumb, farm boy. But Groves, if I ran into you or the others on the street, I'd show that poor old skunk (dead or alive) more respect. I've got a bucket of tar for such an occasion. Now, where did you put the feathers?

Finally, anyone who believes Groves' story should stop by my farm with your wallet full of cash. I have some extremely valuable chickens. They lay solid gold eggs, and I'm sure I can sell you some of these eggs.

I am very truly yours,
Daniel T. Gnegy
Deer Park

P.S. Groves in statements implies that it is necessary for him to attend other meetings. The commissioner could ask and send any other person capable of conveying their message or take accurate notes of these meetings and report back to them. This is not the case when Groves is taking these classes! In other words, Groves is a commissioner when the board is in session. The rest of the time he's just like you or me, an individual without power.

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to a suggestion to have a parade for the Operation Desert Storm veterans on July 6th. I think a parade is a wonderful idea, but I am begging those who are planning it to please consider a date other than July 6th. My family and my fiance's family have made many arrangements for our wedding on that day. I am afraid that a parade would conflict with our wedding, especially since two of the veterans will be in our wedding. Also, we have many friends in the Persian Gulf and are anxious to see them at our wedding.

Another potential conflict is the fact that our wedding will be held at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, which, as you probably know, is in downtown Oakland, along the parade route. Our wedding is at 11 a.m., so if the parade is later in the afternoon it might not be much of a problem, except to those veterans and others who want to attend both events but cannot.

I feel that our troops deserve a celebration such as this, but I am hoping you will consider another date. I know that many people have been looking forward to our wedding and afternoon reception, but they would probably also like to show their support for our troops. Specifically, my fiance is in the Navy and would probably like to attend a parade while we are home. I'm almost afraid he'll skip his own wedding if there is a parade!

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Bonnie B. Ruston

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Donald James' letter to the Editor in the March 28, 1991 edition of your paper where he made reference to me and the Vietnam War. I am in total agreement with his statement that Vietnam Veterans have never been given the proper support and respect from the American public. I also feel that the protests against the Vietnam War during the 1960's and 1970's evaporated the inner strength of our nation, and our Vietnam Veterans were and continue to be the true victims of those protests.

To set the record straight, I was not a protestor against the Vietnam War, and I feel that my volunteering to enlist in the U.S. Army in 1968 documents that. I also agree with Mr. James when he states that "the Vietnam Veteran can be thanked for lessons learned," and I feel that the recent public support for the Gulf War is an example of what we as Americans learned during the Vietnam War, and we owe that lesson to the Vietnam Veterans who gave of themselves for what they believed was just and right.

I thank Mr. Donald James for his comments and for stating his opinion. Perhaps in time our labeling and treating others with hatred and detestation will be replaced with a sense of respect and understanding. Vietnam Veterans fought and gave their lives for this country, and they have yet to be treated by us as the heros which they are.

Sincerely,
Craig E. Abrahamson, Ph.D.

To the Editor:

I would like to know what the pertinence of my being incarcerated has to do with the alleged actions of Deputies Stoner and Nolan or the State's Attorney's Office? I am currently locked up for forgery (two counts), possession of marijuana, and possession of cocaine. I am not locked up for theft or for the sale of illegal narcotics, as the spokesman for the Sheriff's Department suggests. I was originally charged with the offenses the Sheriff's Department named, but I was not prosecuted.

I would still like to know why my being where I am makes any difference to the alleged indiscretions of the Sheriff's Office or the State's Attorney's Office in regards to the case of Rebecca DeWitt. I know that I am not above the law, but apparently the Sheriff's Department thinks that they are. Perhaps by making an issue of my past indiscretions, the Sheriff's Department hopes to divert attention from their own alleged mistakes.

To the Editor:

While the county commissioners who favor the Code Home Rule form of county government, have been in the process of appointing a blue ribbon commission to study the need for change in the form of county government, the Pro-Charter government advocates have seized the initiative by presenting a petition to the county commissioners. The result of the petition is that the citizens could vote for Charter government by way of a referendum in the 1992 elections.

The petition by the Pro-Charter advocates may have caused the county commissioners to believe that it was too late to initiate Code Home Rule. Whatever the commissioners believe, the law provides that the county commissioners have merely to ask the Elections Board to place Code Home Rule on referendum in 1994. If Charter government did not pass in 1992, then Code Home Rule would automatically be on referendum in the 1994 elections. If Charter government passed, then the resolution of the county commissioners would be of no effect.

Charter government advocates have obtained some signatures for their petition by stating that one of the purposes of Charter government is to enact laws locally, rather than having them enacted in Annapolis. Code Home Rule provides this benefit without the drawbacks of Charter government.

Charter government is too much government for our dear little old Garrett County. For example, Allegany County, which is much bigger than Garrett County has functioned very well for many years under Code Home Rule. Under Code Home Rule the executive and legislative functions are properly shared, as they should be in a small county. Under Charter government, reins of government belong primarily to one man. Charter government provides for a County Executive who must have a big staff and for County Councilmen, more in number than the three commissioners, who must also have staffs. Finally, there would be no room in the courthouse for the County Executive and the County Councilmen, so a Garrett Center could be built at great, great taxpayer expense.

I'm originally from Anne Arundel County and know how Charter government works there. It does not bring government closer to the people or give the people a greater voice in their government. It is, however, the proper form of government for a county having more than 300,000 people. Charter government is for big counties.

I'll wait to vote for Code Home Rule in 1994..

Sincerely,
Attorney Jerome W. Cox
Oakland

To the Editor:

I am a citizen of Garrett County. I have been abused by the entire judicial system here.

I, or someone in my immediate family have been accused of scalding my (then) 3-year-old daughter. As a consequence, the Welfare Department put her in foster care. I also had a neighbor accuse my wife and me of sending our two boys to school dirty, which was not the case. The court also took them away from us.

The State Police have cleared everyone of burning her, which was an accident in the first place.

I know two wrongs don't make a right. But, I went out in my car a couple of weeks ago and I was drunk. I am admitting I was wrong. I have a fractured spine and have been in very much pain for 11 years and am on disability. It took three of our so-called State Troopers to get me to the ground and break my left arm and two of my ribs are broke and the rest are bruised and ruptured.

Now I don't call this justice. Do you? Police brutality and unnecessary force; I did not resist arrest, it just took me a little longer to do what they asked me. I am not a person who would fight anyone for no reason.

All I am asking for is my share of justice.

Sincerely,
Mr. Heinz J. Voelp

OPERATION DESERT STORM

MAIL CALL

As American forces continue their assignment in "Operation Desert Storm" in the Middle East, mail continues to be a morale builder and an expression of public support of their service.

The Republican proudly lists the names and addresses of those local service personnel who are now stationed there, either in Saudi Arabia or other Middle East nations. We hope local residents will take a few moments to drop a line to these young men and women. It is not necessary to be personally acquainted with these local soldiers or with anyone else in the armed services to send him or her a letter. Expressions of upbeat support, humor, and words of good cheer will mean a lot.

Letters to anyone in the Army, Air Force, or Marine Corps, land-based in Saudi Arabia, may be addressed as follows:

We will publish this list periodically over the next several weeks. Names and addresses of other local service personnel not listed here are welcome and will be added for future publication.

Eating healthier does not mean giving up good taste. It simply means selecting ingredients and foods lower in fat and cholesterol while increasing your dietary fiber. For example, use skim milk in place of whole milk or low-fat yogurt for sour cream, and reduced calorie cheeses. Choose lean cuts of meat, and include plenty of fruits, vegetables, whole grain breads and bran cereals.

It's easy to reduce fat and cholesterol when preparing foods. Meats can be seasoned with herbs and spices then either baked, roasted, broiled or grilled. Reduce cholesterol in baked goods by using 2 egg whites or ¼ cup egg substitute to replace one whole egg. In breads and cookies, replace nuts with dried fruits such as raisins to lower the fat content.

As you lower your dietary fat, it is also important to include fiber-rich foods. The average American's daily dietary fiber intake is only 11 to 15 grams. The National Cancer Institute recommends between 20 and 30 grams of dietary fiber per day with an upper limit of 35 grams, from a variety of sources like bran cereal, whole grain breads, vegetables and fruits.

To include more dietary fiber in your diet, eat fresh fruit for snacks and desserts. Bran cereals are also rich in dietary fiber. Cereal can be sprinkled on salads, vegetables and pasta and easily added to recipes. Use fiber-rich cereal as an extender in meat loaves. Give homemade breads and desserts a nutty whole wheat flavor and texture with fiber-rich cereals. The delicious recipes on this page use Kellogg's® ready-to-eat cereals and were developed to be good sources of dietary fiber and lower in fat.

With Open Arms

"Hello, my child. I see you each day as you walk past my house. At times, your pace slows, as if you might decide to stop and come in.

I hope that one day soon you will decide to visit me. My house is a quiet and peaceful haven. It is warm and inviting here. Stained glass windows are lit with the sun by day and by lamplight at night.

Many of my children visit my house each Sabbath. The singing of hymns, messages of inspiration and guidance, and prayers of praise and thanksgiving fill the air with hope and joy. I shall be waiting and watching for you, my child."

Accept our Father's invitation this week. God's doors, and His arms, are always open wide with love for us, His children.

"Come to Me, all who are weary and heavy-laden, and I will give you rest." Matt. 11:28

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TROUBLE AT THE CHURCH SUPPER

April 7, 1991

Background Scripture: I Corinthians 11:17-34.
Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 10:14-22.

This passage of scripture—1 Corinthians 11:17-34—ought to be read in every Christian congregation at least once a year and perhaps more often. I don't mean to imply that all or even most congregations have a serious spiritual problem with their church suppers, but the issues Paul raises with the Corinthians in this passage are no less a problem in the churches today than they were in the first century A.D.

What was the problem in Corinth? It appears that the Corinthian church periodically held a church supper during which the bread and the cup of the Last Supper were taken, quite possibly at the end of the meal. It would seem that instead of an occasion of unity in Christ, the church suppers in Corinth had become rife with factionalism. We don't know if Paul is referring to the same leadership factions that he mentioned in Chapter 1, or, as some hve suggested, that these "divisions" are more social in nature: the have's and the have-not's.

DIVISIONS VS. UNITY

Sometimes it is amazing how many different ways a congregation can be divided. I'm not as concerned that there are divisions—some grouping is natural—but that often these divisions keep us from experiencing the unity that the church is called to manifest. It is understandable in a church when the youth stick together for their activities and when senior citizens do much the same. But these groupings should never keep us from sharing, worshipping and witnessing together.

Apparently, that's what happened in Corinth. The idea of the church supper with Communion was a good idea, but the way it worked out was not! Some people came early and didn't bother waiting for those who probably could not get there so soon. If you've ever wondered where the idea of the carry-in supper (or by whatever name it is known in your church) originated, perhaps it was Corinth. It seems that everyone brought his or her own food and some had lots to eat and others virtually nothing. So there was little or no sharing.

BLASPHEMY!

Paul saw their divisive, selfish behavior as a virtual blasphemy against the Lord's Supper. We have no idea what was Paul's concept of the Lord's Supper—whether he regarded it as a sacrament, a simple memorial, the physical or spiritual presence of Christ, and so on. Nevertheless, although Paul doesn't give us a theology of the Eucharist, he does give us some clearly-defined ideas.

For one thing, it is a commemoration of Christ's cross and resurrection, a crucial victory already won—"Do this in remembrance of me." Secondly, it is a communion or sharing in the presence of the living Lord at his table—"This is my body which is for you." Third, it is an anticipation of the final victory of Christ to be established when he returns—"...you proclaim the Lord's death until he comes." In an experience focused on the self-giving of Christ, how can Christians come to this table selfish and divided?

'Separate But Equal' a landmark TV movie

Poitier returns to TV after 35 years

By Mary Ann Townsend

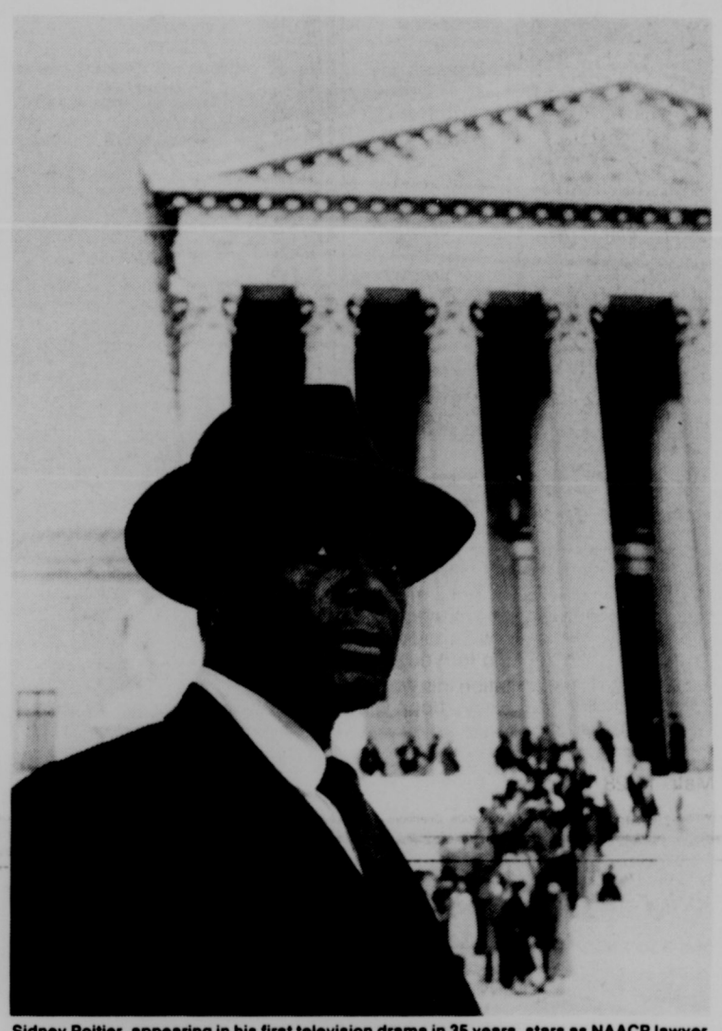
As the founder of the American Film Institute, George Stevens Jr. has a level of credibility difficult to deny.

This week marks another landmark, as he is the man responsible for bringing Sidney Poitier to the television screen for the first time in more than 35 years.

Of course the topic was integral to Poitier's decision to do a television project. The actor stars as Thurgood Marshall, the first man to challenge school segregation and, later, the first black man to become a Supreme Court Justice. Separate But Equal, the four-hour GM Mark of Excellence Presentation, airs April 7 and 8, on ABC.

In Separate But Equal, Poitier is not the only actor with name recognition, however. Burt Lancaster stars as John W. Davis, Thurgood Marshall's adversary in the landmark case. Also starring are Richard Kiley as Chief Justice Earl Warren, and Cleavon Little as Robert Carter, an attorney with the NAACP Defense Fund.

Stevens felt strongly that few actors besides Poitier could capture Thurgood Marshall's intelligence and demeanor. "From the first moment I chose to do this, I knew I wanted Sidney to do this part," the writer/director/producer said. "He has a unique intelligence as an actor and a kind of moral authority that suits him perfectly to play this role. Sidney is so demonstrably intelligent on the screen, and there are not many actors who do that."



Sidney Poitier, appearing in his first television drama in 35 years, stars as NAACP lawyer Thurgood Marshall in Separate But Equal. The ABC miniseries, airing Sunday and Monday, dramatizes the Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation ruling.

Throughout his career, Poitier has portrayed people in racial confrontations. In his Oscar-nominated role in The Defiant Ones, for example, he and Tony Curtis played prejudiced prisoners shackled together and forced to solve their racial differences. Other memorable performances have included To Sir, With Love; Guess Who's Coming to Dinner; In the Heat of the Night and A Raisin in the Sun.

Separate But Equal begins in 1950 when an auto mechanic named Harry Briggs Sr. sees his little boy's school work suffer because he is exhausted from trudging more than five miles to school and back. When the boy's teacher asks for a school bus for his students, he is adamantly turned down because of lack of funds for Negroes.

"It was that incident that set in motion the events that led to the landmark Supreme Court decision that outlawed segregated schools in the United States," Stevens said.

Thurgood Marshall, an attorney from the NAACP Legal Defense Fund in New York, steps in to encourage blacks to sign a petition requesting not only a bus, but also equal school facilities as guaranteed in the 14th Amendment. The outcome changes the course of American history.

"There may have been other ways to deal with the school problem, but this decision was much bigger than that. This decision," Stevens concluded, "sent the signal to the nation that segregation was wrong, and it had effect far beyond schools."

Dolly teaming up with singer from Asleep at the Wheel

Production has begun in Austin, Texas, on a film starring Dolly Parton and Ray Benson, singer and leader of the Grammy-winning country western band Asleep at the Wheel. The NBC World Premiere movie, as yet untitled, is about a singer whose chance at stardom is smashed when she is suspected of murdering her abusive lover.

Dolly Parton

Elizabeth Savage, who stars on the ABC-TV soap opera Loving, will be the host of America's Diet Club, Lifetime's new one-hour daytime series premiering April 15. The program is designed to help viewers meet the diet and fitness needs required to lead healthier lives. Viewers will be able to become members at no cost and benefit from the shared experience of belonging to a club.

Actress Maureen O'Sullivan, Tarzan's Jane in many films, was honored with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. The star was placed alongside one previously dedicated to her Tarzan co-star, the late Johnny Weissmuller.

Arista Records reports Whitney Houston's version of "The Star-Spangled Banner" has become the fastest-selling single in the label's history, with about 750,000 copies moving in just eight days.

The Grand Ole Opry is taking the show on the road to celebrate its 65th birthday. Performers include Ricky Skaggs, Garth Brooks and Minnie Pearl. The 10 road shows began on April 4 and will end June 15 in Chicago.

There is still one person who refuses to capitalize on his relationship with Elvis Presley. Colonel Parker refused the latest offer to write a tell-all about Elvis from a publisher who discussed $2 million up front. Parker said his usual, "not interested." He claims, "All the publishers want is dirt, and I'm not a dirt farmer."

David Copperfield takes magical train ride

Jane Seymour brings touch of Europe

By Mary Ann Townsend

David Copperfield captures the mystique of Europe in David Copperfield XIII: Mystery on the Orient Express, Tuesday, April 9, on CBS. The illusionist gives viewers a taste of Europe as he performs tricks along the famous train's route.

In the special, Copperfield will attempt to make a 70-ton, 85-foot long Orient Express train car, encircled by members of his audience, disappear. He will also involve home viewers in the trick. They will select which car is to vanish.

"It will work, it will work," Copperfield said calmly and reassuringly. "It's kind of a long-distance, cast of millions, telepathic magic trick."

British actress Jane Seymour will assist Copperfield in the massive feat. He also wrote some tricks especially for her, which they perform with the train's interior as a backdrop. Seymour, he said, also brings a European flair to the special.

"She certainly has the feeling of the Orient Express, being European and her accent, and she's exquisitely beautiful, so it kind of worked out perfectly," he said.

Copperfield said his dreams and his travels inspire the illusions he creates in his specials.

"Three years ago I took a trip on the Orient Express with my girlfriend. Nobody got murdered on the train," he said, referring to the 1974 movie. "But there was a lot of mystery, and I was searching for some way of using the train on a special. This year we found how to do it."

MOVIE MARQUEE

Coppola's new film something to sink your teeth into

By Steven Alan McGaw

This sounds interesting. Francis Ford Coppola's next project is a new version of Dracula starring Winona Ryder as the malevolent Transylvanian nobleman's red-blooded love interest. Coppola will direct from a screenplay by James Hart. The title role is not cast as yet. That casting, of course, is crucial, but I'm already eager to see what Coppola's unequaled visual style will bring to Bram Stoker's timeless tale.

Incidentally, this new Dracula heads a spate of vampire-themed movies soon to be in the works or now in the talking stages. Others include The Lost Boys sequel; Red Sleep (reportedly with John Landis directing); Nightland; the long-planned film based on the novel Interview With a Vampire; and (oh boy!) a sequel to 1979's Love at First Bite.

Check record stores for Tame Yourself, a new compilation album featuring songs by Chrissie Hynde, Belinda Carlisle and the B-52s. Proceeds go to People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals.

It's already premiered, but look for a replay of the episode of MTV Unplugged featuring alternative rock favorites The Cure. This installment, the first filmed in England, is terrific.

It's not exactly around the corner, but Fox will air the Emmy Awards again this year. On Aug. 24, 28 trophies will be presented, down from last year's 30.

STEVE'S BEAT

Sidney Poitier returns to TV after 35 years

By Christy Bergslien

The networks were on their best behavior during sweeps month, providing viewers a plethora of made-for-TV movies. CBS scored with top ratings, but now telefilm offerings on all the networks have dwindled. This week ABC has two offerings and CBS one.

The big headliner is ABC's two-part miniseries Separate But Equal, airing Sunday, April 7, and concluding Monday, April 8, in which Sidney Poitier makes his first television appearance in 35 years. Poitier stars as NAACP lawyer and current real-life Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall. Marshall was the man responsible for litigating the court case leading up to the historic 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision in Brown vs. Board of Education. The landmark decision declared segregation illegal and set the wheels in motion to integrate the nation's schools. Burt Lancaster co-stars as Marshall's formidable legal opponent John W. Davis, and Richard Kiley plays Chief Justice Warren.

After being shuffled and juggled, Field of Dreams is once again slated to air on CBS, Sunday. Kevin Costner and Amy Madigan play an Iowa farm couple who turn a cornfield into their field of dreams.

Frank Nitti: The Enforcer, rebroacasting on ABC, Saturday, April 13, chronicles the life of Al Capone's right-hand man. Anthony LaPaglia stars.

He was born in Kiel, West Germany, a port city near the Baltic Sea. In 1959, upon graduation from high school, he came to America.

His first job in the States was as a translator in Galveston, Texas. Braeden was then hired on as a cowboy at a Montana ranch, and he later landed a partial track scholarship to Montana State University.

Once in L.A., Braeden enrolled in political science and economics courses at Santa Monica College, where he met his wife. He began his film career during that time, going on to act in several films. TIME OUT

ESPN to air baseball's opening game

By Steve Paschal

ESPN begins its second season as the "Daily Electronic Voice" of Major League Baseball, Monday, April 8, with an opening day doubleheader that begins the season where the World Series banner ended last year.

The cable network provides exclusive coverage of the first pitch of the season at the traditional opener in Cincinnati, where the World Champion Reds will take on the Houston Astros. Then it's on to Arlington, Texas, where current media darling and future Hall of Famer Nolan Ryan will be on the mound when the Rangers take on Milwaukee.

But the opening day games are just the tip of the iceberg. In 1989, ESPN made its move to become the undisputed top dog in baseball broadcasting by signing a three-year contract that allows it to carry up to 175 games a year through the 1993 season. Throw in the electronic cut-ins that take the viewers from the scheduled game to live coverage of record-setting moments, and you have the most comprehensive coverage in the history of the game.

This year, ESPN's Sunday Night Baseball will feature 25 games from 24 different ballparks beginning April 14, when the three-time defending American League champion Oakland A's host the Seattle Mariners. Other Sunday night offerings include at least three appearances by the four 1990 divisional champions Oakland, Boston, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Except already scheduled Sunday night and holiday matchups, games will be selected on a weekly basis during the regular season.

Chandler just a character name for actress Jeanne Cooper

By Polly Vonetes

Jeanne Cooper

Q: When I was acting in pictures back in the '40s and '50s, there was an actress at Warner Bros. named Marjorie Henshaw. I was at Paramount, but I met her a couple of times. She married a young up-and-coming actor by the name of Jeff Chandler. Unfortunately, he died during an operation. There is an actress on a daytime drama (can't remember her name) who plays "Mrs. Chandler" by the name of Jeanne Cooper. She is also the mother of Corbin Bernsen. I have a pretty good memory for faces, so would you please try to find out if Jeanne Cooper was formerly the contract player I knew as Marjorie Henshaw? —Nan Swann, Kihei, Maui, Hawaii

A: In checking back on Jeff Chandler, I find he was married to a Marjorie Hoshelle in 1946. They had two sons, but were divorced in 1954. In checking Jeanne Cooper's biography, I find she was born in Taft, Calif., to Sildeth and A.T. Cooper Sr. and has been using her maiden name professionally. She married producer Harry Bernsen in 1953; they have since divorced. She began her career under contract to Universal. Perhaps you would like to write Jeanne Cooper for more information c/o The Young and the Restless, Columbia Pictures TV, The Burbank Studios, 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, CA 91522.

Q: Is there any way you can send me Woody Allen's address? I know this may not be a question of general interest, but you are my only source of information. I would forever be grateful. If you can't answer, call me collect. I will pray for an answer. —Joe Griffis, Orange, Calif.

A: I never thought I would be the answer to someone's prayers. Write to: Woody Allen, 130 W. 57th St., New York, NY 10019. Good luck!

Q: I read your column in our local paper,* The Maui News. *For years I've admired the movies and the job Jerry Lewis does with the yearly telethon. Could you please give me an address where I could write to him? —Bobbie Rocha, Lahaina, Hawaii

A: Everyone loves to receive a pat on the back for the job they do. Write to: Jerry Lewis, 3305 W. Spring Mountain Rd. No. 1, Las Vegas, NV 89102.

Environmental Awareness To Be Celebrated At Frostburg State

An Oregon mountain man, a female nominee for the Pulitzer Prize in poetry, and a colorful outdoor springtime festival are among the highlighted events scheduled for Frostburg State University's Environmental Awareness Month, which began March 25.

The month-long series of activities which will promote a common theme, "Touch the Earth," began with a March 25 multi-media presentation (in the Lane Center Multi-Use Room, 7:30 p.m.) by Lou Gold, who The Register-Guard of Eugene, Oregon, called, "A Johnny Appleseed of environmentalism — a hermit who comes down from his mountain every year to sow seeds of ecological idealism across the country."

Pulitzer Prize Nominee Lucille Clifton, former Poet Laureate of Maryland and winner of the Juniper Prize for Poetry, will present a poetry reading (Lane Center Multi-Use Room, 7 p.m.) on April 14, and will then provide an opportunity for Western Marylanders to chat with her during an informal discussion at the Lewis J. Ort Library (Room 210, 9-11 a.m.) on April 15.

Maryland native Tom Wisner brings his environmental oriented teaching and folksinging talents into FSU classrooms on April 2 and 3, with a public performance set for April 2 (Lane Center, Room 201, 8 p.m.) when he joins Mary Sue Ross in performing stories and songs about the Chesapeake Bay.

The FSU Chapter of the American Chemical Society (ACS) will be planting 1,500 trees on a former strip mine site Saturday, April 6, starting at 9 a.m. Some of the trees will be treated with a copolymer substance which absorbs many times its weight in water. The ACS will, over the next five years, follow the growth of the treated and untreated control trees.

Robert Costanzo, a professor at the University of Maryland Center for Environmental and Estuarine Studies (CEES), and editor of "Ecological Economics," a respected national publication which covers environmental concerns, will lecture April 8 (Dunkle Hall, Room 218, 8 p.m.) on integrating economic and environmental concerns. According to Costanzo, establishing a basis for an "economic accounting of the range of services provided in the ecosystem" will put Americans' definition of "wealth" in a new perspective.

Noted New England singer/songwriter Tom Callinan will present a potpourri of songs and stories about the natural world on April 13 when he helps celebrate the grand opening of Cafe Frostburg, a folk music coffee house, in the Lane Center's Derezinski Lounge beginning at 8 p.m.

Dr. Brian McCarthy, of FSU's department of biology will speak on old growth forests as a part of the Faculty Development Lecture Series, Wednesday, April 17, in Room 201 of the Lane Center, 7:30 p.m.

Hundreds of Western Marylanders are expected to touch the earth several thousand times on April 20 (9 a.m., Physical Education Center) when the gun sounds to start the 3rd Annual Great Bobcat Run, a 5K test of personal fitness for runners and walkers alike.

The FSU Earth Day Festival will feature outdoor displays by community environmental groups and live music April 21 (1-4 p.m., Fine Arts Plaza) as an informal salute to Earth Day '91.

Campus and community residents will participate in an April 22 three-hour adventure featuring a role-playing simulation on "the world's largest and most accurate map of the whole earth" during a global issues simulation entitled "World Game," (Lane Multi-Use, 7 p.m.).

Environmental Awareness Month is sponsored in part by the Western Maryland Writers Workshops, Black Student Alliance, Office of Student Human Relations and Minority Affairs, Faculty Development Committee, Division of Student and Educational Services (and its Environment Month committee), the School of Arts and Humanities, Residence Hall Association and the Lane Center.

All events are free and are open to the public. For more information, persons may contact Dr. Thomas L. Bowling (689-4311) or Morris H. Willey (689-4441).

State, County Unemployment Up In February

Maryland's estimated unemployment rate climbed from 6.1 percent in January to 6.5 percent in February 1991, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED). Garrett County's jobless rate also increased, from 13.0 percent in January to 13.3 percent in February.

Between January and February, 13, 522 workers entered Maryland's civilian labor force as 9,031 workers became unemployed and only 4,491 more workers became employed.

There were actually more people with jobs in Garrett County in February than in March (11,910 to 11,868), however the increase in the rate was because of an increase in the labor force (13,647 to 13,737).

A drop in construction employment in particular had a significant impact on Maryland's estimated joblessness.

NHS MOCK TRIAL TEAM - The 1991 Northern High School mock trial team, the first ever at the school, recently concluded a seven-trial season. The Northern team lost to Bishop Walsh by just one point in its first competition and won two trials against the Southern High School senior and junior teams. In the last trial against the Southern junior team, Northern scored 98 of a possible 100 points. Team members pictured above are, seated left to right, Kristi Warnick, Molley Ramsey, Susan Cupler, and Erin Sines. Standing, same order, are Rachel Morton, Mike Hetrick, Amie Hughes, Kelly Friend, Bill Nedrow, and Coach Tom Ables. Not present for the photo was team member Maria Miller.

From 1989 to 1990, Maryland's construction industry has been the worst-performing of all industries throughout the state. Consequently, the rate of employment decline in construction exceeded that of all other sectors statewide.

"This negative trend in the construction industry is a critical concern for Maryland's continued economic development," said Secretary Evans. "The construction industry is a key element in the state's economy, particularly as we turn the corner and begin to pull out of the current recession.

"In the effort to turn around, however, we do not expect commercial and industrial construction to rebound very quickly because of the existing inventory of space in Maryland, Washington, D.C. and Northern Virginia," he added. "Therefore we must look to another important component of the construction industry -- highway construction.

"We need highway construction jobs to get people back to work and get them spending money in our local economy" Evans said. "We need the Maryland General Assembly to pass a gas tax to provide more revenue for the Transportation Trust Fund so that we can put these construction workers back to work.

"Each $100 million spent on highway construction produces 1,000 direct jobs in the construction trades. In addition, this investment would induce another 1,000 jobs in other Maryland industries," he said.

Transportation construction accounts for 12.5 percent of all construction expenditures in the state and over 8.5 percent of total construction employment in Maryland.

"Continued transportation construction is also critical to ensure that Maryland's superior transportation system, which has always been a major marketing tool for economic development in Maryland, remains superior," said Evans.

Maryland's construction employment downturn began earlier than that of the nation. Statewide, construction employment declined by 2.0 percent between 1989 and 1990 and grew by 0.1 percent nationally.

This decline is expected to continue for the state in the near future, according to data compiled by DEED's Office of Labor Market Information and Analysis. The data show an annual construction employment drop ranging from 5 to 8 percent in Maryland, representing 13,000 fewer jobs in 1991 than in 1990. Already this year, an estimated 9,300 construction jobs have been lost.

Joblessness in the Baltimore metropolitan area jumped from 6.4 percent in January to 7.0 percent in February. The greatest increase in that area was recorded for Harford County where joblessness rose by 1.6 percent, while only Queen Anne's County's estimated unemployment rate dropped from 7.5 percent to 7.2 percent.

In the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, the average estimated unemployment rate remained the same at 4.5 percent.

In Western Maryland, marginal activity resulted in a slight decrease in the rate of unemployment from 11.4 percent to 11.3 percent.

On the Eastern Shore and in the Southern Maryland areas, the average unemployment rate climbed from 9.3 percent to 10.4 percent. Only Worcester County's rate improved, dropping from 17.3 percent in January to 15.8 percent in February.

Statewide, Maryland's estimated unemployment rates ranged from 3.3 percent in Montgomery County to 15.8 percent in Worcester County.

March Of Dimes Scholarships Are Available

The Allegany/Garrett County March of Dimes announces that the 1991 Pat Lyon Scholarship applications are available. To qualify for scholarship, all applicants must be enrolled in or starting the upcoming fall term in one of the following three educational programs: medical students must be enrolled in accredited medical schools; nursing students must be enrolled in a four-year accredited baccalaureate nursing program; and health related professionals must be enrolled in a four-year accredited program relating to birth defects.

The applicant's permanent address must be in Allegany or Garrett County. In all cases, the applicant must be able to describe in a satisfactory manner how his or her field of study will impact upon the March of Dimes' goal of birth defects prevention and the delivery of perinatal health care.

Deadline for applications is as early as possible, but prior to June 25, 1991. Students who file early have the best opportunity of making corrections in credentials and necessary changes in educational plans to meet eligibility requirements of the program.

The West Penn Chapter March of Dimes will award three scholarships each year. Awards will be $1,500 each, payable to the successful applicants institution. The selection committee has the final decision as to how many scholarships are awarded in each of the three fields. Scholarships are not renewable.

For more information and to receive an application, persons may call Trish Morgan, Community Director, Allegany/Garrett County March of Dimes, at 301/722-5818, weekdays.

HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Cook Completing Residency At Oglebay Center

Donald Cook, a visual artist and resident of Oakland, is currently completing a Mid Atlantic Foundation Visual Arts Residency at the Oglebay Institute's Stifel Fine Art Center in Wheeling, W.Va. The two-month residency program is a collaborative effort of the Stifel Center and four Wheeling area colleges, including West Liberty State College, Bethany College, and West Virginia Northern Community College, and Ohio University at Belmont, and is funded by a grant from the Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation.

The residency provides the artist with time and studio space for developing a concerted body of work. In conjunction with the residency, an exhibition of the artist's sculptures and works-on-paper has been travelling to each of the participating colleges. The artist has also been visiting artists' studios in the Wheeling vicinity, giving gallery talks, and conducting a lecture series, "Contemporary Images and Issues," at the Stifel Center.

Cook's studio work during the residency period has been centered on the Moundsville Project, a series of works based on the ancient Adena Culture Grave Creek burial mound in Moundsville, W.Va. In this series of works, the artist has produced a group of watercolor site works which document the mound and its environs relative to conditions of weather, light, and time of day. He has also produced a group of archetypal images called Dream-Works derived from the location studies, and a sculpture-vessel, Burnings Back the Footstep. The Moundsville Project will culminate with a collaborative completion of the sculpture-vessel by the artist and residency participants from the community. John Frohnmayer, chairman of the National Endowment of the Arts, is scheduled to attend the Grave Creek Mound event as part of a tour through the West Virginia region. An exhibition of the complete Moundsville Project works has been scheduled at the Grave Creek Mound Delf Norona Museum for April 21-May 6.

Cook is the project coordinator for "Artists Among Us: George's Creek Works," a community arts project in Allegany County, scheduled for mid-late May. He exhibits at The Knight-Gomez Gallery, Baltimore, and Anton Gallery, Washington, D.C.

These persons should call the Registrar's Office of the college at 387-6666 for information about registration and class location.

Members of the class will travel to a different site each week, where a guest speaker will guide a tour or give a presentation on the significance of the site. Noted Poet To Present Reading At FSU Campus

Pulitzer Prize Nominee Lucille Clifton, former Poet Laureate of Maryland and winner of the Juniper Prize for Poetry, will present a poetry reading (Lane Center Multi-Use Room, 7 p.m.) on April 14, and will then provide an opportunity for western Marylanders to chat with her during an informal discussion at the Lewis J. Ort Library (Room 210, 9-11 a.m.) on April 15.

According to Dr. Barb Wilson, assistant professor of English at FSU, Ms. Clifton is "one of the most powerful, and sought-after, poetic voices in America today." She is currently poet-in-residence at St. Mary's College.

In her work, celebrating birth and death, sexuality and spirituality, she speaks out of a common experience of family responsibility, struggles with everyday problems, and the need to be heard, according to Dr. Wilson. "Insightful, poignant and humorous, she works hard to produce an appearance of ease and naturalness over a vast range of poetic expression," she said.

Both events are free and open to the public. Ms. Clifton's appearance is sponsored by The Western Maryland Writer's Workshop, The FSU Office of Student Human Relations, the School of Arts and Humanities, and the Faculty Development Committee.

Deadline To Apply For Energy Help Extended

Carolyn W. Colvin, secretary of the Department of Human Resources (DHR), has announced that the Maryland Energy Assistance Program (MEAP) has extended its winter season application period to April 12, 1991.

"Many low-income families who have been able to maintain utility services during the fall and early winter months have difficulty paying large balances at the end of the heating season and we are going to try to help them," Colvin said.

Maryland recently received $6.6 million dollars in federal emergency contingency funds that has enabled MEAP to provide the extra service.

Sandra Brown, director of the Maryland Energy Assistance Program, said they have received over 88,000 applications this year, a 11.5% increase over last year. To date nearly $28 million have been distributed for heating assistance for low-income Marylanders since this year's program began October 1, 1990.

Garrett County residents desiring to apply for the assistance should contact the Garrett County Community Action Committee, 360 W. Liberty St., Oakland, MD; telephone 334-9431.

Minimum Wage Is Now $4.25

Secretary of Licensing and Regulation William A. Fogle, Jr. announced that effective April 1 all employees covered by the Maryland Wage and Hour Law must be paid a minimum wage of $4.25 per hour.

The Wage and Hour Law is enforced by the Employment Standards Service, an agency of the Division of Labor and Industry, a division of the Department of licensing and Regulation. The Commissioner of Labor and Industry, Henry Koellein, Jr., is charged with administering the Wage and Hour Law. Commissioner Koellein notes that the April 1 changes in Maryland are fairly consistent with the federal wage and hour laws. Other changes in both laws include a 50% tip credit available April 1 to employers in computing the minimum wage paid to tipped employees.

According to Commissioner Koellein, an increase in complaints after April 1 is expected. "Employers can save themselves the inconvenience of complaint investigations and can save taxpayers dollars by voluntarily complying with the law," he emphasized. Penalties for violations of these laws include criminal sanctions and fines.

Fogle and Koellein urge all Maryland employers to acquaint themselves with these laws immediately. Free fact sheets and required posting materials are available from the Maryland Department of Licensing and Regulation, Employment Standards Service, 501 St. Paul Place, Baltimore, Maryland 21202-2272, or by calling (301) 333-4177 or toll free in Maryland (800) 492-6226.

Study Shows Md. Agriculture Still Thriving

Despite pressures from urban development, labor shortages and governmental restrictions, Maryland agriculture is still thriving, according to a recent study. The study was conducted by a committee representing the University of Maryland System, several state government agencies, and Maryland citizens and organizations representing a broad range of interests important to agriculture, natural resources and the environment.

A preliminary draft of the committee study was available in time for last month's National Agriculture Week observance (March 17-23). Dr. Raymond J. Miller, vice chancellor for agriculture and natural resources in the University of Maryland System, co-chaired the blue-ribbon panel.

Commenting on the committee report, Dr. Miller noted these highlights:

•Total cash receipts for Maryland agriculture grew from $667 million in 1975 to $1.4 billion in 1989. Even after adjusting for inflation, this represents a real growth of 42.4 percent.

•Overall growth in Maryland agriculture during the past 15 years can be attributed to big increases in broiler and soybean production, as well as the greenhouse, nursery and turfgrass industry. The horse business also is thriving. But equine statistics are not included in this study. Their inclusion would boost Maryland agriculture's growth even further.

Decreased cash receipts have occurred for Maryland producers of corn, wheat, tobacco, processed vegetables and peaches. Dairying and livestock operations also have declined in relative importance.

•Since 1964, total Maryland farmland has been reduced from 3.2 million acres to 2.4 million acres. During the past 15 years, however, the total number of harvested acres has remained fairly constant. Recent decreases in farmland have occurred mainly in pasture and forest areas.

Vertually all of Maryland's agricultural industries are in a state of transition, Dr. Miller notes.

During the past 20 years, poultry has replaced dairying as the number one animal industry. Corn and soybeans to feed those broilers dominate the state's field crop production.

Being situated in the midst of a major metropolitan area has been a boon to Maryland farmers producing fruits and vegetables for the fresh market.

Biotechnology holds the likelihood of helping scientists develop new crop varieties in four to five years — about half the time required previously.

Cut flowers are becoming a major commodity in Maryland, and a great potential for expansion appears to exist. A similar situation exists for aquaculture — the rearing of finfish and shell fish in captivity.

Production of sheep milk on a commercial scale is virtually non-existent anywhere in the United States. But possibilities for Maryland appear promising and are being explored.

Over the next 30 years, it is estimated that Maryland will nearly double its amount of developed land to accommodate an expected influx of one million new residents. But nursery and turfgrass production should expand accordingly.

Maryland's racing and pleasure horse industries are flourishing. Its thouroughbred racing component alone is estimated to have an annual impact of $1 billion on the state's economy. Horse farms appear to be less susceptible to development pressures than farms which produce crops or animal products.

Maryland's central and southern counties have borne the brunt of farmland conversion to real estate development in recent years. This trend is likely to continue because of their proximity to the Baltimore-Washington, D.C., metropolitan corridor.

Although Maryland has both state and county agricultural land preservation programs, only seven percent of the state's farmland has been locked into a preservation status. During the past decade, three acres of Maryland farmland were converted to real estate development for every acre entered into a preservation program.

Dr. Craig S. Oliver, director of the Cooperative Extension Service University of Maryland System, contributed to the natural resources and human capital sections of the study.

He notes that Maryland is likely to be a competitive force in the emerging "global marketplace," and at least some of that promise will benefit agriculture.

Other University of Maryland System study leaders and their areas of emphasis were:

"Agricultural Productivity and Profitability" — Dr. Robert A. Kennedy, director, Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station;

"Domestic and International Policy" — Dr. Mortimer H. Neufville, dean, School of Agricultural Sciences, University of Maryland Eastern Shore;

"Diet, Nutrition and Health" — Dr. Paul H. Mazzocchi, acting dean, College of Agriculture and College of Life Sciences, University of Maryland College Park.

These comments on Maryland agriculture are part of a comprehensive study conducted by a Blue Ribbon Panel to plan for the future of Maryland's agricultural and natural resources.

The study forms the basis for IMAGAN-21, an acronym for "Initiative for Maryland Agriculture and Natural Resources for the 21st Century." John H. Mosner, president of Mercantile Bankshares Corporation in Baltimore, chaired the committee of Blue Ribbon Panel members.

Copies of the study are expected to be available to the public at a later date.

SADDLE TRAMPS 4-H HORSE CLINIC — The Saddle Tramps 4-H Club started the season with a galloping start on March 16 with a horse clinic in showmanship and equitation at the indoor arena of the Double G Ranch. Members of 4-H clubs in both Garrett and Allegany counties — members of all ages and horses and ponies of all sizes — took part in the clinic. Pictured above are 4-H Judge Mary Stuart and Oakland Riding Instructor Darlene Jackson giving pointers on equitation and showmanship. Below, going through her paces, is Jaime Schmidt, a member of the Saddle Tramps 4-H Club.

Why Not?? Plan for Quality This Year

Quality in your forages is the key to a profitable feeding program. Over the past several years I have worked with a lot of farmers in balancing rations for feeding to animals. Nine times out of ten, a farmer that has a feeding problem, has poor quality forage for feed. For a forage to have high quality, it must have three factors: 1) high nutrient intake, 2) high digestibility, and 3) a high substitution of concentrates. I have heard many farmers brag about the number of bales of hay that they cut in mid-June. I would bet that their hay contained much more undigestible stem than leaves. The key for high quality forage closely related to the stage of maturity at harvest time. Young, immature plants are high in protein and low in fiber or lignin. Allowing your forage to over-mature reduces protein, digestibility and intake. Set up your calendar dates of harvesting and stick to those dates as closely as possible. This year harvest for high pounds of nutrients rather than material.

Checking Your Credit Health

When was the last time you checked your credit health? Take a few moments to answer the ten questions below to see if your business would get a clean bill of health from a bank loan officer.

YES NO

1. ___ ___ Is your farm business weathering the economic downturn?
2. ___ ___ Have you been in business for at least 3 years?
3. ___ ___ Is your personal and farm business payment history satisfactory?
4. ___ ___ Does your business have a track record of profitable operations?
5. ___ ___ If required, do you have sufficient (Unused) personal and business assets to use as collateral?
6. ___ ___ Do you have financial records that have been prepared by a CPA?
7. ___ ___ Do you take an active part in your farm business affairs?
8. ___ ___ If your credit needs are for working capital, can you repay the loan within 12 months? If your credit needs are for a term loan, can you repay the loan within 3 to 5 years?
9. ___ ___ Do you have personal and business relationships that can vouch for your credit dependability?
10. ___ ___ Is your business in a growing, rather than a mature state?

Now, assign the following points for each question you answered "yes."

Question 1,15 points for "yes."

Questions 2-8, 10 points for each "yes."

Questions 9-10, 5 points for each "yes."

If your total score is:

85-100, you get a clean bill of health, bankers want your loan business.

70-85, your credit status is still in pretty good shape.

65-70, there is still a possibility, but you may want to shape up some areas before applying for a loan or line of credit.

65-less, you may need to think about giving your business a complete physical.

Fire Marshal Reports Increase In Arson Cases

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced an increase in arson offenses in the State of Maryland for calendar year 1990. During the past year, arson rose by approximately 6% statewide as compared with 1989.

The data compiled by the Maryland Uniform Crime Reporting Program, based on information from law enforcement agencies throughout the State, revealed there were 2,741 arson offenses in 1990 as compared with 2,581 such offenses during 1989.

According to the Office of the State Fire Marshal, an Agency of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services, the Washington Metropolitan Region which includes the counties of Montgomery and Prince George's, experienced a 12% increase in arson in the past year. There were 730 arsons recorded in this region between January and December 1990, as compared with 652 in 1989.

The Western Maryland region, which includes the counties of Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Carroll, recorded a 10% increase in arson during 1990. There were 186 arsons recorded in this region between January and December 1990, as compared with 169 in 1989.

The Southern Maryland region of the State which includes the counties of Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's, recorded a 9% increase in arson offenses during 1990. There were 94 arsons recorded in this region between January and December 1990, as compared with 86 in 1989.

The Eastern Shore region, which includes the counties of Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Annes, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester, recorded a 7% increase in arson offenses in 1990. There were 191 arsons recorded in this region between January and December 1990, as compared with 179 in 1989.

The Baltimore Metropolitan region, which includes the counties of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford, Howard and Baltimore City, showed the least increase in arson offenses with a 5% increase in 1990 over 1989. There were 1,447 arsons recorded in this region between January and December 1990, as compared to 1,379 in 1989.

Additionally, three Marylanders died as a result of arson related fires in 1990.

The Office of the State Fire Marshal, in conjunction with the Arson Control Association of Maryland, offers a reward of up to $5,000 for information leading to the arrest or indictment of a person or persons responsible for arson fires in the State of Maryland. Citizens with information regarding these arson fires should contact the Maryland Arson Hotline toll free at 1-800-492-7529. All information is kept strictly confidential.

State, County Unemployment Up In February

Maryland's estimated unemployment rate climbed from 6.1 percent in January to 6.5 percent in February 1991, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED). Garrett County's jobless rate also increased, from 13.0 percent in January to 13.3 percent in February.

Between January and February, 13,522 workers entered Maryland's civilian labor force as 9,031 workers became unemployed and only 4,491 more workers became employed.

There were actually more people with jobs in Garrett County in February than in March (11,910 to 11,868), however the increase in the rate was because of an increase in the labor force (13,647 to 13,737).

A drop in construction employment in particular had a significant impact on Maryland's estimated joblessness.

From 1989 to 1990, Maryland's construction industry has been the worst-performing of all industries throughout the state. Consequently, the rate of employment decline in construction exceeded that of all other sectors statewide.

"This negative trend in the construction industry is a critical concern for Maryland's continued economic development," said Secretary Evans. "The construction industry is a key element in the state's economy, particularly as we turn the corner and begin to pull out of the current recession."

"In the effort to turn around, however, we do not expect commercial and industrial construction to rebound very quickly because of the existing inventory of space in Maryland, Washington, D.C. and Northern Virginia," he added. "Therefore we must look to another important component of the construction industry -- highway construction.

"We need highway construction jobs to get people back to work and get them spending money in our local economy" Evans said. "We need the Maryland General Assembly to pass a gas tax to provide more revenue for the Transportation Trust Fund so that we can put these construction workers back to work.

"Each $100 million spent on highway construction produces 1,000 direct jobs in the construction trades. In addition, this investment would induce another 1,000 jobs in other Maryland industries," he said.

Transportation construction accounts for 12.5 percent of all construction expenditures in the state and over 8.5 percent of total construction employment in Maryland.

"Continued transportation construction is also critical to ensure that Maryland's superior transportation system, which has always been a major marketing tool for economic development in Maryland, remains superior," said Evans.

Maryland's construction employment downturn began earlier than that of the nation. Statewide, construction employment declined by 2.0 percent between 1989 and 1990 and grew by 0.1 percent nationally.

This decline is expected to continue for the state in the near future, according to data compiled by DEED's Office of Labor Market Information and Analysis. The data show an annual construction employment drop ranging from 5 to 8 percent in Maryland, representing 13,000 fewer jobs in 1991 than in 1990. Already this year, an estimated 9,300 construction jobs have been lost.

Joblessness in the Baltimore metropolitan area jumped from 6.4 percent in January to 7.0 percent in February. The greatest increase in that area was recorded for Harford County where joblessness rose by 1.6 percent, while only Queen Anne's County's estimated unemployment rate dropped from 7.5 percent to 7.2 percent.

In the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, the average estimated unemployment rate remained the same at 4.5 percent.

In Western Maryland, marginal activity resulted in a slight decrease in the rate of unemployment from 11.4 percent to 11.3 percent.

On the Eastern Shore and in the Southern Maryland areas, the average unemployment rate climbed from 9.3 percent to 10.4 percent. Only Worcester County's rate improved, dropping from 17.3 percent in January to 15.8 percent in February.

Statewide, Maryland's estimated unemployment rates ranged from 3.3 percent in Montgomery County to 15.8 percent in Worcester County.

DAR Chapter Convenes, Hears Noted Botanist

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at St. Paul's United Methodist Church Monday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. with 15 members present.

Regent, Mrs. Lillian Reckner, opened the meeting with the DAR ritual. She introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Melvin Brown, Dr. Brown is a native of Mineral County, W.Va., and a graduate of Potomac State College, Shepherd College, W.Va., and Maryville College, Tenn. He has a B.S. degree from Fairmont State College, an M.S. and PhD in biology from West Virginia University. He taught in Mineral County and in Kitzmiller, where he developed a botanical garden. He taught in the Allegany County schools and became head of the Biology Department of Frostburg State University where he remained for seven years. Presently he is visiting professor of the University of Maryland and adjunct professor of West Virginia University.

Dr. Brown went to England three different times to study and to help classify plants. He showed slides along with the lecture and of particular note were the Mountain Laurel, collected in Maryland and preserved since 1690, and the Lady Slipper, collected in 1700. There was a response from the chapter when he stated that the dandelion was brought from England to the colonies.

Dr. Brown is co-author of two books, Woody Plants of Maryland and Herbaceous Plants of Maryland. The books are for sale and distribution by the University of Maryland Book Center at College Park. Following the presentation, Dr. Brown was given an appreciation gift of Garrett County maple syrup.

After a short business meeting, conducted by Regent Reckner, the meeting adjourned.

Funds Approved For Oakland's Water System

Representative Beverly B. Byron has to announce a $1,049,200 grant and $1,004,400 loan from the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) to the town of Oakland.

The money will be used to update the existing municipal water system. These federal funds will assist the town in providing new water lines and in correcting current line problems.

"I'm very pleased that the federal government is helping the Town of Oakland and its citizens in this important community project. This federal funding insures that the future improvements to the Oakland water system will take place. The distribution of water, its storage and treatment will meet the new EPA requirements as a result of this project funding."

The total project is estimated at $2.9 million. The federal loan is for 40 years and, along with state funding, will upgrade the town's water system infrastructure.

Md. State Police Seek Information In $3,500 Theft

The Maryland State Police are currently investigating a breaking, entering, and theft in which losses were estimated at over $3,500.

Tpr. S.H. Anderson is heading the investigation of the theft that was reported by Frederick W. Baker, Friendsville.

Baker told police that unknown person(s) gained entry to his home through a bedroom window sometime Friday between 7:45 p.m. and 11:45 p.m.

Taken from Baker's residence was $1,325 in cash and numerous household items including: an RCA videocassette recorder ($150), a Cobra citizen's band radio ($450), a Pactel cordless telephone ($150), two Midland walkie-talkies ($220), a Cobra mobile citizen's band radio ($30), a Pioneer cassette radio ($180), a Nintendo game with accessories and four cartridges ($250), a Chromatic alarm clock radio ($50), a Sears Craftsman tool chest and miscellaneous tools ($350), a Black and Decker power drill ($70), and 19 computerized disc recordings ($285). A $20 screen window was also destroyed.

G.C. Teachers Express Frustrations To Education Board Members

Nearly 100 Garrett County teachers filled a large room in the board of education building Tuesday and stood face to face with education board members to express their frustration over the ongoing impasse between the two groups. The educators also voiced their disagreement to some of Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage's 1991 budget proposals, and asked the board members to seriously consider the findings of the mutually agreed upon arbitrator, who is presently compiling his report of recommendations concerning the deadlock.

The main issues of controversy included the proposed three percent salary increase for education employees, the proposed cut of travel expenses for athletic teams and band, the cut of the activity buses, and the change of contractual language concerning transfers.

Jim Raley, president of the Garrett County Teachers Association (GCTA), told the board members that county teachers are "echoing their feelings of frustration and defeat as they are continuously being asked to do more, without the rewards of fair and equitable compensation." He was referring to the board's proposal of a three percent pay increase. The GCTA had asked for a nine percent increase, and then compromised to six percent. When the board refused to move above three, an impasse was declared between the two groups.

Tom Shaffer, Uniserv director and chief negotiator for the GCTA, urged the board members to ask the commissioners for more money, enough to cover a six percent salary hike. Ryscavage stated that an attempt was made to follow the instructions of the commissioners, which was to submit budgets not exceeding previous years. He also stated that the sentiment of the General Assembly was that there should be no increase in salaries at all.

"Even if we grant the three percent increase, we will then also have to fund retirement and social security benefits at a cost of $101,000. With a six percent increase, you can just double that figure, of course," he said. He added that the

DeBerry Receives Nation's Highest FFA Award

The highest national honor given to an active member of FFA has been awarded to Oakland farmer and agribusinessman Charles DeBerry. The American FFA Degree was announced during the National FFA Convention held this winter in Kansas City, Missouri.

DeBerry is the son of William B. and Donna DeBerry, and works for his uncle and grandparents on their farm north of Oakland. He has also been employed by Southern States and by Tablelands Milk Inc. as a milk hauler. It is the number of market steers he has raised and sold, reinvesting his profits into more market animals, calves and a Limousin bull that qualified DeBerry for the American FFA Degree.

A 1987 graduate of Southern High School, DeBerry was an active FFA member. He served as the Oakland chapter's treasurer and president, and went on to serve as a state FFA treasurer. During his high school years, he represented the Oakland chapter at the state

Tornado-Like Winds Cause Property Damage In All Areas Of County

"It sounded like a locomotive!" That's how Mrs. Raymond Jones described what the family believes was a tornado which tore away half of the upper story of their dairy barn and thrust the debris against the side of their house as they sat around the dinner table at 8:10 p.m. on Tuesday.

Although the only confirmed tornado sighting Tuesday night took place on Route 219 near Thomas, W.Va., at Fairfax Sand Company, many Garrett County residents are sure that tornados touched down in this area too. The strong winds, accompanied by thunder, lightning and hail, blasted through the area causing large amounts of property damage, but fortunately, no deaths or injuries, according to a spokesman at Garrett County Emergency Management.

The National Weather Service had issued a tornado watch for Allegany and Garrett counties, the Potomac Highlands and the Eastern Panhandle counties of West Virginia through midnight on Tuesday. Wind gusts were clocked at 69 mph by the National Weather Service at the Elkins-Randolph County (W.Va.) Airport. Some local sources reported 75 mph winds, and a spokesperson at the Oakland Weather Station at Webers stated that winds were still gusting around 50 mph early Wednesday morning.

"The sky was black," said Mrs. Jones, "but we didn't know what was coming until the barn hit the house." She added that, luckily, the house is made of brick, and a large broken window was the only damage it suffered. Machinery stored in the 30-foot by 60-foot section torn away from the rest of the barn was damaged, however, she said. A tractor and baler both suffered extensive damage.

Trees on the Jones farm, south of Gortner on Route 219, were also blown down and uprooted. The area was without electricity because of widespread wind damage in the Pleasant Valley area, and a generator provided the electrical power the Joneses needed to milk their cows on Wednesday.

A Jeep Cherokee owned by Mrs. Jones was lifted and pushed close to the house, causing approximately $3,000 worth of damage to the vehicle. The family does have insurance which will cover much of the damage, and although no official damage estimate has been made as yet, the Joneses expect the damage could total as high as a couple hundred thousand dollars.

A barn on another Pleasant Valley farm belonging to Levi Miller, on the Paul Friend Road in Gortner, was also heavily damaged by Tuesday night's wind. The Millers were not at the farm when between 1/3 to 1/2 of the barn roof was lifted off, but clocks showed that the electricity went off at 8:15 p.m. The Millers think that is the time the damage happened, and that portions of the roof struck the transformer and electric lines, knocking out the power. Their cows were also milked on Wednesday morning using power from a generator. Their electricity was restored at 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

Although he has no insurance and estimates approximately

"Man Of La Mancha" Rehearsals Underway At McHenry Campus

One of the most ambitious theatrical productions ever presented in Garrett County, Man of La Mancha, is currently in rehearsal at Garrett Community College. This musical by Dale Wasserman that was a smash Broadway hit twenty years ago will be performed in the college auditorium on April 25, 26, 27, and 28, with permission of Tams-Witmark, Inc. of New York.

For the past several weeks, stage crew members have been working under the supervision of designer Ben Sincell to transform the stage of the auditorium into a dungeon of the Spanish Inquisition.

The cast list for the play being directed by Jane Avery and George McDowell reads like a cross-section of Garrett County, with high school and college students, teachers, real estate agents, carpenters, electricians, a computer operator and a graphic artist all playing roles in the production.

In the lead role of hero, Don Quixote/Cervantes will be Richard Hill, who has appeared in a number of Garrett Choral Society productions. His sidekick Sancho will be played by Nate Motz. Playing the role of Dulcinea is Karyn Seilhamer, a new-comer to Garrett County who has experience in community and dinner theater productions.

Other principal actors will be the Captian/Moor, Jon Nazelrod; the Governor, Paul Wampler; Aldonza, Karyn Seilhamer; innkeeper, Lowell Leitzel; the Duke/Dr. Carrasco, Clint Hatfield; the Padre, Kevan Monn; Antonia, Jann Dehus; Housekeeper, Lori Heginbotham; the barber, Sam

PSI Ordered For MLP Man Found Guilty Of Vehicular Homicide

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for a Mtn. Lake Park man who was found guilty of "vehicular homicide while intoxicated" in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week by Judge Jack R. Turney.

Mark R. Fazenbaker, 23, had been charged with vehicular homicide, driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, failure to keep right of center, and negligent driving stemming from a fatal accident on December 23, 1989.

That head-on crash claimed the life of Eric Stemple, 31, St. George, W.Va. State police reported at that time that the Fazenbaker vehicle slid out of control on an snowy curve on Md. Route 560, crossed the center line, and struck the Stemple vehicle. Fazenbaker and his passenger, Pamela A. Legeer, Oakland, were both ejected from their vehicle which broke into two pieces upon impact.

The charges against Fazenbaker were consolidated into the charge of "vehicular homicide while intoxicated" during court proceedings in March of 1990. Since that time, several motions for continuance were granted by Judge Turney.

In other District Court news, a sentencing hearing was held for Samuel Fheo Polce, 20, Oakland, who had been found guilty of "theft under $300" in court proceedings on December 11,

Man Cited For Reckless Endangerment After Tense Stand-Off With Police

A 49-year-old Oakland man kept police officers at bay for nearly two hours Sunday while brandishing a loaded shotgun in the yard of an Oakland family. Roger L. Baker was apprehended after Garrett County Sheriff Deputy Charles Nolan convinced him that the officer was in possession of the suspect's dog.

Baker reportedly entered the property of Tracy A. Riley at approximately 10 p.m. and began shooting near Riley's house. The victim called the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for help, fearing for the safety of his wife and three-year-old daughter, who were both inside the home at the time.

When Officer Nolan arrived on the scene, Baker was cursing and yelling, apparently intoxicated. He had shot the gun five times before the deputy arrived, according to the report. Dep. D. Crossland and Maryland State Police Tfc. P.R. Brown arrived to assist Nolan, and the three policemen circled the defendant. At one point, Tfc. Brown radioed to the other officers that he could

Del. Edwards Analyzes Successes, Problems Of '91 General Assembly

"Sometimes when you don't pass a bill, you're accomplishing a lot," was the response by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards to a question regarding recent media reports that the 1991 Maryland General Assembly, which ended its 90-day session Monday, was one marked by inaction on the part of the legislators.

Delegate Edwards explained that the session this year was "different than most" he had been a part of in the past, and was "trying." First and foremost, he said, was the fact that the nation was at war in the Persian Gulf during the first half of the session, and that "played heavily on our minds and emotions."

That difficulty was heightened by the legislators having to deal with two deficit budgets in one year, as well as with major pieces of legislation that would have had "tremendous impact on the state," he said.

He was speaking, in particular, about the growth limit bill and the tax-restructuring bill, both of which were not acted upon this year and sent to summer study for consideration next year.

Regarding the budget problems, the lawmakers were faced with numerous proposals by the Schaefer Administration to raise the state revenues by increasing tax rates. Most notable among those proposals was the gas tax hike, which was eventually vetoed.

Although Edwards reported that the state may need to consider increasing the tax and/or fees of some services and goods "that haven't been raised for years," he said, some of those increases were "considerable."

Both the House and Senate, however, were able to enact increased taxes on cigarettes and some carry-out foods, as well as increase the amount to be taxed on capital gains, in order to produce an additional $90.1 million in state revenue for fiscal year 1992. That package also included cuts in

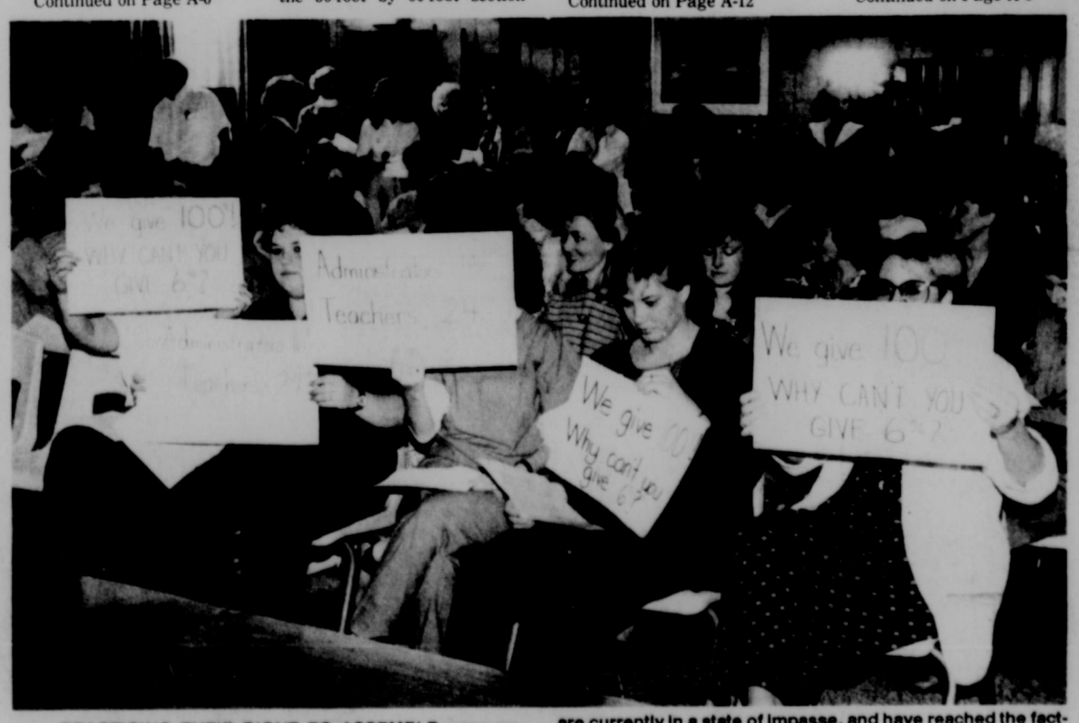
HAMMERS AND STRINGS, a popular local group that performs folk music using various stringed instruments, including the mandolin and hammer dulcimer, will be featured during the Garrett Choral Society's "Country Sampler" concert, slated for this Friday, Saturday, and Sunday in the gymnasium of Garrett Community College. Also performing will be one of the region's top clog dancers. Members of Hammers and Strings include, pictured left to right, front row, Hollis Wilt, Patty Looman, Betty Mattingly, and Ellis Wilt. Pictured center is Anita Teeter and in the back, left to right, are Richard Hill, Tom Mattingly, and Tom Tressler. The Friday and Saturday concerts will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the Sunday presentation will be at 2 p.m. Tickets are available from all Choral Society members, at Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland, and at the door.



PRACTICING THEIR RIGHT TO ASSEMBLE were numerous Garrett County teachers at the recent county board of education meeting. Approximately 100 teachers gathered in the planeterium meeting room to express their wish for higher salaries and their objections to some budget proposals. The education board and the Garrett County Teachers Association are currently in a state of impasse, and have reached the fact-finding mode. At this time, the mutually chosen arbitrator, Louis Aronin, is compiling a written report which will contain his recommendations, as mediator, concerning the contract bargaining. The report is due for completion on April 19.

DAR Chapter Convenes, Hears Noted Botanist

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at St. Paul's United Methodist Church Monday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. with 15 members present.

Regent, Mrs. Lillian Reckner, opened the meeting with the DAR ritual. She introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Melvin Brown, Dr. Brown is a native of Mineral County, W.Va., and a graduate of Potomac State College, Shepherd College, W.Va., and Maryville College, Tenn. He has a B.S. degree from Fairmont State College, an M.S. and Ph.D in biology from West Virginia University. He taught in Mineral County and in Kitzmiller, where he developed a botanical garden. He taught in the Allegany County schools and became head of the Biology Department of Frostburg State University where he remained for seven years. Presently he is visiting professor of the University of Maryland and adjunct professor of West Virginia University.

Dr. Brown went to England three different times to study and to help classify plants. He showed slides along with the lecture and of particular note were the Mountain Laurel, collected in Maryland and preserved since 1690, and the Lady Slipper, collected in 1700. There was a response from the chapter when he stated that the dandelion was brought from England to the colonies.

Dr. Brown is co-author of two books, Woody Plants of Maryland and Herbaceous Plants of Maryland. The books are for sale and distribution by the University of Maryland Book Center at College Park. Following the presentation, Dr. Brown was given an appreciation gift of Garrett County maple syrup.

After a short business meeting, conducted by Regent Reckner, the meeting adjourned.

Tornado-Like Winds Cause Property Damage In All Areas Of County

"It sounded like a locomotive!" That's how Mrs. Raymond Jones described what the family believes was a tornado which tore away half of the upper story of their dairy barn and thrust the debris against the side of their house as they sat around the dinner table at 8:10 p.m. on Tuesday.

Although the only confirmed tornado sighting Tuesday night took place on Route 219 near Thomas, W.Va., at Fairfax Sand Company, many Garrett County residents are sure that tornados touched down in this area too. The strong winds, accompanied by thunder, lightning and hail, blasted through the area causing large amounts of property damage, but fortunately, no deaths or injuries, according to a spokesman at Garrett County Emergency Management.

The National Weather Service had issued a tornado watch for Allegany and Garrett counties, the Potomac Highlands and the Eastern Panhandle counties of West Virginia through midnight on Tuesday. Wind gusts were clocked at 69 mph by the National Weather Service at the Elkins-Randolph County (W.Va.) Airport. Some local sources reported 75 mph winds, and a spokesperson at the Oakland Weather Station at Webers stated that winds were still gusting around 50 mph early Wednesday morning.

"The sky was black," said Mrs. Jones, "but we didn't know what was coming until the barn hit the house." She added that, luckily, the house is made of brick, and a large broken window was the only damage it suffered. Machinery stored in the 30-foot by 60-foot section torn away from the rest of the barn was damaged, however, she said. A tractor and baler both suffered extensive damage.

Trees on the Jones farm, south of Gortner on Route 219, were also blown down and uprooted. The area was without electricity because of widespread wind damage in the Pleasant Valley area, and a generator provided the electrical power the Joneses needed to milk their cows on Wednesday.

A Jeep Cherokee owned by Mrs. Jones was lifted and pushed close to the house, causing approximately $3,000 worth of damage to the vehicle. The family does have insurance which will cover much of the damage, and although no official damage estimate has been made as yet, the Joneses expect the damage could total as high as a couple hundred thousand dollars.

A barn on another Pleasant Valley farm belonging to Levi Miller, on the Paul Friend Road in Gortner, was also heavily damaged by Tuesday night's wind. The Millers were not at the farm when between 1/3 to 1/2 of the barn roof was lifted off, but clocks showed that the electricity went off at 8:15 p.m. The Millers think that is the time the damage happened, and that portions of the roof struck the transformer and electric lines, knocking out the power. Their cows were also milked on Wednesday morning using power from a generator. Their electricity was restored at 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

G.C. Teachers Express Frustrations To Education Board Members

Nearly 100 Garrett County teachers filled a large room in the board of education building Tuesday and stood face to face with education board members to express their frustration over the ongoing impasse between the two groups. The educators also voiced their disagreement to some of Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage's 1991 budget proposals, and asked the board members to seriously consider the findings of the mutually agreed upon arbitrator, who is presently compiling his report of recommendations concerning the deadlock.

The main issues of controversy included the proposed three percent salary increase for education employees, the proposed cut of travel expenses for athletic teams and band, the cut of the activity buses, and the change of contractual language concerning transfers.

Jim Raley, president of the Garrett County Teachers Association (GCTA), told the board members that county teachers are "echoing their feelings of frustration and defeat as they are continuously being asked to do more, without the rewards of fair and equitable compensation." He was referring to the board's proposal of a three percent pay increase. The GCTA had asked for a nine percent increase, and then compromised to six percent. When the board refused to move above three, an impasse was declared between the two groups.

Tom Shaffer, Uniserv director and chief negotiator for the GCTA, urged the board members to ask the commissioners for more money, enough to cover a six percent salary hike. Ryscavage stated that an attempt was made to follow the instructions of the commissioners, which was to submit budgets not exceeding previous years. He also stated that the sentiment of the General Assembly was that there should be no increase in salaries at all.

"Even if we grant the three percent increase, we will then also have to fund retirement and social security benefits at a cost of $101,000. With a six percent increase, you can just double that figure, of course," he said. He added that the

The highest national honor given to an active member of FFA has been awarded to Oakland farmer and agribusinessman Charles DeBerry. The American FFA Degree was announced during the National FFA Convention held this winter in Kansas City, Missouri.

DeBerry is the son of William B. and Donna DeBerry, and works for his uncle and grandparents on their farm north of Oakland. He has also been employed by Southern States and by Tablelands Milk Inc. as a milk hauler. It is the number of market steers he has raised and sold, reinvesting his profits into more market animals, calves and a Limousin bull that qualified DeBerry for the American FFA Degree.

A 1987 graduate of Southern High School, DeBerry was an active FFA member. He served as the Oakland chapter's treasurer and president, and went on to serve as a state FFA treasurer. During his high school years, he represented the Oakland chapter at the state

PRACTICING THEIR RIGHT TO ASSEMBLE were numerous Garrett County teachers at the recent county board of education meeting. Approximately 100 teachers gathered in the planetarium meeting room to express their wish for higher salaries and their objections to some budget proposals. The education board and the Garrett County Teachers Association are currently in a state of impasse, and have reached the fact-finding mode. At this time, the mutually chosen arbitrator, Louis Aronin, is compiling a written report which will contain his recommendations, as mediator, concerning the contract bargaining. The report is due for completion on April 19.

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at St. Paul's United Methodist Church Monday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. with 15 members present.

Regent, Mrs. Lillian Reckner, opened the meeting with the DAR ritual. She introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Melvin Brown, Dr. Brown is a native of Mineral County, W.Va., and a graduate of Potomac State College, Shepherd College, W.Va., and Maryville College, Tenn. He has a B.S. degree from Fairmont State College, an M.S. and PhD in biology from West Virginia University. He taught in Mineral County and in Kitzmiller, where he developed a botanical garden. He taught in the Allegany County schools and became head of the Biology Department of Frostburg State University where he remained for seven years. Presently he is visiting professor of the University of Maryland and adjunct professor of West Virginia University.

Dr. Brown went to England three different times to study and to help classify plants. He showed slides along with the lecture and of particular note were the Mountain Laurel, collected in Maryland and preserved since 1690, and the Lady Slipper, collected in 1700. There was a response from the chapter when he stated that the dandelion was brought from England to the colonies.

Dr. Brown is co-author of two books, Woody Plants of Maryland and Herbaceous Plants of Maryland. The books are for sale and distribution by the University of Maryland Book Center at College Park. Following the presentation, Dr. Brown was given an appreciation gift of Garrett County maple syrup.

After a short business meeting, conducted by Regent Reckner, the meeting adjourned.

Funds Approved For Oakland's Water System

Representative Beverly B. Byron has to announce a $1,049,200 grant and $1,004,400 loan from the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) to the town of Oakland.

The money will be used to update the existing municipal water system. These federal funds will assist the town in providing new water lines and in correcting current line problems.

"I'm very pleased that the federal government is helping the Town of Oakland and its citizens in this important community project. This federal funding insures that the future improvements to the Oakland water system will take place. The distribution of water, its storage and treatment will meet the new EPA requirements as a result of this project funding."

The total project is estimated at $2.9 million. The federal loan is for 40 years and, along with state funding, will upgrade the town's water system infrastructure.

Md. State Police Seek Information In $3,500 Theft

The Maryland State Police are currently investigating a breaking, entering, and theft in which losses were estimated at over $3,500.

Tpr. S.H. Anderson is heading the investigation of the theft that was reported by Frederick W. Baker, Friendsville.

Baker told police that unknown person(s) gained entry to his home through a bedroom window sometime Friday between 7:45 p.m. and 11:45 p.m.

Taken from Baker's residence was $1,325 in cash and numerous household items including: an RCA videocassette recorder ($150), a Cobra citizen's band radio ($450), a Pactel cordless telephone ($150), two Midland walkie-talkies ($220), a Cobra mobile citizen's band radio ($30), a Pioneer cassette radio ($180), a Nintendo game with accessories and four cartridges ($250), a Chromatic alarm clock radio ($50), a Sears Craftsman tool chest and miscellaneous tools ($350), a Black and Decker power drill ($70), and 19 computerized disc recordings ($285). Tornado-Like Winds Cause Property Damage In All Areas Of County

"It sounded like a locomotive!" That's how Mrs. Raymond Jones described what the family believes was a tornado which tore away half of the upper story of their dairy barn and thrust the debris against the side of their house as they sat around the dinner table at 8:10 p.m. on Tuesday.

Although the only confirmed tornado sighting Tuesday night took place on Route 219 near Thomas, W.Va., at Fairfax Sand Company, many Garrett County residents are sure that tornados touched down in this area too. The strong winds, accompanied by thunder, lightning and hail, blasted through the area causing large amounts of property damage, but fortunately, no deaths or injuries, according to a spokesman at Garrett County Emergency Management.

The National Weather Service had issued a tornado watch for Allegany and Garrett counties, the Potomac Highlands and the Eastern Panhandle counties of West Virginia through midnight on Tuesday. Wind gusts were clocked at 69 mph by the National Weather Service at the Elkins-Randolph County (W.Va.) Airport. Some local sources reported 75 mph winds, and a spokesperson at the Oakland Weather Station at Webers stated that winds were still gusting around 50 mph early Wednesday morning.

"The sky was black," said Mrs. Jones, "but we didn't know what was coming until the barn hit the house." She added that, luckily, the house is made of brick, and a large broken window was the only damage it suffered. Machinery stored in the 30-foot by 60-foot section torn away from the rest of the barn was damaged, however, she said. A tractor and baler both suffered extensive damage.

Trees on the Jones farm, south of Gortner on Route 219, were also blown down and uprooted. The area was without electricity because of widespread wind damage in the Pleasant Valley area, and a generator provided the electrical power the Joneses needed to milk their cows on Wednesday.

A Jeep Cherokee owned by Mrs. Jones was lifted and pushed close to the house, causing approximately $3,000 worth of damage to the vehicle. The family does have insurance which will cover much of the damage, and although no official damage estimate has been made as yet, the Joneses expect the damage could total as high as a couple hundred thousand dollars.

A barn on another Pleasant Valley farm belonging to Levi Miller, on the Paul Friend Road in Gortner, was also heavily damaged by Tuesday night's wind. The Millers were not at the farm when between 1/3 to 1/2 of the barn roof was lifted off, but clocks showed that the electricity went off at 8:15 p.m. The Millers think that is the time the damage happened, and that portions of the roof struck the transformer and electric lines, knocking out the power. Their cows were also milked on Wednesday morning using power from a generator. Their electricity was restored at 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

Although he has no insurance and estimates approximately

"Man Of La Mancha" Rehearsals Underway At McHenry Campus

One of the most ambitious theatrical productions ever presented in Garrett County, Man of La Mancha, is currently in rehearsal at Garrett Community College. This musical by Dale Wasserman that was a smash Broadway hit twenty years ago will be performed in the college auditorium on April 25, 26, 27, and 28, with permission of Tams-Witmark, Inc. of New York.

For the past several weeks, stage crew members have been working under the supervision of designer Ben Sincell to transform the stage of the auditorium into a dungeon of the Spanish Inquisition.

The cast list for the play being directed by Jane Avery and George McDowell reads like a cross-section of Garrett County, with high school and college students, teachers, real estate agents, carpenters, electricians, a computer operator and a graphic artist all playing roles in the production.

In the lead role of hero, Don Quixote/Cervantes will be Richard Hill, who has appeared in a number of Garrett Choral Society productions. His sidekick Sancho will be played by Nate Motz. Playing the role of Dulcinea is Karyn Seilhamer, a new-comer to Garrett County who has experience in community and dinner theater productions.

Other principal actors will be the Captian/Moor, Jon Nazelrod; the Governor, Paul Wampler; Aldonza, Karyn Seilhamer; innkeeper, Lowell Leitzel; the Duke/Dr. Carrasco, Clint Hatfield; the Padre, Kevan Monn; Antonia, Jann Dehus; Housekeeper, Lori Heginbotham; the barber, Sam

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for a Mtn. Lake Park man who was found guilty of "vehicular homicide while intoxicated" in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week by Judge Jack R. Turney.

Mark R. Fazenbaker, 23, had been charged with vehicular homicide, driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, failure to keep right of center, and negligent driving stemming from a fatal accident on December 23, 1989.

That head-on crash claimed the life of Eric Stemple, 31, St. George, W.Va. State police reported at that time that the Fazenbaker vehicle slid out of control on an snowy curve on Md. Route 560, crossed the center line, and struck the Stemple vehicle. Fazenbaker and his passenger, Pamela A. Legeer, Oakland, were both ejected from their vehicle which broke into two pieces upon impact.

The charges against Fazenbaker were consolidated into the charge of "vehicular homicide while intoxicated" during court proceedings in March of 1990. Since that time, several motions for continuance were granted by Judge Turney.

In other District Court news, a sentencing hearing was held for Samuel Fheo Polce, 20, Oakland, who had been found guilty of "theft under $300" in court proceedings on December 11,

Man Cited For Reckless Endangerment After Tense Stand-Off With Police

A 49-year-old Oakland man kept police officers at bay for nearly two hours Sunday while brandishing a loaded shotgun in the yard of an Oakland family. Roger L. Baker was apprehended after Garrett County Sheriff Deputy Charles Nolan convinced him that the officer was in possession of the suspect's dog.

Baker reportedly entered the property of Tracy A. Riley at approximately 10 p.m. and began shooting near Riley's house. The victim called the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for help, fearing for the safety of his wife and three-year-old daughter, who were both inside the home at the time.

When Officer Nolan arrived on the scene, Baker was cursing and yelling, apparently intoxicated. He had shot the gun five times before the deputy arrived, according to the report. Dep. D. Crossland and Maryland State Police Tfc. P.R. Brown arrived to assist Nolan, and the three policemen circled the defendant. At one point, Tfc. Brown radioed to the other officers that he could

"Sometimes when you don't pass a bill, you're accomplishing a lot," was the response by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards to a question regarding recent media reports that the 1991 Maryland General Assembly, which ended its 90-day session Monday, was one marked by inaction on the part of the legislators.

Delegate Edwards explained that the session this year was "different than most" he had been a part of in the past, and was "trying." First and foremost, he said, was the fact that the nation was at war in the Persian Gulf during the first half of the session, and that "played heavily on our minds and emotions."

That difficulty was heightened by the legislators having to deal with two deficit budgets in one year, as well as with major pieces of legislation that would have had "tremendous impact on the state," he said.

He was speaking, in particular, about the growth limit bill and the tax-restructuring bill, both of which were not acted upon this year and sent to summer study for consideration next year.

Regarding the budget problems, the lawmakers were faced with numerous proposals by the Schaefer Administration to raise the state revenues by increasing tax rates. Most notable among those proposals was the gas tax hike, which was eventually vetoed.

Although Edwards reported that the state may need to consider increasing the tax and/or fees of some services and goods "that haven't been raised for years," he said, some of those increases were "considerable."

Both the House and Senate, however, were able to enact increased taxes on cigarettes and some carry-out foods, as well as increase the amount to be taxed on capital gains, in order to produce an additional $90.1 million in state revenue for fiscal year 1992. That package also included cuts in

HAMMERS AND STRINGS, a popular local group that performs folk music using various stringed instruments, including the mandolin and hammer dulcimer, will be featured during the Garrett Choral Society's "Country Sampler" concert, slated for this Friday, Saturday, and Sunday in the gymnasium of Garrett Community College. Also performing will be one of the region's top clog dancers. Members of Hammers and Strings include, pictured left to right, front row, Hollis Wilt, Patty Looman, Betty Mattingly, and Ellis Wilt. Pictured center is Anita Teeter and in the back, left to right, are Richard Hill, Tom Mattingly, and Tom Tressler. The Friday and Saturday concerts will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the Sunday presentation will be at 2 p.m. Tickets are available from all Choral Society members, at Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland, and at the door.

PRACTICING THEIR RIGHT TO ASSEMBLE were numerous Garrett County teachers at the recent county board of education meeting. Approximately 100 teachers gathered in the planeterium meeting room to express their wish for higher salaries and their objections to some budget proposals. The education board and the Garrett County Teachers Association are currently in a state of impasse, and have reached the fact-finding mode. At this time, the mutually chosen arbitrator, Louis Aronin, is compiling a written report which will contain his recommendations, as mediator, concerning the contract bargaining. The report is due for completion on April 19.

TOTALLY HEALTHY TREES were uprooted from the ground by the gale-force winds that rocked the tri-state area Tuesday night. Among the mature green treasures that ended up casualties were this tree in the yard of Alvin Sisler on Third Street Extension near Oakland (above), and this stately monarch on Boy Scout Road near Deep Creek, below.

Grantsville Woman Is Injured In Saturday Mishap

A Grantsville woman sustained injuries Saturday as the result of a two-vehicle collision that occurred on U.S. Route 40 near Grantsville.

Kay E. Layman, 39, Grantsville, was taken to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following a Saturday evening mishap. She was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and admitted to the hospital, but has since been released, according to a nursing spokesman at the facility.

Layman was injured when the 1988 Dodge Vista she was operating struck a 1986 Dodge Aries, operated by Thomas W. Beachy, 17, Mtn. Lake Park.

Police reports indicated that Layman was making a left turn onto Rt. 40 and struck the Beachy vehicle that was traveling east in the left lane.

Tpr. J.T. Bentlejewski investigated the 8:50 p.m. mishap and charged Layman with failure to yield right of way when turning left.

In another Saturday mishap, a Friendsville woman and a Grantsville woman, were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where they were both treated and released.

Cynthia A. Bosley, 19, Friendsville, and Stephanie A. Broadwater, 19, Grantsville, both sustained minor injuries in the 11:25 a.m. mishap that occurred on U.S. Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake near the information booth.

According to police reports, the accident occurred when Bosley, operating a 1989 Geo Spectrum, pulled from a private drive into the path of a 1973 GMC truck, operated by George E. Beitzel, 42, Accident, causing the vehicles to collide. Beitzel was apparently not injured. All involved were wearing seat belts which lessened the severity of injuries, according to Tfc. J.K. Moore, investigating officer.

The injured were transported by the Southern Rescue Squad.

Moore charged Bosley with failure to stop at a highway entrance and yield the right of way.

A young Oakland woman was injured Sunday when the 1987 Yamaha 225 she was operating struck a rut, overturned, and struck an out building.

Janice L. Cassidy, 17, was treated and released from the local hospital, according to an emergency room spokesman at that facility. Cassidy was taken to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad.

Tpr. P.R. Brown investigated the 3:30 p.m. mishap and filed no charges.

OCPD Arrest Two Oakland Men On CDS Charges

Two Oakland men were arrested on April 1 by Pfc. Shawn Groves of the Oakland City Police Department and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana).

Jeremy S. DeWitt, 19, and Jeffrey Maddocks, 19, were apprehended on Md. Rt. 39, west of Oakland, for a loud exhaust on the 1967 Chevrolet Camaro in which they were travelling. DeWitt was the operator of the vehicle.

A subsequent search of the vehicle revealed a pipe with CDS residue in it.

The two men have been released on their own recognizance.

In other Oakland police news, police are searching for the operator of an unknown vehicle that sideswiped a 1985 red Subaru, owned by John Rickman, Oakland.

The mishap reportedly occurred on April 2 in front of the residence of Jack Jones on Eighth Street in Oakland. Damage was estimated at over $2,000.

Following the mishap, a wheel ring with a Ford emblem was found at the scene, according to Cpl. E.R. Alexander, investigating officer.

Persons with any information are asked to contact the Oakland City Police station.

Oakland police are also searching for the culprit(s) who broke the lock on a Coke machine located at Midas Muffler/Oak View Motors, Oakland, and stole approximately $250 in change.

Chief John K. Sines is the investigating officer.

Community Watch Group Formed Near Accident

A group of Garrett County citizens in conjunction with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office recently formed a "Neighborhood Watch Group" in the area of the Fish Hatchery, Paul Miller, Rabbit Hollow, and Collier Roads, north of Accident.

The Neighborhood Watch Group is coordinated by resident Harry Miller, and is advised by members of the Garrett Co. Sheriff's Office. The group adopted the name "Bear Creek Delta," and held its first meeting on March 12.

The function of a community watch group is to provide a network for concerned citizens to communicate with neighbors and the police to help reduce crime in their home neighborhoods. Simply, the program consists of neighbors watching out for one another, according to a spokesperson.

A Neighborhood Watch Program uses citizen involvement to assist the police in crime prevention. The citizens are asked to use their "eyes and ears" to be more aware of suspicious or unusual activity in their area. Criminals find their work difficult in areas where neighbors are alert and watchful for each other.

Sheriff Deputy Randy Shaffer stated that the Sheriff's Office will assist any community group that wishes to form a Neighborhood Watch, and in fact, encourages groups to do so. He said that interested persons may contact him or Cpl. Randy Sines at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The officers will act as advisors to Neighborhood Watch Groups, attending meetings and offering instructions and assistance.

Shaffer also noted that a second watch group is currently being formed in a community in northern Garrett County.

PICKIN' AND FIDDLIN' will be among the various forms of musical accompaniment for this weekend's "Country Sampler" concerts to be presented by the Garrett Choral Society. The Society, under the direction of Nancy Learey, has departed from its usual repertoire of classical and Broadway show tunes for this concert to present various folk and western tunes, including such favorites as "Red River Valley," "Lollytoodum," "Blue Tail Fly," and "Mr. Frog." The program will conclude with "God Bless the U.S.A.," featuring Tom Peterson as soloist, and "This Land is My Land." Also performing will be the local group, Hammers and Strings (see photo on front page). Pictured above with Mrs. Learey are Bill Walter, banjo player and a member of the tenor section, and Annie Neville, fiddler accompanist. The concert will be presented this Friday and Saturday, April 12-13, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, April 14, at 2 p.m. The program will be presented in the gymnasium of Garrett Community College, McHenry. Tickets are available at Englander's Pharmacy, Oakland, from Choral Society members, and at the door.

Senator Bambacus To Speak At GCC

Senator John Bambacus will be a guest speaker at Garrett Community College next Wednesday, April 17, at 3 p.m. in the auditorium. The subject of his presentation will be "First Amendment Freedoms: Rights and Responsibilities." The program is open to the public, free of charge.

The former Senator has agreed to speak on this subject at the request of members of the college administration and faculty who feel that American citizens sometimes need to be reminded of their inherent rights of freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of religion, particularly in a time of great patriotic fervor. Because 1991 marks the 200th anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights to the U.S. Constitution, a number of communities throughout the country have planned similar programs.

Senator Bambacus, who served for eight years in the Maryland Senate, is now a professor of political science at Frostburg State University, where he has been a member of the faculty for 21 years. He is a former member of the Frostburg City Council and a former member of Senator Charles Mathias' staff. He and his wife, Karen, and son, Christopher, are residents of Frostburg.

not move for fear that Baker would shoot him.

Nolan kept his vehicle's spotlight on the defendant throughout the ordeal, and attempted at length to talk Baker into putting down the shotgun. According to the report, Baker continued to yell and wave the weapon around.

In the course of the altercation, Nolan determined that Baker owned a dog named "Cindy." Nolan proceeded to convince Baker that Cindy was with the officers, which apparently prompted the defendant to lower his weapon to investigate. Brown then tackled Baker to the ground, and he was placed under arrest.

When the shotgun was recovered, it was found to have a round in the chamber with the hammer pulled back completely, according to the report.

Baker was charged with reckless endangerment, disorderly conduct, and disturbing the peace. He is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of a $2,000 bond.

MLP Man Found Not Guilty In Circuit Court

CHIEF NEGOTIATORS PLEAD CASE -- Tom Shaffer, left, director of Uniserv and a negotiator of the Garrett County Teachers Association (GCTA), and Jim Raley, right, president of GCTA, pleaded their case to the G.C. Board of Education on Tuesday. Nearly 100 teachers came to the board meeting to voice their concerns over the proposed budget for fiscal year 1991, and to express their hope that the board will seriously consider any recommendation of the upcoming fact-finding report, prompted by the recent impasse between the board and GCTA.

Mark E. Whitacre, 22, Mtn. Lake Park, was found not guilty of traffic violations by a jury in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the trial.

Whitacre was charged with driving with a revoked license and refusing to sign a citation. The charges stemmed from a police report of September 1990 when Garrett Co. Sheriff Deputy C. Feller reported seeing Whitacre driving a Volkswagon Rabbit on Rt. 219. Feller knew Whitacre had a revoked license, and thus pressed charges.

Whitacre maintained his innocence throughout the trial, stating that he was at a residence on the day in question, and was not driving any vehicle.

After testimony, the jury found Whitacre not guilty. Defense council for the defendant was Robert C. Hesson.

In other circuit court news, Richard R. Trueman, 33, Pittsburgh, Pa., was sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail on the charge of cocaine possession.

Trueman was tried in December 1990 and pleaded guilty to the charge, at which time Judge Thayer accepted the plea and ordered a presentence investigation. Other charges not prosecuted were possession with intent to distribute, possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

The charges were the result of a traffic violation stop made by a Maryland State Police officer in April 1990. At that time, Trueman was a passenger in the car, and was found to be in possession of the illegal drug. The stop took place on Rt. 219 south of the Deep Creek Lake Bridge, according to the court document.

R. Steven Friend represented the defendant.

Correction

In last week's issue of The Republican, an article appeared that concerned the sentencing of Randy R. Lucas, who was convicted of second degree sex offense. Although the court document states that Lucas was a boy scout troop leader, it should be noted that this is incorrect, and that Lucas never acted in the capacity of a troop leader of any boy scout group.

Why We Did It . . .

We stated in this column last week that we were going to publish in this week's issue the present salaries of Garrett County Board of Education administrative and supervisory personnel and various county department heads and supervisors. We have done so and we believe a few words explaining our motive for doing this are desirable.

We first want to emphasize that we have not done this for purposes of sensationalism or through a desire to create controversy. The fact of the matter is, all of this is public information that should be readily available to any citizen just for the asking. We have received numerous reports of persons attempting to obtain this information, but they are basically given the run-around. The taxpayers are the ones who pay these salaries and they have every right, by law, to know how much they are paying and whom they are paying. In fact, the county commissioners should have copies of this information available in handout form for anyone who asks for it.

Our editorial topic last week concerned the difference in pay scales for some board of education employees when compared to those of our teachers. These numbers that we have published this week make our comparisons quite clear. It disturbs us greatly that some persons who work for the board, who have no more education than a high school diploma, are making more money than teachers who have master's degrees and 20 years of experience. Most of the supervisory personnel, who have an equivalent education to many of the teachers, are paid an average of $19,000 more per year.

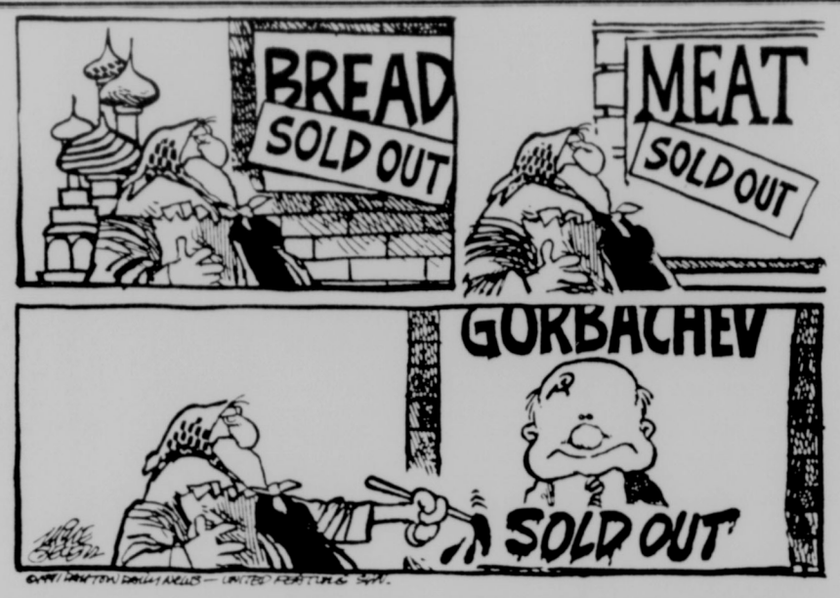
We also want to point out that we believe some of our board of education supervisory personnel do indeed earn their salaries. The best example we can think of is Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent, whose salary ranks at or near the bottom among those of all county superintendents in the state. We know he "eats, thinks, and sleeps" his job practically 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and the stress is tremendous.

Likewise, we realize there are teachers out there, just like some A&S personnel, who are not earning what they are being paid and will do as little as they possibly can to get by. But we think the majority are dedicated to the cause of teaching our children. There should be more done to eliminate poor teachers, such as doing away with tenure, and to reward the good teachers, via merit pay.

Concerning county supervisory personnel, there also seem to be other cases of gross inequality in terms of salaries, based upon responsibility, level of education, and experience. Why these exist, we do not know, but again, the public is entitled to know these figures.

By the way, this publishing of salaries is nothing new for The Republican. There was a time when the county levy, complete with many of these salaries and the names of the employees, was published on the front page.

Perhaps by making this information available, greater care will be taken in the future by those in decision-making positions to see that salaries of all involved are far more equitable than they are now.



Planning A Vegetable Garden
by Ruta Savage

There is great satisfaction in raising and eating homegrown vegetables. They are cheaper and fresher than ones you buy, and most important, they taste better and are more nutritious. With advance planning and moderate effort, you can produce delicious foods.

Choose the most open site available for your garden, away from buildings and trees. The ideal site will have direct sun all day long, however, six hours of sun a day is adequate. Certain crops can stand shade, but no amount of fertilizer, water or care will replace the sunshine that is needed. Trees shade the garden, and their roots compete for water and nourishment. Black walnut trees are especially detrimental; they produce a toxic substance which will cause many vegetables to become stunted, wilted or to die when their roots come in contact with black walnut roots. The garden should be at least 30 feet away from black walnut trees. It should be convenient to a water source.

Before you start planting your garden, draw a plan outlining the shape of the garden, including the length of, and distance between, rows, names of plants for each row, and names of vegetables that will be planted later in the season. Plan, plant and manage the garden to provide fresh vegetables throughout the growing season. When early crops are harvested, be ready to prepare the soil again and plant others. Early maturing crops may be followed by plantings of broccoli, cauliflower, beans, beets or garden peas. Onion sets may be planted any time during the summer for bunching onions. Seed can be sown in spring or early summer for a fall crop, or top sets for winter onions can be planted for fall use.

If possible, rows should run north and south to prevent plants from shading one another. In hilly areas, they should follow the contour of the slope. Any variation in the composition of soil within the garden should be considered when deciding the layout. If one area is low and moist, such crops as celery, onions and cucumbers should be placed there. A high and dry spot is the proper location for early crops, especially those needing soil that warms early. Remember to plant perennial crops such as asparagus and rhubarb along one side where they will not interfere with the rest of the garden.

Group early, quick maturing crops together. Some crops, such as beans, sweet corn and lettuce can be planted at intervals over an extended period to be harvested throughout much of the season. A succession of sowings of salad crops about ten days apart will keep the table supplied. If space is limited, omit corn, squash and pumpkin, although a few bush squash do well in small spaces. Corn needs to be planted so there are at least two rows side-be-side for cross pollination, but a planting of four shorter rows together is preferable. Distances between rows and plants varies. Planting distance is related to the size of plants at maturity and the type of cultivation used; more space is needed if a tiller is used instead of a hoe. Vine crops (cucumber, cantaloupe, pumpkin and squash) are often planted in "hills" spaced several feet apart.

It's wise to shift or rotate crops each year. Some diseases will build up in the soil if one species is planted in the same spot continuously. Radishes, tomatoes or lettuce can be alternated with peas and beans, varying locations each year.

Before planting the garden, the soil must be prepared properly. Add organic matter, check and correct acidity, and plow or spade to a moderate depth, then fertilize liberally. The exact type of soil is not so important as that it be well-drained and adequately supplied with organic matter. A level, loose layer of soil over a first seed bed is ideal.

With your garden plan well-defined, you are ready to study the seed catalogs or visit the garden center for seeds and plants. A phone call to your county extension agent may be helpful; he can provide the up-to-date information about new seed varieties, disease resistant varieties, and when to plant to avoid killing frosts. The time spent in planning will help assure a successful gardening experience.

The Mind Wanders

My Life Depends On . . .
by Pam Ashby

My life depends on so many iddy-biddy factors that seem harmless enough when viewed separately, but when these factors all join hands, so to speak, they try even my pioneer spirit.

Since my dryer breathed its last breath in December, my laundry depends on a cold day so I can keep a fire going in the woodstove in the basement and hang the clothes on lines strewn across the ceiling of my son's makeshift bedroom. Or it depends on a warm, sunny, yet breezy day with no hint of rain so that I might hang them on the line outside.

Because my "new dryer fund" is now up to a hefty $9.31, I spend a greater part of my day praying for proper weather conditions. "Dear God," I implore, "you know I appreciate the fact that the washer works and the fact that I am blessed with indoor and outdoor clotheslines, and unworthy as I am, could you please grace me with a sunny, breezy day today. If that's not feasible and you feel we need the rain, could you send cooler temperatures also so that I might justify a fire in the woodstove? Thanks, Amen"

My dining room chairs have lived a full life for some 18 years. Trouble is, they are now dedicating their senior years to making my life miserable. They have taken to consuming about a gallon of wood glue a month and they refuse to hold wood screws. They love to "pop their glue" when company comes. I just sit gingerly on the worst of the lot and pray that Aunt Bessie in all her rotundness does not bear the wrath of these chairs from hell and end up on the floor.

Yes, these factors seem harmless enough, but add to them the fact that my detergent cup for the second wash cycle on my dishwasher won't open automatically anymore, so I have to babysit the darn thing and open it myself at the exact time it needs to be opened; the fact that every time one of the kids takes a shower, I have to repaste the wallpaper in their bathroom; the fact that I have to rewire the vacuum cleaner every time I use it; the fact that my toaster is now permanently set at "charred" so that I must continually pop it manually to get the desired browning; the fact that my computer keeps telling me that I have unrecoverable errors and who wants to recover their errors anyway; the fact that . . .

Yea, I'm having a bad day. Okay?

Letters to the Editor

Editor's Note: The writer of the following article requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Board of Commissioners of Garrett County,

In response to April 2nd's meeting during which you charged the League of Women Voters of Garrett County with educating the citizens concerning the charter process, we would like to inform you of requests responding to this news.

On April 1st we submitted a list of various organizations and sectors we thought should be contacted for conscientious commission membership. Since then we have been asked by the agricultural community and the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association to request consideration of their designers to the charter board.

We strongly urge that, in all cases, you ask groups to designate their own nominees.

Respectfully,
Constance E. Margison
President, LWVGC

To the Editor:

On behalf of our 360 teachers here in Garrett County's public schools, we certainly thank you for your editorial "Board Won't Budge" in the April 4 edition of The Republican. To have a responsible and respected weekly newspaper to come out editorially on the side of teachers in their salary and fringe requests for next year is most appreciated. It is not too often that this happens anywhere in this land of ours.

When the average salary of our baseball players $880,000 a year and the average salary of our nation's teacher of the year is $22,000 surely something's wrong with this country's priorities. As indicated in my attached Letter to the Editor, the teachers in Garrett County seek a fair and reasonable settlement of next year's terms of employment. Nothing more, nothing less.

Anything less is "a slap in the face" to our teachers because less means a loss in purchasing power and our economic needs once again take a back seat to other 'so-called' concerns. Our society hypocritically undercuts the values it claims to cherish - a free public education for all our children - by not paying teachers what they are truly worth and what they should mean to the very future well-being of our society.

Yes, talk is cheap and actions do speak louder than words!

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

This is in reply to the editorial in The Republican paper dated April 4, 1991. I'm getting a little tired of the whining all the time concerning Garrett County teachers being underpaid. Before I hear about their education, working after school without pay, etc., let's focus on the following:

The summers off: (The majority do not work during the summer no matter what they say. If they do they paint homes. What pressure).

The holidays off.

The Christmas holiday season off.

The teachers' meeting(s) during the year. (They look forward to this time) No kids, very little work, good food.

Their beloved (spring vacation)??

Health benefits, personal days off.

What do you think their hourly wage per hour would be? I bet we taxpayers would be surprise.

Come on, Garrett County teachers, GET A REAL JOB.

Sincerely,
K. L. Carti
2004 Cherri Dr.
Falls Church, Va. 22043

P.S. I do pay Garrett County taxes, by the way.

To the Editor:

If one out of every 16 families in the United States is on welfare, as recently stated in the USA Today, isn't it time we seriously consider trying something different to reduce the size of the welfare rolls?

I have two suggestions:

1. RESPONSIBLE FAMILY PLANNING. John and Suzie Q. public, who contribute to the pot of money from which these people get their check, must limit the size of their families and, in some cases, work more than one job in order to adequately feed, clothe, shelter, and educate the children they choose to have. Therefore, why can't we ask those receiving assistance to practice a little responsible family planning? Those who refuse to do so should not receive any more money for any child born after they apply for and receive their first assistance check. A second violation should result in their being terminated from the assistance rolls.

2. ENFORCE THE CHILD SUPPORT LAWS. A recent article in the USA Today stated that only 44% of children receive child support from absent fathers. Why don't we have 100% of the absent fathers paying child support? Most states have fair to adequate child support laws. Let's demand that these laws be enforced.

Our welfare system should be for those who need temporary help because of an emergency, not a way of life as too many have made it.

Sincerely,
Gail R. Dixon
Oakland

To the Editor:

What should you look for and expect when you arrange for out-of-home care for your young child? In today's world, with both parents in many families needing to work, one of the most important persons in your child's life may be the person who cares for him or her while you are at work. The day care professionals of the Garrett County Day Care Association are dedicated to providing safe, high-quality day care for the children of Garrett County.

Maryland law requires that persons (except for family relatives) caring for one or more children in their homes must be licensed by the state of Maryland. This licensing is a requirement, not a choice. State requirements include a number of important safeguards for your children, including first aid and CPR training, completion of child development courses, required physicals, and criminal background checks, including fingerprinting. Licensed day care homes are regularly inspected for safety and cleanliness, including a check by the fire marshal to ensure that safety precautions such as fire extinguishers, outlet covers, and smoke detectors are in place. Outdoor play areas are also subject to safety inspections. Many day care providers provide meals and snacks which meet state regulations regarding nutritional value.

Such regulations are a good starting point for ensuring that your child's day care environment is healthy and safe. However, they are not a substitute for parental attention and involvement in the selection of day care and the maintenance of a positive ongoing relationship with your day care provider. Children and day care providers are human beings, each with a unique personality and style, and the fit between caregiver and child is of crucial importance to an excellent day care situation. Parents should be aware that state licensing is a minimum requirement for legal day care, but it is not a guarantee of quality care. Only a parent's careful investigation and "gut feeling" about a caregiver can provide the peace of mind parents need when they place their most important possession in the hands of another person. Any restrictions on your access to the day care environment while your child is in a provider's care should raise a red warning flag, as should your child's feelings and comments about the day care environment.

Child care expenses can be claimed for tax credit if your day care provider is licensed. Non-licensed providers, even if they care for only one child "off the books" are liable to fines. Licensed day care is not a luxury; it is required by law. It is a small but important step in the process of ensuring the safety and happiness of the numerous children who are cared for outside of their parents' home.

To the Editor:

As a resident of the northeastern, or "orphan" section of Garrett County, I am once again dismayed that we were forced to sit idly by while exciting changes are taking place within the county.

The petition requesting a possible change to a charter home rule form of county government is the most recent case in point. I was unable to locate a single "orphan" that had been approached and asked to sign this petition. I would have been proud to have been a part of such a movement, if only I had been asked, or even known about it.

We, in the upper right corner of the county, suffer double the discrimination that all Garrett Countians feel and resent when received at the hands of the "downstaters." We also receive it from our own "downcounty" "Oakland" people. Because we are relatively small in number, we are usually just ignored. It is not our fault that we are more closely tied to Allegany County.

You Oaklanders, Mountain Lakers and McHenryites, stop for a moment and picture this: Pick up your phone and dial 911. Where does your call go? Mine goes to Cumberland, and the ambulance that comes to my house comes from Frostburg instead of Northern Garrett. I don't have a local fire company to call my own either. If the call goes to Cumberland, then Eastern Garrett is alerted. If it goes to Oakland, then I get Grantsville. To call the Sheriff's Dept. or the McHenry State Police barrack, or to conduct any business with county government requires a long distance call. Try this in an emergency, especially if the LaVale barrack is too busy to relay our request to McHenry promptly. Our mailing addresses and telephone numbers up here are either Frostburg or Lonaconing, but our taxes go to Oakland, and we are taxed at the same rate as you! How long would you live with this?

We have no TV cable available and limited means of receiving any Maryland news other than the (ugh) Sunpapers. We know all $101,000 is not included in the budget recommendations.

Shaffer noted that any board of commissioners would request a limited budget, as always, and said, "you certainly won't get it if you don't ask for it. You board members shouldn't be the bad guys in this situation. Instead of 'having the monkey on your backs,' you should send it on to the commissioners' backs, and tell them exactly what kind of funding you need to pay these teachers. (They) should not and must not remain the doormat of the state of Maryland."

Ryscavage stated that the asking would be more effective if all those who were in attendance Tuesday would accompany the education board to the commissioner's office when the time comes to request the funding. He suggested that a late afternoon appointment could be requested, so that more teachers would be able to attend.

Raley and other teachers presented board members with over 1,200 postcards written by teachers in support of a "fair and reasonable salary settlement." Some of the thoughts expressed on the postcards include frustration over a salary difference of $3,082 between an Allegany and Garrett County teacher with the same degree and 12 years of experience. Another card stated "Many times my job and dealing with the children in my classroom come first in my life. It would feel wonderful to be appreciated for the time I dedicate to educating our youth."

Raley also expressed exasperation at the proposed change in contractual language dealing with transfers and the one third salary compensation after the utilization of sick days.

"In the current round of bargaining, not only are teachers not being rewarded, they are being robbed! Robbed of contract language which has been bought and paid for in previous rounds of negotiations," Raley stated.

Raley ended his statements with several requests to the board, asking them to develop a plan to begin paying employees equitably and fairly, and to adamantly support legislation which provides additional funding for education. Finally, Raley asked the board to accept the findings of the arbitrator's report, and told the members that GCTA is prepared to do the same. The report is tentatively due on Friday, April 19.

Other concerns voiced by teachers included the proposed cut of transportation funding for athletic teams and the school bands. Southern High School Athletic Director Tom Woods told the board that the monies received in the past have receded yearly, and that if the monies are removed completely, the effect would be devastating, and would affect over 300 people in both high schools.

Ryscavage assured the group that the budget proposal is still just a proposal, and nothing is definite. He said he was attempting to look hard at transportation, and to figure other ways to fund the teams, bands, and activity buses. He explained that there is a current overage in the monies provided for these activities.

Again, a speaker in the crowd suggested that the board simply ask the commissioners for these funds.

Eileen Schlosnagle, a resident of the Accident area, told the board members that Accident Elementary School is in dire need of a full time physical education teacher. She said that her son receives 45 minutes of physical education per week, and "that is simply not enough, in my opinion as well as in the opinion of the President's Council on Physical Fitness." She said a teacher has been requested for seven years, and has yet to be provided.

In answer to her request as well as others, Ryscavage stated that financial constraints are always present, but that all of the voiced concerns would be discussed. Board President Beverly Murphy thanked the employees for attending, and urged them to stand behind the board of education, especially at the near future meeting with the Garrett County Commissioners concerning the 1991 budget request.

Although administration and supervisory (A & S) salaries has been a recent topic of discussion among teachers and the general public, the issue was not approached at the public meeting. Dr. Ryscavage did discuss this issue later in the education board meeting, and explained that he had broken down the salaries to a per-hour rate. He displayed his findings, which indicated that A&S employees make approximately two to three dollars more per hour than teachers. He stated that with the consideration that teachers work a 187 day year at 37 1/2 hours per day, and that A&S staff work either a 207 day year or a 244 day year at 40 hours a week, then the disparity may be better understood.

Raley asked if the 15-20 days leave was considered in the figuring, and Ryscavage stated that it was not. Raley also stated that although the work week for a teacher is 37 1/2 hours, many teachers, every week, take their work home with them and exceed even 40 hours. He also stated that the responsibility of educating 30 children every day should not be under-estimated.

Ryscavage stated in a later interview that all education employees probably work longer than 40 hours per week, and that the pay difference is a fairly justifiable arrangement.

In comparison to the statewide rankings of administrative and supervisory positions, Garrett County ranks as follows: superintendent, 20 out of 24 reported juristictions; assistant superintendent, 20 out of 21 reported; director, at the maximum salary range 12 out of 18 reported, and at the miminum 16 out of 19 reported; supervisor, at the maxim um 10 out of 22 reported, and at the minimum 13 out of 22; coordinator, 17 out of 17 reported; principal, 17; vice principal, 22; and teacher, 24.

The source for the ranking infomation is both from a ranking schedule from the Maryland State Department of Education and from information provided by Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools. The information is based on 1989-90 data as well as data from 1990-91.

Some salary levels are affected by years of service, level of education, size of school, and other factors. Administrative and supervisory personnel are assigned to work either an 11-month year (207 days) or a 12-month year (244 days), 40 hours per week. They are granted 15 days paid leave at the time of appointment, and eventually earn 20 days paid leave.

On average, a Garrett County teacher with a master's degree and 15 years of experience will earn approximately $31,000. The work year of a teacher is 187 days, 37 1/2 hours per week. They are granted three paid personal days and ten sick days per year.

POWER OUTAGES AND ELECTRICAL PROBLEMS were par for the course Tuesday night as thunder, lightning and hail accompanied high winds throughout the county. Broken trees and tree limbs fell on power lines in all sections of Garrett County, like that pictured above on Monte Vista Road near Oakland. Bear Creek Road, out of Friendsville, was closed part of the day Wednesday because of power and telephone lines which fell across the road after trees fell on them and the poles snapped. Below, Philip and Sandra Buckel, of Bittinger, hold remnants of the electrical system in their home after lightning struck a tree near their home and traveled into the house, blowing electrical sockets and outlets out of the walls.

Tree Bill Passed With Amendment To Exempt Garrett And Allegany Counties

A Schaefer administration proposal intended to stem the loss of trees throughout the state of Maryland was enacted last week by the General Assembly, but was approved with an amendment that will exempt both Garrett and Allegany Counties.

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards proposed the amendment that would exclude the two counties with the highest number of state forestland. Both counties reportedly contain over 200,000 acres of forestland -- Garrett having 294,843, and Allegany having 212,459.

The bill (Senate Bill 224) is primarily aimed at developers and builders, requiring them to replace any trees cut down during the process of building or developing so that Maryland does not continue to experience a decrease in the number of trees in the state.

Edwards, however, has reported that Garrett County has actually seen an overall increase in the number of forested acres in the county, with an increase of approximately 9,000 acres from 1965-85 and a decrease of 2,699 acres from 1985-90. Overall, then, the increase from 1965-90 equals 6,301, according to Edwards.

Edwards stated that the state owns approximately 80,000 acres of forestland within the county. "That's more than most counties have in total acreage," he stated.

He also cited the fact that since Garrett County competes with only one other Maryland county in terms of lowest average income, the costs involved would also be prohibitive. A developer would be required to pay a fine into the state reforestation fund if unable to replace the lost trees. This, Edwards said, would drive the cost of housing and land up in the county. In addition, any individual who disturbs more than 40,000 square feet of land -- less than an acre -- must have a plan in place to show the state the manner and location in which the trees will be replaced.

Edwards also noted that the general public, in recent years, is much more willing to voluntarily plant trees on private land. He also reported that timbering on a fair amount of state forest land is difficult to impossible because of the many steep slopes.

The bill has now been sent to Governor William Donald Schaefer to sign.

programs in the amount of $78 million.

The total budget approved for next year by a joint House-Senate conference committee totals $11.6 billion, and includes additional financial aid to Baltimore City and the five poorest subdivisions, Garrett County among them. "Overall," said Edwards, "Garrett County fared very well in the budget process, with increased funds for park, water and sewerage projects."

Additional aid for the poorer subdivisions in the state will amount to an increase of $324,000 to Garrett County in the form of a special grant that will become part of the county's general fund. Edwards noted that this amount is "over and above" the money already allocated to the county for that fund.

State funding for education in the county will also see an increase of 6.7% (or $885,000) and property tax grants will be increased by 10.7% (or $52,000), while the local health formula funding will experience a decrease of 7.2% (or $31,000). Funds for the Open Space Program in the county will see a significant decrease -- 21.3% (or $13,000), and public safety funds will be decreased to a lesser degree by 5.1% (or $79,200). A more detailed account of specific program cuts and increases will appear in a later issue of The Republican.

Update On Edwards' Bills

Following is a list of some of the bills, sponsored or cosponsored by Delegate Edwards, that have now been enacted by the General Assembly and are awaiting the signature of Governor William Donald Schaefer:

HB 466 -- Vehicle Laws -- Maximum Speed Limit -- Interstate Highways. This bill was approved, and if signed by Governor Schaefer, will raise the speed limit on most of Interstate 70 from Howard County to Western Maryland, Interstate 83 in northern Baltimore County and stretches of Interstate 95 in Baltimore, Harford and Cecil counties.

Edwards noted that the this is "enabling" rather than "mandatory" legislation, and that he hopes a test area would be set up along one of the proposed sections of highway to be affected, so that safety and gas-saving factors can be studied.

He also noted that highways around metropolitan areas would not be affected by the change.

The governor has 30 days in which to sign or veto the legislation, but reports have indicated he is not in favor of the increase.

HB 553 -- Garrett County Board of Education -- Membership. This bill was passed and will provide for a member of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to serve as an ex-officio member on the Garrett County Board of Education. The position is a non-voting one and will provide that the county commissioner sit in on executive sessions held by the education board.

HB 642 -- Garrett County -- Negotiation of Representation Fee. This bill was also enacted by the legislature, and authorizes the public school employer in Garrett County to negotiate a service or representation fee with the employee organization that is the exclusive representative for public school employees in a unit, to be paid by specified employees.

A companion Senate bill, sponsored by District One Senator John Hafer, has also been passed. Edwards and Hafer both stressed that the law is enabling, not mandatory.

HB 1268 -- Creation of a State Debt -- Target, Inc. This bill is for the purpose of authorizing the creation of a state debt, not to exceed $225,000, for the construction of a fully accessible seven-bed recreational facility for developmentally disabled children and adults on Deep Creek Lake.

HB 1323 -- Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation -- Offer Cycles. This bill authorizes the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation to suspend all but one offer cycle for fiscal years 1992 and 1993 only.

HB 1306 -- Garrett County -- Tax Notices Publication Requirements. This bill changes the number of newspapers, from two to one, in which the treasurer of Garrett County must publish notices relating to the annual tax levy and delinquent tax payments.

HB 645 -- Garrett County -- Local Officials -- Salaries. This bill alters the powers and duties of the Garrett County Salary Study Commission. In particular, it changes the number of members from five to seven, including a representative of each of the following Garrett County groups: the Republican Central Committee, the Democrat Central Committee, the League of Women Voters, the Chamber of Commerce, the Farm Bureau, the County Council of PTA's and the Volunteer Firemen's Association, Inc.

Legislature Approves New Scholarship Plan

The General Assembly has approved sweeping changes in scholarship programs for Maryland college students, according to the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

The $14 million financial aid package, which was part of Governor Schaefer's 1991 legislative agenda, will guarantee that students from families with incomes below the poverty level can attend college at minimal cost.

The scholarships will be awarded to students who take college prep courses, maintain good grades and pledge to remain drug-free (the drug-free requirement will apply to all state scholarship recipients). Students who graduate from high school in 1985 will be the first to be offered the scholarships.

"Governor Schaefer and state legislators have sent a strong message to students, their families, and the business community -- that, despite the recession, support for Maryland higher education remains extremely high," said Shaila R. Aery, Secretary of High Education.

The program also increases the maximum grant for students from low- to middle-income families. the maximum amount will increase from $2,500 to $3,000; the state will provide up to 40 percent of need, compared with 30 percent at present.

"This is the most important step in higher education since the governor and the General Assembly reorganized higher education three years ago," Aery said.

With passage of what will be know as the "Educational Excellence Awards" (EEA) program, she said, Maryland joins a handful of states nationwide that help students from poverty level families attend college at little or no cost.

In conjunction with federal grants, the program will cover virtually all education costs for a student attending a two- or four-year public college or university in Maryland. The grants can be used to attend independent institutions.

The omnibus legislation, which is know as the "Scholarship Reform Act of 1991," is not limited to increase financial grants, however. In addition, it:

*Creates a grant program for students attending college part-time. This is particularly important to community college students.

*Establishes a loan forgiveness program for graduates who work in math- and science-related fields.

*Consolidates existing "manpower" scholarships into a new Economic Development Student Assistance Grant program to give the state flexibility in providing incentives for students to pursue careers in fields where there are shortages of workers.

BARN DAMAGE IN PLEASANT VALLEY — Barns on the farms of Raymond Jones and Levi Miller, both in Pleasant Valley south of Oakland, were severely damaged by tornado-like winds reaching 75 mph Tuesday night. The shed roof on the end of the Raymond Jones barn (above) was blown into the side of their home (see front page photo and story), breaking a window in the house, damaging the family's 4-wheel drive vehicle, and damaging equipment stored in the barn. On the Levi Miller farm, half of the barn roof was lifted off by high winds. The Amish community is gathering today at the Miller farm to replace the roof.

Battered Spouse Law Enacted

Precedent-setting legislation that will allow "battered spouse syndrome" to be used as evidence in Maryland courts was enacted last week by the Maryland General Assembly, with a 128-0 vote in the House and 44-1 vote in the Senate.

The measure reportedly will allow such evidence concerning a defendant's motive or state of mind surrounding a murder, manslaughter or maiming of a spouse or partner to be entered for consideration, but would not require a judge to evaluate a case based on that information alone.

New Tire Tax Bill Passed

A bill aimed at taxing every new tire sold in Maryland was amended last week by two Senate committees, who agreed to collect the $1 tax at the wholesale, rather than the retail, level -- amendments sought by the Maryland gas station dealers' association. The original bill had been passed by the House without those amendments.

Revenue from the tax is to be used by the Maryland Environmental Service to help in the development of a statewide scrap tire recycling program. One of the Senate committees added an amendment to the measure that would prohibit incineration of scrap tires unless no other "reasonable and economically available" manner of disposal existed.

Motor Vehicle Fee Increases Bill Rejected

Following approval by the Senate, a House committee, and later the full House, last week rejected a proposal to raise the cost of motor vehicle fees that would have raised an estimated $42 million for the state.

The proposed increase would have raised the cost of title certificate fees for a new car from $1 to $12, a driver's license renewal from $6 to $20, and would have increased the costs of some 60 additional motor vehicle fees.

The revenue that would have been collected from those increased fees was to have been used for the depleted capital improvement fund in the Maryland Department of Transportation.

PAC Limits Bill Passed By Assembly

For the first time in Maryland history, the state legislature has passed a package of campaign reform bills that would place a limit of $6,000 on the amount a political action committee (PAC) may contribute to any single candidate in a four-year election period.

In a related bill, lobbyists -- who often represent big business -- would not be allowed to manage PACs or to serve as financial directors, but would still be allowed to hold an advisory position.

A bill was also passed that would require a PAC name to reflect accurately what it represents.

The bills were overwhelmingly passed by both the House and Senate, each of whom had only one dissenting vote. The House sent the campaign contribution bill to the Senate with a $4,000 limit, but the Senate felt it should be higher, increasing it to $6,000.

Open Meetings Bill Passes

The House of Delegates and the Senate both passed a bill that will require government agencies to conduct more of their business in public, with the Senate delivering its decision just hours before the close of the 1991 session.

If signed into law by Governor William Donald Schaefer, who has publicly opposed it, the stricter law will go into effect July 1, 1992, and will cover all elected and appointed public councils, commissions and boards, as well as zoning and liquor boards, currently not covered under the present law.

Violators of the law will be subject to a $100 fine.

One provision of the bill is that an education program will be implemented by a three-member, gubernatorial-appointed panel. That panel will also rule on questions of closed-meeting policies.

level on the Horse Judging Team, Land Judging Team, and Dairy Foods Judging Team. Those three teams went on to compete at the national level. He served as his chapter's delegate to the Maryland State Convention in 1986 and 87, and attended the National FFA Convention in 1986, 87 and 88.

DeBerry received his FFA Greenhand Degree in 1983, his Chapter FFA Degree in 1984, and the State FFA Degree in 1987. He was the recipient of the DeKalb Award in 1986 and 1987, the Proficiency Award in 1985 and 1986, and was named Star Chapter Farmer in 1985.

Oakland FFA Chapter Advisor Steve Kisner said that DeBerry was a very active member of the Oakland chapter while in school, and has been supportive of chapter activities as a member of the Alumni Association. "Since graduation from high school," he said, "Charles has become an established part of the agribusiness community in Garrett County."

To qualify for the American FFA Degree, the national organization requires that the applicant be an active FFA member with a record of satisfactory participation in the activities of the local chapter and the state association. The applicant must also be a holder of the State FFA Degree.

The applicant must have completed a program of vocational education in agriculture, and must be involved in an agricultural occupational experience program which shows comprehensive planning, continuation, growth, and an increase in scope with records to substantiate such accomplishments, with earnings of at least $5,000 from the member's efforts which have been productively invested.

The member applying must also be able to show outstanding ability, evidenced by leadership and cooperation in student, chapter and community activities and have a satisfactory scholarship record certified by the local school superintendent or principal.

In his application, DeBerry said that living and working on a small farm has taught him many lessons that he can apply to many occupations. "Really there is no type of work I would rather do," DeBerry said. "My long-term goal is to own, operate and work my own farm." His ambitions, however, also include a degree in ag education and a future high school teaching position. To reach his goals, DeBerry is presently attending Garrett Community College and intends to transfer next fall to Potomac State College to major in ag education.

First United Sponsors Arts "Circus"

Tom Dougherty

"The Unraveling Circus," featuring Tom Dougherty, will be presented in the Garrett County school system April 16-18. The series of programs is being presented to all student grades 3-5 through major funding provided by First United National Bank & Trust. In addition, the Garrett County Arts Council and PTA's are acting as co-sponsors for the programs.

Tom Dougherty has appeared in arenas and theaters across the United States and abroad, on national and local television, as well as at the White House. A graduate of New York City's Neighborhood Playhouse and a veteran of the Ringling Brothers & Barnum & Bailey Circus, Dougherty was also a producing clown at Circus World in Orlando, Fla., as well as a member of the New York City Clown Theater Festival. His teaching credits include Clown College, Bucks Rock Creative Arts Camp in New Milford, Connecticut, and private as well as public schools in New York City. He and his wife, Julie Herber, are both founding members of Theatricks, a theater company located in Frederick.

"By nature, clowning is an often misunderstood art form. Most Americans have a limited view of clowning due to the commercialized images of Ronald McDonald and Bozo, overlooking the masters such as Chaplin and Keaton, Lou Jacobs and Emmett Kelly," stated the feature performer.

One reviewer of Dougherty stated, "In The Unraveling Circus, Dougherty has crafted theater and circus elements into a unique and engaging program. Children and adults of all ages will learn and enjoy the `art' of clowning. The program's emphasis is on discovery and resourcefulness. Dougherty's character uses the comedy of human imperfection to accomplish his goals. The audience easily feels empathy to his dilemmas and they delight in his solutions. With a blend of pantomime, juggling, balancing, improvisation and audience participation, he creates a program that is educational and entertaining and realizes the potential of problem solving.

"The primary objective of this program is to make students and teachers alike laugh. It is through this shared laughter that a recognition of the comedy of the human spirit, always meeting new problems, sometimes failing at first but ultimately using resourcefulness to succeed, is seen."

This season's performances mark the fifth year that First United has provided the major funding for arts programming in the schools. Past performances have featured accomplished violinists, pianists, opera singers, and dancers - "all aimed at providing an ideal `first experience' with the arts," stated a First United spokesman.

The elementary school students will be transported to various schools within the county. Specific schedules may be obtained by contacting First United's Marketing department at (301) 334-9471.

KVFD Book To Feature Jan's Studio Collection

Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department President Tom Harriman has announced that Jan Cook, owner of Jan's Studio of Photography, Kingwood, has offered to donate the use of his collection of Buckwheat Festival photographs in a commemorative book entitled, Golden Harvest: 50 Years at the Preston County Buckwheat Festival, to be published by the Department this spring.

"This is an incredible gesture on Jan's part," Harriman said, "because as everyone knows, Jan has a reputation as being one of the best photographers in the nation. Thank goodness he is here in Preston County, and thank goodness he has offered to share this historic collection with the people of Preston County."

"I first started taking pictures of the Festival in 1956," Jan said, "and I haven't missed a one since. As a result, I have approximately 6,000 prints and slides available, many of them never seen before in any publication."

The 128-page, 8½"x11" book will contain over 100 photographs, according to editor Bob Teets, whose Terra Alta business, Headline Books, Inc., will produce the book. "We are extremely proud that Jan has offered the use of his priceless collection," Teets said. "This will definitely make the book a once-in-a-lifetime collector's item."

Cook developed his interest in photography while a student at Rowlesburg High School in 1947. He used a darkroom owned by Dr. Janis, a local physician, who also was a photography hobbyist. As a sideline, Cook used to develop film for area drug stores when store owners would send film to him via the train to Rowlesburg.

He pursued the hobby and became a photographer for the U.S. Marine Corps while he was stationed at Parris Island, S.C., then in Rhode Island, Havana, Cuba, and finally in Portsmouth, Va.

He attended West Virginia Wesleyan, Fairmont State College, and West Virginia University, then went on to teach science, biology and physical education at Valley Senior High School, Masontown, while continuing to learn more about his art.

He founded Jan's Studio of Photography in 1956, and has guided the business to national recognition. He has lost count of the number of awards he's won, but said the one he's most proud of is the National Award sponsored by the Professional Photographer's Association of America, bestowed on him in 1973.

Cook, who is also a member of the KVFD, said many of the photos he's taken of the Buckwheat Festival will be featured in the production of a series of videos that his affiliated company, V.I.P. Productions, headed by his son, J.L. Cook, will produce. The series will highlight the Festival in three year segments, beginning with original footage from the first Festival, compiled from 16mm film.

Cook said the KVFD's use of his photos will mark the first time that so much of his work has appeared in a book.

Two versions of the book are planned, a Collector's Edition with a dust jacket and slip case, and a Heritage Edition, retailing for $22.95 and $17.95, respectively. The Collector's Edition will be limited to 500 copies when the book is printed in the spring, but Teets said the Preston County Homemaker's Clubs that are marketing the book have done such a good job of preselling it that the limited edition volume may be sold out before then.

Clarification Noted On Crisis Pregnancy Center Report

In last week's issue of The Republican, a story appeared concerning the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center. Two items in the story have since been adjusted by the center's managers.

It was stated that the Crisis Pregnancy Center paid rent to the Camp Meeting Association. In fact, the center exists at the grounds rent-free, and has only to pay the costs of utilities.

Secondly, the report included information on the renting out of space at the center. Nellie and Ward Ashby, managers of the center, clarified that by stating that they have neither the right nor the desire to "rent" the area, but do in fact "suggest a donation" to those who wish to use any part of the grounds.

The misinterpretations are regretted.

RESA Reports On ARC-Funded Tech. Project

The Regional Education Service Agency announced today the completion of a $100,000 project funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission to assist small and intermediate manufacturers in bridging new technologies. The Agency, in cooperation with the higher education community serving Western Maryland, put together a program of training and consultant services that focused on waste management, computer technology, and productivity.

The Technology Transfer Project was carried out through the continuing education divisions of Allegany and Garrett Community Colleges and Hagerstown Junior College. Frostburg State University, the University of Maryland at College Park, and the Maryland Technology Extension Services provided consultant services and on-site assistance.

Seventy-six formal offerings totaling 629 hours of instruction were carried out over the two-year period of the project. Over 1,100 persons participated in the program directly, while "countless others" benefitted by telephone consultations, on-site discussions, and shared information carried back to the work sites by the trainees, according to a RESA spokesman.

Frank Peto, executive director of RESA and Technology Transfer Project director, said, "More than 9,100 man-hours of instruction and on-site assistance were provided by the technology project. The program provided a great opportunity for local manufacturers to join with college personnel in exploring new developments in industry."

The project was carried out under the leadership of a 11-member advisory committee. Committee members are Jon Loff and Gary Durr, Allegany Community College; Sandy Major and Tom Kierstead, Garrett Community College; Chuck Ernst, Bruce Begole and Steve Shank, Hagerstown Junior College; Dr. Steve Wilkinson and Mark Malec, Frostburg State University; Frank Moderacki, University of Maryland Technology Extension Service; and Frank Peto, RESA.

Rams Get On Winning Track By Sweeping Lions In Doubleheader

The Southern High Rams, expected to be one of the area's top teams, got on track Saturday afternoon by sweeping a pair of games from visiting Tucker County, 13-3 and 6-5. The victories improved the Rams' season mark to 2-1-1 and they will go after win number three this afternoon at home against Petersburg.

The Rams were down 2-0 after the top of the first inning in the opener, but wasted little time putting their own runs on the board. They scored three in their half of the first behind a two-run double by Britten Martin and recorded eight more in the third to put the game away.

Brett Rice, Martin, Jeremy Bosley, Dave Kurtz, and Joby Tasker all walked in the third frame to force home two runs. Later in the inning, Rice rapped a two-run double and Martin followed with a two-run single.

Southern added two insurance runs in the fourth and the game was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

The second contest was not nearly as lopsided, as the Rams found themselves down 5-2 in the fifth inning.

Again it was Martin with a two-out, two-run double in the bottom of the fifth that spearheaded a Ram comeback. His shot scored Garth Glotfelty and Rice.

Southern knotted the score at 5-5 in the sixth when Shane Skipper stroked an infield single to score Kenny Green from third base.

The Rams won the game in the bottom of the seventh when Martin singled home Shawn Ryan, who had led off the inning by reaching second base on an error and then moved to third on a sacrifice.

Martin finished the day with a total of eight RBI.

After the Rams take on the Petersburg Vikings this afternoon, they will host Central Preston this Saturday in a doubleheader, beginning at 1 p.m.

Huskies Open Baseball Season With Best Start In History

Northern High School won three more games on the baseball diamond this past week to up its record to 4-0, believed to be the best start in the school's history. The Huskies edged host Westmar on Friday, 3-2, and then easily rolled over Mapletown, Pa., in both ends of a doubleheader on Saturday, 16-4 and 22-7. They played at Beall last night (see separate story).

The Wildcats of Westmar took a 1-0 lead in the second inning of Friday's game on a solo home run by Dave Nash. However, the Huskies scored all three of their runs in the fifth inning and halted a seventh-inning rally by the Wildcats to secure the win.

Richard Schofield led off Northern's half of the fifth with an infield single and then came home on a double by Chad Sines, who made it to third when the Westmar third baseman dropped the ball on an attempted tag. Mark Beals then reached on an infield error and intentionally drew a pick-off throw from pitcher Greg Johnson, which got by the first baseman and allowed Sines to score.

The final Northern run came when Jarrett McKenzie singled and Beals slid home and kicked the ball out of the mitt of the Westmar catcher after a perfect throw home by Nash.

Westmar attempted to rally in the seventh when Chris Shockey rapped his second double of the game and scored on a bases-loaded, one-out sacrifice fly by Buck Lough. Derek Mason, who relieved Northern starter Eric Umbel, worked out of the jam and left the tying and winning runs on base.

The Wildcats, now 0-2, left eight runners stranded in scoring position to up their season total to 20 in just two games.

The Northern bats hammered out 29 hits resulting in 38 runs in Saturday's two wins over Mapletown; although both games were close throughout the first three innings, but both ended early because of the 10-run rule.

A third inning solo home run by McKenzie gave the Huskies a 2-1 lead before Northern ran away with the game in the fourth frame by scoring nine runs.

McKenzie finished that game with two hits and two RBI, Sines smacked a three-run double and a single, and Dennis Deigert went three-for-four, including a two-run double.

Umbel earned the win on the mound, striking out seven and walking two in four and one-third innings. Mason came on to record the save.

The Huskies led 3-0 in the first inning of the night-cap, 4-1 after three, and 5-1 after four before putting the game away with a six-run fifth and 11 runs in the sixth inning.

Sines went two-for-two, McKenzie and Deigert each doubled and singled, Chad Anderson contributed a two-run double, and Rob Speicher also doubled and singled.

Morcraft paced Mapletown with a total of four hits and four RBI, while Compston added two singles for two RBI.

Bowl For Kids' Sake Raises Nearly $11,000 For Big Brothers, Sisters

The second annual Garrett County Bowl for Kids' Sake was held last Saturday at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland. Bowlers, young and old, from the area pitched in and gave their best performance to help make the event surpass last year's tournament in raising funds for the youth of Garrett County. Bowl for Kids' Sake is the major fund-raiser for Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America, with all 480 chapters nationwide going to the local bowling lanes on that weekend to help raise funds for local chapters.

In Garrett County, over 125 bowlers participated in knocking down pins for the newly formed Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies. This money will be used for the expansion of services to the children of Garrett County in the coming year, according to Dan Seib, BB/BS coordinator.

The local branch had a goal of $10,000 for the 1991 tournament which was surpassed with a total of $10,748.73, according to Anna Bishop, co-chairperson for the event in Garrett County.

"I can't thank these people enough for the time and energy they spent in going out into the community and getting the pledges to make it work," Ms. Bishop said. "I'd especially like to thank James Cogley and Mike Smith for the job they did."

Cogley and Smith were the top pledgers in the adult category, while T.J. Riley was the top pledger in the elementary category. Over 15 bowlers had pledges of $100 or more.

Of the 26 corporate sponsors of the Bowl for Kids' Sake event, 16 entered teams in the Corporate Sponsor Tournament held the same day at Par-Matt Lanes. The team from B.P.O. Elks captured first place with a scratch score of 793. The B.P.O. Elks team members were Jeff Meyers, Fred Sanders, Dave Simmons and John Sharpless. They will retain custody of the Bowl for Kids' Sake trophy for another year, because B.P.O. Elks was the winner last year as well. "While the trophy will remain with the Elks, I feel that a good time was had by all the teams," said Ms. Bishop.

Placing second was the team representing The Republican Newspaper, consisting of Bill and Joyce Steyer, and Harold and Merry Paugh.

For information on the services offered by the Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters, persons may contact Dan Seib, coordinator, at 334-3591 on Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 9 to noon, or leave a message at that number. Persons may also write to the Garrett County Branch, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, P.O. Box 122, Oakland, Maryland 21550. The local chapter is seeking both children and volunteer adults who would like to become involved in the program.

Yutzy Winner In Mini-Tour

The Tri-State Bowling Mini-Tour was in Jennerstown, Pa., Sunday, and Kevin Yutzy, Grantsville, won The Jennerstown Speedway Open in the final match with a score of 220 to 205 for runner-up Danny Damewood.

Other local bowlers making the finals were: Joe Mullenax (third), Bill Green (eight), Brad Reams, (13th), Shawn Leap (15th), and Rocky Smith (18th).

Over $3000 were paid out at Terrace Lanes this weekend.

Lakers Sweep Harford Before Dropping A Pair To Rockville

The Garrett Community College Lakers swept both ends of a doubleheader from Harford CC on Saturday, 15-0 and 8-3, in Bel Air, only to have those victories "cancelled out" on Sunday by losing a twinbill to host Montgomery-Rockville, 9-6 and 6-3. The Lakers then played a pair last night at Hagerstown Junior College (see separate story).

Garrett hammered out 28 hits in the games against Harford, as Buddy Leichliter and Rod Freeman each finished with five. Two of Leichliter's and two by D.G. Largent were home runs, while Mick Bayle, Chad McCullough, and Mike Leshok each smacked one round-tripper.

Tony Angelo and Tom McDermitt combined for a five-hitter in the first game for the Lakers, as Angelo was credited with the win and improved his personal record to 2-1.

The Lakers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on a lead-off homer by Leshok and RBI singles by Largent and Freeman.

GCC made it 7-0 in the third inning on a two-run single by Todd Booth, a ground-out by Freeman that scored Leichliter, and a run by Bayle on an error.

Largent rapped his two-run homer in the fourth inning and Leshok made it 10-0 with a single in the fifth inning.

A grand slam by Leichliter and a solo shot by Largent accounted for five Laker runs in the seventh inning.

The Lakers scored in every inning of the second game, as Bayle, Leichliter, and McCullough each homered, and Jarrod Hardy picked up the win on the mound, his second in as many starts.

The double-loss on Sunday to Montgomery-Rockville was particularly painful for Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt and his team, as the Lakers held leads in both contests, including a 6-0 advantage in the first game.

Four straight walks by Laker batters in the first inning gave them a 1-0 lead.

Mike Clark followed with a triple in the second inning and came home on a sacrifice by Leshok to make it 2-0.

A two-run double by McCullough highlighted the Lakers' four-run third inning. But then the bottom fell out for the Garrett team.

A single, an error, a three-run hit, and a double by Rockville in the fifth cut the GCC lead to 6-5, and the Knights won the game in the sixth with four runs on a single, triple, and two errors.

In the second game, the Lakers took a 1-0 lead on a single by Bayle in the first inning.

The Knights came back in the bottom of the first to take a 2-1 lead on two bases-loaded walks.

The Lakers came back to tie in the second when Freeman singled, stole second, reached third on an error, and came home on a sacrifice fly by Lollis.

But Rockville took the lead for good in the bottom of that inning when Fitzgerald doubled and later scored on a two-base error.

Rockville added another run in the third on a ground-out RBI, a sacrifice fly in the fifth, and a two-out single in the sixth. The Lakers scored just one more run when Lollis doubled in the third and Clark followed with a single to send Lollis home.

The sweep by the Knights upped their record to 18-1.

Moore Named To All-Region And All-State Teams

Chuckie Moore, the all-time leading scorer for the Garrett Community College Lakers, received a pair of top post-season honors this past week, as he was named to both the All-Maryland JUCO Conference Division I First Team and the All-Region XX Division I First Team.

Moore, a 6-5 sophomore guard, averaged 25 points per contest this past season and broke Jimmy Feagan's GCC record for most career points. He also led the team in rebounds with an average of nine per game. He paced the Lakers to a two-year record of 46-19 and to their best finish ever in the Maryland JUCO American Division, which occurred this year.

The All-American candidate is a native of the Baltimore area.

Named to the second team of both JUCO and Region XX all-stars was Garrett's Bruce Boldley, a 6-1 sophomore guard, who was the second leading scorer for the Lakers this past season with 12 points per game and also led the team in assists.

Lakers Drop A Pair To Hawks Of Hagerstown

Despite holding leads in both games of a doubleheader yesterday afternoon with Hagerstown Junior College, the Garrett Community College again came up a double loser, 7-3 and 7-6, and evened their overall record to 7-7 (2-5 in JUCO competition). The Lakers also continued to be plagued with errors, as they committed nine miscues on the afternoon, seven of which were in the second game after holding a 5-1 lead.

"We have committed 17 errors in the last four games," stated GCC Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt. "We can't win very many games with that many mistakes."

In other games this past week, the Lakers swept a pair of games from Harford CC on Saturday and then lost two on Sunday to Montgomery-Rockville (see separate story). They will be busy for the next several days, as they are slated to host Essex CC in a single game this Friday, play a doubleheader at Potomac State College on Saturday, play two at CC Allegheny of Pittsburgh on Sunday, and one at Allegany CC next Tuesday.

In the first game Wednesday at Hagerstown, the Lakers took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Mike Leshok singled, moved to second on a wild pitch, advanced to third on an error, and came home on a fielder's choice.

The Hawks came back to take a 2-1 edge in the bottom of the inning, but the Lakers tied the score in the second on a two-out RBI single by Mike Clark. Garrett went on top 3-2 in the third frame when D.G. Largent rapped a run-producing single.

Hagerstown took the lead for good with two runs in the fifth and added three insurance runs in the sixth.

The Lakers also scored a run in the opening inning of the second game, this time on an error. Hagerstown tied it with a single run in the bottom of the inning before Garrett moved out to a 5-1 advantage with two runs in the second and two in the fourth. Ron Freeman smacked an RBI triple and Chris Lollis singled for a run in the second inning. A passed ball and an RBI double by Mike Leshok accounted for the two runs in the fourth.

But again the Hawks rallied to tie the score with four runs in the bottom of the fourth on three RBI singles and a bases-loaded walk. They took a 6-5 lead in the fifth on a base hit by Miller.

GCC came back to knot the score at 6-6 in the sixth on an RBI single by Mick Bayle that sent pinch-runner Brandon Diehl home, but a single by Marargal in the bottom of the seventh sent Miller home with the winning run for the Hawks.

Both teams finished with a total of 20 hits on the afternoon.

Oakland Team Defends Silver Classic Title

Niner Construction, formerly Stewart's Funeral Home, won its third consecutive Silver Classic Oldtimers Championship Monday night in Cumberland as they knocked off Shorty's Tires of Petersburg, W.Va., 81-69. This was the Oakland team's 13th win in a row over the past three years.

Shorty's jumped out to an 18-4 lead five minutes into the first quarter, but Niner's turned up the defense and three-pointers by Steve Liller and Dennis Gibson helped them cut the lead to 22-14 at the end of the first period. Niner's never allowed Shorty's to gain a larger margin the remainder of the game as they cut the lead to five at the half, 40-35.

The second half was all Niner's as they scored the first six points of the half and were never behind the rest of the game. They pulled out by as many as 13 points in the third quarter and were up 63-55 at the end of the third stanza.

Shorty's made a run in the last two minutes, cutting the lead to as few as six points, 73-67, but that was as close as Niner's would allow.

Niner's Steve Liller was voted the tournament MVP for the second year in a row. Teammates Dennis Gibson and Ken Niner were members of the all-tournament team.

Steve Liller 9-2-23, Kevin Liller 6-2-16, Ken Niner 4-4-12, Dennis Gibson 7-4-19, Jim Bosley 0-0-0, Jerry Myers 2-0-4, Dan Bosley 1-0-2, Jerry Herpel 1-2-5. Totals 30-12-81.

Broadwater, Grant Lead First United Over Shaffer Ford

Bob Broadwater made a record seven three-point baskets to lead First United over Shaffer Ford, 72-70, in Over 30 Basketball Association action this past week. The key to the First United victory was the clutch foul shooting of Bill Grant, who was perfect from the foul line in the last remaining seconds of the game. Shaffers was led by Monty Pagnehardt and Rob Michael with 15 and 14 points, respectively.

Dan Bosley scored an individual high of 38 points to help Coors demolish Bausch and Lomb, 81-64 Coors, the only team to remain undefeated in this year's action, led the entire match. Bausch and Lomb continue to struggle without a victory this year. Bobby "Slapshot" Elliot and Walt "Coop" Cooper led B&L with 16 points each.

Metteki Coal did not have any difficulty handling Garrett Mine Service in a rout, 76-58. Stan Skiles led Metteki with 28 points while teammate Ed Panther netted 21. Denny Skeweris had 18 points and Randy DiSomne netted 22 for GMS.

Two weeks remain in league action. Next week pits Bausch & Lomb against First United in the 7 p.m. match while Coors takes on Garrett Mine Service at 8 p.m. Metteki plays host to Shaffer Ford in the 9 p.m. late match.

Winds Cause

$5,000 in damage, Miller said that no equipment or livestock was damaged, and if the wind died down there would be a new roof on the barn by Thursday evening.

A corncrib was lifted from its foundation on the Kenneth Bachtel farm on Route 219 south of Red House. The building, which was anchored to the ground with cables, was lifted and laid on its side along the highway. Although no distinct funnel formation was seen, the same dense black cloud was seen over the Bachtel farm.

A wooden silo was demolished on the Elizabeth Zook farm on Smouse Road, also in Pleasant Valley.

Another apparent tornado was reported to have made a path of destruction through a wooded area on Paradise Acres Road on Deep Creek Lake, off Sand Flat Road. A path 1/2 to one mile long was made by high winds in the area near Vanabard Bush Retreat. At the time of the report, trees were blocking the driveway to the Retreat, and it was not known if any damage had been done to buildings there.

Many roads in the county were blocked by broken or uprooted trees. Trees falling on power lines caused a power outage for about 2,000 Potomac Edison customers in the county, according to Lanny Dillon, Potomac Edison area superintendent. Potomac Edison crews from Winchester, Va., were called in to help restore power in the area. C.W. Wright Contractors were also called in to clear trees from the wires, and Dillon said on Wednesday afternoon that 25-35 percent of the power had been restored and they expected to have power restored in all areas by Thursday.

According to Harold Smith, Garrett County Roads Department superintendent in the southern end of the county, several roads were closed by fallen trees. Opened Wednesday morning by Roads Department crews were Nest Lick Acres Road, Paradise Point Road, Sang Run Road, Chisholm Road, and Bayard-Corunna Road.

one-lane in the Shallmar, Boiling Springs and Crellin areas were also cleared, according to Smith.

Stewart Summers, Garrett County Roads Department superintendent in the Accident area, reported that trees were down on roads and power lines, but that no extensive damage had been done. Bear Creek Road out of Friendsville had been closed, Summers said, because electric and telephone lines had fallen across the road, but were cleared by Potomac Edison crews on Wednesday.

A spokesman at the Keyser's Ridge State Highway Administration complex said crews cleared trees from various areas in the northern end of the county, as well.

Lightning caused damage at the Bittinger home of Philip and Sandra Buckel. After striking a tree about 30 yards from the house, the lightning traveled underground to a dusk-to-dawn light and then into the house. Electrical sockets were blown out of the walls, light bulbs exploded, and, according to Mrs. Buckel, one wall will have to be replaced because the force that blew the sockets from the wall, also pulled the wires connecting the sockets through the drywall.

Although initially much appliance damage was expected, Mrs. Buckel said they were very fortunate. They lost only their water pump and hot water heater. All other appliances tested "OK." "It is amazing," she said.

Other damages included the loss of a 155-foot communications tower by Garrett County Emergency Management. According to a spokesman, they were relying on backup power until their main source could be brought back on line. Frostburg radio station, WFRB, was off the air Tuesday night and part of Wednesday due to a power failure. State police reported windows blown out of residences and businesses in the Grantsville and Swanton areas.

All admit that although property damage was widespread, Garrett County was extremely lucky to have suffered no deaths or injuries from the high winds and storms Tuesday night.

Planning Office Issues Annual Report For '90

The Maryland Office of Planning this week issued its 1990 Annual Report highlighting the department's accomplishments of the past year.

In addition to providing staff for The Governor's Commission on Growth in the Chesapeake Bay Region, the agency was involved last year with promoting the 1990 Census, planning future uses for the former Navy training center at Bainbridge, providing direct planning assistance to over 150 projects in towns and communities throughout the state and publishing a directory on state assistance programs. The agency is now providing technical support and assistance for the upcoming congressional and legislative redistricting plans.

"We have been deeply involved in issues which have an impact on the daily lives of each and every Marylander. This has been one of the busiest and most challenging years in the history of this agency," planning director Ronald M. Kreitner said.

The 12-page report details the successes of the agency's four operational units, Comprehensive Planning, Local Planning Assistance, Planning Data Services and Intergovernmental Assistance/State Clearinghouse.

Copies of the report are available by contacting Dennis McGee, Room 1101, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore Md, 21201.

Arbor Day Is Observed At Dennett Road

Parent volunteers, staff members, and students met on the Dennett Road School's arboretum grounds April 3 for a work session in celebration of Maryland Arbor Day. Those present were: Mrs. Carol Tuomisto and Mrs. Barbara Schick, Arboretum Committee co-chairpersons; Mrs. Sharon Schwalm and Mrs. Billie Sue Durham, committee members; Dr. Karl Schwalm, parent volunteer; Les McDaniel, school guidance counselor and committee member; Mrs. Linda Fleming, Chapter I resource teacher and committee member; Clark Sharpless, school principal and committee member; and the following fourth grade students: Stephanie Ballard, Jamie Durst, Michelle McCartney, John Peterson, Ashley Reese, and Kane Wengerd.

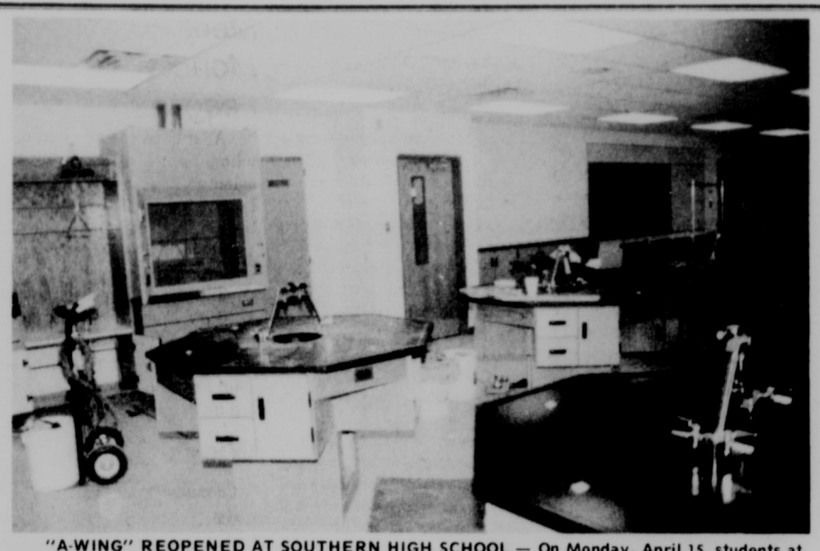
The crew worked at hauling and spreading a truck-load of wood chips throughout about one-half of the arboretum's pathways, and staking pines along the windbreak for further strengthening of them.

Dennett Road School and its Arboretum Committee noted appreciation to the following people for their support of the arboretum's Arbor Day project: John Forman and Wood Products, Inc. for the donation of wood chips; Butch Glotfelty of Glotfelty Enterprises, Inc. for delivery of the wood chips; Mrs. Carol Tuomisto for her contribution of twine for tree staking; and Bob Crowe's vocational education class at Southern High School for their donation of wooden stakes.

A spokesman for the school stated that the Arboretum Committee hopes to have some new plantings in time for their Earth Day celebration on April 26. She commented that spring would be an appropriate time for remembering a deceased loved one through a living memorial such as a tree, shrub, flowering plant, etc. Present needs also include large, (12-seat capacity) wooden picnic tables and wooden waste receptacles. "All donations would be greatly appreciated and will receive public recognition on a permanent plaque that will be attached to the school's soon-to-be constructed front lawn sign," the spokesman said. The new school sign will be built by Barry Dominick and funded by contributions by Beachy Lumber, Dr. and Mrs. Karl Schwalm, and Island Creek Coal Co.

The next scheduled Arboretum Committee meeting will be conducted at 2 p.m. on Monday, April 15, in Dennett Road's Chapter I room. The public is invited to attend.



"A-WING" REOPENED AT SOUTHERN HIGH SCHOOL — On Monday, April 15, students at Southern High School will occupy the newly renovated "A-wing" which formerly housed the girl's gymnasium and science classrooms. During the past eight months, A-wing has been transformed into a modern educational facility housing science, math, computer, drama and yearbook classrooms and drafting and electronics vocational labs. The science classrooms are complete with laboratory stations, such as the chemistry lab/classroom pictured above, and the computer lab below. All classrooms are equiped with new casework for storage and new student furniture. The building has many improvements including a new heating system, fluorescent lighting, ventilation, including venting of laboratory classrooms, central air conditioning and a sprinkler system for fire safety. Energy conserving panels have been installed on the single-pane windows which were not scheduled for replacement due to budget limitations. Work continues in various parts of the building with additional renovation to commence in the vocational classrooms of carpentry, automotive and agriculture. The project remains on schedule with all students expected to return to Southern High School when classes resume in September.

GOBA Meeting Issues Noted

The Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) met recently and discussed several issues, including the success of the ski train and limited Sunday sales of alcohol in the county.

The ski train carried 75 people to Garrett County in February and was thought to be a success, as discussed at the meeting. Jack Jones, GOBA president, suggested that each business write a letter to James Lighthouse, Md. Department of Transportation secretary, to indicate that more ski trains would be appreciated, and to encourage the use of trains during the Autumn Glory Festival and the whitewater activities.

Another topic discussed at the meeting was the limited Sunday sale of alcohol. The association is planning to write a letter to the Garrett Co. Commissioners to voice its support for the sales, as the members feel that the practice will encourage tourism. Another benefit noted was the proposed allotment of the sales tax to special needs groups, such as senior citizens or education groups.

Association members noted that the wooden train stations and Friend's Store are now available.

The next meeting of GOBA was held on April 9. Information on that meeting is forthcoming.

GCC To Hold Faculty Workshop

A workshop entitled "A Brain-Based Approach to Teaching and Learning" will be held for all full-time and adjunct faculty at Garrett Community College this Friday, April 12, at 7 p.m. in Room 309/311. Presenters for the workshop will be Pat and Larry McMann, a husband and wife team who are doctoral students at Wayne State University in Michigan and who have done extensive research in learning styles and left brain/right brain dominance.

Based upon the 4MAT System of identifying learning styles developed by educator Bernice McCarthy, the McManns' presentation will show how the brain controls the way students learn, and how a teacher's understanding of this process can facilitate learning in a classroom. Participants at the workshop will begin to explore the potential of the human brain and discover more about the roles played by emotions, stress, memory systems, and motivation in the learning process. Concepts of learning styles theory presented at an earlier workshop in the fall will be integrated in the evening's activities.

This workshop is the third in a series of professional development activities planned this year by Dr. Nancy Priselac, special assistant to the president at GCC.

GCC Veterans Club to Hold Benefits Workshop

The Garrett Community College Veterans Club will be sponsoring a Benefits Workshop on Wednesday, April 17, at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the college. This workshop is for anyone in the community who may need assistance with veterans' benefits.

According to Clifford Everett, spokesperson for the Vets Club, the group is especially interested in helping widows of veterans, disabled veterans, and dependents of veterans.

Anyone desiring further information about the workshop may call Dee Thomas at the college, 387-6666.

BRONZE MEDAL WINNER - Dave Rager, a senior in the Auto Mechanics program at Southern High School, displays his certificate for winning third place in the Automotive Technology competition at the recent Maryland Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) Skills Olympics in Baltimore. To win his medal, Rager had to compete against 15 other participants in two general knowledge and complete the following: disassemble an alternator, test it, and re-assemble; disassemble and re-assemble a MacPherson strut; use the engine analyzer to diagnose an ignition problem; turn a brake rotor on an Amoco brake lathe; perform and diagnose a fuel injection balance test; diagnose a charging system with a VAT40; and other various diagnostic and disassemble/re-assemble task. Nearly a dozen Southern VICA students will be participating in the VICA National Skills Olympics in Kentucky later this spring. When I must leave you for a little while,
Please do not grieve and shed wild tears,
And hug your sorrow to you through the years,
But start out bravely with a gallant smile;
And for my sake and in my name,
Live on and do all things the same.
Feed not your loneliness on empty days,
But fill each waking hour in useful ways.
Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer,
And I, in turn, will comfort you and hold you near.
And never, never be afraid to die,
For I am waiting for you in the sky!

Deadline For Tax Filing Can Be Extended

With one week left in the 1991 tax season, some taxpayers may be thinking about getting more time to file their federal income tax returns.

Internal Revenue Service District Director for Maryland and the District of columbia H.J. Hightower said, "To receive the extra time, taxpayers must file Form 4868, Application for Automatic Extension of Time to file U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, by midnight, April 15, and include any expected balance due." This gives taxpayers until Aug. 15 to file the return. No reason need be given for the extension.

Hightower cautioned that an extension of time to file is not an extension of time to pay the tax due. Taxpayers must make a reasonable estimate of their total tax liability and pay any balance due, or the extension will not be granted.

If any additional tax is owed when the return is finally filed, interest is charged on the overdue amount. The current interest rate is 10 percent, compounded daily. There is also a late payment penalty of one-half percent per month if less than 90 percent of the total tax is paid by the deadline. The penalty for those who file late without an extension is 5 percent per month of the balance due, with a minimum penalty for returns over 60 days late of $100 or the full balance due, whichever is less.

Form 4868 is available at all eleven IRS offices throughout Maryland and the District of Columbia as well as some banks, post offices, and libraries.

about Johnstown and Pittsburgh though. We all know the poor coverage afforded by the Cumberland paper, and believe it or not, the radio stations in this area deliver their newscasts right from the Times-News.

Try getting something as simple as a weather report off the radio. You take it for granted, but we can't get one! The WFRB radio tower is three miles away, and located in Garrett County, but they give only weather for Allegany County (there is a difference). The Oakland stations don't reach this far, and sometimes we can't receive NOAA weather from Elkins (special radio required). We have to watch WJAC-TV, Johnstown, or listen to WVSC, Somerset, and assume that we will get the same weather as Somerset, Pa.

We have no Public Broadcasting TV coverage either. Many of us have spent elaborate sums on high-powered amplified antenna systems, just so we could receive the PBS repeater station in Oakland. A few have been successful, but I can receive only a very snowy picture, and that only in the middle of the winter, and only after spending over $800 on such a system.

So come on folks, as poorly serviced and represented as we are, we're still a part of the family too! We really are Garrett Countians, and would like to be included. Home rule just might be the way, since the present system doesn't work for us. We can't help the way we were sold off, but please don't perpetuate it, let us in!

Sincerely,
Karl F. Schulte
Frostburg, Garrett County, Maryland

I have no interest, whatsoever, in elective office.

However, you will be hearing a lot from me between now and the 1992 elections about Charter Home Rule; I intend to write often, and work hard for its adoption as a fresh new form of government for our county that will remove the power from the hands of the "career" politicians and place it in the hands of the people, where it belongs. Only then will we be able to address the runaway cost of county government and begin, right at the top, to bring "public" sector salaries and benefits, back in line with the "private" sector that pays the bills.

Whether you appreciate it or not, we live in a county where the average "private sector" wage and salary barely reaches blue-collar standards, yet the largest homogenous group, by far, the "public sector" employees, are paid twice that amount, and more, with no end in sight. For our children's sake, if no one else's, we must begin to reverse the process by taking back our governments from the architects of this anomaly; the "Career" politicians of our various governments.

The longest journey begins with but a single step; the first step here, is instituting Charter Home Rule in Garrett County. Do your homework on it; and talk to your friends, then be prepared to help write the new County Charter that will govern us under a broad based, County Council system.

Respectfully,
Ronald R. Rowan

To the Editor:

My name is Ronald Rowan. I live in Shallmar, where the per capita income is well below the poverty level. Though I'm not a bleeding heart Liberal, I was raised to care about people. I was asked by Commissioner John Braskey to serve on the Charter Home Rule, Charter writing panel. I've accepted.

First of all, I am not a genius; and I know it, but I did graduate from Frostburg State in 1956 with honors, and I subsequently managed, starting from a top rate "hourly" welder, to climb the corporate ladder of a "Fortune 500 Corp.," well into the upper echelons of top management, before health problems brought my career to an abrupt end at the tender age of fifty-two. As a corporate purchasing agent the last fifteen years of my career, I was responsible for spending hundreds of millions of dollars of the corporations money in a frugal, cost effective fashion. I was inundated by people who wanted to "do" things for me, and wouldn't you know, they all knew, better than I, what was best for the company. I was born and raised in Cumberland in the 30's and 40's; not yesterday, the beginning of the end of the "Age of Innocence."

I tell you all of this as a preamble, so that you will know something of the man behind the vow I'm about to make:

Correction Noted

It was incorrectly reported in last week's edition of The Republican newspaper that a retirement dinner for Dr. R. Neil Williams, who is retiring after 38 years of chiropractic service, would be held Sunday, April 17. The correct date is Sunday, April 21.

The event will take place at the Westernport American Legion from 2-5 p.m., and all friends and relatives are invited to attend.

The Republican regrets the error.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Donald James' letter to the editor in the March 28, 1991, edition of your paper. Mr. James appears to have misunderstood Dr. Craig Abrahamson's hypothesis on the causes of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder.

Dr. Abrahamson has been working for some time with Vietnam veterans suffering from PTSD. The subject of his doctoral dissertation was related to PTSD. For these reasons he was chosen to go to Vietnam with other specialists in the field. I believe Garrett County should feel honored to have such a learned and distinguished professional working and living here.

The Vietnam War Memorial was the first step to a national healing of the misunderstandings and psychological wounds caused by the war and the protests against it. I believe that Mr. James and a few other individuals in the county need to become aware that many of the protests were not against the men fighting the war, but against a government that was waging a political war and would not allow its military to wage a full-scale escalation that would have allowed a U.S. victory and consequently, her men to return home to their lives and families. An additional step in the national healing process was the trip Dr. Abrahamson and his colleagues were chosen to take to Vietnam. It is vital that the lines of communications be opened between the U.S. and Vietnam. A step toward opening these lines of communications was made when Dr. Abrahamson and his colleagues travelled to Vietnam and spoke with their counterparts there.

In regard to Dr. Abrahamson's hypothesis that Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder is a result of an affluent society, Mr. James obviously does not have the psychological and sociological background to understand Dr. Abrahamson's position. The poorest American cannot possibly even begin to imagine never being able to afford to buy a Coca-Cola to drink entirely alone. That is the case with the Vietnamese people — even the professionals. When a culture is so poor that even its wealthiest individuals of its society must worry about where their next meal will come from, and worry about this on a daily basis for their entire lives, there is little time left over to worry about the psychological wounds of the present — much less the past. One's physical needs must be met before psychological needs even become an issue.

I know for a fact that many Vietnam veterans do not share Mr. James' feelings about Dr. Abrahamson and his work. In fact, I am married to a Vietnam veteran who is proud to know Dr. Abrahamson and to count him as a friend. I believe Mr. James' comments regarding Dr. Abrahamson's position on the Vietnam War and his lack of participation in it are based on a lack of knowledge.

Sincerely,
Karen S. Thrasher

To the Editor:

For last week's issue of The Republican, March 28, I wrote you in regard to a discussion of the "United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child" which was to have been aired on WAIJ on Wednesday, April 3. Interested persons who listened found that the program on the U.N. Convention was preempted by a salute to our servicemen involved in any way in the Gulf War.

Dr. James Dobson, and the staff of the "Focus on the Family" daily radio program, do at times change the subject matter from that given in the monthly radio log for any coming month. For those among your readers who would yet like to hear about the "U.N. Convention on the Rights of the Child," a phone call to the "Focus..." office in Pomona, Calif., has indicated that it has been re-scheduled for Friday, June 21. It is suggested interested persons mark their calendars for that date, again at 12:30 p.m. or 8:30 p.m. on WAIJ 90.3 F.M.

Very truly yours,
Paul A. Eary

In Loving Memory of Burton E. Rhodes
who passed away one year ago.
April 8, 1990

Death beckoned him with outstretched hands,
Whispered softly of an unknown land;
But he was not afraid to go
Through the path he did not know;
For God who brought him here had promised
He would lead the way into eternity's bright day
For none of us need go alone
Into the valley that's unknown;
But guided by our father's hand
We journey to the promised land.

Sadly missed by his daughter, Mary Jane Glotfelty,
and family.

DINNER UNDER A DOLLAR*

Dinner time means the heat is on for the family chef. A softening economy demands creative meal planning to stretch the family budget. And action-packed schedules call for meals on a deadline.

The home economists at the Kraft Creative Kitchens can help turn down the heat with a week's worth of quick and easy budget dishes shown here. All are main dishes costing less than a dollar per serving and most taking less than an hour to make.

Kraft's home economists offer these tips for putting out time and budget bonfires:

✦Spend time to save money at the grocery store. Scan your neighborhood grocery ads, then create a week's worth of menus using sale items combined with what you have on hand. Make a shopping list and stick to it once you're in the store, unless you find an unadvertised special that's too good to pass up.

✦To save time, keep a running grocery list on the refrigerator door and encourage family members to add to it as supplies run out.

✦Don't let food go to waste. Review what's on hand as you plan your menus. Use perishable items for meals early in the week. Eggs that are near their pull date can be combined with bread, cheese and a bit of pork sausage for the hearty Cheese and Sausage Strata. Or, mix with leftover spinach leaves and cheese for a delicious frittata florentine.

✦Stock up on staples in your freezer and cupboards. Some ingredients, such as ground beef, pasta and Velveeta Cheese Spread, can be used over and over again during the week without giving a sense of déjà vu.

✦Avoid the leftover shuffle. Have a specific use in mind for those dabs of food you slip back into the refrigerator so you can use the leftovers right away. Double the recipe for Midwest Meatloaf, then crumble your planned leftovers into a casserole dish with cooked macaroni and your choice of condensed soups. You've created a satisfying main dish that won't earn complaints of "We had that last night!"

✦Buy food in the quality and form that best suits its use in your recipe. For example, mushrooms are mixed with other ingredients in the Cheese and Sausage Strata, so economical stems and pieces will work well in that recipe. Mushrooms in the Beef Barley Soup will retain their characteristic shape due to the brief cooking time, so fresh sliced mushrooms are your best bet in this dish.

✦Remember that homemade dishes can be timesavers if you dovetail their preparation with that of the rest of your meal. Creamy Chicken Cacciatore takes only 15 minutes of preparation time and 50 minutes to cook. That allows the chef time to cook rice, toss a salad and mix instant pudding for dessert.

These recipes will help cooks keep their cool through a full week of family cooking. Use them whenever budgets or deadlines mean the heat is on.
